Sunday painters and art students from the area will be taking a weekend retreat to Quetico centre in Quetico national park, Ontario, on January 29 and 30, according to Raymond Berg, chairman of the fine arts department at Rainy River state community college.

Any interested area adult, artist, or art student is invited to attend. Departure will be from the campus the afternoon of the 29th, return to the Falls will be Sunday, January 31.

The Quetico centre consists of a series of bungalows located on Lake Eva in the national park. Each bungalow services a different need for the people attending, from providing a painting facility to providing a living and sleeping area.

This is the second weekend trip of this nature. The first had a number of students, area artists and students in participation. One such weekend is planned for later on in the year. Purpose for the weekend retreat is to provide a relaxed atmosphere in which the people may be creative and productive.

Anyone interested in securing more information about the weekend should do so by contacting Raymond Berg at the college, 283-8491. Depending on the number of participants, a small fee will be assessed for the retreat.

Moil Orders For Licenses Filled

The motor vehicle division is now filling mail-order applications for license plates received in November, Minnesota Commissioner of Public Safety W. R. Hoaglund said today.

He advised applicants not to worry if they have not yet received their plates. "There has been some delay because plates were not available earlier to keep up with the mail-order demand. However, we are completing 70,000 mail orders by the end of this week and hope to catch up before March 2 when new plates must be on all vehicles.

About 250,000 mail applications for new licenses are usually received by the motor vehicle division at this time of year. Other applicants are served over the counter at local registration offices throughout the state and at the central office in the highway building in St. Paul.

Agri-Clinic Is Set Feb. 4 For Red Lake Falls

Agri-Clinic '71 is scheduled in Red Lake Falls on Thursday, February 4, an all day meeting for farmers and businessmen featuring top speakers from six participating companies including Allis Chalmers, Beldon Manufacturing, DeKalb, American Chemical, Dodge Trucks and Piper Jaffray and Hopwood.

Activities will be held at the Lafayette high school gymnasium beginning at 9 a.m. with registration and coffee. A free hamburger will be served at noon by the American Legion auxiliary. Drawing for door prizes throughout the day are for a portable TV, a 6 horsepower [illegible] and a tractor cabin offered by businesses of Red Lake Falls. The complete program continues until 4:30 p.m. An "Early Bird" drawing is at 9:30 a.m.

Dr. B. E. Youngquist, superintendent of the Northwest Experiment station at Crookston, who has been associated with many agricultural organizations in the Red River Valley for a number of years, is the keynote speaker. Master of ceremonies is W. M. "Walt" Buescher of the Allis Chalmers company, Milwaukee, Wis. Buescher has spent a lifetime in the farm equipment business and has been in charge of his company's participation in crop clinics for seven years, speaking throughout the United States and Canada.

The agri-clinic is designed to provide farm information on various lines, more information than could be gathered one place else in one day, according to sponsors. It is a farmers' information clinic, the first such event ever held in the area and the only one booked this year in northern Minnesota. Similar meetings are scheduled by the same companies in North Dakota and Montana.

Herbicides, insecticides, fertilizers and seeds are prime topics that will be covered in detail. Sponsors invite farmers to bring ideas and questions. There will be special topics on [illegible] and its effect on the environment and new harvest efficiency data in a film report by Professor Herbert Berg of Ohio State university, just one of the speakers. Using two years of field research data, Professor Berg will outline ways for farmers to plug that hole in their profit pocket.

The backfiring car almost seems a relic of bygone days. However, the modern car can backfire, too — especially when the fuel mixture is too lean and the engine cold. Other possible causes are sticky or leaky valves or ignition leakage. If your car backfires, take it to your favorite service outlet.

Jobless Rate Up, Seasonal Rate Remains Stable

Minnesota's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate remained unchanged from November to December, Commissioner Emmet J. Cushing of the Minnesota department of manpower services announced today.

The seasonally adjusted rate for both November and December was 4.8 per cent which compares with national rates of 5.8 in November and six per cent in December. The Minnesota rate for December of 1969 was three per cent.

Although the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate remained steady, the number of unemployed increased from 70,000 in November to 82,800 in December. This increase can be attributed to anticipated seasonal layoffs.

However, the increase in the number of unemployed from December of last year to December of this year is 31,900, effect of the downswing in the economy, Commissioner Cushing said.

This decline in employment from a year ago can be attributed principally to decreased employment in the "Other Durable Goods" category, which includes electrical and nonelectrical machinery, ordnance, scientific instruments and other industries.

The decline in durable goods was offset to some degree by increases in the non-manufacturing category which includes services and government, Commissioner Cushing said.

The number of people employed in December declined 2.5 per cent from November and 1.6 per cent from December, 1969. Total number of persons employed were 1,558,900 in December, 1970, 1,599,100 in November, 1970, and 1,585,000 in December, 1969.

The civilian work force increased from 1,636,000 in December of 1969 to 1,641,800 in December of 1970.

Manufacturing production workers earned an average of $145.[illegible] per week at $3.65 per hour working a 39.9 hour week. In November, average earnings were $142.[illegible] while working 39.4 hours at $3.6[illegible] per hour. Average weekly hours and earnings did not change significantly from last month.

Compared to December of 1969, average weekly earnings at $141.[illegible] were less than in December of 1970 while the workweek was 1.6 hours longer.

SMOKE SCREEN

If you're looking for another reason to quit smoking, consider your driving safety. Tobacco smoke leaves a dulling film on the inside of your windshield. The result is reduced visibility and stronger glare. If you do smoke, periodically clean the inside of the windshield with a solution of water and vinegar to wash away tobacco film.

Daily Hospital Costs Increase During Past Year

Daily cost of hospitalization rose during 1970 according to a Minnesota Blue Cross and Blue Shield study released this week. The study also showed a significant trend toward increasing use of out-patient facilities and a slight decrease in length of the average hospital stay.

The study of hospital cost data from the first 11 months of 1970 showed that an additional 1,000 Blue Cross subscribers in the Minneapolis area alone made use of out-patient and emergency facilities at area hospitals. To accommodate this increase, several hospitals have expanded their out-patient facilities.

Although the decrease in length of hospital stay is only a fraction of a day compared to 1969 figures, it is an important one, reflecting increased efficiency of hospitals and a conscious effort toward reducing unnecessary hospitalization.

Hospital charges continued to rise in 1970 at approximately the same yearly rate as in the past five years. Minneapolis hospitals averaged at 14.3 per cent increase for room, board and ancillaries compared to 1969 charges, according to the study, while St. Paul hospitals averaged a 14.8 per cent increase. Duluth hospitals averaged a seven per cent increase.

However, the decrease in length of hospital stay has lessened the effect of the increase in charges. For example, while hospital charges rose in Duluth, the total hospital bill in 1970 was $5 less than in 1969. The decrease was due to a shorter average stay.

According to Blue Cross statistics, the average hospital bill in the Twin Cities for a seven to eight-day stay was between $709.11 and $719.22, while the average hospital bill in Duluth was $567.18 for an 6.5 day stay.

Unique Bridge Built On Trail Near McGregor

A unique bridge built to span ice covered rivers and to be removed during the summer for boat traffic is proving a boon to snowmobilers on the Savanna trail north of McGregor in Aitkin county.

Built by the department of natural resources' divisions of parks and recreation, and lands and forestry, the bridge is installed on the Prairie river after it is frozen over. A slot is cut in the ice in the middle of the 80 foot wide stream and a center support column is erected. Then two approach ramps are winched and bulldozed into position from each bank of the stream and connected with the central column.

Norway pine is used for the framing of the bridge and metal landing mats are used for decking. Oak poles fastened together are used for the central column. Installation takes about six hours.

The bridge was used last season and was installed on Dec. 8, 1970 to handle this winter's snowmobile traffic.

The bridge crosses the river on a trail which starts two miles north of McGregor and intersects trails in Savanna Portage state park.

Snowmobilers have found the bridge quite a novelty and foresters have observed some driving back and forth over the bridge several times before continuing on the trail.

USDA Implements Food Stamp Plan

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Richard Lyng said today that USDA's food and nutrition service is already moving to implement new food stamp legislation approved January 11 by President Nixon.

Lyng said the new legislation provides the principal food stamp reforms requested by the administration, including uniform national eligibility standards, provisions for free stamps for the very poor, maximum charge to other participants not to exceed 30 per cent of their income, and authorization for eligible families to buy less than their full stamp allotment.

In its major features, the new food stamp law:

Extends the authority for program appropriations through fiscal year 1973. A maximum appropriation of $1.75 billion is authorized for the current fiscal year (ending June 30, 1971), with no limitations set on amounts that may be appropriated for fiscal years 1972 and 1973.

Provides for the establishment of uniform national eligibility standards, eliminating the inequitable State-to-State variations in eligibility rules.

Provides a stamp allotment sufficient to purchase a nutritionally adequate diet.

Authorizes free stamps for those with little or no income.

Provides that all other eligible families will receive their stamp allotment for a charge not exceeding 30 per cent of their income.

Calls for revised definitions of a "household" as a group of "related" individuals.

Requires able-bodied persons between 18 and 65 years of age—excepting persons caring for dependent children, "bona fide" students, and people working at least 30 hours per week—to register for or accept employment at applicable Federal or State wage rates.

Provides for the value of the food stamp allotment to be reviewed annually, to take account of changes in retail food prices.

Permits eligible families to buy less than their full stamp allotment, thereby adding flexibility to the program.

Permits elderly persons to spend their food stamps to purchase meals delivered to their homes by nonprofit agencies.

Facilitates the participation of welfare families by permitting them to purchase food stamps by a "check off" from their welfare grant.

Requires the States to undertake "Outreach" efforts to acquaint eligible families with the food stamp program, and authorizes federal sharing of the costs involved.

Authorizes concurrent distribution of food stamps and donated commodities in areas requesting both programs.

Provides a "fair hearing" procedure for aggrieved program participants.

Following the precendent set in implementing school lunch and child nutrition legislation last year, USDA will publish proposed food stamp regulations and invite comments on them. Lyng said April 15 has been set as a target date for publication of the proposals in the "Federal Register," to allow time for necessary consultations with other federal departments over the next several weeks to insure coordination and compatability of key policies with related federal programs.

In addition to publishing the proposed regulations, USDA will issue new schedules establishing the cost of food stamps to participants, the assistant secretary said.

Cub Scouts Meet January 12 At Trinity Church

Trinity Lutheran church, Thief River Falls, was the scene of the January 12 meeting of Cub Scout pack 60.

Wallace Heaton, cubmaster, presided over the meeting. Mrs. Irving Swanson is den leader coach.

The Webelos, directed by Bill Bashaw, led in the flag ceremony and also furnished the honor guard for those scouts receiving awards. In den 1, Peter Erickson was awarded a wolf badge and assistant denner stripe and Danny Svean a denner stripe. Mrs. Lyle Johnson and Mrs. Bill Matthiou are leaders.

Den 2 scouts who earned awards were Scott Bergdahl, denner, and Wayne Huseth, assistant denner. Mrs. Roger Nyland and Mrs. Harry Huseth are leaders of den 2.

Paul Heaton and Greg Nelson each received a wolf badge in den 4. Mrs. Kermit Malberg and Mrs. Harvey Tauer are the den 4 leaders. In den 5, Bruce Folkedahl was presented a wolf badge. Leaders of this den are Mrs. Glenna Wefald and Mrs. Bill Bashaw.

Dens 2 and 3 demonstrated games for the scouts, and dens 1 and 5 presented skits. Projects relating to the monthly theme "Lights in the sky" and other projects were placed on display. Scouts are urged to bring their projects to the meetings for display.

Den 2, which had the most cubs' parents present, won the cubby and attendance flag from den 5. Cubs are urged to bring their parents to the meetings.

Closing ceremony was "living circle" presented by den 7. Mothers of scouts in dens 1 and 2 served lunch.

Pack 60's blue and gold pot luck supper is planned for February 9 at 6 p.m. at Trinity church. The early hour was chosen so as to make it possible for those attending the supper to also attend the hockey game later.

Scouts who have not yet picked up their Pine Wood derby cars or who have not paid for the cars should contact their den leaders.

Drive with care, and get there!

College of engineering students Byron Falteland, Oklee, and Leroy Kiel, Warren earned scholastic honors. Some divisions require that all course work be completed before a student can be named to their dean's list. Additional eligibility criteria may be set by the individual academic divisions.

USDA Decides Against Formula For Milk Price

U.S. department of agriculture has decided against use of a proposed "economic" formula for pricing bottling milk to dairy farmers under all federal milk marketing orders. This issue was considered at a public hearing at Clayton, Mo., in January of 1970 and at New York, N.Y., in February of 1970. A tentative, or recommended, decision was issued on Sept. 29, 1970.

USDA's consumer and marketing service said the final decision affirms the findings and conclusions of the earlier recommended decision that no action should be taken to adopt the proposed pricing formula. Officials said the formula is a composite index of 12 economic indicators, which would gear milk order bottling price changes to movements in the general economy.

The decision states that the hearing on the proposed formula did not establish that the "economic" formula would reflect accurately needed changes in bottling milk prices, maintain appropriate price relationships among markets and uses of milk, and be compatible with other program responsibilities of the secretary of agriculture.

Following the recommended decision, a period was provided through November 10 for submission of exceptions to the recommended decision. In addition to their exceptions, interested parties were asked to file views on whether the hearing should be reopened to take further evidence. There were no requests to reopen the hearing on the proposed formula.

With the issuance of the final decision, USDA has terminated the proceedings, and no further action will be taken on the basis of the hearing held in January and February of 1970.

Copies of the final decision will be available next week from the market administrators of the various orders, or from the Dairy Division, Consumer and Marketing Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Governor Reagan Will Be Speaker At GOP Banquet

J. Robert Stassen, South St. Paul, state chairman of the 1971 Minnesota Republican Fund Raising Dinner, announced today that California Governor Ronald Reagan will be main speaker for the annual Minnesota Republican fund raising dinner.

The dinner will be held March 26 at the St. Paul auditorium where a crowd of 6,000 to 7,000 is expected. Last year Vice President Spiro Agnew's appearance attracted a record crowd of more than 8,000 persons.

The date has been set back to March 26 to fit Governor Reagan's busy schedule.

"It was difficult for Gov. Reagan to accept the invitation," Stassen said, "because the Democrat-dominated California state legislature is in session and the governor's schedule is heavy.

"Former Gov. Harold LeVander, however, convinced Reagan that the Minnesota Republican fund raising dinner is of such stature as to justify the time it will require."

Stassen said that over 17,000 Minnesota Republicans participate in ticket purchases for the 1970 dinner, contributing an average amount of about $40 each.

Adopting the theme "Operation Comeback," the dinner is one of the two major fund raising activities of the Minnesota GOP. The other, called "Neighbor-to-Neighbor," will be launched in the spring.

Kittson County Average Tax Levy Going Down

While taxpayers in a number of northwestern Minnesota counties chafe at the bill over property taxes, some Kittson county residents are getting their second tax reduction in two years.

One of the things affecting the county's tax structure is a lowering of the county mill levy, down 1.66 mills from the 70.74 mills in 1970 to 69.08 mills for 1971. Mill levy rates for the Karlstad and Lancaster school districts have also dropped, the Karlstad district by 12.77 mills and Lancaster by 97 mills.

The average rate in Kittson county in 1971 is 248.56 mills, dropped from 1970's 250.67 mills. In 1970, while Kittson county's average was 250.67, Marshall county taxpayers shelled out an average of 275.93, Roseau county residents paid 463.49, Polk county 294.94, Pennington county 385.73 and statewide taxpayers forked over 329.16 mills.

Moil Orders For Licenses Filled

The motor vehicle division is now filling mail-order applications for license plates received in November, Minnesota Commissioner of Public Safety W. R. Hoaglund said today.

He advised applicants not to worry if they have not yet received their plates. "There has been some delay because plates were not available earlier to keep up with the mail-order demand. However, we are completing 70,000 mail orders by the end of this week and hope to catch up before March 2 when new plates must be on all vehicles.

About 250,000 mail applications for new licenses are usually received by the motor vehicle division at this time of year. Other applicants are served over the counter at local registration offices throughout the state and at the central office in the highway building in St. Paul.

C of C Meeting

Chamber of Commerce members are encouraged to attend the annual meeting of the organization to be held tonight (Monday) at the American Legion club rooms. It's a good chance to find out a little more about the local organization.

We had a discussion the other evening about the Chamber of Commerce. It was started by a question about the chamber being a businessman's organization and the inference that major emphasis of the C of C is on what is best for the downtown retailer to the exclusion of other people.

Well, now, we'll be the first to admit that the Chamber of Commerce is business oriented. We know full well that the organization is supported by dues assessed to its members—most of which are business or industrial firms. There are a number of individual members. And much of what the Chamber of Commerce does is of benefit to the merchants in this community.

But it might also interest the genral public to know that only 7½ per cent of the total local budget is made available to the retail trade committee—the committee which instigates retail promotions and emphasizes the shopping advantages of the community.

By its own definition, the Chamber of Commerce in Thief River Falls is a voluntary organization of citizens working together for community improvement and development.

The Chamber of Commerce here has committees on agri-business, conventions and tourism, education, good government, transportation, parking and traffic and total community development. An additional committee will be announced tonight to work with another community problem.

How many business places or individuals go out of their way to make new residents feel welcome here? The Chamber of Commerce has a group of volunteers who take pleasure in calling on new business places or new owners of former business places. Known as the "Ambassadors", they have as their sole purpose the welcoming of people to the local business community.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce committees give of their time and talents without reimbursement and often at personal expense to help their community. What is good for one portion of the community is generally good for the community in general. When the community is helped, everyone here benefits—whether they want to admit it or not.

Yes, the Chamber of Commerce is business-oriented. But it is community-oriented and education-oriented and industry-oriented and government-oriented and facility-oriented as well. And it does the job that many who criticize it would refuse to do themselves.

First Cold Water

Look for a "general warm up" around Becker County when the postman delivers the real estate tax statements the end of January.

The temperature might be in the sub-zero figures, but blood pressures will more than compensate for the cold outside.

Becker Countians who can still afford to own property are being greeted with increases of from 10 to 20 per cent on their tax statements.

And while the county, city and school levies take a bigger bite comes the cry from St. Paul and Governor Wendell Anderson that he's going to have to raise taxes to cover more than $400 million in additional expenses.

And from the Federal level comes the trickle of information that the projected surpluses are now new and bigger deficits.

All of which leads us to ask: when is J. Q. Taxpayer going to call a screeching halt to all of this nonsense and tell his legislators and congressmen to start doing the job they were elected to do—the job of managing money?

In the late 1930's, with the advent of the "New Deal", the administrative and legislative branches of government learned how to win friends with "free" money in the form of government grants and programs.

The theory was tremendous. All you had to do as an individual or form of state, city, county or school government was to cut the maze of red tape and the "Feds" would deliver hundreds, thousands or even millions of those "free" dollars.

What a wonderful way to conduct business! All you had to do was ask and the money came. And shucks, why not ask, because the theory was that if you didn't ask someone else would and you'd miss these new treasures.

New Layers of bureaucratic government thrived as new government geniuses developed new ways to dispense with more money.

It has all compounded until today here are just a few examples of the benefits:

You can earn $10,000 in six months in various seasonal industries and then spend the rest of the year in a fish house or on a new snowmobile while spending Uncle Sam's "rocking chair money", better known as unemployment benefits.

And, if you don't like your union contract, you can go on strike and collect Uncle Sam's food stamps. They spend just like money.

And, despite the fact your father may be making $40,000 a year, if you're a college student with no more than $1,000 in assets you can collect those same food stamps while you go to Harvard or Yale.

And then there are those wonderful health care programs. Call it medicaid! Stay out of work for a few weeks, fill out some forms and you've got a free ride at the hospital, clinic, nursing home, dentist, etc. It's a part of our wonderful welfare program that has made working almost a thing of the past.

Tired of the old job? Well, today you can quit, seek out another federal office and they'll pay to train you for a new job or simply pay you while you go to school. And heck, if that first course isn't just what you want, sign up for another and good old Uncle Sam will pay the tab again.

The blight doesn't stop with the individual taxpayer. What school, city, county or state isn't searching for "free" federal funds to build anything from a restroom to a full sewage treatment plant?

Today, less than 40 years after the advent of our society of "free money," we find ourselves loaded with big government and big government employees, so many that government is now the biggest employer in the world.

Just a couple of weeks ago, a Governor's Commission reported that the State of Minnesota was going to have to pay bigger money to its appointed officials and even the Governor himself.

There's no question that report will start all government employees off in search of more pay.

It's a strange cycle, one entirely foreign to our society in which the rewards of increased pay or wealth used to stem from increased productivity and profitability.

In this past decade I can't think of a profitable form of government. And we can't recall an elected or appointed official at any level taking a pay cut because he hasn't remained in budget. And I'm certain that none have ever mortgaged the family farm or the house to borrow money to meet the next payroll.

Instead they've voted or negotiated more wage increases and some retirement benefits that must make George Meany feel like a beggar. Consider the fat retirement checks that former Senator Eugene McCarthy and Congressman Odin Langen are now ready to receive.

How did this demise come about? John Q. Taxpayer can blame himself. He asked for the services and the special favors for himself or his district. And he got 'em. And with the favors the featherbedding of big government at all levels.

Now he can't pay for the services or the government. What's he going to do? Your guess is as good as ours, but if he doesn't wake up soon and start demanding fewer services there's going to be no one around to pay for 'em! Maybe January's tax statements will be the first cold water in the face of a sleeping mass of people!

Price of Expediency

Next time you are tempted to OK the exchange of a freedom for a little bit of convenience, consider the following fable which should hold a pertinent message:

An ancient fable tells about a bird which meets a fisherman with a can of worms and asks him for one. "Sure," says the fisherman. "All I ask in return is one of your feathers." A feather for a worm seems reasonable to the bird, so the exchange is made.

The next day the bird is hungry again. He weighs the inconvenience of searching for food against the expediency of trading with the fisherman, and decides in favor of expediency.

After a few days, he's traded off so many feathers that he can't fly. So he continues to make his daily trip to the fisherman on foot, until he's quite naked. At this point, the fisherman picks up the well-nourished, thoroughly plucked bird and cooks him for supper.

Legis Lative Letter

from ANDREW SKAAR
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

The House of Representatives unanimously passed its first bill on Thursday, January 14. I was a co-author of this measure. The purpose of this legislation was to assure rail passenger service to the twin cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Congress passed a rail passenger act in 1970 which established a National Passenger corporation. According to present plans of this new corporation, the Twin Cities are scheduled to be an intermediate stop. This designation does not assure regular train passenger service.

The legislation enacted by the House requests that the department of transportation include Minneapolis-St. Paul as an end point in the proposed national railroad transportation system. In rail transportation terminology, this would assure rail passenger service for the Twin Cities. Favorable action by the department of transportation would mean a good deal to the whole state of Minnesota.

Formation of a statewide committee to seek legislative support for a new university campus at Rochester is presently under way. The regents approved the program this fall and included it in their 1971 legislative request.

Chancellor Mitau of the state college system is hoping to gain approval from the legislature for an upper division college to be located in the seven-county metro area. The fastest growing system of higher education in our state is the junior college system and many communities are still actively working for designation of a junior college.

Because of the unusually large requests from all departments in state government and the ever-increasing amounts for education, the House appropriations committee will be increasing the number of committee meetings. The committee meets regularly each day from 8 to 10 a.m. and will be scheduling additional hearings after the House session each afternoon when there is no major conflict.

It seems to be the posture of this legislative session that this is a belt-tightening session and all requests will be very carefully considered. I am confident we can adequately meet the needs of our state with far less money than is being requested.

Proper tire inflation is essential. Underinflation causes extreme sidewall flexing, builds up excessive heat and causes rapid wear on the tire tread's outer edges.

C of C Meeting

Chamber of Commerce members are encouraged to attend the annual meeting of the organization to be held tonight (Monday) at the American Legion club rooms. It's a good chance to find out a little more about the local organization.

We had a discussion the other evening about the Chamber of Commerce. It was started by a question about the chamber being a businessman's organization and the inference that major emphasis of the C of C is on what is best for the downtown retailer to the exclusion of other people.

Well, now, we'll be the first to admit that the Chamber of Commerce is business oriented. We know full well that the organization is supported by dues assessed to its members—most of which are business or industrial firms. There are a number of individual members. And much of what the Chamber of Commerce does is of benefit to the merchants in this community.

But it might also interest the genral public to know that only 7½ per cent of the total local budget is made available to the retail trade committee—the committee which instigates retail promotions and emphasizes the shopping advantages of the community.

By its own definition, the Chamber of Commerce in Thief River Falls is a voluntary organization of citizens working together for community improvement and development.

The Chamber of Commerce here has committees on agri-business, conventions and tourism, education, good government, transportation, parking and traffic and total community development. An additional committee will be announced tonight to work with another community problem.

How many business places or individuals go out of their way to make new residents feel welcome here? The Chamber of Commerce has a group of volunteers who take pleasure in calling on new business places or new owners of former business places. Known as the "Ambassadors", they have as their sole purpose the welcoming of people to the local business community.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce committees give of their time and talents without reimbursement and often at personal expense to help their community. What is good for one portion of the community is generally good for the community in general. When the community is helped, everyone here benefits—whether they want to admit it or not.

Yes, the Chamber of Commerce is business-oriented. But it is community-oriented and education-oriented and industry-oriented and government-oriented and facility-oriented as well. And it does the job that many who criticize it would refuse to do themselves.

First Cold Water

Look for a "general warm up" around Becker County when the postman delivers the real-estate tax statements the end of January.

The temperature might be in the subzero figures, but blood pressures will more than compensate for the cold outside.

Becker Countians who can still afford to own property are being greeted with increases of from 10 to 20 per cent on their tax statements.

And while the county, city and school levies take a bigger bite comes the cry from St. Paul and Governor Wendell Anderson that he's going to have to raise taxes to cover more than $400 million in additional expenses.

And from the Federal level comes the trickle of information that the projected surpluses are now new and bigger deficits.

All of which leads us to ask: when is J.Q. Taxpayer going to call a screeching halt to all of this nonsense and tell his legislators and congressmen to start doing the job they were elected to do—the job of managing money?

In the late 1930's, with the advent of the "New Deal", the administrative and legislative branches of government learned how to win friends with "free" money in the form of government grants and programs.

The theory was tremendous. All you had to do as an individual or form of state, city, county or school government was to cut the maze of red tape and the "Feds" would deliver hundreds, thousands or even millions of those "free" dollars.

What a wonderful way to conduct business! All you had to do was ask and the money came. And shucks, why not ask, because the theory was that if you didn't ask someone else would and you'd miss these new treasures.

New Layers of bureaucratic government thrived as new government geniuses developed new ways to dispense with more money.

It has all compounded until today here are just a few examples of the benefits:

You can earn $10,000 in six months in various seasonal industries and then spend the rest of the year in a fish house or on a new snowmobile while spending Uncle Sam's "rocking chair money", better known as unemployment benefits.

And, if you don't like your union contract, you can go on strike and collect Uncle Sam's food stamps. They spend just like money.

And, despite the fact your father may be making $40,000 a year, if you're a college student with no more than $1,000 in assets you can collect those same food stamps while you go to Harvard or Yale.

And then there are those wonderful health care programs. Call it medicaid! Stay out of work for a few weeks, fill out some forms and you've got a free ride at the hospital, clinic, nursing home, dentist, etc. It's a part of our wonderful welfare program that has made working almost a thing of the past.

Tired of the old job? Well, today you can quit, seek out another federal office and they'll pay to train you for a new job or simply pay you while you go to school. And heck, if that first course isn't just what you want, sign up for another and good old Uncle Sam will pay the tab again.

The blight doesn't stop with the individual taxpayer. What school, city, county or state isn't searching for "free" federal funds to build anything from a restroom to a full sewage treatment plant?

Today, less than 40 years after the advent of our society of "free money," we find ourselves loaded with big government and big government employees, so many that government is now the biggest employer in the world.

Just a couple of weeks ago, a Governor's Commission reported that the State of Minnesota was going to have to pay bigger money to its appointed officials and even the Governor himself.

There's no question that report will start all government employees off in search of more pay.

It's a strange cycle, one entirely foreign to our society in which the rewards of increased pay or wealth used to stem from increased productivity and profitability.

In this past decade I can't think of a profitable form of government. And we can't recall an elected or appointed official at any level taking a pay cut because he hasn't remained in budget. And I'm certain that none have ever mortgaged the family farm or the house to borrow money to meet the next payroll.

Instead they've voted or negotiated more wage increases and some retirement benefits that must make George Meany feel like a beggar. Consider the fat retirement checks that former Senator Eugene McCarthy and Congressman Odin Langen are now ready to receive.

How did this demise come about? John Q. Taxpayer can blame himself. He asked for the services and the special favors for himself or his district. And he got 'em. And with the favors the featherbedding of big government at all levels.

Now he can't pay for the services or the government. What's he going to do? Your guess is as good as ours, but if he doesn't wake up soon and start demanding fewer services there's going to be no one around to pay for 'em! Maybe January's tax statements will be the first cold water in the face of a sleeping mass of people!

Price of Expediency

Next time you are tempted to OK the exchange of a freedom for a little bit of convenience, consider the following fable which should hold a pertinent message:

An ancient fable tells about a bird which meets a fisherman with a can of worms and asks him for one. "Sure," says the fisherman. "All I ask in return is one of your feathers." A feather for a worm seems reasonable to the bird, so the exchange is made.

The next day the bird is hungry again. He weighs the inconvenience of searching for food against the expediency of trading with the fisherman, and decides in favor of expediency.

After a few days, he's traded off so many feathers that he can't fly. So he continues to make his daily trip to the fisherman on foot, until he's quite naked. At this point, the fisherman picks up the well-nourished, thoroughly plucked bird and cooks him for supper.

Legis lative Letter

from ANDREW SKAAR
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

The House of Representatives unanimously passed its first bill on Thursday, January 14. I was a co-author of this measure. The purpose of this legislation was to assure rail passenger service to the twin cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Congress passed a rail passenger act in 1970 which established a National Passenger corporation. According to present plans of this new corporation, the Twin Cities are scheduled to be an intermediate stop. This designation does not assure regular train passenger service.

The legislation enacted by the House requests that the department of transportation include Minneapolis-St Paul as an end point in the proposed national railroad transportation system. In rail transportation terminology, this would assure rail passenger service for the Twin Cities. Favorable action by the department of transportation would mean a good deal to the whole state of Minnesota.

Formation of a statewide committee to seek legislative support for a new university campus at Rochester is presently under way. The regents approved the program this fall and included it in their 1971 legislative request.

Chancellor Mitau of the state college system is hoping to gain approval from the legislature for an upper division college to be located in the seven-county metro area. The fastest growing system of higher education in our state is the junior college system and many communities are still actively working for designation of a junior college.

Because of the unusually large requests from all departments in state government and the ever-increasing amounts for education, the House appropriations committee will be increasing the number of committee meetings. The committee meets regularly each day from 8 to 10 a.m. and will be scheduling additional hearings after the House session each afternoon when there is no major conflict.

It seems to be the posture of this legislative session that this is a belt-tightening session and all requests will be very carefully considered. I am confident we can adequately meet the needs of our state with far less money than is being requested.

THIS EAST GRAND FORKS grappler seems to be having a rough time of it during his match in the Lincoln high school gym Thursday night as part of the Prowler's 25-17 win over the Green Wave. Ed Krystosek's wrestlers carry a 3-4 dual meet record for the season as they prepare to take on high ranking Bemidji tomorrow night at Bemidji.

NSJC Quint Bows To UND And Crookston

Chet Engelman's Northland state junior college basketball team dipped to a 1-14 record over the weekend as the Northmen suffered two more losses, this time at the hands of the University of North Dakota junior varsity and to Crookston Tech.

UND dropped the Northmen 76-67 Wednesday night and Crookston dealt NSJC a conference loss, 63-57 in the Lincoln gym Friday evening.

Northland led Crookston 27-13 on Steve Haaven's bucket with 4:10 left in the first half before the Trojans went into a half-court press to trim the Northland lead to 31-24 at halftime.

The Trojans continued to go with the press in the second half and chipped away at the NSJC lead as they scored their last eight points on free throws.

Ron Visness led the Northmen in scoring with 17 points and Steve Haaven along with Curt Jenson reached double figures with 11 and 10 points. Tony Burke led Northland in rebounding with 13 against Crookston.

Against UND, Northland put up a game battle until the final buzzer but a 3:28 span in the second quarter gave the contest to the Junior Sioux.

Northland had cut the Sioux lead to just a single point, 28-27 on Tony Burke's two free throws with 4:42 remaining in the half before North Dakota scored 13 straight points until Burke scored from underneath the basket with 1:14 remaining with the Fighting Sioux in front 41-27. Two free throws by Ron Visness and a fast break lay-up by Jim Goudge brought the Northmen to within eight points before Rick Lindback scored on a lay-up with six seconds remaining for a 10-point, 43-33 halftime lead for the Sioux.

Northland scored the first points of the contest on Curt Jenson's bucket and built up a 7-4 lead with 17:51 remaining before UND took the lead for good on Jim Presthus' jumper from the left corner for a 9-7 lead with 10:50 remaining in the first half.

UND could only build its lead to six points and three times Northland cut the margin to just a single field goal before the 13-point burst.

UND's biggest margin in the second half was an 11-point lead with 16:02 remaining before Northland came back and three baskets by Ron Visness cut the Sioux lead to just 54-52 with 9:35 remaining. The Sioux climbed back to a 57-52 lead but Visness and Goudge hit from deep in the left corner for the Northmen to cut the Sioux lead to just a single point, 57-56 with 7:42 remaining in the game.

North Dakota held onto their slim edge as the Northmen were behind by just three points, 66-63 with 3:34 remaining on Curt Jenson's lay-up and trailed by five points with 1:29 remaining but couldn't stop Kevin Kroeger and Greg Johnson as they scored for the final 76-67 count.

Next action for the Northmen will be Friday night, January 29, when they travel for a return match with Lake Region at Devils Lake, North Dakota. The Northmen will be at home Saturday afternoon, January 30, when they will host Itasca in the Lincoln high school gym. Lake Region dealt NSJC an 88-70 defeat while the Vikings of Itasca edged the Northmen 60-59 earlier in the season.

SCHOOL BOARD PROCEEDINGS

January 25, 1971
REGULAR MEETING
January 14, 1971

A regular meeting of the School District Board No. 564 was held at 8:05 o'clock p.m. on Thursday, January 14, 1971, in the auditorium of the Lincoln School Building.

The following members were present: Dr. George Martin, Kenneth Murphy, E. C. Olson, Marvin Presteback, Charles Samuelson, Wallace Sparby, Maynard Wedul and Superintendent Johnson. None were absent.

Chairman Presteback presided.

The motion was made by W. Sparby, seconded by G. Martin and carried to accept the minutes of the previous meeting with the following correction to be made: All names for annuities should be deleted except for Mr. Everett Laine.

A motion was made by M. Wedul, seconded by W. Sparby and carried to approve the bills. Member Samuelson raised an objection to the school district maintaining membership in the Chamber of Commerce. He brought up the fact we are a public governmental organization and we should not be using tax money to be a member. This is an organization comprised of management persons and to be perfectly fair we should also maintain a membership in an organization comprised of union organizations in the community. C. Samuelson made an amendment to exclude the Chamber of Commerce dues. There was no second to C. Samuelson's amendment. Therefore, the amendment was lost. The motion to approve the bills as stated was passed with C. Samuelson voting nay and K. Murphy abstaining from voting.

Summary of Bills

General	$53,078.83
Hot Lunch	6,061.95
Capital Outlay	6,551.42
Building	.00
Debt Redemption	84,176.67
Athletics	644.21

A motion was made by C. Samuelson to accept the bid on the Chevrolet chassis with automatic transmission Model No. SE52802 for a total cost of $16,947. There was no second to this motion.

A motion was made by M. Wedul, seconded by E. Olson and carried to accept the bid on the Ford chassis with automatic transmissions and radiator shutters Model No. B700 for a total cost of $17,880. A nay vote was cast by C. Samuelson. The reason behind the automatic transmissions and radiator shutters was that it was the feeling of the Board that our saving on maintenance costs for operation would overcome the original cost of purchase.

Northern Motors did not include a certified check with their bus bids as required by the conditions of the bid requirements.

A motion was made by M. Wedul, seconded by G. Martin and carried to accept the low bid on two Carpenter bodies and one Thomas body to be equipped with crash pads, thermo pane kits, and the bodies should be equipped with panic type doors. The trade in will go to Carpenter. A nay vote was cast by W. Sparby.

W. Sparby questioned the reason for the pool being closed during Christmas vacation. The pool director said that the pool must be closed sometime during the year for extensive maintenance, repair and equipment replacement. In checking attendance records kept on the pool it was found that this is our period of lowest usage during the year by a ratio of almost ten to one compared to other times of the year for open swimming.

A motion was made by M. Wedul, seconded by K. Murphy and carried to have the next board meeting at Knox School.

A motion was made by G. Martin, seconded by M. Wedul and carried to transport Day Care Center students. The cost is not to exceed reimbursement. The Day Care Center is to provide an aide to ride on the bus while transporting.

A motion was made by M. Wedul, seconded by K. Murphy and carried to include the Farm Operation and Management course in our Vocational School.

There were 40 persons in attendance at the meeting.

A report by Dr. Charles Sederburg, Bureau of Field Studies, University of Minnesota, was presented. This was a preliminary progress report on alternative school plant development plans. He offered the school district four or five basic proposals. These proposals included building remodeling, possible new buildings, and rescheduling. Dr. Sederburg mentioned the fact and was very much surprised by the fact that of all the survey questionnaires that were mailed out only 50 per cent were returned. So far on the attempt at a second mailing there has only been one returned.

A motion was made by K. Murphy, seconded by E. Olson and carried to adjourn the meeting at 12:10 a.m.

Prowler Five Gains Split After Losing To East Side

RANDE SMITH has quite a pinning hold on "East Side's" Don Johnson during the second quarter of the Green Wave's 69-61 win over the Prowlers Friday night. Smith finished as the Prowler's high point man with 22 while Johnson accounted for 26 points for the Green Wave. The Prowlers are now 5-5 on the year following their weekend split as they came back to drop Cass Lake 67-55 Saturday night in the Lincoln gym.

Whitey Olson's Prowler basketball team went into last weekend's action with a 500 record and came out of the two days of action still holding a 500 mark as they fell to a talented East Grand Forks quint 69-61 Friday night before coming home to drop Cass Lake 67-55 Saturday evening to even their season record at 5-5.

In Saturday night's win in the Lincoln gym the Prowlers jumped out to a 20-8 first quarter lead and increased that margin to 37-23 at halftime before Cass Lake fought back to pull within 45-38 at the third quarter break.

Rande Smith matched his previous night's performance with 22 points against his former teammates followed by Dale Hanson's 16 markers.

The Prowlers hit on 28 of 75 field goal attempts and 11 of 19 free throws while Cass Lake connected on 21 of 57 from the floor and 13 of 25 from the gift line.

The Prowlers put up a game fight against the state's number six ranked class A school Friday night but came out on the short end of the scoreboard.

The Green Wave was playing without the services of ace guard Kurt Knoff who tore ligaments in his ankle during practice Thursday afternoon. The Big Five Conference's leading scorer and last year's MVP will be out of action for six weeks.

Starting a re-vamped line-up, Prowler coach Whitey Olson inserted 6-1 forward Mike Hamerlinck in the backcourt with Kent Smith and fit 6-2 Pat Hamilton in with Dale Hanson at a forward with Rande Smith remaining at center.

The Green Wave took the game's first lead on a lay-up by Stan Leach but couldn't build a margin of more than three points before the Prowlers took the lead 15-14 on Kent Smith's jump shot [illegible] period.

The Prowlers led by a 17-14 count on a fast break lay-up by Smith and held onto a 19-18 first quarter lead as Don Johnson connected for a bucket with 4 seconds remaining for "East Side."

It took the Green Wave just five seconds of the second quarter to regain the lead for good as Johnson's short jump shot gave "East Side" a 20-19 lead.

The Green Wave didn't score another field goal for 3:10 but instead connected on eight of eight free throws attempts to maintain a 28-25 margin with 5:04 remaining in the half.

"East Side" built their lead to five points until Dale Hanson hit on a jump shot from the free throw line to cut the margin to 32-31 with 2:31 left in the first half. 6-7 Mark Syrstad scored on a short jump shot with just one second remaining for a 39-37 lead at the half for the Wave.

Mike Hamerlinck made a solo free throw to trim the lead to a single field goal with 7:43 remaining in the third quarter before "East Side" raced to eight straight points for a 50-38 bulge and maintained a comfortable lead through the third quarter.

"East Side" led by margins of five and seven points through the final quarter until Rande Smith connected on a free throw and Hamerlinck made two from the gift line to trim the Green Wave lead to just 64-61 with 2:20 remaining in the game.

The Green Wave went into a stall in the final minutes while taking the high percentage shots. Scott Gravseth's long last second throw at the buzzer was ruled good by the officials for the final 69-61 count.

The Prowlers hit on 23 of 57 field goal attempts with Rande Smith leading the way with 22 points and Mike Hamerlinck along with Dale Hanson collecting 14 points apiece. "East Side hit 27 of 71 from the field with Don Johnson getting 26, Mark Syrstad 17 and Scott Gravseth 12 points.

Next action for the Prowlers will be this weekend when they will host Ada on Friday night in the Lincoln gym and will travel to Climax for a conference game Saturday night.

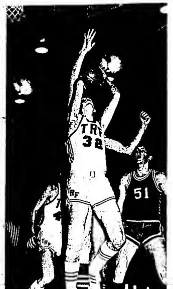
Dick Sculthorp Rolls 701 Series

Dick Sculthorp of this city bowled a 701 series Thursday, January 7, during competition in the Commercial Bowling league. Sculthorp rolled games of 227, 235 and 239 for his 701 total—one of the few 700 series to be recorded at Family Bowl.



PROWLER CAPTAIN Mark Thyren seems to have sprouted an extra pair of arms on this rebound attempt during the final quarter of Friday night's 69-61 loss to the East Grand Forks Green Wave. The Green Wave's Don Johnson looks on during this bit of action but Johnson wasn't caught flat-footed very often as he ended with a game high 26 points. Next action for the Prowlers will be Friday night when they will host the Ada Vikings in the Lincoln high school gym.

North Dakota Buries Northland Six 9-3

Swede Lund's Northland state junior college hockey team suffered their third loss of the season at the hands of the University of North Dakota junior varsity Saturday night in the city arena as the Sioux smothered the Northmen 9-3.

The loss left Northland with a 4-9 season record while standing 2-5 in conference play. Next action for the Northmen will be tomorrow night (Tuesday) when the Bemidji state junior varsity will invade the city arena for a 7:30 p.m. contest.

Mark Ferg led the attack for UND Saturday night with a three goal hat trick as the junior Sioux upped their season record to 6-5 on the year.

Paul Gourley opened the game's scoring with just 48 seconds gone in the opening period on an assist from Mark Ferg.

Northland tied the contest 1-1 on Larry Skime's unassisted score with 11:12 remaining in the first period.

UND took a 2-1 advantage into the second period on Ferg's power play goal with 7:05 remaining in the first period. Paul Gourley and Blaine Winters assisted on the score by Ferg.

Gordy Panzer began the second period outburst with his goal with 16:01 remaining on an assist from Pat Sullivan. Kelly Cross gave the Sioux a 4-1 lead with 14:41 remaining on his unassisted goal.

Scores by Mike Lundby and Marc Messmer gave the Sioux their 6-1 lead after two periods. Lundby scored on assists from Lyle Knudson and Ferg with 10:14 remaining. Messmer's goal was assisted by Gourley with 1:22 left in the second period.

UND didn't let up in the final period as they scored three goals, but two were answered by Northland attackers.

Ferg scored on an assist from Cross with 1:51 gone in the third period before the Northmen scored their second goal of the game off the stick of Steve Huot with 11:25 remaining. Bob Lundbohm was credited with an assist on the score.

Freshman Rodney Bolduc scored an unassisted goal for Northland with 6:19 remaining in the third period for a 7-3 count before UND finished the scoring with two tallies.

Ferg, a sophomore right wing from Dauphin, Manitoba, scored his third goal on an assist from Cross with 6:53 remaining in the game. Pat Sullivan finished the evening's scoring with 2:02 remaining on an assist from Wayne Wilson while the Northmen were a man short.

Men Fined For Shooting Deer In State Park

Three Alexandria men have been fined $400 each for killing a deer in Lake Carlos state park this past fall, the department of natural resources reported today.

The men had been arrested by state conservation officers on the night of November 12 after they had been observed spotlighting and shooting a deer and loading it in a car.

The men were bound over to district court and sentenced on December 10 by Judge E. J. Rugemer of Alexandria, who offered them a choice of the fines or 90 days in the county jail.

Officers also confiscated a deer rifle used by the three men. Names of those fined are Daniel J. Hachman, David L. Hachmen and Clayton D. Jern.

TRF—G. F. Tie 5-5 With Second Period Eruption

It looked like anything but a match-up of number one goalies during the second period of Saturday night's Grand Forks Central-Thief River Falls hockey game in the Grand Forks Sports Arena, but it was.

Central's senior netminder Dave Fontaine leads Grand Forks goal tenders with a 1.91 goals against average and Prowler head mentor Bob Tuff rates his senior goalie Brian Peterson as the state's best. But in the second period of their 5-5 deadlock neither team had any trouble scoring as they erupted for eight goals.

Following a 1-1 tie after one period the teams brought the good size crowd to their feet time and time again as they exchanged second period goals—and then went the entire third period and a 5 minute sudden death overtime without scoring.

The Prowlers are now 9-3-2 on the season and will travel to Crookston Friday night before hosting Baudette in the city arena Saturday evening.

Thief River Falls began the game's scoring in the first period when sophomore wing Jon Jensen fired a rebound past Fontaine with 12:10 gone in the period. Defenseman Paul Johnson kept the puck in the attacking zone at the blueline for the Prowlers before Jensen slipped the puck into the Indian net from the left side. Johnson and junior center Don Brown [illegible] assists on the play.

Central tied the score 2:06 later when senior wing Terry Paukert scored with 14:16 gone in the period. Gary Purpur had carried the puck behind the Prowler net and his centering pass went to Paukert who was standing 10 feet in front of the goal crease.

Central started the scoring parade in the second period with just 1:24 gone when Gary Purpur beat Peterson on a breakaway shot from close range with Pat Endres and Tim Lilleboe getting assists.

The Prowlers tied the contest 2-2 on captain Roger Lee's rebound shot from the right side with 4:20 gone in the period. Paul Olson and John Markstrom were credited with assists on the play.

Fifty-one seconds later the Prowlers led 3-2 when Jon Jensen scored his second goal of the game. The Prowlers had three chances at the Central net as Fontaine scrambled to cover the puck but Jensen put it just inside the right goal post. Don Brown was credited with an assist on the scoring play for the Prowlers.

Central's Rick Bohlman knotted the score at 3-3 on an assist from Lilleboe with 5:50 gone in the period and Terry Paukert put the Indians in front 4-3 as he took a pass from Purpur and fired from close range.

Senior defenseman Paul Olson tied the contest once again with 8:00 gone in the second period as he fired a hard slap shot from the left point that flew into the high right corner of the Indian net.

Thinking it was his team's turn to take the lead in the game, the Prowlers' Jeff Bottem scored with 13:14 gone in the 15-minute period. Tom Goddard carried the puck down by himself and shot from long range before Bottem put the rebound past the prone Central netminder. John Wangberg and Goddard were given assists on the score.

Paukert collected his third goal of the evening for the hat trick as Central tied the contest 5-5 with just 36 seconds remaining in the period. Purpur and Lilleboe collected assists on the goal for the Indians.

Both teams had scoring opportunities in the third period and the overtime session but the goalies came through with fine saves.

Purpur intercepted a Prowler clearing pass with 8:15 remaining and fired at Peterson with teammate Pat Endres almost putting the rebound behind the Prowler netminder. Purpur again almost broke the tie as he fired a 20-foot slap shot off a face off that hit the inside of the goal pipe and barely bounced out with the Prowlers a man short.

The Prowlers had an excellent scoring opportunity in the overtime period on a shot that Fontaine was able to reach back and grab while sprawled on the ice before the puck slid over the goal mouth.

Two undefeated teams met in the preliminary contest with the Prowler Bee's coming away with their twelveth win of the season.

Probate Court Has Small List Of Cases Monday

Thief River Falls police activities furnished most of the court business in the short Monday session of the municipal division of Pennington county probate court, presided over by judge of probate Stanley N. Mortenson.

Cases produced by the city police involved Vicky A. Moore, Thief River Falls, speeding, $15 bond forfeit; Syriel O. Olson, Thief River Falls, disobeying stop sign, $15 bond forfeit; Kermit L. Maidment, Thief River Falls, speeding, $15 fine with $5 suspended; Douglas W. Steiger, Red Lake Falls, speeding, $19 fine; and Harold R. Hogenson, Moorhead, warrant on overtime parking ticket, $10 bond forfeit.

Police also prosecuted Allen P. The only highway patrol case brought before the court was one against Russell M. Hoeft, Erskine, speeding, $15 bond forfeit.

Disposition was also made of a case heard several weeks ago. David Duane Hanson, Thief River Falls, was sentenced to 10 days in jail, to be served concurrently, on each of two violations—drinking by a minor and disorderly conduct.

Council Adopts Snowmobile Law

Thief River Falls city council, meeting last night (Tuesday), heard the third reading of and adopted the snowmobile ordinance, but first was presented a petition concerning the ordinance.

Presented by Ronald Heleen, a local youth, the petition contains about 300 signatures of local snowmobile enthusiasts. The petition states that the signers disagree with the restriction on the operation of snowmobiles within the city limits to travel between the snowmobiler's home and the nearest point of exit from the city limits. According to the petition, snowmobiles are the only means of transportation available to some people in the winter, and those people, particularly the young, will suffer unduly if they are denied the use of the machines.

The petition also suggested that snowmobiles be allowed to cross roads at any point, instead of only at intersections, but that they not be allowed to travel on roads; that 12-year-olds be allowed to ride snowmobiles, with the consent of their parents, after completing the snowmobile safety course offered by the state conservation department, which is now not open to those under 14; that a 10 p.m. weekday curfew and a midnight weekend curfew be put into effect for those under 16 years of age, and that snowmobilers with unsafe or illegal equipment operating within the city limits be ticketed, and the machines be banned from operation until repairs are made.

Heleen also proposed that a group of youths between the ages of 14 and 18 who have completed the snowmobile operators' course

School Board To Meet Tonight

Twice postponed due to conflicts, the second January meeting of the Thief River Falls board of education will be held tonight (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. at Knox elementary school. Among items for consideration is evaluation of a fire escape proposal as outlined by the University of Minnesota bureau of field studies.

Local Firm Sued By Fargo Co.

Arctic Enterprises of Thief River Falls is being sued by University Motors of Fargo, N. D., in U.S. District court.

The $1,426,000 suit seeks $1,350,000 in triple damages for alleged violations of the Sherman act (which provides that contracts or conspiracies in restraint of trade or commerce are illegal) and a $76,000 claim for loss of promotion expenses and expected profits due to an alleged violation of an oral contract.

According to an Associated Press story, University Motors charges that Arctic Enterprises and others conspired to exclude rival snowmobiles from the area by requiring Arctic dealers to not handle competitive products.

Also named as co-conspirators are Roger's Cat Castle at Moorhead and other dealers.

$1,000 GIFT for heart research from the Thief River Falls community was presented Monday to the University of Minnesota by the Thief River Falls United Fund. Dr. Paul Cashman, vice president of the U of M, center, accepted the check from Donald Lindquist while Dr. Earl Dagg, also of the United Fund board, watched the transfer. A check for $1,000 is also being sent by the United Fund to the Mayo foundation at Rochester for heart research.

Heart Research Benefits From TRF United Fund

A check for $1,000 for heart research was presented by the Thief River Falls United Fund Monday to the University of Minnesota hospitals. Accepting the donation was Dr. Paul Cashman, vice president for student affairs.

Dr. Earl Dagg and Donald Lindquist represented the United Fund board in making the presentation. Dr. Cashman was in Thief River Falls to address the annual meeting of the local Chamber of Commerce.

A $1,000 donation will also be made to the Mayo foundation in Rochester for heart research.

A letter from Lowell Linnes of the Mayo foundation explains in part why the Thief River Falls United Fund has chosen the University of Minnesota and Mayo foundation to receive the funds it has set aside for heart research:

"As you know," Linnes writes, "the Mayo foundation is a non-profit charitable and educational coporation and all of its assets and income are devoted to medical education and research and other related charitable purposes. As a result it is fair to say that there are no administrative costs charged off against our research programs. The money we generate to support these programs is over and above the costs of running the Mayo clinic, and administrative costs are absorbed in that way."

The letter was received by Mrs. James Carlson, secretary of the United Fund.

Youthful Unrest Topic Of Chamber Talk Mon.

MAN OF ACTION awards were presented by Chamber of Commerce president Glenn Paterson Monday evening to committee chairmen who gave outstanding service during the past year. In the bottom photo are Victor Charles, total community development committee, Vernon E. Nelson, agri-business committee, and Dick Bjorkman, parking and traffic committee.

"Youthful unrest is part of societal unrest," Dr. Paul Cashman told the 280 persons in attendance Monday evening at the annual meeting of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce. The vice president for student affairs at the University of Minnesota spoke on the topic "Restless Youth".

The largest crowd ever to attend a Chamber of Commerce annual meeting here filled the American Legion club rooms to capacity. Glenn Peterson, 1970 president of the Chamber of Commerce, presented special awards and reviewed activities of the organization for the past year.

Announced as recipients of life memberships were William LaFave and Andy Anderson. Honored for committee work were Victor Charles and Terry Courneya, Total Community Development (TCD) committee; Jon Larson, retail trade; Vernon E. Nelson, agri-business; Richard Bjorkman, parking and traffic; and Dennis Wojahn, greeters committee.

Marvin Lundin, 1971 president, presented the past president's plaque to Peterson, introduced the board of directors and committee chairmen and noted that the emphasis on the 1971 program of work will be on the word work.

Dr. Arnold Berg served as master of ceremonies for the banquet with the invocation given by Rev. Louis Hermansen, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church. Mayor A. E. Jacobson commented on the 75th anniversary of the formation of Thief River Falls as a legal entity, and the Diamond Jubilee program which will observe that anniversary this year.

Young People Studied

Dr. Cashman categorized the various groups of young people with which he comes in contact at the university. He prefaced the categorization by saying that this is a time in history when young people are in such good communication that they begin really investigating the things that affect them. Such investigation and concern is good, he said, but it brings nervousness.

The university vice president termed about a third of the student body as the "moderate activists". "These are the concerned, serious students," he said, "the ones who work within the system to bring about desired change and who are not likely to disrupt. I hope your children are among this group."

Announcements concerning the payment of penalties for parking tickets, disposal of impounded bicycles and a major theft are part of the information released by the Thief River Falls police department this week.

Regarding the parking tickets, the clerk of municipal court, Patricia Thompson, will collect the fines due from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday in her office on the second floor of the city auditorium.

All parking-violation fines will be collected through the court.

Police chief Roland Waller has also announced that the police department will dispose of all the recovered or impounded bicycles now in the possession of the department. Anyone who owns a bicycle which is now in the possession of the Thief River Falls police department should claim the bicycle at once. Those not claimed will be disposed of at a public sale at a later date. None of the bicycles are for sale at this time, however, and no information concerning the sale of the bicycles has been released by the department.

History Program Sunday Given To Large Crowd

With approximately 200 people in attendance, the public program conducted by the Pennington County Historical society was held Sunday afternoon at the Washington elementary school gymnasium.

Ken McIntyre showed slides of pen and ink drawings by Miss Orabel Thortvedt and entitled "Trek From Norway to the Red River Valley". Miss Thortvedt was a member of a pioneer family which came from Norway to Quebec and then to Minnesota, traveling by two-wheeled cart, boat and covered wagon.

Founder of Bonanzaville, an historical village being created at Fargo, McIntyre showed slides of the village buildings and their interiors. He emphasized the importance of preserving historical items while they still exist and how interest grows in history when there are actual items to be displayed.

H. O. Berve recalled his early days as a school teacher and experiences involving woods, water and wild animals. Mrs. Inga Geving, president of the county society, presided at the session. "Bless This House" was sung by Howard Johnson of Thief River Falls.

Serving as ushers, were members of the Cub scout den directed by Mrs. David Wefald. Lunch was served by the historical society and a number of people at the program remained to reminisce and visit with the speaker. McIntyre has been invited to return to Thief River Falls this summer, at which time an evening meeting will be arranged.

Rev. Melvin Walla officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Sheila Nielson, a friend of the bride, was the organist. She played "Trumpet Voluntary in D Major" for the processional and "Psalm XIX" by Marcello for the recessional. She also accompanied Miss Margaret Vorvick of Fergus Falls, roommate of the bride, as she sang "O Perfect Love", before the processional, "Wedding Prayer", during the ceremony, and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

To accent the Christmas theme of the wedding, the chancel was graced with candelabra trimmed with Christmas greens, white velvet bows and an assortment of red and candy-striped carnations. Along the aisles were candelabra with Christmas greens and green velvet bows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of white velvet, styled in empire fashion with stand-up collar and long, full sleeves, gathered at the wrists. Miniature covered buttons graced the bodice. A single row of miniature snowball braid trimmed the collar and cuffs and encircled the train attached at the high-rise waistline. A lace Juliet cap trimmed with seed pearls and iridescent sequins held her veil of bridal tulle. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and chrysanthemums, interspersed with white velvet ribbons and green foliage. Naomi Hamness-Allan Zak Vows Said At Strathcona

Christmas scene formed the background setting at the Grace Evangelical church at Strathcona at 7:30 p.m., December 26, for the wedding of Miss Naomi Hamness, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christ Hamness of Strathcona, and Allan R. Zak, son of Richard Zak of Strathcona and Mrs. Mertrice Zak of Roseau.

Candelabra featuring Christmas greens and red satin bows, and a Christmas tree decorated with red satin balls and miniature lights graced the chancel. On the piano was an arrangement of Scotch pine, accented by candles and Christmas balls. To complete the setting, the pews were marked by pine boughs and red satin ribbon.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was Rev. Robert Ludwig. Mrs. Marc Selness, a friend of the couple, presided at the organ and played the traditional wedding marches for the processional and recessional. As the couple knelt at the altar, Renae Gjovik sang, "Together Forever, Eternal Live," and as they lit the consecration candles, Misses Renae and Lola Gjovik sang the "Consecration Hymn." A solo, "Each For the Other", was sung by the bride after she was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her parents.

The bride was attired in a floor-length gown of angelmist taffeta fashioned with an overlay of Chantilly lace on the bodice and the detachable, chapel-length train. Styled with a bouffant skirt, the gown featured a fitted bodice with high neckline and Camelot sleeves. A crown of miniature pearls and lace inserts held her elbow length veil. She carried a cascade arrangement of American Beauty roses accented by trailing ivy and ferns. The groom's boutonniere was a rosebud from the bride's bouquet.

Marvel Hamness of Strathcona attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were friends of the couple, Debbie Hanson of Thief River Falls and Lola Gjovik of Minneapolis. All wore identical, floor-length, red velvet gowns made by the bride. Fashioned with high necklines and long, set-in-sleeves, the gowns featured princess seaming on the bodice, and long skirts gathered at the sides for fullness. They wore small, round headpieces of white fake fur and each carried a matching white fur muff complemented by a red poinsettia accented with green velvet streamers.

Serving as junior bride was LeeAnn Zak of Roseau, sister of the groom. She was attired in a gown styled similar to the bride's and her headpiece was like those worn by the attendants. All the gowns, headpieces and muffs were fashioned by the bride.

Best man was Donny Zak of Roseau, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Paul Kalinowski of Rockford, friend of the couple and Christ Hamness, Jr., of Strathcona, brother of the bride. Dale Hamness, brother of the bride, was junior groomsman. The ushers were James Gjovik of Roseau and Grand Gjovik of Strathcona, friends of the couple. All the men of the wedding party, together with the junior groomsman, wore single breasted tuxedos with black bow ties and white carnation boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hamness wore a rose-pink knit dress fashioned with high neckline and short sleeves. Top stitching complemented the seaming. To complete her attire, she wore black wrist-length gloves, black patent shoes and a corsage of white mums with red roses. A similar corsage was worn by the mother of the groom who wore a long-sleeved gown of green pane velvet. Her gold accessories accented the gold trim around the wrists and slightly gathered neckline.

Special guests at the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hamness and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Wahl, together with the bride's personal attendants, Misses Alvina Hanson and Marcia Lorenson.

Approximately 250 relatives and friends attended the reception that followed in the church parlors. Centering the serving table was a cross wedding cake baked and decorated by Mrs. Berdean Knutson of Strathcona. Rising from the center were tiers decorated with sugar bells, holly and a miniature bridal party. Topping the cake was a satin wedding bell ornament. Mrs. Ray Hanson, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Frank Przekwas, aunt of the groom, cut and served the cake. Pouring were Mrs. Thor Wick, aunt of the groom, and Mrs. Grand Gjovik, friend of the couple. Mr. and Mrs. Curt Long of Aberdeen, S. D., friends of the couple, served as reception host and hostess.

At the guest book was Miss Elvana Hanson, friend of the couple. Kay Hamness and Sherrie Zak, sisters of the bride and groom, respectively, presided at the punch bowl as Dori Sjoholm, a friend, and Kenny Hanson, cousin of the couple, distributed the groom's cake. Mrs. Roy Gjovik, Vicky and RaeAnn Lorenson, friends of the couple, and Sylvia Netterlund, cousin of the bride, served as waitresses. Mrs. Oswald Wahl, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Donald Kvien, aunt of the groom, were in charge of the reception table as Mrs. Ronnie Hamness, friend of the couple, presided at the gift table.

Relatives and friends attending were from Missoula, Mont., Aberdeen, S.D., Minneapolis, Roseau, Stephen, Middle River, Greenbush, Rockford, Roosevelt and Thief River Falls.

For traveling to the Black Hills of South Dakota, the bride wore a red velvet dress made by Kay Houghtvedt with white lace trim around the high neckline and at the wrists of the gathered sleeves.

The bride and groom are graduates of the Greenbush high school. They are now at home at Riverview trailer court in this city. The bride is employed by L. R. Hartz Wholesale, Inc., and the groom is a heavy equipment operator. Photo, Rude Photography, Thief River Falls.

Council Adopts Ordinance For Snowmobiles

be allowed to act as volunteer patrolling units, suggesting to careless operators that they be more careful and reporting incidents of snowmobile-involved vandalism or illegal operation to authorities. The council agreed with the proposal and suggested that efforts be made to form such a group, and also agreed to take the petition under advisement.

In non-snowmobile oriented activity, the council authorized an appropriation to the Tri-Pinettes drum and bugle unit, stipulating that they will grant the same amount as last year, but not to exceed $200.

The council also heard the second reading of an ordinance annexing 59 acres of land west of the city for residential development. The area contains Noper's third addition, part of Noper's second addition, and the new mobile home park being constructed by Dan Helle.

An amendment to the contract with the Bureau of Reclamation was approved by the council. The amendment provides for minor changes in the loop line and also allows for changes in the voltage to be carried, etc.

Progression raises in pay for three city employees were approved. Doyle Thompson, who works at the water plant, will receive $10 more per month, while two liquor store employees Gurdon Marshall and Bill Moreau, will each draw $15 more per month.

Members of the council were officially notified of a hearing March 25 at 9:30 a.m. when the Soo Line railroad will propose centralized agency service on segments of its lines in Minnesota between Bejou and Leonard, Rosewood and Oslo, Newfolden and Orleans and Palisade and Pinewood.

An application by Bridgeman Creameries, Inc., was approved. The local creamery requested permission to dig into state highway 32 (Main Avenue) to connect to the water main with a six-inch service line. The council approved the application provided the state highway department grants permission for the digging.

The council also accepted resignations from Ingvald Wold, former off-sale clerk at the municipal liquor store effective January 18, and the resignation of Miss Margaret Schauls, waitress at the municipal store, effective February 1. Bill Moreau has been transferred from the on-sale operation to manage the off-sale business. Don J. Olson was hired to replace Moreau in the on-sale position, and Phil Swanson was hired to replace Wold as off-sale clerk.

DR. PAUL CASHMAN, vice president of the University of Minnesota for student affairs, spoke on "Restless Youth" at the annual meeting of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Monday evening. The banquet was attended by 280 people in the American Legion club rooms.

Youthful Unrest Topic Of C of C Address Monday

The "cause-oriented students" were described as persons not interested in the general welfare of the country or the university but show concern only in specific areas such as war, race or pollution—to the exclusion of other problems.

Less than a dozen people at the university can be referred to as "radical activists", Dr. Cashman said. "They reject the system; they seek to disrupt the university but they have no power by themselves. Some are not now students but have been students. Radical activism is on the decline now, and some of the people that we identified with this activity have moved on to find greener pastures."

Fourth category mentioned by the vice president was the "hippie youth", a group which he said was also on the decline. This is the group that is self-destructive, has no interest in activism of any kind and is part of the drug sub-culture.

Comprising more than a third of the student body is what Dr. Cashman described as the "non-involved student." This is the group that is "a fertile breeding ground for advocates of both the left and the right", the speaker said. Lacking any real causes of their own, they can be led to identify with extremes.

Hasty Judgments

"You can't always tell who the trouble-makers are," he said, "and it's important not to make hasty judgments." He told how two legislators had been shown a group of demonstrators on campus and asked to identify the leader. They unerringly picked out a member of the vice president's staff, he recalled.

Dr. Cashman cautioned against over-response in dealing with youthful unrest, noting that a strong response with no dialogue creates an antagonism. By the same token, he emphasized that under-response will encourage excesses with aggravate the problems.

He advocated the "measured response", whereby persons in authority should demonstrate a willingness to listen to legitimate complaints, but exhibit an understood firmness for respect of law and order.

The speaker urged his listeners to search for ways to assist or encourage young people. "Most are taking a responsible interest," he said, "and they are deserving of your attention and encouragement. Keep your cool when you have a tendency to tense up. I see considerable cause for optimism in the restless youth of today."

Library Friends To Hold Sunday Afternoon Hours

To further the use of the Thief River Falls public library, the Friends of the Library organization will keep the building open on Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m., according to Mrs. Stanley N. Mortenson, president of the Friends of the Library.

Mrs. Mortenson said the Sunday schedule will begin on the first Sunday in February (February 7), with the Friends to serve coffee and cookies during the hours when the library is open. Students and others who would like to read or to use reference materials are encouraged to make use of the special hours.

Because the regular library staff will not be in attendance on a regular basis books will not be checked out during the Sunday schedule. Borrowed books may be returned to the counter in the library, however, Mrs. Mortenson said.

Persons who would be interested in serving as volunteers to help keep the library open on Sunday afternoons are asked to call Mrs. Mortenson. They need not be members of the organization and their assistance will be appreciated.

Farm Mortgage Debt In State Is $1,148,622,000

Minnesota's biggest industry, agriculture, currently carries a $1,148,622,000 mortgage debt, according to Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald.

He said recent figures released by the U.S. department of agriculture reveal Minnesota ranks fifth among the United States in total farm mortgage debt.

The report indicated a correlation to cash farm income. Ranking ahead of Minnesota in both statistics are California, Texas, Iowa and Illinois.

Minnesota's farm mortgage debt represents approximately half the record 1969 farm income of $2,157,056,000, Commissioner Wefald observed.

The report disclosed that Minnesota's farm mortgage debt increased by $32,764,000 in 1969. The boost compared with the national average increase of three per cent.

Nationally, the ratio of farm mortgage debt to the value of farmland and buildings on Jan. 1, 1970, was 13.6 per cent. That represented an increase of two-tenths of one per cent over the previous year.

Direct farm loans for improvement and expansion in Minnesota totaled $512,425,000, over half of the farm mortgage total. Federal land banks hold $274,725,000 of the debt, the Farmers Home administration $13,785,000, life insurance companies $214,800,000, and all operating banks $132,907,000.

IRS Offers To Help Compute Income Taxes

Do you have trouble figuring your federal income tax?

The IRS offers to figure your tax correctly by computer. After the tax is determined, taxpayers who have overpaid will be sent a refund, and those who owe additional tax will receive a bill, according to George Lethert, IRS district director.

Any person who has income of $20,000 or less consisting only of salaries, dividends, interest, pensions and annuities, and who claims the standard deduction can ask the IRS to compute their tax. Older taxpayers who claim the retirement income credit can benefit from this offer also if they meet the income and deduction requirements.

Taxpayers who accept this offer should complete Form 1040 as usual, Lethert said. Lines 1 through 18 should be filled in reporting filing status, exemptions claimed and reporting income. Payments and credits on lines 22 through 29 should be completed also. Where the retirement income is involved, Schedule R—Retirement Income Credit Computation—should be filed, with lines 2 and 5 completed. On line 22, Form 1040, write "RIC" and the IRS will compute the tax. Errors in tax computation were the greatest mistake category last year.

NW Retardation Advisory Group Hears Reports

The Northwestern retardation advisory planning board met recently at Mahnomen. Discussion centered on the recommendation of this board that a person be hired by the Northwestern Mental Health center who would be directly responsible for mental retardation programs and services in the area.

Roy Waters, director of the mental health center, asked the board for listings of qualifications and a job description for this person.

The sheltered workshop committee reported that an application for first year funding was soon ready to be submitted to the state department of vocational rehabilitation. It is hoped that with prompt funding, recruiting for staff could start shortly.

A proposal for eight group homes for not over 10 retarded persons per home for this seven-county area has been approved by the area retardation coordinating committee. This recommendation is now being taken to each county social service board.

Unemployment Benefits Rise For 1970 Year

Amount of unemployment benefits paid to out-of-work Minnesotans in 1970 was more than 120 per cent higher than benefits paid in 1969, according to Emmet J. Cushing, commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Manpower services.

Benefits totaling $53,059,455 were paid to 100,683 claimants in 1970. In 1969, 55,658 claimants received $23,743,125 in unemployment benefits.

The reserve in the unemployment compensation fund from which payments are made was $117,680,265 on Dec. 31, 1970, as compared with $118,983,477 on Dec. 31, 1969. The fund is financed through a payroll tax paid by employers in industries covered by the Minnesota manpower services law.

The unemployment rate averaged 4.2 per cent in 1970. In 1969, the unemployment rate averaged 2.9 per cent, setting an all-time low in Minnesota for those years for which records are available.

Weekly payments averaged $43.74 in 1969 compared with $48.93 in 1970. The average individual payment is up because of an increase in the authorized level of payments which went into effect July 1, 1969, as a result of action by the 1969 state legislature, Cushing said.

Another comparison illustrating the economic pattern, he said, is the decided increase in 1970 in the number of weeks for which individuals received benefits. In 1970, unemployed persons received compensation for a total of 1,065,000 weeks, while the total compensated weeks in 1969 were 549,203.

Cushing said continued record claims for benefits may trigger a higher employer tax in support of the unemployment compensation fund for 1972. The trigger point will come if the fund falls below $110 million by June 30, 1971.

With the decrease in the fund below $110 million, the minimum employer tax in support of the fund would be raised from the 5-10 to 1 per cent of the first $4,800 of each employee's earnings for 1971 to 7-10 of 1 per cent for 1972. The 1972 minimum tax rate thus would revert to the same level as for 1970.

In addition to the Minnesota unemployment insurance program, the state department of manpower services administers two programs as an agent for the federal government—unemployment compensation for federal employees and unemployment compensation for ex-servicemen.

Benefits paid to ex-servicemen jumped to $4,072,951 in 1970, compared with $1,793,000 in 1969, reflecting the influx of servicemen into the civilian labor force, Cushing said.

Benefits paid to federal employees were $523,115, $154,000 more than in the previous year.

Jane Aakhus To Sing "Armindo" In UND Opera

Jane Aakhus, formerly of Thief River Falls, has been chosen to sing the role of "Armindo" in the University of North Dakota production of Mozart's "La Finta Giardiniero" (The Pretended Gardener).

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grundy Aakhus, Thief River Falls, was chosen for the part after auditioning before the U.N.D. Opera Company audition committee. Production dates for the opera are March 25, 26 and 27.

The production is to be dedicated to retiring UND president George Starcher and his wife. President Starcher claims Mozart among his favorite composers.

Philip D. Ifisey is director of the opera company.

WEIGHT EXPECTATIONS

A worldwide welcome was extended by 74 countries in the year ended June 30, 1969, to the 1,099,930,614 pounds of relief supplies distributed by Catholic Relief Services. Valued at $133 million, the 549,965 tons of materials aided millions of unfortunates in emerging and underdeveloped nations.

Bergland Hails Rule To Reform Democrat Caucus

Seventh District Congressman Bob Bergland today hailed the new rules adopted by Democrats in the U.S. House of Representatives as "the most sweeping and most important reforms instituted in 60 years."

Rep. Bergland, who was sworn in to his first term January 21, added, however, that the new reforms can only be considered the first step in making Congress "more responsive to the times and the people."

The major reform passed by the Democratic caucus, which is made up of all Democrats in the House of Representatives, is a rule that allows any 10 members to challenge the qualifications of any committee chairman. If a chairman is challenged, the entire Democratic caucus decides whether or not he remains the chairman.

Prior to this reform, seniority—that is, the member of a committee who has been in Congress the longest—determined the chairmanship. There was no effective way to challenge the qualifications or power of a chairman under the old rules.

About this reform measure Bergland said: "It gives committee chairmen notice that we will no longer tolerate unqualified chairmen or chairmen whose actions have often been outrageously opposed to progressive and necessary legislation."

A second reform initiated by the Democratic caucus was to limit Congressmen to the chairmanship of one subcommittee. Under former rules there was no limitation and some Congressmen held as many as three sub-committee chairmanships. According to Bergland, this opens 40 responsible positions to younger members of Congress.

Phosphates are one of 16 to 20 different nutrient elements needed by algae for growth. So would 100% elimination of phosphate input into Lake Erie stop the algae from growing there? No! The phosphates already in the lake are enough to support algal growth for the next 100 years (a good thing for the fish, since they would die if there were no algae to eat).

Highway Dep't. Vehicles Can't Pull Stuck Cars

Minnesota Commissioner of Highways N. T. Waldor today announced that throughout the year, and with increasing frequency during the winter months, maintenance crews come upon vehicles which have left the road and have become stuck along the shoulder in either snow or soft, wet ground.

It is the policy of the Minnesota highway department to offer all reasonable emergency assistance to the occupants of the vehicle in obtaining wrecker service, medical attention (if required) and the services of the highway patrol. Highway department employees are forbidden to use state vehicles to pull disabled vehicles back onto the road.

The reason for denying this service is that in the process of towing the disabled vehicle the highway department runs the risk of incurring liability through possible damage to the disabled vehicle by perhaps bending a bumper or causing other damage to the stricken vehicle.

In addition to this factor, consideration is given by the Highway Department to the possibility that the physical condition of the driver may have been a contributing factor to the vehicle's having left the roadway. Such factors as intoxication, diabetes, use of drugs, medications, epileptic seizure or lack of sleep might preclude the motorist from safely continuing on his journey. It is felt that to permit highway department maintenance employees to tow these vehicles could very well place them in a compromising position or require them to make judgments for which they are not qualified.

Although it is recognized that motorists frequently become indignant when such a towing request is refused, it is stressed that department employees are subject to disciplinary action should they use state equipment to tow stuck vehicles.

D.L. Youth Cops VOD First Prize

Youthful speakers from Detroit Lakes, Waubun and Crookston won the first three places in the Ninth District Voice of Democracy contest.

Richard Ballowa, Detroit Lakes, took first place, winning a $75 U.S. Savings Bond and entry in the state contest. Marlene Tilton, Waubun, was in second place and Peggy Knox, Crookston, finished third. Thief River Falls local contest winner James Auno of Lincoln High school was not among the placers.

The district contest was held at a Detroit Lakes radio station December 30. A tape of the winner's speech has now been entered in the state department contest. Winner of the state competition receives a trip to Washington, D. C., and a college scholarship.

Highway Litter Is Hazardous To Motorists

Highway litter is an important accident hazard, Commissioner of Public Safety W. R. Hoaglund pointed out today.

"Truckers and trailer users who fail to make their loads secure, people who throw beer cans and bottles out on the highway, and other litterers create dangers for all highway users. Texas estimates that litter on its highways was a factor in 21 fatal and 1,068 non-fatal accidents in a single year.

"While Minnesota has been fortunate not to have had any fatalities caused by litter in the past year, we do have our share of accidents from this cause, some of them serious."

The most dangerous litter is the kind that falls off trucks and trailers, he said. This litter is often substantial enough to wreck a car coming upon it unexpectedly, and it usually falls into the traveled section of the roadway. "Drivers who lose parts of their loads in this way are in violation of the law, which provides that 'No vehicle shall be driven or moved on any highway unless such vehicle is so constructed or loaded as to prevent any of its load from dropping, sifting, leaking, or otherwise escaping therefrom.'

"Also against the law is the other kind of littering, deliberately thrown bottles, cans, garbage, paper, and the like. This, too, is dangerous to other drivers, and it costs the state heavily. Just picking up the trash cost Minnesota more than $300,000 in 1969, and almost that much in six months of 1970. Other costs include dump fees and damages to highway equipment, such as mowers."

Commissioner Hoaglund pointed to estimates of a national anti-litter organization, Keep America Beautiful, Inc., of a $33,445,000 highway litter bill in the United States in 1969, a 70 per cent increase since 1963.

Water Resources Workshop Set At Winter Shows

A special water resources workshop is scheduled for February 25 at the Red River Valley winter shows. All interested citizens and leaders are invited to meet in a workshop session scheduled Thursday, February 25, commencing with registration and coffee at 10 a.m. in the Kiehle auditorium at the University of Minnesota, Crookston.

This is a workshop built around the theme, "How Will Minnesota Meet The Challenge of Water Resource Development".

Recent legislative interim commissions have completed their studies and are suggesting legislation and changes at the level of state government. Currently, the matter of long-time planning for water resource utilization is uncoordinated at the state government level. The state is at the crossroads on planning for water and related land use in the decades ahead.

Dr. Guy Keinhofer, St. Paul, and Dr. William Walton, Minneapolis, will keynote the workshop.

Plans are to encourage individual participation in "buzz sessions" and, hopefully, to raise questions with the panel of experts. A communication expert will be on hand to summarize the workshop discussion.

Sites For Water Impoundment In District Studied

An inventory of water impoundment sites in the Middle river-Snake river watershed is being prepared by the Marshall county soil and water conservation district, according to Milton Sands of Alvarado, secretary of the watershed district.

The inventory of impoundment sites was suggested by the advisory committee and will contain information gathered from aerial photographs, U.S. Geological surveys and the county atlas. Mapping will not include a recommendation of sites, and roads, bridges or building sites will not be considered.

"No attempt will be made to determine construction costs, cost-sharing benefit ratios, practicability, flood damage reductions or secondary benefits," Sands said. "These factors can only be determined by gathering necessary on-site surveys and information."

The secretary noted that managers of the district have made several tours of the watershed to look for potential water impoundment areas. He said that there seemed to be some possibilities along the Middle river east of the Old Mill state park. There also appear to be a couple of small impounding areas on the Snake river, he said. Sites looked at were mainly in-channel with what looked like minimal amounts of cropland involved.

Appeal Board At Concordia OK's Paper Suspension

Suspension of the student newspaper at Concordia college by President Joseph L. Knutson in December has been upheld by the college's appeal board.

At the same time, the board—composed of one faculty member, one administrator and one student—sustained the student editor's appeal of his firing and called for the development of student newspaper guidelines before the paper might resume publication.

In its report to the president, the board said it supports his action in suspending publication of "The Concordian" until guidelines have been established in accordance with the "Student Rights Document", a constitution outlining student rights and responsibilities at the college.

But the board also said that it believes regular procedures should have been followed to remove Omar Olson, the paper's editor and a senior from Luverne, from his post.

"Our decision is not based upon nor does it imply approval of Mr. Olson's editorship. We feel that he has at times used poor judgment and poor taste," said the board's report.

The board declared that the president has the ultimate authority to fire an editor, but concluded that the paper's suspension eased the "emergency" situation and would have permitted action through established channels under the "Student Rights Document."

"In the present case, we feel the president rightfully felt that the publication of an ad for an abortion referral agency created an emergency," since an attorney's advice indicated that the ad might be illegal.

"We feel that this emergency justified the suspension of 'The Concordian' until guidelines could be established. Suspension of 'The Concordian' assured that the ad would not be run again and removed the emergency that might have justified additional action outside the channels established under the 'Student Rights Document'."

The board also said, "Our decision does not imply that editors of college publications have complete autonomy in editorial policy. There are goals and objectives at Concordia college that may be unique and that should be recognized in common guidelines.

"Editors should stay within these guidelines or be subject to removal by authority of the president, as publisher, in accordance with procedures established under the 'Student Rights Document'," said the report.

The president likely will accept the board's report and await development of editorial guidelines by the student affairs committee, the group responsible for student publications.

Otter Tail Power Company Shows Revenue Growth

Albert V. Hartl, president of Otter Tail Power company, Fergus Falls, reported to the directors of his company meeting in Minneapolis this morning that the company's 1970 financial results, including revenues and earnings per share, were above those in 1969.

1970 operating revenues were $34,456,729 compared with $31,483,853 in 1969. The 1970 net income figure was $4,098,432, up from $3,834,769 for the comparable period of 1969. Earnings per share were $1.88 in 1970 compared with $1.75 in 1969. There were 1,928,243 shares of common stock outstanding in each of the two years.

Hartl attributed the rise in revenues in part to the company's aggressive sales promotions and the increase in net income and earnings in part to the fact that operating expenses are being effectively controlled in the company.

"In the face of continuing inflation when our costs of business continue to increase at a rapid rate it will be more difficult to attain our profit objectives in 1971," Hartl said.

"However, I'm confident that it can be done and that we'll do it," he added.

Heinze Hears Of Attorney General Plans At Meet

Warren Spannaus, Minnesota attorney general, outlined his proposed legislation to strengthen laws requiring charitable organizations to uniformly account for their income and expenses at a meeting of the Minnesota Community Research council.

Art Heinze of Thief River Falls, recently appointed to the council's board of directors, attended the meeting held Thursday in Minneapolis.

Spannaus said the legislation is aimed at comparing the activities of charities, and at determining what portion of each contributed dollar actually goes to charitable causes.

He noted that his proposal covers costs of solicitation, guidelines for the use of professional fund raisers, unclear identities and purposes of some charities and sale of lists of contributors' names.

Pollution Concern Proves Superficial

While most Minnesotans are concerned about pollution, they are hesitant to support specific pollution control measures if such measures would adversely affect their community or their own economic self-interests.

This conclusion was made recently in a report on "Environment and Public Opinion in Minnesota" by four University of Minnesota social scientists. The report was based on recent research on Minnesotans' attitudes to pollution by Phillip Tichenor, university journalism professor; James Bowers, research assistant, and George Donohue and Clarice Olien, university sociologists.

Twenty-two per cent of those interviewed in a 1970 survey by these researchers in four northeastern Minnesota communities—Ely, Grand Rapids, Silver Bay and Duluth—chose environment as the most important of five major issues. Only eight per cent thought it was the least important. The five issues were the Vietnam War, inflation, student demonstrations, civil rights and pollution.

In the same survey, 73 per cent agreed with the statement that "the environmental pollution crisis presents us with some of the hardest choices we have ever had to make."

However, environmental awareness and concern does not mean that individuals are ready to act decisively to control pollution. "The results of this and other surveys generally show that most individuals distinguish between basic values and self-interest motives," Tichenor said.

"That is, while environmental quality and preservation receives support as a basic value, individuals are hesitant to support pollution control measures when such action may adversely affect their self-interests, such as employment or the community's economy."

For example, 69 per cent of the adults responding to the 1969 survey by these social scientists in a 50-mile-long area from Osseo to St. Cloud said the DDT was a dangerous pollutant. However only 39 per cent thought it should be banned. As one respondent stated: "DDT? I'm against it and all other pesticides. We'd all be better off without putting any chemicals on the soil. Of course, though, we use lots of chemicals on the farm; DDT too. You can't stay in business farming without it."

The distinction between concern for pollution as a general problem and specific action was supported by the 1970 survey in northeastern Minnesota. In Duluth, for example, 84 per cent of those interviewed were concerned about air and water pollution from steel and taconite plants. However only 35 per cent believed that better measures to prevent air pollution from the steel plant should be enforced even though such measures might result in some unemployment and other hardships.

Similar results were found in Ely and Silver Bay. In Silver Bay, 97 per cent of those interviewed expressed concern about pollution from steel and taconite plants. But 75 per cent disagreed with the statement that "although some economic hardships may result, it is better to prevent the taconite plant from discharging tailings into Lake Superior." The taconite plant is the major employer in this area.

The conclusion in all communities surveyed is that economic consequences of pollution control take precedence over environmental control measures if these measures would affect the area's economy, the report noted.

Vo-Tech Enters State Tourney With Win

Despite a slow-down type of offense employed by Bemidji which saw the scoreboard read just 6-2 after one period of action last night, the Thief River Falls vocational-technical school Aquarian basketball team went on to drop Bemidji 59-32 and in the process earned a spot in the state tournament scheduled next month in Alexandria.

The Aquarians, who finished behind Staples in the north division, will face the number one south team in the second game of the tournament set for Friday and Saturday, February 5 and 6 in the Alexandria high school gym.

Granite Falls and Alexandria both standing on top of the south division with 7-2 records will square-off tonight to decide the number one and two teams.

Milo Reck led the Aquarians in scoring against Bemidji last night with 14 points as Mike Molacek and Marshall Undresser reached double figures with ten points. Bemidji's Fred Jackson led all scorers with 17 points.

The Aquarians led 6-2 after one quarter and built up a 27-8 lead at halftime before surging to a 49-16 third quarter bulge as Bemidji continued the slow-down game while trailing by 21 points.

The Aquarians finished their second season of vocational school competition with a 7-2 record with a 108-78 drubbing of Detroit Lakes coming last Thursday night in the Fanklin gym. Terry Bowers, ranked as the eighth leading scorer in the league, poured in 27 points for the Aquarians, while teammates Marshall Undresser added 28, Milo Reck 12, Myron Larson 11, Randy Beck 10 and Dennis Jorgenson scored 10 points.

Opening Dates For '71 Hunting Seasons Listed

Opening dates for the 1971 hunting seasons were announced today by the Minnesota department of natural resources. Richard Wettersten, game and fish director, said the opening dates are announced early in the year to enable sportsmen to plan their vacations.

He said the opening dates were subject to change in the light of changes in game populations that might occur as the result of adverse winter conditions or poor spring reproductive success.

Season lengths and bag limits will be announced in the late summer or fall after an evaluation can be made on the status of game populations.

LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL'S basketball coaching staff selected two players as Player of the Week for their work in the Prowlers' 69-61 loss to East Grand Forks and their 67-55 win over Cass Lake. Rande Smith (left) scored 23 points in each game last week and pulled down 14 rebounds in each contest. Against "East Side" the 6-2 junior hit on 8 of 9 free throws and 7 for 20 field goals and versus Cass Lake he connected on 4 of 7 free throws and 8 of 23 field goals. Tom Kays (right) scored 18 points against East Grand Forks and 20 against Cass Lake in D squad action for the Prowlers. The 6-2 forward hit on 8 of 15 from the floor against the Green Wave and 2 of 2 free throws while connecting on 2 of 4 free throws against Cass Lake and 6 of 16 field goals. The junior hauled down 21 rebounds in the two games. This is the second time each of these two players has been selected as Player of the Week.

One of the most controversial aspects of water pollution is eutrophication—a normal lake-aging process vastly speeded up by the waste products of man. While a great deal has been written on one aspect of this complex scientific problem, significant articles dealing with other aspects may have escaped the attention of legislators, writers and environmental groups. The F M C Corporation of New York City forwarded a column by Philip H. Abelson and reprinted with permission of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"EXCESSIVE EMOTION ABOUT DETERGENTS..."

Concern about the environment continues to be widespread and is essential if improvements are to occur. However, excessive emotion about one facet of the problem can lead to neglect of others. It also may result in demands for premature action. Such a situation seems to be developing with respect to detergents. In a few months the mass media have succeeded in transforming the image of these products from essential cleaning materials into prime agents in the pollution of the nation's waters. The New York Times as editorialized on "Deadly Detergents"—In congressional circles there has been talk of a new Manhattan Project devoted to taking phosphates out of detergents. Congressman Reuss (D-Wis.) has introduced legislation requiring the elimination of phosphorus from detergents by June 30, 1971.

"Passage of such legislation is not imminent, but the situation could change. As a result, today's detergents that are effective and safe might be replaced by materials that are ineffective or possibly toxic. In most drainage basins of the country no serious problems arise from detergents. Thus the majority of citizens would be inconvenienced or even harmed by measures taken on the chance that a minority living near lakes might benefit.

"The attack on phosphates in detergents is based on the plausible but unproved hypothesis that phosphates are the crucial nutrient that determines the magnitude of algal blooms. Opinion on this matter is no longer unanimous. A controversial but thought-provoking article in Canadian Research and Development reminds us that experience with land plants is not entirely transferable to the varied circumstances in lakes. Massive algal blooms have occurred in lakes containing very little phosphate. The limiting nutrient often is carbon. Of considerable importance is a symbiotic relationship between blue-green algae and bacteria. This is particularly effective in waters containing organic matter. The bacteria furnish carbon dioxide to the algae, which in turn provide oxygen for the bacteria. Laboratory studies have shown that blue-green algae grow faster in the presence of growing bacteria.

"Elimination of phosphates from detergents would not solve the eutrophication problem. There are too many other sources of these chemicals in municipal, industrial, and agricultural wastes. The treatment of municipal waste is of particular importance in minimizing eutrophication. If these were managed properly, phosphates arising from human wastes and from detergents would be simultaneously eliminated. Effective treatment also would attenuate the flow of organic matter into lakes.

"The current drive to remove phosphates from detergents could lead to the replacement of safe chemicals by potentially hazardous ones. At present the leading candidate as a substitute is nitrilo acetate. This is a chemically stable chelating agent which is incompletely destroyed in sewage treatment plants. Preliminary tests on the pure compound seem to assure its safety, but who can guarantee that there will be no unexpected long-term tragic effect when the material is spread about in huge quantities and its effects are combined with those of many other substances?

"The detergent industry should be continuously reminded that it must develop products that will not contribute to pollution. However, headless pressure in this matter could create problems far worse than those it solves." —Philip H. Abelson

Propose Placing Bear In Class As Game Animal

Recently the Minnesota Archery association announced it is going to make an all-out effort to convince state legislators this session that the bear should be classed as a big game animal—a change from its present status of a varmint to be destroyed at will.

This is a measure that the department of natural resources and most conservation groups supported for years but have never been successful in guiding through the legislative halls.

Opposition in the past has usually come from northern areas that have experienced bear predation on sheep. To remedy this problem, department proposals to classify the bear as a game animal have always provided that bear doing damage to livestock could be controlled.

In other states the bear is a highly-prized game animal. Some time ago, a hunting party from Tennessee with a professional guide took a near-record bear from a north-western Minnesota county using hounds. The guide had brought his customers to Minnesota and (so the story goes) guaranteed them a bear or their money back.

The point is that Minnesota has quite a few bear which, hunted properly, can offer real sport. If the bear is brought to bay and the hunters find it is too small to make a good pelt, or they decide to let the bear live to provide hunting for another day, they can gather up their dogs and leave.

The bear is an animal with a low reproductive rate and low population density. There is also increased interest in sport hunting for bear. For these reasons the department believes bear hunting should be regulated to prevent undue depletion of bear populations.

Presently the animal can be taken at any time and anywhere except in a prescribed area of northeastern Minnesota, Itasca county, and in several townships in Cass county. In these areas the bear may only be taken during the deer seasons.

No license at all is currently required of resident Minnesotans to take bear, and a non-resident can get by with a $26 small game non-resident hunting license or even a $10 non-resident bow hunting license, if he hunts bear with bow and arrow. Furthermore, there is no limit on the number of bear that may be taken by either residents or non-residents at the present time.

Incidentally, the department doesn't believe bear should be hunted during the spring when the mother is needed to look after the cubs. This is one of the abuses that could be corrected if the bear were made a game animal and the department were authorized to set regulations over its taking and possession.

Bemidji State Fights Way To 6-2 Win Over NSJC

Coach Ken Anderson's Bemidji state junior varsity hockey squad takes the wrath of the varsity at least once a week during the hockey season but once in a while the junior Beavers are let out of the pen to show what they have learned from those weekly skirmishes with the class of the NAIA. Last night in the city arena the Bemidji Jayver's did show what they have picked up from those sessions as they bruised their way to a 6-2 win over the Northland state junior college Northmen.

Bemidji started the contest with a full head of steam and led 1-0 before the fireworks began. Northland's Mike Iltchen of Crookston decided to take on the biggest opponent on the ice as he tangled with Edina's Jim Gustafson and both players were kicked out of the contest with 9:13 remaining in the opening period.

The rough type of play continued with Northland getting in a few licks once in a while until a full battle royal erupted with 44 seconds remaining in the game. Four players were sent to the showers for their participation in the mis-understanding. Rich Ellerbusch and Rodney Bolduc of Northland and Jim Borden along with John Birrenkott of Bemidji were pulled from the contest prematurely.

Bemidji took a 2-0 lead after the first period and led 4-1 after two periods although the Northmen out-shot the Beavers 14-5 in the second frame.

Bemidji's Denny Leverty scored the first of his three-goal hat trick with 14:44 remaining in the first period as he popped in a rebound past Northland goalie Maurie Pearson from the left side.

Leverty made it 2-0 with his second goal on assists from Daryle McCannell and Roger Bertrand with 4:23 remaining in the first period. The Beavers had kept the pressure on the Northmen when Northland could not clear the puck from their own end before Leverty scored from the left of the net.

Bemidji increased their lead to 3-0 in the second period as Roger Bertrand slipped the puck past Pearson on a rebound shot while standing alone on the left side of the Northland net.

Bob Lundbohm, freshman center from Roseau, almost put the Northmen on the board with 10:30 remaining as he broke into the open on a Northland power play. Bemidji goalie Mike Kvarnlov, another Roseau product, made the save on Lundbohm but Donn Haugen had a chance at the right side of the Beaver net but shot wide of the mark.

Northland scored their first goal of the game with 5:51 remaining in the second period as Lundbohm took the puck away from a Bemidji attacker at the blue line and had another breakaway but this time Rodney Bolduc was right on target with the rebound on Kvarnlov for a power play goal by the Northmen.

Although they got only five shots at the Northland net in the second period Bemidji made the most of the opportunities as they scored their second goal of the period with 3:20 remaining as Mike Prodahl scored from the right side for a 4-1 lead.

Bemidji built their margin to 6-1 on goals by Austin Bennitt and Leverty. Bennitt scored on a rebound from close range with 17:46 remaining while Leverty, a junior forward from White Bear Lake, scored his third goal of the night on a shot from the point that slid under Pearson with 10:12 remaining.

Freshman Rich Ellerbusch of Warroad gave the Northmen their second goal of the night with 9:18 remaining on his shot from the right side from ten feet. Sophomore Larry Skime of Roseau was credited with an assist on the play.

Northland will be back in action Wednesday, February 3, when they travel to Grand Rapids to take on Itasca in a 7:30 p.m. contest. Next home game for Northland will not be until March 2, when UNB will be in the city arena.

IT SEEMS that Bemidji's Bean Anders has a difference of opinion with Northland's Larry Skime (7) and Rich Ellerbusch (12) in last night's hockey game in the city arena. Northland's Rick Lindegard tries to hold back Anders during the second period of Bemidji's 6-2 win. Both teams played a rough style of hockey with the teams getting into shoving and shouting matches throughout the contest until a fight broke out with 44 seconds remaining in the game.

Bemidji Lumberjacks Rip Prowler Wrestlers 39-7

Having one of their best seasons in recent years, the Bemidji Lumberjack wrestling team rolled over Ed Krystosek's Prowlers last night in the Bemidji gym 39-7.

Ranked number nine in last week's state wrestling poll, the Lumberjacks lost just one match last night as Prowler captain Jerry Muzzy broke through to defeat Gary Lindseth 3-1 in the 138 pound division. 133 pounder Bave Furuseth and heavyweight Jerry Myers tied their Bemidji opponents for the remaining Prowler team points.

Ricky Fulton put the Jocks in front 5-0 in the 95 pound match as he pinned the Prowlers' Lannie Olson with 30 seconds remaining in the match. Fulton was leading 6-0 at the time of the fall with a first period takedown and predicament and added two points in the second period on a predicament and a third period reversal to give the Lumberjack at 6-0 bulge.

Leo Murphy gained the Lumberjack's second pin of the night at 103 pounds as he stretched Lyle Swanson with 50 seconds remaining in the first period. Murphy gained a takedown for a 2-0 lead before the pin.

Experienced Bill Tibbets blanked Dean Bahl of the Prowlers 6-0 at 112 pounds on a first period takedown and a third period reversal and predicament.

Mark Stagg followed Tibbetts with another 6-0 win, this time over the Prowlers' Terry Tollefson at 120 pounds. Stagg gained a first period takedown and added a second period predicament before two single tallies in the third period.

Senior Mike Mohler got by Rick Nordhagen 4-2 in the 127 pound match to build the Lumberjack lead to 19-0. Mohler scored an a third period reversal for the winning points as the grapplers exchanged second period reversals.

The Prowlers' Bave Furuseth put the first two points on the scoreboard for the local club with his 3-3 draw at 133 pounds. Furuseth led 2-1 after the first period on a takedown with Jeff Traut escaping for a point. The two wrestlers exchanged the situation in the second period as Furuseth escaped for a 3-1 lead but Traut gained a takedown for the draw.

Muzzy scored three points in the second period on an escape and a takedown for his 3-1 win over Lindseth at 138 pounds as Lindseth scored on a third period escape.

Thorstad led 3-2 after the first period on an escape and takedown with Whelan scoring on a takedown. The Lumberjack scored on a third period escape, takedown and nearfall for the win after a scoreless second period.

1971 Winter Shows Program Arranged

An unusually strong contingent of more than 20 speakers will participate in the seminars, banquets, luncheons, youth activities and the crops and livestock shows at the 1971 Red River Valley winter shows. The dates for the winter shows are February 20-28.

King Agassiz X, Wallace Sparby, Thief River Falls, will reign over the 1971 winter shows. The King Agassiz candidates, one from each of the Red River Valley counties, will be honored on separate days prior to the coronation ceremony, according to Erman Ueland, chairman of the King Agassiz committee.

Rep. Robert Bergland, recently elected U.S. Representative from the 7th District, will be the guest of honor at the coronation ceremonies scheduled for 10:45 a.m., February 25, in the winter shows arena.

Dr. Evelyn Quesenberry, state leader in cooperative extension work, will address the Valley Farmer and Homemaker banquet, scheduled for 6 p.m., February 25, at the Trinity Lutheran church dining parlors in Crookston.

This year the crops show committee will feature an unusual arrangement of crop samples, and a special educational booth, which will be manned by agricultural extension specialist, headed by Marlin Johnson, crops and soils area agent for northwestern Minnesota.

Plans are firmed up for an exciting livestock show and sale of purebred animals. The livestock show, for the first time, brings in Charolais cattle.

Youth day is set for Saturday, February 20. Over a thousand youth will participate in the livestock futurity show, livestock judging contest, crops judging contests, demonstrations, public speaking contests and a 4-H clinic. One change this year involves the elimination of the youth banquet which previously had been held on Saturday evening. All of the awards and ribbons presented for youth day activities will be awarded at a special awards assembly in the winter shows arena, February 20, at 4:30 p.m., providing ample time for safe return home.

By popular request, the talent festival, with cash prizes, is again scheduled for the young people of northwestern Minnesota and coordinated by the faculty and the student hosts and hostesses of the Minnesota technical college, Crookston. The festival begins Sunday, February 21, with the auditions at 2 p.m. in Kiehle auditorium.

Seminars and Meetings

Monday, February 22: A seminar on sunflowers, including the latest on oil and non-oil industry, a women's seminar, featuring fashions, demonstrations, a style show and luncheon.

Tuesday, February 23: Legislator's day. The garden clubs of the Red River basin will gather for a top-notch program.

Wednesday, February 24: Crops and soils seminar will give attention to the trends in the barley industry, potential for soybeans, wheat quality and micronutrients in the Red River basin. The ladies gather for the Farm Bureau women's workshop at 10 a.m., in Kiehle auditorium.

Friday, February 26: Educators of the region will gather around the theme, "Technical Education—A New Approach". Parent-Teacher associations of the valley will gather in another seminar around the theme, "Marriage and Family Life in the Seventies".

An outstanding industrial show brings together about 120 farm-service industries to show their wares and demonstrate what's new and available to the agricultural industry.

A poultry and pet show will bring together the hobbyists. This segment of the show is of interest for the small-fry of any family.

In the afternoon on Friday, February 26, the Red River Valley winter horse show begins with a 7:30 performance show and the first round of girls international barrel race.

The public is cordially invited. Watch the news media in the next weeks for details. Plan to attend the show for visiting, learning and fun February 20 through 28.

Ambulance Colors Standardized In Safety Program

All ambulances purchased under the state's highway safety program through the Minnesota department of health since last September 18 must have special orange-and-white paint jobs, Minnesota Public Safety Commissioner W. R. Hoaglund advised today.

"This is a federal regulation and applies only to those vehicles purchased with the aid of federal highway safety funds," he pointed out.

"However, there is nothing to prevent city, county or private owners from painting their ambulances if they so desire."

The orange color specified by the federal government is an Omaha Orange, Dupont Deluxe No. 93082. The orange color must be applied to the top, hood, around the windows (not required if chrome trimmed), and from the bottom of the rocker panel to a line four inches above the bottom of the door. (On highway safety purchased vehicles, the orange stripe extends up to the chrome trim along the lower section of the doors.) The balance of the body and fenders will be painted white.

In addition, a cross at least 21 inches in total width and height with eight inch wide stripes, of red reflective tape must be placed on both rear side doors, on each rear door, and on the top.

Plumber Tests Offered In St. Paul In March

Minnesota State Board of Health has announced dates of examinations for state journeyman and master plumber licenses.

Applications should be obtained and completed, then returned to the Plumbing Unit, 717 Delaware street S.E., Minneapolis, Minn. 55440 not later than February 15, 1971, to qualify for the March examinations. To get application forms, telephane 378-1150, extension 328, or write to the plumbing unit office requesting forms.

The next plumbing examinations will be administered in September.

TRF Bank Debits On Yo-Yo Course At End Of 1970

December was down, but 1970 was up.

Basically, this is what the statistics concerning bank debits in Thief River Falls released by the Ninth Federal Reserve District bank in Minneapolis boil down to. While last December's debits showed a 20-percent decrease from the year before in volume, the year of 1970 ended with a 12-per-cent increase over 1969.

Bank Debits for the most part are checks against depositors' accounts and thus represent payment for goods, services, debts, etc. They also include all debits against checking accounts of individuals, partnerships and corporations, and of states and political subdivisions. They do not include debits to the accounts of other banks, the United States government and savings accounts.

Debits in December 1970 in Thief River Falls represented $23,688,000, down substantially from the $32,259,000 in debits recorded during the final month of 1969. The percentage of change column also holds a surprise, because November 1970 was 54 per cent above November the year before. Apparently the $34,499,000 in debits during November reflects on early Christmas shopping in the area, while the 20-per-cent decrease noted in December reflects on the decrease in the number of procrastinators who waited until December to complete their holiday buying.

The 12-month January-through-December total and the cumulative total for the year are the same, since the December report is the only one each year on which both cover the same period. Debits for the entire year of 1970 were up 12 per cent from the year before, reaching $278,139,000.

Thief River Falls was second only to Dilworth in percentage of increase from the year before. Dilworth reported a 22-per-cent jump in debits between 1969 and 1970, with last year's total at $10,137,000. Barnesville placed third in the yearly percentage increases, with a 10-per-cent climb to $23,899,000.

Only Moorhead, with $499,130,000, had a larger total dollar volume in debits in Region VI than did Thief River Falls during 1970. Crookston, with $181,232,000, was just below Thief River Falls, and East Grand Forks was forth with $102,681,000 in debits recorded.

Argyle, with a five-per-cent decrease; Ulen, with a two-per-cent decrease; and Warren, with a one-per-cent decrease, were the only reporting communities in Region VI which showed a negative percentage of change between 1969 and 1970.

For Minnesota the December volume of bank debits for reporting cities increased 1 per cent from December of last year. Debits for the twelve months through December 1970 increased 8 per cent from the previous 12 month period.

The volume of bank debits reported by the total sample of Ninth Federal Reserve District cities for December increased 1 per cent a year ago. The cumulative total for the twelve months through December 1970 indicated an 8 per cent increase from the previous 12 month period.

Interstate Road System Nearly Double Estimate

Inflation can creep up on the individual in price rises of a few pennies per item on the grocery shelf. Or it can come as a monstrous crunch for the entire nation, as in the cost of the interstate highway system. In 1956 the then 41,000-mile network of super roads was originally estimated to cost $41 billion. Now expanded with some extra connecting links to 42,500 miles, the project currently appears to have a more realistic price tag of $75 billion which is paid in full out of highway users' revenues.

That's three times what it cost the United States to go to the moon. Yet, in terms of total national benefit it will prove a worthwhile investment. The present costs of construction completed are just about up to the original $41 billion estimate for the total system, with only $30,000 miles so far completed.

Not only will the interstate cost much more, but it will take longer to build than first estimated. The original mid-1972 deadline for completion is long gone, with 1978 now looking more realistic. Some urban segments that have been stalled by disputes may take even longer than that to finish.

Design changes have been responsible for part of the cost escalation, as have added safety features, landscaping, and, of course, the additional mileage. But $34 billion is simply the higher cost of doing the same work over a span of 22 or more years. It will be additional money spent for no greater tangible return.

Most of this acceleration has come in just the last half-dozen years. Bids on highway jobs went up 11 per cent last year alone, according to Minnesota department of highways' statisticians.

The last two federal administrations, seeking to arrest inflation, have been holding back expenditure of federal highway trust funds, whereas some economists contend that highway spending is actually anti-inflationary.

The Mid-Western Governor's conference protested the 20 per cent cutback of the current $4.9 billion annual allotment for highways made during the summer of 1970. But even if such action provides temporary relief it can do little in the long run to reduce the ultimate cost of the system, or control inflation.

During the last three years cost estimate figures on prolonged construction projects, especially a highway building project, have had little durable validity. The interstate highway system, history's most ambitious road-building enterprise, has already proved to be a boon in safety, speed, convenience and economy to the American motorist. But when finally completed it will have been bought at a substantially inflated price that marks the economic trend of these times.

ICC Workers To Attend Course

Inter-County Community Council, Inc., headquartered in Oklee, has enrolled its outreach workers in a 12-day training session sponsored by the council and the Tri-Valley Opportunity Council, Crookston.

Mrs. Janyce Bakken, Mrs. Orissa Schultz, Mrs. Mary Lou Rindahl, Mrs. Phyllis Strom and Mrs. Gloria Grabill are to attend the course. Topics to be covered include social security, vocational rehabilitation, alcoholics referral, food stamps, manpower development act, Farmers Home administration, mental health centers, new careers, National Youth corps, the press, welfare, Medicare and Medicaid, and several others.

Residents Would Pay For Better Environment

Minnesotans are willing to pay for a better environment, according to a state-wide poll conducted by students of Blake school in Hopkins, with assistance from University of Minnesota graduate students and the staff of the Minnesota Poll.

Taken last spring and compiled recently, the poll indicated that a majority of persons are willing to pay more taxes to fight pollution and change waste into fertilizer; are willing to accept mandatory pollution-control devices on cars and to see some highway funds allocated for mass transit, and would support bans on no-return bottles and cans.

Besides showing support for anti-pollution measures, 91 per cent of Minnesotans find industry most responsible for pollution problems. Ranked after industry are private citizens, state government, local government and the federal government.

Those polled suggested that industry should use its resources to solve its own problems and find new ways to improve the environment. They felt that governments should establish laws and enforcement measures, and that private citizens should stop burning and littering and should take political action.

Sixty per cent said that if money were to be transferred from other areas of the federal budget to combat pollution, it should come from defense. Forty-one per cent said funds should come from Vietnam appropriations.

On another environmental issue, 33 per cent consider the population problem in the United States to be very serious and another 42 per cent say it is moderately serious.

Thirty-five per cent support abortion on demand, 43 per cent favor tax incentives for small families and the majority of the respondents favor mandatory sex education and free birth-control services.

The poll revealed a high desire for preservation and wise use of the natural environment. Two-thirds of those questioned disagreed that the first concern of national forests should be lumber production; 86 per cent said suburban areas should maintain large areas of open space; 93 per cent agreed that each generation should take care to preserve wilderness areas.

Though the general conclusions show that Minnesotans are concerned about depletion of resources and destruction of a balanced, natural environment, 71 per cent want chambers of commerce to continue to attract more industries and people to their communities, and many expressed faith in industry's ability to solve the problems it is blamed for.

Complete copies of the poll are available from Blake Biles of the university student activities bureau. Demographic data and responses for each person polled are on computer data cards available for persons who wish to use such information for further study.

Gregory Fowkes, now a Princeton freshman, was coordinator from Blake school. Biles was middleman for the university, along with Tom Griffin, Earth Day organizer.

Someone to thank

"God is a product of man's imagination," announced the dignified intellectual who occupied our TV screen. "God isn't dead," he argued as our children watched. "He was never alive!"

Mary and I felt that Christian children such as ours should realize that not everyone believes in God. Perhaps, knowing this, they could better understand the state of the world. We would encourage and answer their questions as best we could, confident that God would not allow their faith to be destroyed.

Later, before I tucked Kristen into bed, she clasped her hands and closed her eyes. "Dear Lord," she prayed, "Thank you for Mommy and Daddy. Thank you for Zoomie (her goldfish) and Toddy and my new dress . . ." She stopped suddenly, and I raised questioning eyes to her. "Daddy," she said anxiously, "that man on TV doesn't have anyone to thank!"

Do you have Someone to thank? Come to church this Sunday.

COUNTRY SIDE

with BONNIE FOLKEDAHL

I got to thinking about goose grease the other day. I can't remember that my mother used it but I know there were people who did. I believe it was mixed with a little camphor or maybe a little turpentine. Then when you got a cold it was rubbed on your chest. Seems to me a cold would leave just from the smell.

Then there were mustard plasters. One of those would raise blisters I think they were made by mixing dry mustard with flour and water. The resulting paste was smeared on a cloth and plopped on the chest, covered with a towel and left to simmer. Simmer they did, although at times it seemed boil was the proper word. I know that my chest stayed red for a long time after I was treated with a mustard plaster.

I usually had tonsillitis two or three times a winter. There were three tried and true remedies, all of them unpleasant. First you gargled every hour with a cup of hot water in which a teaspoon of salt was dissolved. Mother insisted that it did no good unless it was really hot. The trick was to dump it into your mouth without touching your lips and burning them. Then quick tilt your head back before your mouth got too hot and say "ah" while the water ran into your throat. It took a lot of practice to keep from choking or swallowing the hot salt water. Finally I got good enough to produce a really throaty gargle.

The second remedy was to rub the outside of the throat with the goose grease remedy or turpentine and lard. Later we used mentholatum or Vicks. Over the grease you wrapped a strip of wool; a wool sock was fine. If you had no wool a cotton flannel rag would do. The third remedy was only used after the other two had been tried and failed to help. Then it was off to the doctor so he could "paint your throat". We went to the doctor's office which was one front room of his house.

It wasn't gleaming white and stainless steel as we see now. I remember dark wood, a roll top desk, straight wooden chairs and a strip of rug on the floor. No calling for an appointment, we didn't have a phone anyway. We went and sat and waited our turn. When it came the doctor put the flat wooden stick on my tongue and peered in my throat while I said "Aaah" and "aaagh". The inevitable decision was throat painting. He took out a bottle of red stuff, Mercurochrome, I think, and used a cotton tipped stick swabbed out my throat while I gagged and carried on. I can still taste it, horrible stuff. Then home for more gargling and two weeks out of school. Lots of fruit juice and liquids. Grape juice and sore throat are twins in my memory.

I remember "spring tonic" too. When the snow was melting and long underwear began to itch and feel uncomfortably warm the older people began to talk about "spring tonic". It was supposed to do for your blood what an oil change does for the car. The tonics were of many varities but the one I remember my mother giving us one spring was sulphur and molasses. Plain powdered yellow sulphur, which smells—sulphurous fumes are a choking stink—was mixed with black strap molasses. The prescribed dose was at least a tablespoonful. I do not recommend it unless you go on the theory that bad tasting medicine is especially good for you.

There was codliver oil, too, with it's awful, oily, fish taste. I'll take today's shots, vitamin pills and miracle drugs even though I survived the old remedies with no noticeable effects. I even got to keep my tonsils.

Tough Decision

It is often hard to say "no" to a request to contribute to a charitable organization, for charities in general help a large number of people. It is doubly difficult to say "no" when the person seeking the contribution is a friend or neighbor.

Late last fall the community committed itself to a United Fund campaign—a coordinated effort in which it was hoped that persons in Thief River Falls could give once, for all. Charitable organizations were given an opportunity to participate and those accepted were included in the budget.

There were several organizations which chose not to participate in the United Fund. Principal among these are the American Heart association and the American Cancer society—both through their Minnesota divisions. They do not participate in United Fund campaigns but prefer to conduct their own fund drives. The reason is basic—they can collect more money that way.

Those who support the United Fund idea of unified giving believe that additional individual campaigns weaken the United Fund. We agree.

The United Fund had a highly successful drive here. Its board plans to contribute $2,000 to heart research and $2,000 to cancer research as the community's donation. First $1,000 of this $4,000 total was awarded to Dr. Paul Cashman of the University of Minnesota when he was in the city to speak to the Chamber of Commerce. Second $1,000 for heart research will be given to the Mayo Foundation in Rochester.

United Fund contributors can feel, we believe, that they are supporting heart and cancer research through their United Fund gift. We think they can have an entirely clear conscience when saying "no" to a Heart Fund volunteer.

If an individual wishes to contribute to heart and or cancer organizations beyond his or her United Fund gift, that contribution can not be criticized. We believe only that a United Fund giver need not feel obligated. That decision, whether to make an additional effort or not, can be a tough decision to make.

For our part, we like the United Fund approach. Organizations which wish to collect funds from Thief River Falls can be screened by the board of directors, and many can be reviewed through the Community Research council. If they are deemed worthy, they will be invited to participate, and their request will be included in the budget.

With every separate drive, local people are pressed into volunteer service. Some may enjoy it; most do not, but feel obligated. Unnecessary duplication of effort compounds itself throughout the year.

There is only one way to discourage individual drives, and that is to make them unprofitable. The only way to do that is to refuse to contribute to them and to refuse to serve as a canvasser for them.

The Heart association raised most of its money through United Funds prior to 1955, and collected about $20 million annually at that time. Last year the association grossed more than $[illegible] million. Roger T. Whitney, director of field services for the Minnesota Heart association, informed the secretary of the local United Fund board that the association has spent more than $160 million for heart research in 21 years of existence.

"We believe," he wrote, "and experience has proven this, that the independent campaign in the long run is raising more money for our programs in the area of prevention and control of heart disease. As an example, in the year 1969 we raised $2,384 (in Pennington county). In the 1970 campaign we raised $2,864. As you can see, the growth is apparent through independent giving."

Well, we believe in the United Fund and in having 100 per cent of the contribution from the fund to the university and Mayo foundation used for research. We're not going to feel guilty about saying "no" to the Heart fund drive.

We Shall See

United States Department of Agriculture has replaced the popular and important Agricultural-Conservation program (ACP) with the new Rural Environmental Assistance program (REAP).

The new program supposedly will permit resumption of federal cost-sharing on various beneficial conservation practices carried out by farmers. Stress will reportedly be placed on practices that have broad public benefits, such as pollution abatement, enduring soil and water conservation measures, tree planting, establishment of recreation and wildlife feed and cover areas and preservation of open space.

Minnesota's top officials of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service were in Salt Lake City, Utah, last week to get a first-hand briefing on the program. When they report back to the county ASC committees in the state, we shall see what the new program has to offer.

It would be our guess that many of the programs will be continued, and that the change in name of the program is primarily to create a more catchy title when the plan is abbreviated with initials. After all, it's easier to pronounce REAP than ACP, and what could sound more agricultural?

They could have called it Agricultural Conservation Experiment (ACE), but the current farm situation would probably result in that being known as ACE-in-the-hole.

They could have labeled the program Federal Agricultural Resource Management (FARM), but that seems to be a dirty word in the United States today. Besides, there is already some question about a FARM program.

They could have called it the Department's Rural Opportunities Program (DROP), but it isn't politically profitable to openly DROP anything which may corner a few votes.

So REAP it shall be, and we shall see whether or not farmers will be able to reap some benefit as they seek to preserve the nation's agricultural resources.

DFL Again Lost "F"

Following editorial is from the Murray County Herald at Slayton:

Regardless of who may have won the power struggle in the Minnesota State Senate, it again becomes clear that the letter "F" should be dropped from the DFL. Although the state legislature is supposedly non-partisan, no one who follows politics denies that the DFL members caucus as liberals and the Republicans as conservatives.

We would suggest, once again, that the Democratic-Farmer-Labor party in Minnesota drop the "F" and we would also suggest that the great debate in the senate last week would substantiate this suggestion. Leading the efforts of the DFL to gain senate control were Senators Nicholas Coleman, Jack Davies and Harold Kalina. Two from Minneapolis and the other from St. Paul.

Where were the "F" members of the DFL? Where were the rural representatives during these critical hours? Why did the DFL place all the responsibility of party leadership in the hands of metropolitan-oriented legislators?

The answer has to be as obvious as the paper on the wall. The DFL in Minnesota is dominated by the "L", not the "F". Labor dominates the liberal group, and the things that organized labor works toward are in no way related to the desires of the farmers of this state. And no matter under which political banner they may have run, it appears apparent now that rural lawmakers receive no consideration within the labor-dominated DFL.

The farmers of rural Minnesota have long since passed the point where they can afford to send legislators to St. Paul on the basis of party affiliation. We must elect lawmakers on the basis of what they can do for the area they represent, and it appears quite clear today that no organization completely dominated by the labor-metropolitan influence can accomplish this.

It is also interesting to note that the conservative group in the legislature is led by such men as Senators Stanley Holmquist of Grove City, Joe Josefson of Minneota, John Olson of Worthington—people who still believe that "hogs are beautiful."

Lack Of Courtesy

The following editorial appeared in a recent issue of the Grand Rapids Herald-Review:

What ever happened to old-fashioned good manners and common courtesy?

Those virtues are more difficult to find each day. It's popular in some circles to point at youth and its apparent lack of respect, but adults deserve much of the blame for the decline in every-day niceties. Their example has been a factor in the changing attitudes.

Lack of courtesy is visible everywhere. A pedestrian crossing a busy intersection with the "walk" signal has no assurance that an impatient motorist will honor his right of way. Nor can the driver feel confident that a pedestrian will not suddenly cross the street in front of his car midway in a block. Youngsters on bikes weave along both sides of the street and ignore traffic laws in much the fashion of adult drivers.

Adults who are discourteous to each other and to their children can expect nothing better in return. And the strange thing is that genuine politeness costs nothing. It takes no more effort than rudeness. And it pays so much better.

Legislative Letter

from ANDREW SKAAR
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Preservation of our environment is one of many issues facing us this legislative session. During my campaign I indicated that I would introduce legislation to establish a fund to assist local communities to construct waste disposal systems. In order to guarantee adequate hearings for this vital project I have introduced a bill authorizing municipalities to use state funds and qualify for federal funds for the construction of pollution prevention and abatement facilities.

The bill authorizes municipalities to enter into agreements with the pollution control agency and provides that the state may pay up to 25 per cent of the total cost of an "approved project". The pollution control agency could then qualify with the terms of the federal water pollution control act.

With a combination of federal and state funding, the local funding could be reduced to only 20 per cent of the total cost.

Many of the municipalities in our area are currently faced with a need for new or additional sewage facilities. These facilities could qualify as "approved projects". Without the state and federal participation, the local municipalities would have to fund the entire project out of property taxes.

News of Past Week from Plummer Area

Mrs. Walter C. Peterson, Plummer, 465-3418

School News

Saturday, January 23 the Plummer school band went to Thief River Falls where they participated in the Band Clinic that was held there.

Report Card day was Wednesday, January 20 when all the Plummer students received their report cards. They were handed out the last hour by the class advisors.

The 7th grade have been busy. They have switched from Music to Art and from Science to Home Ec for this semester. The 7th grade students will be going to Thief River Falls for a swimming party with the 8th grade students. Most of the 7th, 8th and 9th graders went to the Band Clinic. Half of our class got on the honor roll. We are going to have a class project to raise some money for our class, we will be selling all occasion cards and will be making a house to house canvas.

College Career Day January 22nd was the day that all the Plummer High School Seniors went to the college of their choice. Every senior tried to crystalize their thoughts into what career they plan to go into after graduation. After everyone chose their field, they then chose which college they wanted to tour. Many blank thoughts were fulfilled. Many questions were answered. We hope that after this Career Day that all the seniors of the Plummer school are on their way either to college or vocational school.

Strandquist high schools 1971 Betty Crocker homemaker of tomorrow is senior Patty Kleinwachter. Selected for her performance in a written knowledge and attitude examination administered to senior girls on Dec. 1, Patty will receive a specially designed award from General Mills, sponsor of the annual education program. Additionally, she is now eligible for state and national honors, including one of the 102 college scholarships totaling $110,000. The national first place winner in the 1971 Betty Crocker all-american homemaker of tomorrow will receive a $5,000 educational grant. She will be chosen this spring from 51 homemakers of tommorrow representing each state and the District of Columbia at the close of an expense-paid educational tour of Washington, D.C., and Colonial Williamsburg, Va. Each of the state winners will be accompanied on this tour by a school advisor. Second, third, and fourth place national winners will be awarded $4,000, $3,000 and $3,000 scholarships, the other state homemakers of tomorrow will receive $1,500 grants. State judging centers on scores of school winners in the December 1 test, with personal observation and interviews during the tour added factors in national selections. Second ranking homemakers of tomorrow in each state receive $500 educational grants. The school of every $1,500 scholarship winner receives a set of Encyclopedia Brittannica from Encyclopedia Brittannica, Inc. All judging and selection of winners is done by Science Research Associates, Chicago, which also constructed and graded the written examination. The Betty Crocker search for the American homemaker of tomorrow is the only national scholarship program exlusively for high school senior girls. Begun by General Mills in the 1954-55 school year to emphasize the importance of homemaking as a career, it will, with the 1971 grants, have awarded more than $1½ million in scholarships during its 17-year history. This years enrollment of 650,000 senior girls brings total participation since the start of the program to almost seven and three-quarters million.

New Booklet On Alcoholism Is Now Available

Alcoholism statistics are tragic. Each year the drinking disease takes thousands of lives, destroys thousands of family units and costs the American economy up to $76 billion in inefficiency, time lost from work and sheer waste.

The abuse of alcohol is one of the most misunderstood illnesses of our times. It directly affects from five to ten million Americans as a disease—while the lives of an additional 30 to 40 million people are adversely affected as friends or relatives of alcoholics.

As a part of a continuing public education program, Minnesota Blue Cross, Blue Shield, and MII has acquired a new booklet called "The Alcoholic American" for distribution to the public. The booklet, prepared by the National Association of Blue Shield Plans, discusses America's most serious health problem in simple language for the layman.

The booklet states that many people can be helped if they realize that as social drinkers they may be potential victims of the disease. No obvious line exists between casual drinking and alcohol dependency, or between alcohol dependency and alcoholism. One out of every eight drinkers becomes an alcoholic, says "The Alcoholic American."

The 20 suggestions included under the heading "Safe Drinking" are particularly interesting and helpful in this respect. The suggestions remind the most casual drinker that abusive drinking can lead to incurable diseases.

The 40-page booklet is illustrated with interesting photographs and covers all phases of the drinking problem. It reminds the social drinker that "caution is still the best thing to mix with liquor."

In addition to the booklets, Minnesota Blue Cross, Blue Shield and MII have a half-hour tape recording which is available to the public on a rental-free basis.

Write to Information Services Department, Minnesota Blue Cross, Blue Shield, and MII, 3535 Blue Cross Road, St. Paul, Minnesota 55111 for copies of "The Alcoholic American" and for information on how to obtain the tape.

Hill Passes On Suggestions To U.S. Servicemen

Pennington county Veteran Service officer Lewis Hill has made some recommendations concerning veterans' application for benefits.

Hill suggests that all servicemen from the area who are approaching discharge, or the parents of such servicemen, visit his office before the serviceman is released from active duty. This will allow sufficient time for counseling and possible application for an early release if the serviceman intends to attend school after his release.

Should the serviceman elect to attend school, this early visit also allows time for approval of application for GI Bill education benefits before the individual actually begins classes.

The veteran service officer also stresses that his office hours are all day Monday and Tuesday, and until noon Wednesday of each week, and that results will probably be more satisfactory if he is contacted during those hours rather than by telephone at night. Except in cases of emergency, such as illness or death of a veteran or dependent, no action can be taken until the following day, anyway.

Hill's office is located in the basement of the Pennington county courthouse.

Withholding Tax Less This Year, IRS Indicates

Most employees will have less income tax withheld from their pay this year, according to George Lethert, IRS district director.

Withholding will be reduced because the value of personal exemptions increased from $625 to $650, the standard deduction was raised from 10 to 13 per cent, with a maximum of $1,500, and there is no surcharge tax.

Single persons will find their tax is reduced under the new law, which limits their tax to not more than 20 per cent of the tax paid by married individuals with the same income.

For comparison, a single person, earning $100 weekly, will have $15.20 withheld this year instead of $16.40. When the earnings amount to $200 weekly, tax withheld will be $35.80 compared to $39 the previous year.

Generally, withholding comes close to the tax due for the year, Lethert indicated. However, there could be differences in some cases. One special problem affects the low income allowance for working couples. On a joint return, only one low income can be claimed, not two. Also, employees earning more than $11,500 who can claim the standard deduction will find the deductions are based on 13 per cent for all levels of income.

Those employees who find additional withholding is necessary should claim fewer exemptions or ask their employer to withhold a specific additional amount above the regular withholding.

Interest Rate Changes On GI Insurance Noted

Interest rate changes on two GI insurance programs were announced today by the Veterans administration.

Effective January 11, the interest rate paid by veterans on money borrowed on their government life insurance policies was changed to five per cent. The old rate of four per cent—in effect more than 24 years—will continue to apply to all loans made before January 11, according to John R. Murphy, director of the VA center at Fort Snelling.

Murphy said the interest VA pays on insurance dividends left to accumulate by veterans holding World War II type national service life insurance policies (with a "V" prefix) was increased from 4 to 4.25 per cent effective January 1.

Dividends left with VA for these NSLI policies totaled about $283 million at the end of 1970, exceeding by $10 million the amount left with VA at the end of 1969, he said. The higher interest rate paid by VA results from greater interest earnings in the NSLI trust fund.

Murphy said about 105,000 policy loans amounting to nearly $136 million were made to veterans in 1970.

'Frosted Enchantment' NSJC Sno – Fest Theme

"Frosted Enchantment" has been selected as the theme for the five-day Northland State Junior college snow festival beginning February 8.

Activities planned for the celebration include contests in snow sculpture, tournaments in volleyball, broomball, ping pong, whist, smear, hand wrestling and Indian wrestling, and a talent contest. Wherever competition is between teams, teams are to be composed of seven men and three women, so as to add to the co-ed "Mardi Gras" spirit of the week.

The event will begin Monday, February 8, with snow sculpturing on the Northland campus, and ping pong and whist in the student commons. The ping-pong tournament will start at 3 p.m., followed by the display of coed wizardry at 8 p.m.

Broomball fans will get to witness the Northland tournament Tuesday at 4 p.m. at Northrop school. Volleyball will begin at 6:30 p.m. at the armory.

On Wednesday, elections for the king and queen will be held, with voting from 9 a.m. until noon. A pep fest is slated for the student commons at 10 a.m., to fire up the basketball team for its meeting with Fergus Falls Junior college at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln High school gym. After the game, team wrestling matches are planned for the high school gym.

The coronation of the king and queen will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday, with music by Northland's band and chorus, a vocal solo by Terry Dunham and a performance by a chorus line. At 7:15, Northland's student commons will be the scene of the talent contest, with Sheldon Buck as master of ceremonies. Awards will be given the winners of the tournaments and the talent contest after all the talent numbers have been performed.

Work on the snow sculptures will end at noon Friday, with judging scheduled for 2 p.m. An all-college dance begins at 8:30 p.m., with "Podipto" providing music. Tickets for the dance are available to all college students and their guests. Cost will be $1 per couple, and Janet Cummings is ticket sales chairman.

Saturday, at 2 p.m., Northland's basketball team will face the Mesabi Junior college team from Virginia in a game at the Lincoln High school gym. Half-time entertainment includes presentation of the king and queen and attendants to the audience, and a performance by the band and dance chorus line.

407 Enrolled At Northland J.C.

Enrollment at Northland State Junior college, Thief River Falls, has reached 407 students.

This is the number of students who registered for classes during the winter quarter, according to college president Victor Charles. The enrollment includes full-time, part-time and evening students.

Analysis of the registrations reveals that there are 195 full-time and five part-time freshmen and 112 full time and four part-time sophomores. In the freshman class, 137 students are men and 63 are women, while 73 of the sophomores are men and 43 are women.

Of the 91 students enrolled in evening classes, 69 are women and 22 are men. Thirty students attend off-campus courses—accounting at Hallock and [illegible]. Allen Nichols, business instructor, and Barbara Hauger, English instructor, teach the off-campus courses.

Students at the school represent 63 Minnesota communities. Two foreign nationals are also among the enrollment, Brad Guadry from Canada and Nguyen Thuc Son from Vietnam.

Board Reviews Crowded School

Alternatives relating to crowded conditions at Franklin Junior high school this fall and proposed increased enrollments in coming years were discussed Wednesday evening at a meeting of the Thief River Falls board of education.

Approval was given by the board to a leave of absence without pay for John Kopari, returned Vietnam veteran who was formerly on the Lincoln high school faculty, and to the granting of a high school equivalency certificate to Francis Gibbs.

Supt. L. [illegible] Johnson advised the board that automatic radiator shutters were available as a factory installation on Chevrolet school buses, and that shutters had been ordered on the bus purchased by the board at a previous meeting. At the bid opening it was stated that shutters were not available.

One communication received by the board resulted in the setting of Monday, February 8, as the first meeting between the board and the negotiating council of the local school faculty. Since that date is the regular board meeting, and the board voted Wednesday to hold its next meeting at Franklin junior high school, that session will be held in

Class Of 1921 Plans Reunion

Fiftieth anniversary reunion of the Lincoln high school class of 1921 is being planned for the summer of this year. Members of the class, or persons who know the addresses of members of the class, are encouraged to contact the committee members.

Pertinent information should be directed to Clarence Knudsen, 603 Horace av. N., Thief River Falls; Huch McDaniel, 4328 Ewing av. S., Minneapolis; or Dreng Bjornaraa, 2926 West River road, Minneapolis. No definite dates have been set for the reunion at this time.

JAYCEES POSTPONED

Regular meeting of the Thief River Falls Jaycees this Tuesday has been postponed until Tuesday, February 9, according to Jerry Wendorff, president of the local chapter.

Openings Remain In Most Evening Adult Classes

All but one of the adult evening classes offered through the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school are operating following first meetings last week, but openings remain in all but one other class.

The only class which did not get started was the Tuesday evening class in upholstery taught by Mrs. Wettestead. Persons interested in that session were switched to Mrs. Wettestead's Monday evening class, however, filling that class so that there are no more vacancies.

The course for general license in ham radio operation, taught by Fred Voth, will meet Tuesday from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the electronics lab at Lincoln senior high school. First session of that class was held last Wednesday. Persons interested in the class are asked to contact the area vocational-technical school (681-5424) or attend the class session Tuesday.

Other classes will meet on schedule and will still accept members at the second sessions this week. Registration fee is generally $10 plus cost of materials in some classes. All meetings start at 7 p.m. and most classes will continue for 10 weeks.

Classes meeting tonight include knitting, taught by Mrs. James Solsten in the new vocational building; snowmobile maintenance, taught by Burton Cook at Burt's Fix-It Shop; introductory guitar, taught by Al Finney at the new vocational building with classes at 7, 8 and 9 p.m.; consumer fashions, taught by Miss Janet Shaw in the home economics department at Lincoln high school; and general educational development for high school equivalency diploma, taught by Mrs. John Tofte in the new vocational school (no fee).

Classes Tuesday include photography, taught by Neal Fox in the new vocational building; woodworking, taught by Mrs. Johnson in the Lincoln high school industrial arts shop; building custodian, taught by Louis Longtin in the new vocational building, English for [illegible] Gistad in the new vocational building; and secretarial procedures, taught by Mrs. Olive Goldesberry in the new vocational building.

Wednesday class is Creative crafts, taught by Lambert Brunkhorst in the Lincoln high school industrial arts shop.

Gonvick Co-op To Vote On Offer

Stockholders of Gonvick Cooperative creamery will meet February 10 to accept or reject a proposal to sell the association's assets to Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc.

Terms of the offer by Land O'Lakes are that the corporation will pay the Gonvick cooperative $35,330 for its fixed assets, $26,707 for equities in other cooperatives, [illegible] the creamery's 1971 taxes in addition to cash for the inventory at the creamery at the time of the transaction. Stockholders would also receive about $78,000 in Land O'Lakes equities which would be paid off on a 10-year basis.

The stockholders will also vote on a resolution electing Selmer Berg, Juane Johnson, Milton Hedin, Edwin Jordet and John Falset as trustees to liquidate the company's assets.

Gonvick creamery stockholders previously defeated a proposal to turn over the company's assets to Mid-America Dairy association.

Arctic Sales Rise Beyond $63 Million

Roger Tunberg

Frank Tunberg

Milton Relerson

Stanton Dahlen

Increased sales and earnings and progress in plans for acquisition of another subsidiary were all announced by Arctic Enterprises, Inc., last week.

Net sales of $37,068,819 for the third quarter ending Dec. 31, 1970, were reported by the Thief River Falls-based recreation products manufacturing firm. Similar sales during the same period one year before amounted to $21,259,027.

The quarter's net income was $2,892,049, compared to the $1,814,195 recorded by the company during the last three months of 1969. Earnings were $1.10 per common share, compared to 67 cents per share during the same period one year before.

Sales for the quarter brought the total for the nine months of the fiscal year to $63,378,868, up [illegible] reported during the same nine-months in 1969. Net income after taxes was $4,402,230, nearly double the earnings for the period one year before.

Common stock share earnings for the nine months were $1.71, 57 cents per share over the $1.14 reported for the same period last year, based on the average number of shares outstanding during each period. The 1970 fiscal year figure has been adjusted to reflect the two-for-one split on common stock held by stockholders of record Jan. 21, 1970.

Arctic's boat manufacturing subsidiary, Silverline, Inc., Moorhead, which was acquired in March of last year, contributed $3,350,980 to the company's net sales during the nine-month period, operating at the break-even level.

Concerning the quarter's sales, Lowell T. Swenson, president of Arctic, commented that "This was the best quarter in the history of the company, and the results were on target with our plans for fiscal 1971." He also noted that the production of the company's 1971 line of mini-bikes and the 1972 line of outdoor garments has already begun.

As to the acquisition, the boards of directors of Arctic Enterprises and General Leisure Products corporation, Omaha, Neb., have approved an agreement whereby Arctic will acquire the Nebraska corporation. General Leisure Products will operate as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Arctic, with Arctic's controller David Koentopf as president. Morris Levey, chairman of General Leisure, and Milton J. Lehr, present president of the firm, will remain active in the administration of the business.

Jan. 28, 1971, was the record date set by the board of directors of General Leisure Products to determine which stockholders are entitled to vote on the agreement. A special stockholders' meeting will be held Feb. 23, 1971, at Omaha.

Under the agreement, the controlling stockholders of Leisure Products will receive one share of Arctic Enterprises common stock for each 11.75 shares of the Omaha firm's common stock they own. Other stockholders will get one share of Arctic common stock for each 9.5 shares of General Leisure Products corporation stock they own.

During 1970 a total of 2,025 people transacted social security business in Thief River Falls, according to Ted Hoversten, field representative from the Grand Forks district office.

Claims numbering 407 were filed by retired persons and their dependents or their survivors. An additional 52 claims for disability were made. Other persons needed general information regarding social security or inquired about medicare. Some reported a change in their address or a change in their expected earnings.

These visitors came from all communities in Pennington and many Marshall county towns.

People on the Thief River Falls telephone exchange can now carry out most social security business by telephone. By dialing "0" and asking for Zenith 8450 they will be connected directly with the Grand Forks office. There is no toll charge for this service.

Sisters Consider Closing School At St. Bernard's

Question of whether or not St. Bernard's elementary school will continue to operate in Thief River Falls was presented to the congregation of St. Bernard's Catholic church Saturday evening and Sunday morning by Terry Courneya, chairman of the board of education at St. Bernard's and member of the Diocesan school board, and Bill Fahey, clerk of the local board.

The local board of education of St. Bernard's has been officially notified by the Sisters of St. Benedict at Crookston that consideration is being given to closing St. Bernard's school effective June 1 of this year.

"In view of both the acute shortage of sister-teacher personnel and the need to make the best possible use of parish resources, it may be the time to re-evaluate the expenditures for public education provided by St. Bernard's parish," the letter stated.

At present St. Bernard's school has an enrollment of 113 pupils in grades one through six and a staff consisting of four sisters and two lay teachers.

"In view of the quality of the education provided, the board of education has taken a preliminary position opposing the closing of St. Bernard's school," Courneya said. "However, the board will present the matter to the congregation for their consideration at the earliest possible date. These findings will be analyzed by the local board and a statement of its position will be presented to the Diocesan school board on February 20."

Members of the St. Bernard's board in addition to Courneya and Fahey are Richard LeMoine, vice chairman, Donald Kamrowski, treasurer, Patrick Klemisch, Mrs. William Hogan, Sister Eleanor (administrator) and Rev. Keough Patnode (superintendent).

CASTING FOR "Oklahoma," to be presented as Lincoln High school's 1971 musical, has nearly been completed, according to David Morken, director of vocal music at the school. Playing parts in the musical, which will be presented March 19, 20 and 22 are (standing, left to right) Shelley Worner (Ado Annie), Rob Swenson (Will), Valerie Hanson (Laurey), Brian Peterson (Curly), and (back, left to right) Lee Sorenson (Farmer Carnes), Cheri Ripley (Aunt Eller), Bruce Anderson (Ali Hakim) and Randy Carlson (Ike Skidmore).

Regional Library To Show Growth

More service for more money.

This is the gist of the information included in budget reports of the Northwest Regional Library. Operation of the library will cost about $10,500 more in 1971 than it did in 1970, according to the budget projected by library director Mary Croteau.

The regional library, centered in Thief River Falls, serves Pennington, Red Lake and Roseau counties. It was established in 1908 by an agreement between the Thief River Falls library board and the library division of the state department of education.

Facilities, in addition to the local library, include branch libraries at Greenbush, Roseau and Red Lake Falls, and a bookmobile, which circulates throughout the three-county area.

Expenditures last year amounted to $97,362. Of this, $26,892 went for books and library materials, and [illegible] was paid in wages and salaries to the director, bookmobile driver, bookmobile librarian, secretary, library assistants and branch librarians.

This year, the expenditures will climb to $107,800. Acquisition of new books and library materials will cost $37,600, while the projected salary and wage cost will increase to $56,829.

Money to operate the library comes from two sources, state and federal grants and appropriations from the counties it serves. During calendar 1970, state and federal grants amounting to $36,250 were received by the library, and $47,928 came from the county level. About $37,000 in federal grants was carried over into the current calendar year, however, due to the fact that the federal government's fiscal year runs from June 30 to July 1.

So, what did the taxpayers get for their money in 1970. Developments listed by Director Croteau include:

1. Signing a contract with Roseau county bringing complete service to that county through bookmobile stops and branches in Greenbush and Roseau. Both branches were moved to new and larger quarters in more accessible locations. The process of acquiring additional shelving, [illegible] most important of all, a wide range of books, periodicals, pamphlets, records and related materials continues into 1971 since neither branch has received its full complement of material.

2. Expanding the Red Lake Falls branch in size with the addition of more shelving and carpeting. [illegible] in evaluating the present branch collection and strengthening it in subject areas.

3. Adding more bookmobile stops and increased bookmobile circulation by 19,084 books for a total of 53,442.

4. Purchasing the beginnings of a quality framed art collection in order to loan the best of the visual arts for enjoyment in the home.

5. Adding "Mini-Masters", a children's art collection.

6. Began a publication program with an annotated new book list, a monthly newsletter [illegible] of special lists.

7. Beginning a regularly scheduled pre-school story hour on Wednesday mornings.

8. Adding 22 new periodical titles to the collection to expand the variety, and depth of new ideas available in this format.

9. Beginning the first of a series of books sales, sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

10. Purchasing a public photocopier that can be used for personal documents as well as for library materials under the present copyright provisions.

11. Installing browsing collections of paperbacks.

More routine activities of the library during 1970 included the circulating of 135,718 books, magazines, records and prints. Of this total, 57,465 were used in Thief River Falls and 78,253 were [illegible] and from the bookmobile. Also, 140 16-millimeter films were circulated, which were viewed by 59,716 people in the area.

New Laboratory Equipment Added To Test Residues

Installation of a sophisticated $8,000 piece of laboratory equipment has increased the ability of the Minnesota department of agriculture to protect consumers against pesticide residues and other contaminants in their foods and beverages, Acting Commissioner Roy D. Carlson has announced.

An additional gas chromatograph equipped with special detectors has been installed to identify and measure many of the new types of food residues and additives, including organo-phosphates, organo-chlorides, fillers, preservatives and trace elements.

Primary advantage of the new instrument is its sensitivity. It will detect levels in parts per billion as well as separate, for detection purposes, materials of the same chemical identity but varying in molecular weight and chemical structure. The new instrument also increases the variety of tests that can be performed.

The new gas chromatograph supplements other chromatographic, spectrophotometric and colorimetric equipment, and will expand the effectiveness of the laboratory analysis function of the department, according to R. E. Bergman, director of laboratory services.

Approximately 3,000 various kinds of food, beverage, livestock and poultry feed, leaves, branches, grains, soils and water samples have been analyzed by the gas chromatograph.

The agriculture department laboratory receives nearly 35,000 assorted samples annually for chemical, bacteriological and microscopic analysis. Most of these samples are obtained by department inspectors. As many as eight analyses, six bacteriological and two chemical, may be required on each sample. During the year, total analyses average three and one-half times the number of samples received.

"Physician assistants" will be hired for Veterans administration hospital and clinical work to allow doctors to make more efficient use of their time.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

rural Thief River Falls

How fortunate we are to live in an area where there is a definite change in the seasons. By the time we are tired of rhubarb desserts, the strawberries and raspberries are ripe. The 'something cold' summer meals would soon become very dull if we were to eat the same foods all year. With the wind howling and below zero readings, what would taste better than a hot oven meal, featuring meat loaf, scalloped corn, baked potatoes and bread pudding.

We are grateful to Mrs. Roger Lundstrom for providing us with her recipe for meat loaf.

Twin Meat Loaves

1½ pounds ground beef
½ pound ground pork
1 cup finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons finely chopped celery
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
4 slices soft bread, cubed
½ cup milk
2 eggs
½ cup dry bread crumbs
1 cup chili sauce (optional)

Method: Mix the meats together and stir in the next seven ingredients. In another container, soak bread in milk, add eggs and beat with rotary beater. Combine the meat and egg mixtures. Form into two loaves and roll in bread crumbs. Place in shallow baking dish and score with wooden spoon. (Cover each loaf with one-half cup chili sauce. Chili sauce may be added to the meat mixture, or it may be omitted entirely.) Pour ½ cup boiling water around loaves and bake for one hour at 350 degrees. Serves eight to 10 people.

The Lundstroms have three sons, Leon and Floyd, at home and Troy in the third grade. Mrs. Lundstrom stated that she had very little time for hobbies with three active boys. Mr. Lundstrom is employed by United Parcel Service. The family attends services at the Evangelical Free church.

MEA Officials Cite Values Of Teacher Tenure

Two leaders of the Minnesota Education association (MEA), the state's largest professional organization, state emphatically that they will fight any attempt by the Minnesota School Boards association (MSBA) to eliminate the teacher tenure laws of this state.

Robert F. Arnold, president of the teacher organization, and A. L. Gallop, its executive secretary, referred to the resolution passed by the MSBA at its recent state convention in St. Paul. The resolution calls for the state legislature to repeal the laws governing teacher tenure in Minnesota.

"The MSBA," says Arnold, "has taken a step that threatens the education of every child in our state."

Gallop, supporting Arnold, points out that the repeal of the tenure laws would be "devastating to the educational process in Minnesota".

They refer to the rationale used by school boards in asking for the elimination of the law—that it is too hard to fire teachers.

"If the law is protecting incompetent teachers," Arnold and Gallop say, "it is not because of the failure of the law. It is because school boards and school administrators have not met the requirements of the law.

"It is shocking to see that Minnesota school boards apparently wish for an easy way to fire teachers rather than following due process, a right of every citizen in this state.

"The MEA files are full," says Arnold "of examples of attempts to intimidate teachers. Without the law, teachers would be subjected to all kinds of political pressures and patronage harmful in the long run to the student.

"We have evidence of attempts to fire teachers for teaching sex education in the classroom when the curriculum guide, approved by the board, called for it.

"Attempts were made to dismiss a teacher for her failure to punch a few student lunch tickets.

"Many teachers have been harassed for political and religious views different from that of the community," Arnold added.

Gallop explains that the MSBA is asking for repeal of laws they helped to pass.

"These laws were designed to protect the pupils, not teachers," says Gallop. "They provide an orderly statutory means for discharging incompetent teachers."

Under the law, if charges are proven, a tenured teacher can be dismissed for a number of reasons, including incompetence, conduct unbecoming a teacher, inefficiency, insubordination and affliction with a communicable disease.

Gallop, who is also the MEA's chief lobbyist, expresses the belief that the legislature will not change a law simply because school authorities have not by accident or choice, fulfilled their designated responsibilities.

"No teacher," explains Arnold, "can effectively function in the classroom under constant threat of whims of school boards, administrators and special interest groups.

"Let it be known here and now," Arnold and Gallop conclude, "the MEA will in no way reduce its efforts to defend the workability of the present law and will fight to the fullest extent any attempt to deny our citizen-teachers due process."

Taxpayers May Benefit By Low Income Program

"Low income allowance" provided by the tax reform act of 1969, offers tax relief for low income persons. Simply stated, the minimum standard deduction has been increased to $1,100 for 1970.

That means a single person, entitled to one exemption, will owe no tax until income reaches $1,725. Taxpayers entitled to eight or more exemptions, can earn up to $5,100 without owing a tax. As income rises above these amounts, tax benefits are reduced.

If your 1970 income falls within these brackets, you can claim this tax relief by using the optional tax tables in filing your return.

Mixing Types Of Tires Can Be Very Dangerous

In preceding its "Have a Happy Holiday ... but Bring 'em Back Alive!" campaign, the Minnesota AAA today advised Minnesotans against mixing different tire types and designs on the same vehicle.

Such intermixing can easily lead to a drastic change in the handling characteristics of a car, according to the motoring organization. Unexpected hazards such as side slipping, fishtailing, wandering and even possible brake failure, may result from the mixing of belted, unbelted and radial tires on the same vehicle. It is especially dangerous to combine radial type tires with any other type.

With winter driving conditions calling for increased "driver safety" AAA offers the following "Tire Tips":

1. When you replace the tires on your car, follow the recommendation of the auto manufacturer in the owners manual or a reputable tire service store or dealer.
2. New tires should be mounted on the rear for better traction and handling.
3. Give your new tires a "break-in" period! Limit your car's speed to 60 miles per hour for the first 50 miles.
4. NEVER mix belted, unbelted, radial type tires, or the new "60 Series" with any other tire size or types . . . especially on the same axle! For the best handling and safest results, fit your car with four tires of the same type.
5. When purchasing snow tires for the rear axle of your vehicle, select tires of the same construction (belted, unbelted or radial type) as the tires on the front axle.

Vavoulis Named To HUD Office

Housing and Urban Development (HUD) secretary George Romney has appointed a former Thief River Falls resident to the position of administrator of the Chicago regional HUD office.

The former resident is George J. Vavoulis, who lived here during his boyhood. A former mayor of St. Paul, Vavoulis also served as commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Manpower services from 1967 through 1970.

The region to be administered by the Chicago HUD office includes Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio. Vavoulis will also have authority over the HUD Detroit office, and nine insurance offices of the Federal Housing Administration, one of which is located in Minneapolis.

The new administrator will maintain his home in St. Paul, commuting to Chicago.

Use the "air loss" method of spotting a potential tire failure. A tire that loses three or more pounds of pressure in a week or less, when the others remain the same, should be removed and inspected.

Medical Students At U of M Back Abortion Repeal

Repeal of Minnesota's abortion law is favored by a majority of medical students at the University of Minnesota, according to an informal survey released today by the University of Minnesota News service.

More than 460 medical students signed a "letter to the editor" which has been sent to daily newspapers in the state supporting Dr. Jane Hodgson, St. Paul obstetrician, who is appealing her abortion conviction to the state supreme court. Dr. Hodgson performed a therapeutic abortion for a woman who had rubella early in her pregnancy.

In the letter, the students also ask the 1971 legislature to give high priority to repealing the state's 97-year-old abortion law. The letter concludes, "Those of us training in the life sciences are well aware of the serious health hazards the present law imposes upon women.

"We think that Dr. Hodgson's conviction punctuates the fact that physicians in this state are prevented by law from practicing according to their best medical knowledge.

"We look to our courts and our legislature to vindicate Dr. Hodgson whom we hold in high esteem."

The letter was circulated once through freshman and sophomore classes. More than 160 of the 200 freshman present signed as did more than 120 of the 150 sophmores present.

Some 90 signatures were received from the junior class which meets as a body only once a week. Seniors were contacted by mail and 89 of the [illegible] students responding added their names to the letter.

The letter also will be sent to the various state medical journals; students intend to contact their individual legislators; and a symposium is planned dealing with the health-related aspects of the abortion issue.

A health sciences student poll committee has been formed to assess student attitudes toward various health-related issues. Attitudes toward abortion will be the subject of the first poll.

"Medical students are concerned about key health related issues," asserted medical student Robert Desnick, one of the authors of the letter.

"Because most of us plan to practice in Minnesota we want to let the people know our opinions on the issues which will have a direct effect on our practice.

"Therapeutic abortion," he continued, "is an issue that the majority of medical students regard as a medical question rather than a legal question. In the appropriate situation, doctors should not be restricted from giving complete health care."

Reminds Drivers To Stop While Buses Signal

With school buses back on the roads after the holidays, Minnesota Public Safety Commissioner W. R. Hoaglund reminded drivers that both state law and elementary considerations of safety require that when a school bus is loading or unloading passengers, no vehicles can pass.

"When the red lights on the bus are flashing and its stop arm is extended, this means that it is taking on or discharging passengers. All vehicles in the roadway must stop and wait until the flashing signals are stopped and the stop arm is retracted. Intention to stop for passengers is signaled by the flashing lights for 300 feet before stopping, this giving other drivers ample warning.

"Unfortunately, there are altogether too many drivers who ignore all signals and endanger the lives of children by driving right past the bus. This is proved by our own investigations and by the testimony of many bus drivers. One recently wrote, 'I am surprised at the many motorists who have no thought or concern for stopping or even slowing down when meeting or passing a bus with the red flashers on or the stop sign out.'

"Some bus drivers have begun to take down the license numbers of such motorists and report them to the police or sheriff's department. Courts and enforcement officials tend to take strong action against violators of this law," Hoaglund noted.

Army Nurse Corps Observes 70th Anniversary

"U.S. Army nurse corps celebrates its 70th anniversary on February 2," according to an announcement by the Army Nurse corps representative for this area, Captain Florence V. Huard.

It is the oldest military nurse corps in the United States and the first women's component of the U.S. Armed Forces. An all-officer corps, its mission is to give the best possible nursing care to the American soldier and his family.

When hostilities broke out in Korea in July of 1950, 57 Army nurses were the first U.S. women to enter the country. Despite the hardships, more than 5,400 Army nurses served in Korea, earning many times over the distinctive dubbing "Front Line Soldiers".

Again in Vietnam, Army nurses have answered the call to care for America's combat soldiers. Since 1962, some 5,500 have given "unparalleled nursing care to our forces in that country." Army nurses also serve as ambassadors of goodwill to the Vietnamese people by tending their sick in village after village.

Members of the Army nurse corps are called upon to be many things to many people during both peace and war. There is an ever-increasing need for qualified young men and women to replace or augment those who have served their country so faithfully during previous conflicts.

For more information, young men and women of the area are encouraged to stop in and see army recruiting Sergeant Ronald Anderson at 109 East 2nd street in Thief River Falls, or call him (collect) at 681-1154.

Outbreak Of Hog Cholera Delays State's Program

An outbreak of hog cholera on December 14 in Mower county has set back Minnesota's eligibility for a "hog cholera free" status in the cooperative state-federal hog cholera eradication program.

Minnesota is presently in phase four of the four-phase program. Action in the four phases includes preparation, reduction of incidence, elimination of outbreaks and protection against reinfection.

The recent outbreak means that Minnesota will have to wait until December 14 of this year to be eligible for a "hog cholera free" status assuming that there are no further outbreaks during this time, according to Dr. Roy Solac, extension veterinarian at the University of Minnesota.

Maintain health management practices set up during the eradication campaign, Dr. Solac advised pork producers. Cholera should be suspected first in sick or dead pigs and suspected cases should be reported early so an official head count can be made to insure adequate indemnity payments. Since there are nonfatal strains of hog cholera, it is important to check with a veterinarian immediately on all herd health problems, he added.

Cholera control will depend on good management and continued cooperation between swine producers and veterinarians, Solac said.

Board Reviews Problem With School Crowding

the Franklin library.

Another communication was received from the board of Jobs Incorporated of Thief River Falls, noting that the annual meeting of that organization is to be held on Tuesday, February 23. The meeting will be open to the public with representatives of the city, county and school district asked to present their positions in regard to taxes, and the expenditure of funds for the coming year. The board made no decision as to who is to represent the school district at the meeting.

Meeting at Knox elementary school, the board inspected the building, particularly in regard to possible need for installation of an additional fire escape. It was decided to ask the opinion of the state fire marshal before taking action on the question.

Resolutions were approved for participation by the local school district in several federal programs which provide funds for local school programs, primarily in library and science materials and equipment.

Neil Tovema, Franklin junior high school principal, answered questions about the situation at that school this fall. He said that enrollment of 000 students is expected in the junior high school—about 100 more than this year when conditions are already crowded. Possibility of renting space from nearby churches was aired but no decision reached.

It was also suggested that a return to traditional scheduling in grades seven and eight would help the space situation, but that staff has been hired on the basis of modular scheduling over the past several years. No action was taken pending further information from the study being conducted by the bureau of field services of the University of Minnesota.

Bomb Disposal Services Are Now Available

Expert bomb disposal services are now available to deal with any incident involving explosives or suspected explosives and incendiary devices anywhere in the state, Minnesota Public Safety Commissioner W. R. Hoaglund announced today.

"This service is available to every community in the state, on an around-the-clock basis.

"It is provided by the criminal apprehension bureau and can be summoned by any law-enforcement agency, fire department or state agency."

The criminal apprehension bureau has been developing this squad of specialists in bomb and explosives disposal during the past two months, Hoaglund said. During the same period, briefing sessions have been held by the bureau for law enforcement agencies, civil defense officials and others having responsibility for handling bomb threats and scares.

Hardware Man Returns From Annual Meeting

Owner of the local Coast to Coast store and his wife have just returned from the organization's 41st annual storeowners' convention.

Don Olson and his wife were among the 2,300 owners and employees of stores in 23 states in the west and mid-west who attended the meetings at the Leamington hotel, Minneapolis. The program included a complete presentation of the spring and summer merchandise lines. Key personnel from the organization's home office and factory representatives emphasized new products, product knowledge and customer service.

Highway Safety Effort Begins To Show Results

National highway safety effort has begun to show results, and Minnesota's part in that effort continues in the forefront, Minnesota commissioner of public safety W. R. Hoaglund pointed out today.

"Last year in the United States, there were 1100 fewer highway deaths than in 1969," he said. "This is a 1.9 per cent improvement over 1969. In Minnesota, our improvement over 1969 was better than two per cent. But Minnesota's record last year followed a substantial reduction in highway fatalities in 1969, when the national toll rose by 1,200. From 1968 to 1970 there was a nine per cent reduction in Minnesota traffic fatalities, while nationally there was a slight increase.

"In terms of fatalities per unit of travel, Minnesota's record compared with the national average is equally impressive. The fatality rate in our state dropped from 5.31 to 4.75 per 100 million miles of travel in 1969, and to an estimated 4.31 in 1970. Nationally it dropped from 5.4 to 5.3 in 1969 and to an estimated 5.0 in 1970. Thus Minnesota's rate is about 15 per cent below the national average.

Included in the national average are several eastern states which are almost entirely urban and therefore have very low fatality rates. Minnesota's urban fatality rate compares very favorably with those states and is bettered by only three or four.

"The national safety effort centers on studying the driver, the vehicle and the highway. In Minnesota we are doing the same. The national effort surely is helping us as a state, but we are proud of the evidence that in terms of results, Minnesota is in the lead."

He cited improved highway design, especially on the interstate system, a wide variety of efforts in driver training, improved traffic law enforcement, and safety inspection as key points in the state program. Many other improvements are incorporated in proposals to the legislature.

Capitol Security Program Begins

Members of the legislature were "shot" last week for new identification cards to be provided for all state officials and selected state employees, according to Minnesota department of public safety commissioner W. R. Hoaglund. The new identification cards is part of the first stage of a capitol security program.

A permanent register by serial number will be maintained for all cards issued, and they will be required of all persons entering the capitol before 7 a.m. and after 3:30 p.m. and on non-work days.

The cards will also be required to enter all other buildings in the capitol complex, including the state health building on the university campus. All will be color-coded according to department and status of the holder. Legislators and elected officials will have gold colored cards.

The issuance of cards is the first step in a tighter security program for the capitol complex in accordance with the mandate of the 1969 legislature. The new capitol security division of the department of public safety has 15 highway patrol officers stationed in the capitol during the session and five more on roving patrol.

In addition, there are 31 capitol security guards assigned to the eight buildings covered by the security force. These guards are receiving special training and have been outfitted with new uniforms—blue trousers, cap and tie, white shirt, badge and nameplate.

Slow down and live.

Hospital Staff Members Attend Seminar On Care

Two staff members of the convalescent and nursing care unit of Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls attended a seminar on quality care for nursing homes Tuesday and Wednesday in Minneapolis. The session at Mayo memorial auditorium on the University of Minnesota campus was sponsored by the Minnesota and National Nursing Home associations.

Attending the seminar were Mrs. Alice Wold, R.N., supervisor of the convalescent and nursing care unit, and Mrs. Karen Bjerken, L.P.N., an employee at the unit since it opened.

"The Nursing Home Which Speaks to the Care of the Total Patient" was the title of the keynote address given by Dr. Frederick Elliott, director of Mt. Sinai hospital in Chicago, Ill. Other speakers stressed psychological and social needs of nursing home patients and administrative planning to meet those needs.

Mrs. Wold noted that Thief River Falls offers several levels of nursing home care, and that the local hospital has recently added a staff social worker to work with problems encountered by patients.

Bank Raid Ended One Lawless Era In Minnesota

On March 21, 1916, Cole Younger died. His passing marked the end of the wide-scale banditry which marked the days now referred to as the "Old West."

Younger, along with his brothers Jim and Bob, had been part of the legendary attempt to rob the Northfield bank on Sept. 7, 1876. They had teamed up with Jesse and Frank James to execute the raid which was foiled spectacularly by the citizens of Northfield.

The ill-fated venture is considered one of the last attempts of its kind in the annals of western lawlessness, the other being a similarly foiled raid on the bank in Coffeyville, Kansas.

All three of the Younger brothers escaped that day, precipitating a manhunt unequalled before or since in Minnesota. Law officers and deputized citizens spread throughout southern Minnesota on the fugitives' trail and their numbers eventually reached more than a thousand.

The Youngers, along with the killer Charlie Pitts, were finally cornered in a wooded area of the Watonwan river near Madelia. Six volunteers, including Sheriff James Glispin of Watonwan county, had to shoot it out with the gang and an account by the Northfield News described it as follows:

"The two forces were not more than thirty feet apart; the fight was sharp and brief. Bradford and Severson (two of the lawmen) were grazed by bullets, while Captain Bradford was struck in the side; the ball glanced on a briar root pipe in his pocket and lodged in his pistol belt. The robbers suffered severely. Bob Younger was wounded in the chest; his brother James had five wounds; Cole had eleven, and Pitts was killed, having been hit five times. On being called to surrender, Bob Younger responded, "I surrender, they are all down on me."

All three were sentenced to life in the state penitentiary and Bob died there in 1889. The others were paroled in 1901 and Cole was pardoned in 1903. James later committed suicide in St. Paul and Cole joined a wild west show with his old partner, Frank James.

Those infamous days are ended, but wild west buffs can still see the re-enactment of the bank raid battle during "Jesse James Day" which is held every August in Northfield.

Lakehead Plans Improvements On Pipeline In 1971

After some changes in operation during 1970, Lakehead Pipeline company, Inc., wholly-owned subsidiary of Interprovincial Pipe Line Company, plans to upgrade its operation in this area during 1971, also.

Work to be completed locally on the pipeline during 1971 consists of installation of two 5,000 horsepower electric pumping units at Plummer and Donaldson. Other work to be done during the year includes installation of 91 miles of 20-inch loop line and construction of storage tanks to hold 1,744,000 barrels of oil in addition to installing numerous pumping units.

The major change on the pipeline in this area last year was the moving of a pumping unit to Viking from Vanderbilt, Mich. Pumping stations in Minnesota are now located at Donaldson, Viking, Plummer, Clearbrook and Deer River, on the section of the pipeline which runs to Superior, Wis. Total pumping power on the line is 485,055 horsepower.

An estimated 19,021,639 barrels of oil are required to fill the 5,156 miles of pipeline, which runs from Edmonton-Redwater, Alberta, to Port Credit, Ontario, with a branch line to Buffalo, N.Y. Average deliveries for the first 11 months of 1970 stood at 890,298 barrels of crude oil per day.

Permits Needed For Explosives After Feb. 12th

Any person engaging in the business of manufacturing, importing or dealing in explosives after February 12 will be required to be licensed by the IRS, according to George Lethert, district director.

Licenses will be handled by the alcohol, tobacco and firearms division of the IRS, under the explosives control section of the organized crime control act of 1970.

The fees are: Manufacturer, $50; dealer, $20, and manufacturer (limited and nonrenewable), $5. The limited permit is for manufacturers of explosive materials for his own use only, not for sale or distribution.

John F. Kirby, ATF chief special investigator, indicated that forms for applying for a permit are available at his office, Room 195, Federal Office Building and U.S. Court House, St. Paul, or the IRS District Director. Form 4705 is to be filed in duplicate, accompanied by the appropriate fee and should be mailed to the IRS Service Center, Kansas City, Missouri 64170.

Kirby indicated that persons who intend to acquire explosives from a licensee or transport explosives in interstate commerce must be licensed also. A federal permit costs $20, or a nonrenewable permit costing $2 can be obtained that must be turned in at the time of purchase. Form 4707 is available for these permits, and should be filed in the IRS service center.

Problem Drivers Get Help From Safety Division

In addition to licensing drivers, the driver license division actually devotes major effort to helping Minnesota drivers keep their licenses, according to W. R. Hoaglund, Minnesota public safety commissioner.

Eight driver evaluators in the division are engaged constantly in evaluating the records and interviewing drivers who have been involved in accidents and violations, or who have otherwise come to their attention.

In the year just ended, these evaluators conducted more than 15,000 interviews with such drivers and held 4,479 hearings on appeals of drivers from previous actions taken against them.

Drivers are called for interviews when they have had violations which could lead to automatic revocation of their licenses, when they have had other violations and accidents indicating possibly hazardous driving habits, and when they have otherwise been brought to the attention of the evaluators—sometimes by concerned relatives.

The purpose of the interview is first, to try to identify the source of the driver's difficulty, whether it is a physical condition, an emotional problem, or some other identifiable cause; and second, to reach agreement on remedial steps to be taken. Sometimes a medical report on the driver is called for, and in a few cases written or road tests are ordered.

In the majority of cases, the problem is resolved with no action being taken or with action deferred. In about three per cent of the cases, limitations are placed upon the drivers' licenses. Only three per cent of the interviews result in suspension of licenses, and this occurs only after failure of the driver to agree to remedial action. Last year, 1,072 drivers failed to appear for interviews and lost their licenses.

"The suspended license is the final resort," Hoaglund explained. "When a case reaches this stage, we feel we have lost the driver in the sense of helping him become a safe, reliable driver."

Even so, there is another recourse open to a suspended driver. Evaluators last year conducted 4,284 hearings for drivers appealing the suspension orders, and reinstated the licences of 458. Another 2,132 were permitted to drive on limited licenses. The license limitation is usually a restriction as to hours when the driver can use his car, or the purposes for which he can drive.

The majority of the interviews are conducted in the central office, in the Minnesota highway building. Last year these numbered 9,500 and 5,600 were conducted in the field.

"It could probably be shown by facts and figures that there is no distinctively native American criminal class except Congress." —Mark Twain

Wow!

Gov. Wendell Anderson presented a two-year budget of just under $3 billion to the Minnesota legislature last week and called it austere, saying it was trimmed sharply from the wish-lists submitted by state agencies. Spending for the previous two-year period was just over $2 billion.

We suppose the governor should be given some credit for being somewhat honest in his approach, but that's about as much appreciation as we can muster.

He is right when he says, "Any legislator, governor, editorial writer, civic group or lobbyist who demands more money for any state service without showing the same concern and support for passing a tax bill to pay for it is a hypocrite, and should be exposed for what he is."

He and his aides are wrong when they call a $966 million increase—trimmed or not—austere.

The new governor isn't bashful in asking taxpayers to dig deeper in support of state programs. He asked for a nine cents per pack increase in the cigarette tax—now at 13 cents per pack. He asked for an increase of the liquor tax to $4.51 per gallon from $3.62. Both would be the highest in the nation, if approved.

Governor Anderson asks for an increase in the state income tax for persons making over $10,000 a year, higher taxes for banks and corporations and an end to the use of federal taxes as a deductible item on state income taxes. Business would lose most of the tax relief gained in the 1967 sales tax law.

Biggest change for business firms would be elimination of the inventory or tools choice offered in the 1967 sales tax law. Under present law, business firms can exempt either from the personal property tax.

The governor proposed that the state should pay 64 per cent of state maintenance tax for schools next year and 70 per cent the following year. The present rate is 43 per cent.

"When we fail to raise non-property taxes on the state level, we know real estate taxes must and do go up," the governor was quoted as saying. "If we want to reduce the tax burdens on our homes and on our real estate, then we must raise non-property taxes and return the money to local units of government."

The theory sounds good but it never seems to work out that way. Never is the state government satisfied to simply collect local money and return it. It must pro-rate and allocate and approve and study and take applications and demand matching funds before it gives back the portion of the money it hasn't used itself in the process.

Distasteful as it may be to part with hard-earned dollars for property taxes, at least they are spent 100 per cent within the county, city, township and school district. You get what you pay for and can better determine what you need. It doesn't work that way when the state is a middle-man, and it is even worse when the federal government plays the intermediate role.

Many wage-earners may favor the new governor's emphasis on a heavier tax load for business. Some of those who lost their jobs because of the economic condition of business in the metropolitan area may not agree. When business doesn't make money, business doesn't hire people. Zero taxation doesn't help the man who has zero income.

The sales tax law stimulated industrial location and expansion in Minnesota like nothing else has. To do away with much of the business incentives under the law is to strangle the goose which lays the golden eggs.

We expect a boost in state spending, but THREE BILLION DOLLARS ....

WOW!

To Err Is Human . . .

The following editorial is from the East Grand Forks Record:

In the process of covering the many local athletic events of the school year, we have come to highly respect and admire the courage displayed by the young people who participate in these games. And it has not been just the varsity teams that have caught our attention, but the pompon girls and the cheerleaders and the bands as well. Whether it is the star center on the basketball team or the little sophomore sitting in the last seat of the third clarinet section in the school band, they all seem to be extremely willing to make a mistake in front of a crowd.

And that, to us, is courage.

Not that it takes so much nerve to stand before a lot of people. But when one is willing to act on his abilities and capacities before such a crowd, and therefore take the chance of making a mistake, it becomes an admirable thing in our eyes.

Certainly the mistakes these young people make are sometimes funny and sometimes costly. They may cause a team to lose a game, turn a pompon routine into a Chinese fire drill, or cause the school cheer to end in dead silence. But we have yet to see that mistake prohibit any of them from going out the next time, hoping to get it right.

And maybe there is a lesson here for all of us. These young people are learning and maturing, and they are doing so largely because they are willing to make mistakes and learn from them. But this process doesn't end when one reaches the magic age of twenty-one. If maturity is perfection, then we adults are the same age as our sons and daughters.

In short, if we do not learn from our mistakes, then there is no point in making them. But of course we do. "To err is to be human," someone famous once said. And we might add: To know it is to be wise.

Why Change?

Board of directors of the Minnesota Jaycees has approved a resolution calling for four changes in the structure of the Minnesota legislature. Suggested are a reduction in size of the legislature, adoption of annual sessions, increase in salaries and expansion of the legislative research staff.

Surprising as it may be to the state Jaycee organization, there are quite a few people who do not agree entirely with the proposed changes. Let's take a look at them one by one.

"So many members is a handicap to the proper handling of legislative business," writes state Jaycee president Lowell D. Thompson. He notes that our Senate is the largest in the nation and the House is almost twice as large as the most populous state of California.

The Jaycee organization itself knows the value of area representation and participation. With a large number of legislators, the problems can be studied more thoroughly by more people. It has been said that the most efficient committee consists of three members with two sick in bed. It would be hard to improve on the governmental efficiency of a dictatorship—but who wants to live under one?

"One hundred and twenty days every other year is not sufficient to reasonably conduct the state's business and the result is that many important measures are rushed through the legislature or not enacted at all," Thompson writes.

The legislature always considers matters of importance. Legislation passed in seeming whirlwind fashion at the end of a session has been studied in committees for some time. It is true that too much time is sometimes spent on matters of high interest but little actual importance, but a longer or more frequent session would only increase this sort of activity.

"The present salary level only permits a legislator to be a part-time official. We need legislators who can afford to be full-time legislators," the state Jaycee president notes.

Legislators receive $400 per month for a two-year term, only one of which is spent in session. During the interim, however, they meet on interim committees to do their homework for the next session. Not pressured by a law-making session, they are able to study, evaluate and become familiar with problems. They also can keep in close contact with the people they represent, and are available for complaint, consultation or conversation.

Contrast this with a "professional lawmaker" who is further removed from the electorate by time, distance and salary, and think who you would rather have represent you. A good legislator can be a full-time legislator without being a full-salaried one. There doesn't seem to be any shortage of people who want the jobs each election year. In our book, listening to the electorate is more than half the job of legislating. Then its simply a matter of giving the people what they say they want.

"The complexity of state business requires extensive research and legislators do not have nearly enough help to do the job," Thompson says.

State business can become very complex, and a certain amount of research is helpful. Too frequently, however, a convenient way to avoid making a decision is to ask for a study. Volume after volume of research material is presented to the legislators each session—much of it privately financed. Most of it is never read by all the legislators; much of it is never read by any of them. What value would more researchers and more reports have?

When Minnesota gets bad legislation, it isn't because of bad information. Usually it is because the people who write the laws do not fully grasp the legislative intent or are unable to express that intent in legal language.

With all due respect to the state Jaycee board and its interest, we fail to see where any of the proposed changes would mean better government for Minnesota. And if there is no likelihood of improvement, why change?

REAP In Minnesota Starts Immediately

Development of the 1971 rural environmental assistance program (REAP) in Minnesota will get underway immediately, according to officials of the state agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service. They have just returned from Salt Lake City, Utah, where they met with Washington officials to learn details of this conservation cost-sharing program of the U.S. department of agriculture.

Attending the Salt Lake City meeting from Minnesota were state ASC committeemen Alvin B. Payne, chairman, Eltoo R. Redalen and Merlyn Valan. Attending from the state ASCS office were Sam Peterson of Elk River, Harold Walz of St. Paul and Clifford Johnson of Ottertail.

Minnesota's share of the $150 million national REAP appropriation is $4.5 million. At the meeting, the state delegation was told that it is essential that they develop a "REAP investment plan that will serve as the basis for using the program's limited funds to help solve the urgent conservation and pollution problems in your state." The speaker was Ray Hunter, director of the ASCS conservation and land use programs division.

In outlining the goals of REAP, Hunter said they would be to improve the quality of life for all people by preventing or abating environmental pollution, providing the maximum public benefit, and conserving the land and related natural resources so as to assure their "continuing ability to produce the food and fiber necessary for the maintenance of a strong, healthy people and economy, and to provide for wildlife, open space, landscape beauty, and outdoor recreational opportunities."

Earlier this month, Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin said REAP "will be used to help preserve our environment, demonstrate good environmental enhancement practices and return more public benefits at less public cost."

State ASC committee chairman Alvin Payne said the rural environmental assistance program "offers a way through which farmers can join in community-wide efforts in conservation and environmental protection."

Costs will be shared with farmers in projects to prevent or abate agriculture-related pollution of water, land and air for community benefits. Other projects will help reduce the loss of agricultural soil, water, woodland or wildlife resources and will help assure efficient multipurpose use in providing an adequate supply of food, fiber, forest products, water, wildlife, open space and outdoor recreational opportunities.

Farmer-elected county ASC committees will administer REAP, operating under a locally-developed program. Payne explained that the state development group will first establish the state-wide REAP guidelines and provisions. County development groups will then set up their programs within the state provisions including practices they determine as needed from their 1970 program. At both state and county levels the development groups will consult with environmental and civic leaders.

REAP, formerly known as the agricultural conservation program (ACP), provides for federal cost sharing of beneficial conservation practices with farmers, but has been restructured to place greater emphasis on those agricultural practices which will contribute the most to environmental improvement.

A major consideration in authorizing cost-sharing, participants in the Salt Lake City meeting were told, will be the resulting public benefits of the conservation practices installed by farmers.

Dates for REAP signup will be announced soon after the development meetings by the state and county ASC Committees.

Food Stamp Plan Questioned By UM Economist

Would cash grants to poor people improve their diets at considerably less cost to the taxpayer per dollar of benefit to needy families than the food stamp program?

W. Keith Bryant, University of Minnesota agricultural economist, said, "This is the question that increasingly will be asked and increasingly will direct political discussion and action on food programs in the seventies."

Congress recently continued the food stamp program which attempts to improve poor people's diets by selling them stamps which they can redeem for food at licensed grocery stores.

As of June 1970, 59 of Minnesota's 87 counties offered stamps to needy families and 20 others offered the commodity distribution program where specific amounts of food are distributed to the poor each month. Fillmore, Martin, Olmsted, Watanwan, Wilkin and Winona counties did not offer needy family food programs as of mid-1970, but they were designated for the food stamp program when federal funds become available, Bryant reported.

In two counties, separate parts of each county offered one but not both programs, so these two counties were listed as having both programs.

It appears that the commodity distribution program will gradually be replaced by the food stamp program, he said.

The food stamp program provides poor families with food at greatly lowered prices, but some families cannot participate in the program because they don't have cash to buy the stamps, he added.

Other costs to the poor in the food stamp program include time and transportation to become certified to participate, buying stamps at specific times and places each month and dealing in less convenient food stores if more convenient ones are not licensed to redeem stamps.

"All these costs appear to be a larger burden on rural than urban families," the university economist said.

Also, the costs of participating in the food stamp program are too high for the poor, mainly the aged, who live in single rooms and eat in restaurants. They have no use for food stamps since they have no cooking facilities, Bryant said.

Participation in the food stamp program has risen in the past year since the benefits have increased substantially and the program has been extended to more counties. But until the past year the program has not been operated to enable recipients to obtain nutritionally adequate diets, he added.

"Only since December of 1969 has the food stamp program required recipients to purchase sufficient stamps to buy minimum nutritionally adequate diets. But it also must be admitted that its original objective was only to improve the diets of recipients, not to ensure the adequacy of their diets," Bryant said.

Many government programs directly support individual incomes through cash grants, commonly known as income maintenance. Such a program has been suggested by President Nixon under the family assistance plan.

According to an article in the March 22, 1970, issue of the New York Times Magazine, a federal official said the administration wants to phase out the "food-stamp, funny-money and commodity programs" and adapt the proposed cash assistance program.

A profusion of natural material sets the scheme in this family-room-home office to create an atmosphere of restful warmth. Seal Coating Of Bituminous Roads Aired By Dep't.

The question is frequently raised, "Why does the Minnesota department of highways seal coat a bituminous paved surface?" The purpose of the seal coat is similar to the roof on a house or half-soling a pair of shoes, according to assistant commissioner of maintenance, J. A. Murchie.

Bituminous surfaces often crack and ravel—they oxidize and become permeable to water. The purpose of the seal coat is to seal the surface against air and moisture intrusion, rejuvenate the dry oxidized surfaces, bond raveling aggregate in place, stop further deterioration and add to the non-skid properties of the surface.

It improves luminosity, skid resistance and also provides a wearing surface. The sealing of our bituminous highways is usually done some years after the initial construction and is repeated as needed every five to ten years. Sealing should be done early before raveling and oxidation become severe.

Minnesota department of highways uses two types of seal coat. One is what is called a "chip seal coat" using crushed gravel or rock about ¾ inch in diameter or smaller. These chips are spread over a layer of hot liquid bituminous material. The other type of seal coat used primarily in urban and high density traffic areas is a "hot plant-mix seal." This material is a mineral aggregate that is dried and heated and then mixed with an asphalt cement and placed on the road ¾ inch in maximum thickness by a paver machine.

The cost comparison of the two methods shows chip seal costs about 13 cents a square yard and the plant-mix seal about 53 cents a square yard. Plant-mix seal costs approximately four times as much as chip seal so justification for plant-mix seal is limited to urban streets and high traffic density arterials.

Higher Minimum Wage For Some Workers Begins

Minnesota employers in certain retail and service businesses and institutions were reminded today of the change in the minimum wage provisions of the fair labor standards act which became effective February 1.

On this date, employees brought under the protection of the law on Feb. 1, 1967, by the 1966 amendments to the act, became entitled to a minimum wage of not less than $1.60 an hour.

The $1.60 rate will apply to most workers in the retail trades; in public and private schools, colleges and universities, in hospitals and nursing homes, whether public, private or non-profit; in restaurants, hotels and motels; and in laundries and dry cleaning firms. The present minimum rate for these employees is $1.45 an hour.

Announcement of the increased rate was made by Donald H. Haack, acting regional director of the U.S. department of labor's wage and hour division.

The wage and hour division administers the fair labor standards act and other federal wage and hour laws requiring payment of a minimum wage and premium pay for overtime hours. The fair labor standards act also requires equal pay for equal work for both sexes and contains restrictions on child labor.

Haack advised that the minimum wage for employees whose work was covered by the fair labor standards act before the 1966 amendments—employees in interstate commerce and in the production of goods for commerce and in certain large retail and service enterprises—will remain at the $1.60 an hour rate which went into effect on Feb. 1, 1968.

Furthermore, Haack noted that there will be no increase in the present $1.30 an hour minimum wage rate for the covered agricultural workers on the large farms subject to the law.

He concluded that there is no provision in the law at the present time providing for a higher minimum wage rate in future years for any group of employees now protected by the law.

Additional information, posters and explanatory booklets about the fair labor standards act and related laws can be obtained by contacting Wage and Hour Division Office in Room 117, Federal Building, 110 S. Fourth St., Minneapolis, Minn. 55401, Donald M. Essig, Area Director.

Road Fatalities In State Lowest For Five Years

Minnesota Commissioner of Highways N. T. Waldor announced today that, "The fatalities for 1970 were the lowest number we have had since 1965 despite the fact that more automobiles are on the highways and more miles are being driven."

The fatality rate, which in 1968 was 5.3 deaths per one hundred million miles driven, with a total of 1,060 fatalities, dropped in 1969 to a rate of 4.7 deaths with 988 fatalities. The fatality rate for 1970 with a total of 963 to date, will be 4.28, a 17 per cent reduction from the year 1968, based on comparable vehicle miles driven.

During early 1967, after the passage of the highway safety act of 1966, Minnesota initiated highway safety projects which embraced eight of the 16 standard program areas. Part of this program concentrated on the vehicle operator, with the establishment and expansion of driver improvement clinics to which convicted violators are referred by the courts.

During the past two years blood-alcohol determinations have been made on driver traffic fatalities. The importance of the drinking-driver problem is well illustrated by the findings, which show 54 per cent of the fatally injured drivers had been drinking and 43 per cent had been drinking to the extent that their blood-alcohol concentrations were 0.10 per cent or more.

Minnesota, since the middle of 1966, has expanded safety improvement programs concentrating heavily on intersection type improvements; such as, turn lanes, channelization, signals, grade separations, truck climbing lanes, guard rail improvements and the surfacing of shoulders on heavily traveled routes. The elimination of many miles of lip curb on old portland cement concrete roadways has been accomplished.

While the Minnesota highway department is greatly encouraged by the sharp drop in fatality rate, Commissioner Waldor stressed that continued improvement in highway safety can most certainly be assured by incorporating the latest design standards to those segments of the trunk highway system not now embracing these features.

In response to a request for information relating to Minnesota's highway safety projects, to be used at the traffic safety hearings of the senate public works committee, Waldor cited the fact that 49 per cent of the 12,200 mile state highway system was graded before World War II. Another 11.4 per cent was graded in the late 1940's and 16.3 per cent was graded prior to the start of the interstate system.

In presenting this data, Waldor pointed out that the projects in the safety improvement program, beneficial as they are, can only be considered interim solutions and, as such, do not decrease the 1969 estimate of the cost of needed reconstruction or replacement of existing highway facilities, which amounts to 2.7 billion to be expended during the next fifteen years estimated at inflated prices expected at time of construction.

Honors Program At BSC Open To Qualified Grads

Bemidji state college honors council is now seeking qualified honors program candidates for the 1971-72 academic year, according to Dr. Thomas Boates, chairman.

The honors program was inaugurated at Bemidji state in the fall, 1969. 95 freshmen and sophomores are now participating.

Students who are accepted are exempt from general education courses and participate in honors courses especially designed to meet the needs of the superior students.

Honors courses are kept small to allow for individual expression and to enable the student to explore more thoroughly concepts from various fields. Those who successfully complete the program are given recognition upon graduation.

The program is open to promising high school seniors and to BSC freshmen and sophomores. It is recommended that high school students in the top 10 per cent of their class or who have scored well on various college entrance exams consider application. College students must have a grade point average of 3.25 or above.

Students planning to enroll in the honors program should do the following: (1) apply to Bemidji state college for admission; (2) send a letter stating an interest in the program and two letters of recommendation to Dr. Thomas Boates, Honors Council Chairman, BSC. (One recommendation for high school students should be from their principal, while college students should obtain recommendations from faculty.)

Jesse James is pictured as he appeared in "The Life, Times and Treacherous Death of Jesse James" long suppressed biography of the notorious outlaw reissued in commemoration of his 123rd birthday, by Swallow Press of Chicago.

While lolling about this Labor Day weekend, toast the birthday of one of the nation's first outlaw heroes. Jesse James September 5th is his 123rd birthday.

The bullet of a "dirty little coward" may have laid Jesse in his grave 88 years ago at age 34, but it is unlikely that the James legend or controversy will ever die.

In honor of the 123rd anniversary of Jesse's birth, Swallow Press, Chicago, reissued a long-suppressed book, "The Life, Times and Treacherous Death of Jesse James" by Frank Triplett, first published only seven weeks after James' death.

It is the only biography formally authorized by the James family through a group of affidavits attesting to its accuracy.

DRUGS
There's an Organized Conspiracy . . .
against our children, our families, our community . . . a conspiracy that profits only the criminal elements . . . that threatens all of us. This conspiracy begins with a deliberate, diabolical drive to make our children drug addicts. It can end in deepest tragedy . . . for them, for us.
What Can YOU Do about It?
When we talk about drugs, we talk about the erosion of everything we hold dear. In the parlance of the young, just talking won't get it any more. It's time for personal and also concerted community action . . . to wipe out the criminal conspiracy before it is too late.
Participate in Community Efforts . . . to understand and control drug problems. Work with your schools and your local law enforcement agencies. Inform yourself . . . inform your children. Knowledge is our weapon . . . knowledge of the facts and fallacies about drugs can help. Will the criminal elements profit . . . or will we win? In the conspiracy against our children, the answer is up to us.

Fergus Falls defeated Thief River Falls 58-37 in an unofficial swim meet over the weekend in the Franklin junior high school pool.

The local swim club was able to enter both high school and junior high swimmers but were outmatched by the experienced Otter team.

Coach of the Thief River swim team, Evan Armstrong, cited seventh grader Dave Borning for an outstanding performance in the 50 yard free style event as he finished third. "Once more our seven high school [illegible] out a tremendous amount of effort and courage as the boys doubled up in events to try and make a swim meet out of it," said Armstrong.

Members of the Thief River Falls high school swim team are Don Fern, Pat Travnick, Gorden Prichard, Knute Thorsgard, Mark Matusalem, Irving Swanson and Kim Murphy.

Junior high school swimmers include Brian Phelps, Dan Cork, Dan Hieran, Ron Hadein, Jeff Elland, Dave Borning, Jay DuCamp, Keith Poissant and Stewart Homes.

Thief River Falls took first place in the 200 yard medley relay event with a squad composed of Pat Travnick, Gorden Prichard, Knute Thorsgard and Don Feen.

Don Feen finished third in the 200 yard free style event with a time of 2:20.3 and he also captured first in the 100 yard free style with a time of 1:00.3.

Pat Travnick finished second in the 200 yard individual medley event with a 2:48 clocking and Travnick also took a first in the 100 yard back stroke with a 1:12.2 time.

Gorden Prichard finished third in the diving competition and he captured a first place finish in the 100 yard breast stroke with a 1:20.2 clocking.

Thief River Falls received another first place finish when Knute Thorsgard captured the 100 yard free style event with a 1:00.5 time while Mark Matusalem finished second in the 400 yard free style with a 5:32 clocking.

Thief River Falls will host two meets in the Franklin pool during February when they take on Grand Forks Red River on Friday, February 18, and will tackle Fergus Falls again on February 20.

Minority Abuse Areas Of Trails For Snowmobiles

Thousands of Norway pine tree seedlings have been damaged or destroyed by snowmobilers in the General Andrews state forest near Willow River, the Minnesota department of natural resources reported this week.

The trees were located in plantations in the vicinity of snowmobile trails, according to the department's division of lands and forestry.

Foresters report that complaints of trespassing on private lands, damage to farm crops and tree farms and littering are being received at ranger stations and area headquarters in several parts of the state.

It is estimated that at least one half of all the snowmobile trail signs posted on state forests have been destroyed or damaged so far this winter.

William Aultfather, director of lands and forestry, said, "It is unfortunate that a minority of snowmobilers are abusing the sport—and—creating an atmosphere of public opinion which may lead to more severe restrictions on all snowmobile owners."

Minn. Ass'n. Of Snowmobilers Is Incorporated

Minnesota Association of Snowmobilers (M.A.S.), a nonprofit corporation aimed at improving the image of snowmobilers and upgrading the mushrooming sport, has become a reality, it was announced today.

With an initial membership of more than 7,000, the group plans an immediate campaign to "see that the irresponsible snowmobilers, less than five per cent of the total, don't spoil everything for the vast majority," said M.A.S. President Lyle Haseltine of White Bear Lake.

"Our organization is a monument to collective effort and dedication," Haseltine said. "Hundreds of people from all walks of life recognized the desperate need for self-restraint, communication and unity in the sport of snowmobiling and simply did something about it."

The association includes five regions: Northeast, Northwest, Southeast, Southwest and Metro. Both organized clubs and individual members may belong. Total representation of all snowmobilers in the state of Minnesota, is the aim of the association.

The M.A.S. goal is simple: Safe, responsible snowmobiling. This responsibility includes individual conduct, responsibility to community, state and our ecology.

M.A.S. was first considered, collectively, at the Minnesota Snowmobile Congress, held at Grand Rapids on Dec. 17, 1970. The International Snowmobile association was host to representatives from various groups and agencies all of which have helped to organize M.A.S. They include: The North American Snowmobile federation; American Snowmobile association, United States Snowmobile association; Minnesota department of conservation (now renamed the department of natural resources); Minnesota Department of Economic development; United States Forest service; State Law enforcement; International Snowmobile Industry association; and the North Central Marine association.

After the association was incorporated, Haseltine, 1880 Fourth Street, White Bear Lake, was elected president. Don Phillips, 3041 Westedge Blvd., Mound, was named vice president. Molly Lewis, 10844 Hayes Drive, Burnsville, secretary; and Bob Clough, Box 196, Barnum, treasurer.

The board of directors includes, besides the officers: Robert Brademann, 15269 Humboldt Avenue South, Burnsville; Harland Nygard, Box 672, Biwabik; Wayne H. Larson, 8200 38th Avenue North, New Hope; Willis Johnson, 15 Aiken Circle, Silver Bay; Robert D. Shoop, Rt. 1, Rosemount; Donald Lewis, 10844 Hayes Drive, Burnsville; Ralph Newman, Box 125, Rt. 2 Embarrass; and Raymond Milbridge, Tower.

"This is the first time snowmobilers in Minnesota have been organized on a state-wide basis for betterment of the greatest winter sport of all time," Haseltine added.

The association will announce its regular meeting dates within a short time. The next board of directors' meeting will be at Hinckley on January 31.

The club office is at White Bear Lake. The phone number is (612) 426-4580 and the mailing address is: Minnesota Association of Snowmobilers, Box 8649, White Bear Lake, Minnesota 55110.

TIM SHEEHY, regarded as the best American-born college hockey player in the United States last season while at Boston college, will be in Thief River Falls Sunday, February 21, when the U.S Nationals will take on the Warroad Lakers in the city arena. The 6-1, 190 pound center graduated from International Falls high school where he led his team to three straight state championships. Ticket prices for the contest are $2 for adults and $1 for children under 14. Mail order tickets can be purchased by writing Box K, Thief River Falls, Minnesota. All seats are reserved.

CURT JENSON, 6-3 freshman center from Erskine, goes up for this rebound attempt during Itasca's 77-68 junior college basketball win in the Lincoln high school gym. Charlie Sherman (34) and Sam Gebhart (20) of the Vikings look on during the action. Next game for the Northmen will be Friday night when they will host Brainerd in the Lincoln gym beginning at 7:30.

State Eligible For $500,000 In Wildlife Funds

Minnesota is eligible for over $500,000 in Federal funds under a program designed to help restore fish and wildlife populations, according to 7th District Congressman Bob Bergland. The aids, announced this week by the department of the interior, are to be used for acquiring land and water areas, improving game habitats, developing sport facilities and supporting research in wildlife management.

Bergland expressed the hope that research projects "to find the source and halt the shocking accumulation of mercury in some Minnesota game fish" could be partly financed by the program. He also noted that the funds "could be valuable in improving the browse for our dwindling whitetail deer population."

In order to receive funds, Congressman Bergland said that the state must initiate programs authorized by the program and request reimbursement from the interior department. It is possible for the reimbursements to equal up to 75 per cent of the total cost of the project.

Bergland noted that Minnesota's share of the $13 million alloted to finance the program is the second highest in the nation (Alaska and California are each eligible for up to $650,000.) The division of funds is based on a formula using the state's geographical size and the number of fishing and hunting licenses sold in the state. The program is financed by an 11 per cent excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition.

Survey Indicates Moose Shifting Toward The West

According to an article appearing in the North Star News of Karlstad, the moose population of northern Minnesota is drifting slightly westward. A release from the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources stated the number of moose is still increasing in the western part of their range, but decreasing in the Beltrami Island State Forest and in the east.

The department recently completed a flight survey over Eastern Kittson and Marshall counties, Roseau County and parts of Lake of the Woods and Beltrami Counties. Personnel making the flight included John Parker, pilot—from Warroad, Larry Beenhoft, Ernest Dow and George Davis, all game managers.

The group, as they have done in past years, flew at about 600 feet and at between 90 and 100 miles per hour as they counted moose on each side of the plane. Their surveillance from the plane included a quarter of mile stretch on each side of the plane as they made a pass over the area. Fifteen square miles out of selected townships was censused. Transects or strips were flown on the mile line and the half mile line. A total of 26 fifteen square mile plots were flown.

In this area a total of 322 moose were observed for an over-all average of 0.83 moose per square mile. This total is down slightly from that flown in the 1968-69 survey, but this year more low density plots were flown in the eastern part of the census area.

The average count in Kittson, Marshall and western Roseau counties indicated that there were 1.2 moose per square mile in that area with Kittson county's average number of moose per square mile reaching to 1.5. The highest number of moose seen on any one plot was also in Kittson county where 47 moose were observed on one 15-square mile plot for an average of better than 3 moose per square mile.

Shetlers Place High In Ski Competition

Dave and Tom Shetler of route 5, Thief River Falls finished first and third in the Mens Senior Alpine Skiing Championships held at Grant's Ridge at Biwabik, Minnesota, Saturday and Sunday, January 23 and 24.

Dave, 19, finished in the first position in the class C competition while brother Tom, 23, finished third in the same class.

The brothers, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shetler, rural Thief River Falls, [illegible] about eleven years now, spending most of their time at Timberlane in Red Lake Falls.

The Shetlers usually enter four or five meets a year, staying in their own region which consists of Minnesota and the Dakotas. Biwabik was the second competitive meet the boys have entered this season with the other competition coming at Red Wing, Minnesota, January 9 and 10. Next scheduled Alpine event is slated February 6 and 7, at Quadna Mountain in Hill City, Minnesota.

40 to 50 individuals will enter each meet and sometimes there are female skiing enthusiasts among the participants. Tom reported there were ten girls entered at Red Wing but unfortunately there were none last week at Biwabik.

Both Shetler boys are classified as senior class C racers but are close to advancing to a higher class B division in their next meet. An individual must write to the U.S. Ski Association for a competitors card for his classification before he can take part in Alpine competition. A skier can move into a higher class ranking according to how well he performed in his last outing. A senior has to be 18 years 9 months old on December 31 of the current season and a high school graduate or complete junior eligibility.

Dave, who is a member of the 1969 graduating class of Lincoln high school would have advanced into the Class B competition in his next meet because of his first place performance at Biwabik, but he will have to wait a while before he takes part in a class B meet since he entered the military service Wednesday, January 27.

Tom is a 1965 graduate of Lincoln high school and a 1970 graduate of the University of Colorado. While at Colorado he participated on the campus racing club, an organization for people who liked to ski for enjoyment while competing in meets throughout the state.

The older Shetler has hopes of reaching the A classification by the end of the current year. After reaching an A rating, Tom has his sights set on a Lead A class for international racers.

Use Freezer To Take Advantage Of Pork Prices

If your market has a special on pork loins, you may want to buy a whole loin or two, have it cut into roasts and chops and freeze the meat.

Remember, though, that pork has a shorter freezer storage life than most meats, cautions Richard Epley, extension meats specialist at the University of Minnesota.

It's a good idea to ask your meat man to wrap the chops and roasts for you in a good freezer wrap so it will be ready to store in your home freezer or locker. If you wrap it yourself, use the best quality freezer wrap available—heavy duty foil, a saran-type film or cellophane laminate—and store at zero degrees or lower to preserve the flavor.

Nixon Praises U.S. Farm Productivity

President Nixon recently praised American farmers for providing this country's people the best food in the world at a lower percentage of family income than is provided for any other country in the world. For this, he said, the nation owes American agriculture a very great debt.

He cited the fact that the area of the American economy that has had the greatest growth in productivity is American agriculture, and said this has now been adequately reflected in agricultural income.

This report on the President singling out American agriculture for high praise was noted by Alvin Payne, chairman of the Minnesota Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee.

Payne said, "I believe not only farmers but others as well will be particularly interested in these comments by the President. We who help administer farm programs for the U.S. department of agriculture have often reminded urban people that Americans are the best fed people in the world at the lowest real cost because of the efficiency of American agriculture. It is heartening to have the President state this and other facts about agriculture."

In his remarks, President Nixon referred to the new commission on productivity, with a membership of top leaders representing American industry, labor, the academic community and agriculture, saying that "a very significant point was made, not only in the first meeting, but in the second and third. On every occasion, it was this: That that area of the American economy has had the greatest growth in productivity, and that has the highest productivity per man hour, any way you want to rate it, is American agriculture."

Upon hearing this fact, the President said he checked further and found that "we are the best fed people, but at the lowest cost, the lowest percentage of our income, of any country in the world. And for that, we are most grateful."

This fact, he said, "means that the nation owes American agriculture a very great debt, which perhaps has not been adequately reflected in agricultural income."

Nixon continued, "I am not happy about the fact that agricultural income has not been at the rates that it should have been over the past few years. I think the farmer deserves a fair share of the nation's increasing wealth and its increasing productivity, due to the fact that American agriculture is so productive."

At the same time, Nixon said, "we have problems of hunger in this country, and there are problems of hunger in all countries, rich and poor, around the world.

"But the problems of hunger in this country are, in terms of magnitude, nothing compared to what the problems are in countries that simply do not have the enormous productivity that we have.

"And so, as we look around the world and as we think of the future of the world and what is going to happen, we realize how much American agriculture can contribute."

The President said he referred not only to export markets but to "the knowledge that we are able to share with other people which may make a difference in these next 10, 15, 25 years, a difference as to whether millions of people all over the world will grow up without enough to eat at all, or whether they may have a better chance than they would otherwise have to survive."

In the course of his remarks President Nixon had high praise for Secretary and Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin, saying that "when I appointed him, I wanted a man who would speak for the farmers and for American agriculture to the White House rather than the other way around. He has done that. Beneath that very pleasant and disarming exterior of his is a very strong and persuasive and determined mind. And in these matters that come before us and the high decisions that have to be made at the White House with the legislative leaders, in the Cabinet, on the budget and other matters, I can assure you that agriculture has a very strong advocate."

(President Nixon's remarks were made at the USDA corn blight conference, held December 17 in Beltsville, Maryland.)

Toss A Light And Lively Coleslaw

There must be a thousand and one ways to make coleslaw, but one of the easiest in the world is made by merely mixing finely shredded cabbage with salad dressing. Perfect for this simple coleslaw is Spin Blend salad dressing now available in this area. It is made with a light and lively blend of flavors different from other salad dressings and is so flavorful that less seasonings are needed in making salads or sandwiches. The dressing is made by a formula that offers 33% less oil than any other leading brand. Look for it in 1-pint or 1-quart sizes. It comes in wide mouth sloping jars designed not only for good looks but for easy removal of every bit of flavorful dressing. Use it to make a simple coleslaw or try the recipe here for Caraway Coleslaw or Hot Zesty Cabbage. Serve it, too, just as it comes from the bottle with Perfection Salad.

Caraway Coleslaw

½ cup Spin Blend salad dressing
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon chopped onion
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon caraway seeds
3 cups finely shredded cabbage

Mix together salad dressing, sugar, chopped onion, salt and caraway seeds, toss with cabbage. Chill. Makes 2 cups.

Hot Zesty Cabbage

6 cups shredded cabbage
¼ cup Spin Blend salad dressing

Cook cabbage in boiling, salted water just until tender, about 8 minutes. Drain. Toss with salad dressing until evenly coated. Serve hot. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Climax Stops Prowlers; TRF Hosts Ada Tonight

Snow and high winds caused havoc with the sports schedule of Lincoln high school over the weekend as just one of four games was played and basketball coach Whitey Olson probably wishes that one contest had been cancelled like the others.

The Prowler quint traveled to Climax Saturday night and came home with a 76-68 loss at the hands of the Vikings.

Trailing just 22-20 at the end of the first quarter, the Prowlers scored just six points in the first 7:18 of the second quarter of action and finished the period with eleven points as Climax built up a 13-point lead and led 44-31 at the half.

The Prowlers shot just 34 per cent from the field for the game as they hit on 24 of 71 shots while Climax shot at a 49 per cent clip, hitting 27 of 56 from the field. From the free throw line the Vikings connected on 22 of 28 attempts for 78 per cent while the Prowlers shot just 48 per cent from the free throw lane with 20 and 41.

The Prowlers led in the first part of the game until Les Palm put in a rebound lay up with 41 seconds remaining in the first quarter for a 20-18 Climax lead.

A lay up by Rande Smith and two free throws by Mike Hamerlinck put the Prowlers in front by five, 8-3 with 0:32 remaining in the first period for their biggest lead but Climax came back and forced the Prowlers into turnovers in the back court with their press. Dropping into a 1-2-2 zone in the fore-court, Climax kept the ball away from Dale Hanson and Rande Smith as they tied the game 11-11 with 3:49 remaining in the opening quarter.

The Prowlers took command on free throws by Kent Smith and Dale Hanson and a long jump shot by Hamerlinck to lead by five, 16-11 with 2:25 remaining but baskets by Jamie Tronnes and Gary Hanson brought the Vikings to within 16-14 and they tied the contest once again on Hanson's short jumper after a Prowler turnover with 1:08 remaining.

The Prowlers knotted the score at 20-20 on Mark Thyren's lay-up after Palm's score but Hanson hit on two free throws with four seconds remaining in the period for the Vikings to put his club on top 22-20 at the break.

Rande Smith put in a rebound shot underneath for the Prowlers [illegible] before Climax took the lead for keeps on Tronnes' fast break lay-up with 7:31 remaining in the half.

Kent Smith brought the Prowlers to within four points, 29-25 with 5:42 remaining on a free throw but the Vikings closed off the Prowler scoring after Rande Smith made one of two free throw opportunities with 4:33 [illegible] almost four minutes without scoring a point before Pat Hamilton connected on a free throw attempt with 37 seconds remaining with Climax in front 44-26.

A lay-up by Hamilton and a jump shot from the corner by Rande Smith had the Prowlers going into the intermission trailing 44-31.

The Prowlers continued their cold shooting hand in the second half as the Vikings maintained their comfortable margin, leading by 18 points, 59-41 with 4:27 remaining. Tronnes picked up 13 points for the Vikings in the third quarter as he finished with 26.

The Prowlers trailed 66-54 going into the final quarter and managed to trim the Viking lead to eight points on Rande Smith's lay-up with 1:52 remaining, but they couldn't quite get over the hump as Climax held on for their 76-68 conference win.

Rande Smith led all scorers with 27 points while Dale Hanson connected for 17 and Pat Hamilton scored 10 to reach double figures for the Prowlers. Tronnes led the Vikings in scoring with 26 points and Gary Hanson along with Wayne Kobbervig added 19 and 12 points.

The Prowler B squad had a rough time in the early stages of their game as they trailed 11-8 at the end of the first period and led just 22-19 at the half before finishing strong for a 68-43 win. Tom Kays again led the Bee's in scoring as he tallied 21 while Jeff Rhoden scored 10 and Randy Carlson knotted 10 to reach double figures. The Prowler B squad is now 7-4 for the season.

Next action for the Prowlers will be tonight when they will play host to Ada in the Lincoln high school gym in a make-up game that was cancelled from Friday night. Action starts tonight at 6:15 with the B game followed by the A game at 8 p.m.

NORTHLAND CENTER Tony Burke (54) tried to go over the back of Stuart Pechek of Itasca for a rebound during Saturday afternoon's junior college basketball game in the Lincoln high school gym. Itasca won the contest 77-68 to hand Northland its 15th loss on the season against only one win. Greg Hafdahl (10) and Curt Jenson (44) are other Northmen getting into position for the rebound during the second half action.

Northland Handed 77-68 Setback by Itasca Five

Northland state junior college basketeers dropped their season record to an even lower 1-15 for the year. Saturday afternoon in the Lincoln high school gym as the Itasca Vikings bumped the Northmen 77-68.

NSJC's game against Devils Lake Friday night was postponed and has been tentatively re-scheduled for February 22, at Devils Lake.

Northland head coach Chet Engelman was upset at his team's performance against the Vikings, saying it was the poorest game the Northmen have played since December 1 when they lost to Itasca 60-59. "I thought we were coming along in our last couple of games and thought we could get ourselves a win against Itasca, but we just played a [illegible]," said Engelman.

"I'm also kind of upset because I didn't play guys like Greg Hafdal and Tim Olson more than I did," Engelman said. "In our last five games these boys will be seeing a lot more action," the coach said.

Itasca, who now is 3-15 on the year with two wins over Northland, gained the lead for good Saturday afternoon when 6-1 Sam Gebhart hit a short jumper with 16:10 remaining in the first half for a 6-4 Viking lead. Itasca built up its lead to ten points, 30-20 with 3:41 left in the first half before Burke, Jenson and Visness hit the boards for buckets and two free throws by Jim Goudge pulled the Northmen to within 3 points, 31-28 with 1:49 remaining in the half. Brad Pollard, Curt Flink and Cal [illegible] for the Vikings in the final minute and a half of the first half to put Itasca in front 37-31 at the intermission.

Curt Jenson cut the difference to 37-33 at the beginning of the second half before Jim Alstad gave Itasca a five-point lead, 40-35 with 17:55 remaining on his single free throw.

Buckets by Visness and Burke and a nice driving lay-up by Visness tied the contest at 44-all with 14:13 remaining in the game but Gebhart hit twice from the corner and added two free throws to put Itasca on top 50-44 with 12:52 remaining.

Greg Hafdahl connected on two free throws and Burke followed suit as the Northmen climed to within one point, 56-55 with 0:28 remaining but again Gebhart hit from deep in the corner to pull the Vikings out of danger.

Itasca built a ten point, 68-58 [illegible] three straight baskets by Jay Forney brought the Northmen to within 74-68 with 1:45 remaining but they couldn't close the gap.

Next action for the Northmen will be Friday night when they will host conference-leading [illegible] school gym in a 7:30 p.m. game. The Northmen will see double duty this week as they travel to meet the UND junior varsity in a preliminary game to the North Dakota-South Dakota game Saturday night.

69 Machines Finish 500 Snowmobile Race

Leroy Lindblad won his second consecutive Winnipeg to St. Paul International snowmobile race Thursday while Erv Melvie of Viking won a prize of $1,000 for finishing last and just five of the 21 drivers from Thief River Falls finished the race.

Lindblad, a Roseau native driving a Polaris, finished the race in a record time of 11:05:04 which was almost a half hour ahead of second place Larry Rugland also from Roseau and [illegible] Lindblad took home a $7,500 check for his win.

Melvie was awarded the "True Grit" award for finishing just 30 minutes ahead of deadline time Thursday. Melvie won $38 regular prize money along with the bonus despite overwhelming odds that he would not finish at all. Only 69 of the 300 machines that entered the race finished the last leg of the trip from Isle to St. Paul.

Melvie faced the last leg of the race on one ski, losing three clutches at various points, driving the last 75 miles with a fuel leak and the last 50 miles without any chain case oil and a wreck with another snowmobile.

Miss Dorothy Mercer of Crystal Bay, Nevada, became the first woman to ever finish the grueling race as she finished 10th.

The top ten finishers and their times were Leroy Lindblad (Polaris) 11:05:04; Larry Rugland (Polaris) 11:28:28; Dale Cormican (Arctic) 11:47:03; Luvern Hagen (Polaris) 11:48:49; Larry Coltom (Arctic) 11:53:14; Mike Baker (Polaris) 12:18:09; Paul Smith (Polaris) 12:18:18; Loyal Skuza (Arctic) 12:33:58; Tom Billberg (Polaris) 12:59:07; and Jim Loidolt (Arctic) 13:02:33.

Drivers from Thief River Falls who finished the 500-mile race were Larry Coltom 5th, Jerome Lund 15th, Kermit Malberg 21st and Del Wahl 47th.

Perfect For Hibernation . . . .

January Coldest First Month Since Frigid '66

by Jim Lee
Times Reporter

While January 1971 didn't have any really cold [illegible], it was, nevertheless, the coldest January since 1966. The best thing about January is that it was last month.

The low during January 1971 was -36 degrees, which is not exactly Palm Springs weather, [illegible] northern Minnesota. In January of last year, the mercury fell to a thermometer-popping -44, in 1968 it was -40, and in 1966 it was -41, not once but twice.

However, with 28 days of below-zero lows and 14 days of below-zero highs, the most recent January had the lowest mean temperature, -7.1, recorded since 1966, when it was -10.3. Despite the frigid lows reached in January of last year, the mean temperature was a moderate -2.3, aided considerably by highs on the positive side of 24 of the month's days. In 1969, January had a mean of -4.3, in 1968 it was a balmy 3.3, and in 1967 the mercury failed to surpass the zero mark on the thermometers only once, resulting in a nearly suffocating mean temperature of 10.9 ABOVE ZERO!

Weather was mild enough in January, though, with very few windy days and only one day when more than a trace of snow fell. On the 13th day of the month, .75 inch of precipitation fluttered down upon the area, in the form of 10 inches of snow. Added to the 10 inches left over from the old year, the new snow gave area snowmobilers just about the right depth and base, and enthusiasts were out in record numbers, despite the cool temperatures.

The month began with a high of 28 on New Year's day, which shared the honors for the top temperature with the 21st day, when the temperature also reached 28. The mercury began a downward spiral, which bottomed at -22 on January 5. A slight moderation of temperatures brought the temperature up to a high of nine degrees on the eighth day, but then an arctic front drove it back down to -30 on the evening of January 11. The cold nights hung on, though highs of 10 degrees were recorded on the 13th and 14th, until the coldest day of the month, January 15, when the high was -18 and the low was -36.

A bit of warm air moved into the area, bringing the thermometer to 22 above on January 20, after a low of 0, and to 28, tying for the warmest day of the month, on January 21. "Cold wave" warnings were commonplace during the last week of the month, when the mercury ranged from a high of 7 to lows of -23.

Dry weather prevailed, relative to other Januaries. The .75-inch total for January 1971 was less than the one inch last year, .83-inch in 1969, and nearly two inches in 1967, but was wetter than 1968, when only .47-inch fell.

History Society Elects Directors

Pennington county historical society elected seven directors and approved changes in the constitution at the annual meeting held Monday evening in Thief River Falls.

Named to the board of directors were Arthur Rambeck, Eric Hammershoy, Mrs. Violet Lindberg, Mrs. Margaret Weigelt and Mrs. Inga Geving of Thief River Falls, Ernest Swanson of Goodridge and Mrs. Lloyd Johnson of St. Hilaire.

At a reorganization of the board which followed the meeting, Mrs. Geving was elected president of the organization with Mrs. Weigelt as vice president and Mrs. Lindberg as secretary-treasurer.

Discussion was held at the meeting regarding moving and location of several historical buildings which have been obtained by the society. Several changes in the constitution were approved by the membership, including one which will permit the date of the annual meeting to be held within 60 days of the end of the fiscal year. The meeting date was previously fixed as the first Monday in February.

Mrs. Geving has called a meeting of the board of directors for Friday at 9:30 p.m. in the Rex cafe.

Spruce Street Residents Upset About Parking

Residents of the area near Franklin junior high school who are upset about all day parking in front of their homes are distributing a letter this afternoon, according to information provided to the Times Tuesday. The letter is being placed on cars parked along the street.

"Your discourtesy in habitually parking here has been at the expense of Spruce street homeowners, their visitors, mailmen and frequently the safety of motorists and pedestrians," states the letter addressed to Mark Twain and Franklin school personnel.

"Surely you are as healthy as the children who walk from their homes. Surely you will use the school parking lot at least most of the time. It is cleared for you daily at taxpayer expense," the letter continues.

"If you find you cannot cooperate immediately, we are fully prepared to promote whatever pressures and-or city ordinances necessary to give us reasonable use of Spruce street. Your courtesy and sense of fair play are sincerely solicited."

Signing the letter were Lyle Rasch, Robert Bergan, John Nepper, Emil Heleren, Walter Lund, Mrs. E. C. Elmore, Myron Halvorson, M. C. Haroldson, Mrs. D. J. Lund, Mrs. Roger Amundson, Mrs. E. M. Gaer, Mrs. Roger P. Worth and James Goldesberry.

Promoters of the letter stated that about eight or 10 people use the parking lot at the south end of the school on a regular basis and that this courtesy is appreciated. They add that cars parked in front of driveways and walkways [illegible] to reach some of the homes along the street during the entire day.

There are no parking restrictions along the west side of Spruce street which runs north and south past the front of Franklin and Mark Twain schools.

Local FFA Team Wins 1st Place At Activity Day

Thief River Falls chapter of the Future Farmers of America carried off a first place and gained experience in other divisions at the annual Ag Activities day held Saturday at the University of Minnesota technical college at Crookston.

Placing first was the farm mechanics team of Maynard Solberg, who was the top individual, and Lyle Jennings Jr., who was second place individual in the event. Since the farm mechanics contest was an official Region One FFA event, Solberg and Jennings will be entered in the state contest in May, according to Lawrence Helt, Thief River Falls FFA advisor.

Also competing in a regional event was the dairy judging team comprised of Alan Koop, Richard Haugen and David Bach.

General Livestock—James Gunstad, Eldon Myers, Alan Van deStreek and David Helt.

Crops—Mark [illegible], Larry Langevin, Harold Mickelson, Darrell Hurman and Brian Steiger.

Wildlife—Wes Swanson and Alan Iverson.

Cow Clipping—Randy Jorde. Lyle Swanson also accompanied the team members to the event.

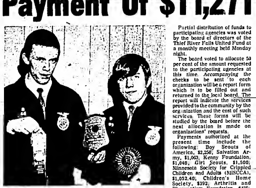
Appeal Made for Sletten Family

An appeal is being made for bedding, kitchen utensils and other household items for the family of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Stetten of Grygla. Mr. and Mrs. Sletten and their five children were forced to flee when an early morning fire destroyed their home in Grygla early this week.

None of the family possessions were saved, but clothing has been provided by neighbors, friends and relatives in the Grygla area.

Persons who have bedding and kitchen utensils to contribute are asked to bring them to the Grace Lutheran church in Grygla.

United Fund Makes Payment Of $11,271



FIRST PLACE in the Region One FFA farm mechanics competition at Ag Activities day in Crookston Saturday was won by the Thief River Falls team of Lyle Jennings Jr., left, and Maynard Solberg. Both seniors at Lincoln high school, the boys easily won the title over their nearest competitors with Maynard being named high individual and Lyle placing second. They will now enter the state contest in May.

Partial distribution of funds to participating agencies was voted by the board of directors of the Thief River Falls United Fund at a monthly meeting held Monday night.

The board voted to allocate 50 per cent of the amount requested to the participating agencies at this time. Accompanying the checks to be sent to each organization will be a report form which is to be filled out and returned to the local board. The report will indicate the services provided to the community by the organization and the cost of such services. These forms will be studied by the board before the next allocation is made on organizations' requests.

Payments authorized at the present time include the following: Boy Scouts of America, $2,250, Salvation Army, $1,003, Kenny Foundation, $1,048, Girl Scouts, $1,500, Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults (MISCCA), $1,052.40, Children's Home Society, $392, Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, $475, Association for Retarded Children, $950, United Service Organization (USO), $225, and American Red Cross, $1,366.

In addition, the request for $350 by the Thief River Falls Friendship club is being paid in its entirety at this time. Total current distribution will be $11,271.40, according to Mrs. James Carlson, secretary of the United Fund board. Mrs. Carlson notes that gifts of $1,000 each were also made to the University of Minnesota and the Mayo Foundation at Rochester for heart research.

Donald Lindquist was elected vice chairman to serve in the absence of Art Heinse, chairman of the board, should meetings or [illegible] when the chairman is unable to attend.

Robert Kosel, chairman of the community recreation committee within the United Fund, reported that [illegible] Wilson, Mrs. Gerald (Marilyn) Wigness and Derwood (Swede) Lund have agreed to serve with him on that committee.

The question of contributing to the cerebral palsy and multiple sclerosis appeals to eliminate their individual door-to-door campaigns was referred to the allocations committee for study and recommendation to the full board. Both agencies meet the requirements of the Minnesota Community Research council, the non-profit corporation created by Minnesota business, labor and professional men to act in an advisory capacity to United Funds and other organizations.

David Swenson reported that letters have been mailed to all business places in the community which made contributions to the United Fund. These letters are to be used by business places in referring solicitors for various charitable organizations to the Thief River Falls United Fund board.

The letters are to be completed by the firm solicited and sent to the agency seeking funds. They note that the business place has pledged substantially to the United Fund and refers the organization to the United Fund board. "They will help me determine what should be my fair share to you on a city-wide basis," the letter notes.

Address of the United Fund is listed as United Fund of Thief River Falls, P.O. Box 276, Thief River Falls, Minn. 56701.

Prior Approval Needed To Sell CCC Loan Grain

Farmers who decide they want to sell or use farm-stored commodities which they've placed under price-support loan should get approval before the commodities are disposed of.

"Producers should be sure to get written authorization before they remove commodities that are under loan," states Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington county agricultural stabilization and conservation (ASC) committee.

Written authorization is necessary to protect the government's interest in the commodity under loan, the chairman explained. Producers who plan to use the stored commodity must first repay the price-support loan.

In instances where the stored commodity is being sold the producer must provide the name of the buyer and meet certain other requirements.

Where farm-stored commodities are disposed of without proper approval, producers will have other commodity loans called, and will be prevented from obtaining a future commodity loan.

Dennis Carpenter Rides To 12th In '500'

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Three years of racing and two years of finishing in the top dozen placers in the International 500 snowmobile race is not a bad record in any racer's book. For a driver racing his own machine without manufacturer sponsorship it is an especially fine mark.

Dennis Carpenter of rural Thief River Falls finished in 12th place in the Winnipeg to St. Paul race this year, not quite as good as his ninth place finish in 1969 but much more satisfying than being forced out by a break-down last year. In spite of a number of misfortunes and a lower placing this year, Dennis' time of 13 hours and 10 minutes was faster [illegible] minutes off the 10th place spot this year.

Starting in the third heat at Winnipeg, Dennis was unable to start his machine and watched the field roar away without him. Several minutes later he got the engine started and began to catch up with the pack, but began to experience the trouble which was to plague him for three days. He could only coax speeds of 10 to 30 miles per hour out of his machine.

About the time he reached the U.S. border, he determined that he had a faulty clutch. When the engine reached higher speeds the drive belt would slip and the machine would lose power. With the trouble found, Dennis made emergency repairs and set out in pursuit of the machines ahead of him.

"I started in the third heat and the ninth heat had already gone past me at the border," he said. Between the border and Crookston, however, Carpenter passed about 190 machines to arrive at the first day's stop in 31st place. "Some of the cats were broken down, some of the drivers were cold or tired and some were still racing but not making good time. My speedometer showed 80 miles an hour in some places," he said.

At Crookston that night, while the factory racers were rebuilding their sleds, Dennis replaced the faulty clutch and put [illegible] his Arctic Cat. That's all. But the next day was also filled with disappointment, for the new clutch also failed to function as it should. When he slowed down on corners and stopped at stop signs he had to get off the machine and push it to get it going again.

"On one corner my brake didn't work and I went sailing off the end of the road into the brush," he said. Then, with a wry smile he added, "The first thing I did was fix the brake!"

When the end of the second day came, however, Dennis arrived at Walker in 17th place. Another new clutch and another set of skegs, plus a new brake, were the PLAGUED BY ADVERSITY during all four days of the International 500 snowmobile race, Dennis Carpenter of Thief River Falls still finished in 12th place—the highest finish of any independent in the event. Carpenter finished ninth in his first year of competition in 1969 and last year was forced out by a break down. He is shown with his Arctic Cat, powered by a 399cc Kohler engine, which carried the best wishes of Lind Motor Supply and Rnnum Construction company of Thief River Falls and State Bank of Warren.

Svendsgaard-Fredrickson Vows Exchanged At Zion

Miss Karen M. Svendsgaard and Floyd M. Fredrickson exchanged marriage vows recently at Zion Lutheran church in this city. Officiating at the double ring ceremony was Rev. Alexander Stoffel.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Svendsgaard of rural Thief River Falls. The groom is the son of Chester Fredrickson of Plummer and the late Mrs. Fredrickson.

Mrs. James Dalager presided at the organ. She played "Sheep May Safely Graze" for the processional and also accompanied Mrs. William Svendsgaard of Montevideo, sister-in-law of the bride, as she sang, "Love Divine, All Love Excelling," and "Jesus Stand Beside Them."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length, A-line gown of white satin. Appliques of peau de ange lace, re-embroidered with pearls, graced the bodice at the bateau neckline, and marked the empire waistline. Similar appliques trimmed the full sleeves, gathered at the wrists by wide cuffs. A lace, floral headpiece, encrusted with seed pearls, held her double-tiered veil of bridal illusion. She carried a colonial styled bouquet of deep red roses, white carnations and camellia foliage in a mist of babies' breath. White satin streamers cascaded from the arrangement.

Serving the bride as her personal attendant was Mrs. Loren Borsheim of Thief River Falls, sister of the groom.

Mrs. Donald Vollhauer of Red Lake Falls, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmatron was Mrs. Dale Svendsgaard of Goodridge, sister-in-law of the bride. Miss Julie Noreen of this city, a daughter of the groom, served as bridesmaid. They wore identical, floor-length gowns of red velvet fashioned with long bell sleeves lined with pink satin. Marking the empire waistlines were pink satin bands with matching bows. Similar bows held their brief circular veils. To complete their attire, they wore black patent accessories, black earrings which were gifts from the bride, and each carried a colonial styled bouquet of carnations in deep red and light pink.

Miss Krystal Svendsgaard of Goodridge, a niece of the bride, was flower girl. She was attired like the other attendants and carried a basket of red and pink flowers. Carrying the rings was Murray Borsheim of Thief River Falls, a nephew of the groom. He wore a black tuxedo and like the groom, had a red rose pinned on his lapel.

Loren Borsheim of Thief River Falls, brother-in-law of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Dale Svendsgaard of Goodridge, brother of the bride, and Harold Wilcox of Fargo, N. D., brother-in-law of the groom. All wore black tuxedos with white carnation boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Svendsgaard chose a dark green dress with brown patent accessories. Her corsage was composed of deep red sweetheart roses surrounded by light pink carnations.

A reception followed with the bride's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. William Svendsgaard of Montevideo, as reception host and hostess. The groom's daughter, Miss Morlys Noreen of this city, presided at the guest book as Mrs. B. J. Duke and Mrs. Elwood Ehrenstrom, friends of the couple, served the punch.

Centering the serving table was a round, four-tiered wedding cake, iced in white and decorated with red and pink carnations and white babies' breath. Topping the cake were pink satin wedding bells and around the base were fresh pink and red carnations. The cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Max Graham of this city was cut and served by Mrs. Henry Klockman of Goodridge, friend of the bride, and Mrs. Vern Perreault of Red Lake Falls, sister of the groom. Pouring were Mrs. William Wayne of Goodridge, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Harold Wilcox of Fargo, N. D., sister of the groom. The groom's cake was distributed by Lydell Svendsgaard of Goodridge, nephew of the bride, and Scott Wilcox of Fargo, N. D., nephew of the groom.

Waitresses were Lynette Borsheim, Mrs. Dave Dupree, Miss Sandra Sonders, all of Thief River Falls, Miss Mary Perrault of Terrebonne and Mrs. Roger DeLap of Bemidji. At the gift table were Mrs. Richard Collins, Mrs. Curtis Johnson and Mrs. Roger Rupprecht, all of Thief River Falls. Distributing the rice bags to the guests were Miss Marsha Payne of Goodridge and Miss Lori Perreault of Terrebonne.

For her going away attire, on a wedding trip to Milwaukee, Wis., the bride wore a red velvet empire fashioned dress complemented by pink satin trim, black accessories and a corsage of red roses and pink carnations.

The bride is a 1964 graduate of Lincoln high school and a graduate of the Thief River Falls area vocational technical school. She is employed by Peterson-Biddick company, Thief River Falls. The groom is a graduate of Plummer high school and is employed in this city by the Eagles Club.

Fashion Fabrics Of The Season On Telelecture

Do you have trouble deciding which of the many fabrics on the market will meet your needs the best, whether you're buying a ready-to-wear garment or material for home sewing? And are you puzzled about how to care for the new fabrics?

Fashion fabrics of the season will be the subject of an open meeting via telelecture Thursday at 8 p.m. in the courthouse meeting room, announces Linda S Amundson, Pennington county extension home economist.

Thelma Baierl, extension clothing specialist at the University of Minnesota, will discuss and show fashion knits, vinyls, fake furs, durable press and soil fabrics at the meeting. She will explain advantages and disadvantages of the various fabrics as they relate to buying and care. Consumers will also learn how they are protected by textile legislation.

Pennington county is one of a number of counties participating in this program. Each local installation will be equipped with a loudspeaking system, a microphone, projector and visual aids. A telephone hookup will connect the meeting room with the central studios on the University of Minnesota's St. Paul campus where the extension clothing specialist will "broadcast" her lecture.

Following the lecture, members of the audience may ask questions, which are relayed to the lecturer. The discussion following can be heard by participants at all stations where meetings are held.

The telelecture on fabrics is sponsored by the university agricultural extension service.

Enrollment For Medicare Has March Deadline

Senior citizens who have never signed up for medical insurance under medicare must do so by March 31, according to Clifford Kittelson, manager of the Grand Forks social security office.

This special enrollment is only for those who did not sign up when they were 65. Coverage of doctor and medical bills for this group will start July 1.

Premiums for the new enrollers will be $5.60 per month beginning in July, plus a 10 per cent penalty each year after age 65 that a person waited to enroll.

Medicare is available only to people who are 65 and older. "Anyone wanting the medical insurance coverage must sign up for it during an enrollment period," Kittelson said. An enrollment period occurs when a person reaches age 65 and during the first three months of each year.

Those who do not sign up at age 65 have only three more chances to enroll or lose the coverage. About 95 per cent of all people eligible for medicare have enrolled for medical insurance.

Premiums for medical insurance are paid by either deduction from monthly social security checks or by direct billing from the social security administration. Anyone who is not yet 65 should enroll during one of the three months before his birthday in order to have coverage for his birthday month.

Cow In Carlson Herd Has High Official Record

Wood Willow Walker Denise 6407277, a four-year-old registered Holstein in the herd tested for Mylo M. Carlson, Angus, has produced a record of [illegible] pounds of milk and [illegible] pounds of butterfat in 3[illegible] days.

The information is made available through the cooperative efforts of the state and local testing associations and Holstein-Friesian Association of America. Dairymen enrolled in the program pay for the service.

This level of production may be compared to the average U. S. dairy cow's estimated annual output of 8,821 pounds (4,103 quarts) of milk containing 325 pounds of butterfat. Participation in the official testing program can increase the value of the herd and provides recognition for record breaking performance.

Employment Of Veterans Stressed

by Jim Lee
Times Reporter

Give the recently separated armed forces veteran a chance at employment.

This appeal from the federal government has been echoed by Lewis Hill, Pennington County Veterans Service officer. Hill notes that many of the returnees from active military duty do not enter school and that it is becoming increasingly more difficult for them to find jobs. With projected increased withdrawals from southeast Asia and the accompanying increase in discharge rates, the competition for employment is very apt to grow keener.

According to a survey made for the Veterans Administration publication "Two Years of Outreach" which covers the period of 1968 to 1970, unemployment among veterans six to twelve months after separation averages 8.7 per cent. The rate ranges from 18.5 per cent among Negroes without a high school education to 6.2 per cent for whites. Thus, on a national scale, the unemployment rate for veterans over the period covered by the study is higher than unemployment among non-veterans.

In spite of these disheartening claims, however, the picture in northwestern Minnesota appears a bit more rosy. This phenomenon is due to the unique labor situation in this area, brought about by local industrialization.

Figures compiled by Charles Josephson, Veterans Employment representative of the Thief River Falls area Minnesota Department of Manpower Services office, show that veterans in the five-county area served by the office drew only .4 per cent of the total unemployed-benefits claims recorded by the office in 1970. This means that if 1,000 persons drew unemployment benefits for one week, only four of those 1,000 would be veterans. And this figure includes all veterans who applied, not only those recently released from duty.

During this same period, overall unemployment in the five counties averaged 5.04 per cent. In Kittson county, the rate was 2.6 per cent; in Marshall 2.4 per cent; in Red Lake 4.2 per cent, in Roseau [illegible] per cent, and in Pennington it was 2.6 per cent of the total work force.

This "percentage of benefit claimant" approach to local statistics is the only one which draws any semblance to an accurate picture of the veteran's unemployment situation. No true percentage of unemployment among recently-released veterans can be reached, since some degree of imperfection seems to exist in the armed services' system of notifying local employment officials of the number of area servicemen who are being released.

Helping to drive the percentage of local veterans receiving benefits downward is the labor situation itself. The availability of employment for relatively unskilled persons in the local snowmobile-manufacturing industry has brought many women, who would otherwise never have been employed, into the labor market. This raises the number of people in the total labor force and lowers the percentage of veterans (not the number, however) of veterans in the force, since most of these women have not served in any military branch. In addition, since this industry demands large numbers of "piece-work" employees, veterans or any other sound-bodied individuals can find employment there despite their having no experience or training in this work field.

The percentage of unemployed veterans is also depressed by the number of returnees in the area who go back to jobs they held before entering the armed forces, and by others who return to work on farms they left when entering the military. The abundance of local educational institutions gives veterans another avenue of endeavor if they are unable to find work, since they are paid to attend school under the "GI Bill." Finally, a number of veterans from this area who are discharged in other areas of the country simply stay there, finding occupations and making their residences there.

But the low incidence of veteran unemployment in this area is due in part also to placement efforts made by the local Manpower Services office. In 1970, 590 veterans in the five-county area served by the office made application for unemployment benefits and thus registered for work. Of these, 324 were placed in jobs through the office.

Again, figures are misleading. The total number of veterans applying for benefits includes some who are not recent returnees, but are seasonally employed and routinely apply for benefits each year during the cold months.

The total also includes veterans who were recently discharged, but who applied for benefits while planning to attend school, and drew benefits for only a period of weeks before beginning classes. Thus, the true number of those actually unemployed is probably much smaller than the statistics show.

In addition to those routinely contacted concerning employment, workers at the local manpower services office counseled 82 veterans during 1970, of whom 63 were disabled. In fact, the local office was eighth high among Manpower Services offices in the state in the number of veterans served during 1970.

To help ease the probable difficulty facing veterans who will seek employment in the future, when the huge numbers of servicemen pressed into duty during the Vietnam era are discharged, the local office is cooperating with the "Jobs for Veterans" campaign begun in October by the Federal government.

Efforts to be made on a local scale include sending letters to all employers who pay into the unemployment insurance fund; all labor union officials; federal, state and local governments; and all other labor managers asking them to give priority to veterans when hiring.

The local office also intends to undertake the mailing of "qualified applicant" lists to prospective employers. These lists, updated on a periodical basis, contain the names of all recent returnees from military service who are availabe for work. The lists also include some mention of the veterans' training or job experience, education and other material which might be of benefit to the employer.

In addition, the local department is channeling veterans into on-the-job training and manpower-development training situations, wherein the government pays a portion of the cost of training veterans for specialized positions.

To be stressed in the campaign are the qualifications of veterans, including the facts that the veteran has completed his military obligation and will not be taken from the job at some future date to serve in the military; the veteran has been subjected to military discipline and will perhaps make a more useful employee because of it, and in many cases, the veteran has learned some skill in the military which can be adapted to a civilian application.

$4.5 Million Given To Minnesota For Rural Conservation

U.S. department of agriculture has allocated $150 million in rural environmental assistance program (REAP) funds to help farmers launch in 1971 a major attack on pollution and to carry out conservation practices with benefits for all Americans. For Minnesota the allocation is $4.5 million.

The new program, formerly known as the agricultural conservation program (ACP), was announced earlier.

Department officials said REAP will help farmers carry [illegible] environmental protection measures on their farms with costs shared by the federal government. Emphasis will be placed on long-range preservation of the environment, and on practices that will return more benefits to the public at less public cost.

This is being accomplished through the elimination from the national program of certain production-oriented, temporary [illegible] formerly carried out under ACP, and through the restructuring of others. Counties will have the option of continuing in 1971 any practice from 1970 they deem necessary to round out their county program.

Department officials said the $150 million available for use in the remainder of the 1971 program year will enable the federal government, in cooperation with farmers, community leaders and local governments, to make substantial headway on some of the most pressing farm-related conservation and environmental problems in rural areas. The elimination of certain practices and redirection of others will permit a more concentrated attack on critical pollution-abatement and conservation problems.

Because of this new thrust, department officials said, more benefit per dollar spent should accrue to the public.

The ACP was funded at $185 million for the 1970 program year.

REAP will be administered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service through its farmer-elected committee system. Area workshops will be conducted this month by Washington-based ASCS officials to acquaint state officials of the agency with guidelines and provisions of the new program.

In carrying out the program, the department said highest priority will be given to those practices which will result in significant public benefits; materially assist in the solution of community-wide pollution and conservation problems; significantly contribute to the prevention or reduction of specific farm-based pollution problems; result in the application of enduring conservation measures, support the installation of pilot demonstration projects; assist low-income farmers with pollution abatement or enduring conservation practices and with participation in community-wide projects; and involve youth and minority groups and individuals in program activities.

Lowest priority will be given to those practices which provide little public benefits as compared to high or immediate benefits to the individual farm. Farmers will begin carrying out program practices in the early spring.

A major goal will be to reduce water pollution. Water retaining [illegible] farms—such as dams and ponds, permanent grass cover, waterways, buffer strips and tree plantings—will be encouraged. These will be directed toward reducing silt in streams, rivers, lakes and other bodies of water and toward reducing pollution from animal wastes, fertilizers and pesticides.

This program is on a cost-sharing basis with farmers bearing a substantial part of the cost. Program assistance from the federal government generally represents about one-half the total cost of each practice.

Rep. Bergland Named To House Ag Committee

Seventh District Congressman Bob Bergland was today notified that he has been nominated to serve on the agriculture committee of the U.S. House of Representatives. The agriculture committee was Bergland's first choice of committee assignment.

Praising the nomination, Bergland said he would consider a place on the committee "a [illegible] ministration and petition the Congress until satisfactory farm prices become a reality."

Bergland noted that farmers "have been saddled, for the next three years, with an unacceptable and disgraceful" agricultural program. He said that he would "begin immediately to try to insure that the next farm program is designed to help farmers, not drive them off the land." Until the current farm program expires and a new program can be developed, Bergland said he would work for modifications in the present program "that will allow our farmers a decent livelihood."

His first priority, Bergland said, would be an attempt "to block the secretary of agriculture from changing the parity ratio base" [illegible] used now to 1967. "Such an absurd proposal," Bergland said, "would drive our farmers further into oblivion."

"Blocking the secretary's action, like so much of the history of agricultural programs," Bergland continued, "is just another stop-gap measure designed to meet an immediate emergency. What must be developed now is a long-range program that will acknowledge and protect the family farm tradition. It is time to end our false lip service to the family farmer and study ways to establish a vital family farm economy."

Bergland, who has been working for a place on the agriculture committee since his election last November, thanked "the many national farm organizations whose help was instrumental in my nomination to the committee."

His nomination, made by the Democratic caucus' committee on committees, must be confirmed by the entire House of Representatives but such confirmations are considered automatic.

The Aquarians will face Alexandria, the number one team in the southern division, at 8:30 Friday night in the Alexandria high school gym while Staples will go up against Granite Falls in the first game Friday at 7 p.m.

The Aquarian basketball team got off to a slow start as they lost their first two games of the season but came back to win three of the next four starts to enter Christmas vacation with a 3-3 record.

Four of the Aquarian's first six games were [illegible] so the local club had the advantage of the home court for three of its remaining four games.

The Aquarians won their last four outings as they ended the season in second place in the northern division behind Staples with a 7-3 record. Staples finished on top of the northern division with a 9-1 mark, including two wins over Thief River Falls. Alexandria won the south half [illegible] dropped Granite Falls to second place with a victory in the last game of the regular season. Granite Falls finished the season with a 7-3 record.

Carpenter Rides To 12th Place In '500' Race

[illegible] top clutch again proved to be a problem, and Dennis limped his machine across the 32-mile expanse of Mille Lacs lake at 10 to 30 miles per hour. In spite of it all, when the third days of racing ended at Isle, the Carpenter cat was in 13th place.

Things went better the fourth day—at least for awhile. Four miles from the finish line the drive chain came off. "The chain had worn down the sprocket so [illegible] more," he said. I put on a new sprocket and a new chain and moved the chain to a different lower sprocket. It wasn't good but it had to do in an emergency. That break-down cost me about 15 minutes in time and $450 in cash (the difference between 10th and 12th place)."

Many were the racers who finished behind Dennis, of course, and many were those who started at Winnipeg and never finished the race at all. And Dennis has nothing but praise for the 399cc Kohler engine which he said "still runs like new".

It is his opinion that the 50-horsepower engine was too much for the clutches that were used under racing conditions and that this was the reason for three successive days of clutch failure. Other racers had their own problems, of course, and that sort of thing is what makes the International 500 an interesting race.

"Sure, it was cold during part of the race, but you don't feel it if you dress for it and you sure don't have time to think about it. This year I didn't have any physical problems; I didn't even get stiff and sore." Two years ago he lost 12 pounds in weight from Winnipeg to Crookston.

"Visibility is a real problem. One area of the race was a road through the woods with heavy cover on both sides. Snow kicked up by the machines ahead just hung in the air and you couldn't see anything ahead of you. The track had been dug out some and I just rode that track about 60 miles an hour. If I had slowed down, I could have gotten hit from the back, so I just kept hoping that somebody up ahead hadn't stopped because I couldn't see him."

Irv Melvie of Viking, who received the "true grit" award of $1,000 for finishing last in the race and who had an untold number of misfortunes, credits Dennis with putting him in the race. "When we were getting lined up at Winnipeg and I had machine trouble, Dennis pulled his sled out of the line and helped me get going," Melvie said. "I think he deserves credit for being a good guy as well as a good racer."

Dennis says he doesn't plan to race again next year, but he doesn't seem real sincere. "I keep saying I won't, but I guess I'll have to wait until next year," he asid.

Wait until next year.

That's what they all say.

THIEF RIVER FALLS area vocational-technical school basketball team will take on Alexandria in the second game Friday night of the vocational school state tournament in Alexandria. The first game at 7 p.m. will pit Staples against Granite Falls. The losers will play Saturday at 1 p.m. with the championship contest set for 3:30. Members of the local Aquarian team are from left to right, front row, Myron Larson (Waubun), Tim Lecy (Winger), Mike Molacek (Lake Park), Dennis Jorgenson (Rothsay) and Terry Bowers (Lake Park). Second row, coach Lyle Longtin (Red Lake Falls), Milo Reck (Mentor), Randy Beek (Lancaster), Tom Schmidt (Morris), Marshall Undesser (Bird Island) and Jeff Anderson (Minneapolis). (Photo by Neal Fox Studio)

FIFTH PLACE finisher in the International 500 snowmobile race was Larry Coltom of Thief River Falls, highest among Thief River Falls entrants in the grueling race. The 20-year-old member of the Arctic Cat racing team included finishing the 500 race among his pre-season racing goals. A previous winner of Canada's highest snowmobile [illegible] Cup, he has a number of other major first-place victories to his credit from West Yellowstone to Laconia, New Hampshire.

KEN YATES, professional wrestler from Minneapolis wanted to meet with Irv (Red) Melvie (right) after the Winnipeg to St. Paul snowmobile race in which Melvie finished last. Melvie, from Viking, finished the race just a half hour before deadline time and won the True Grit award and a $1,000 check for his efforts. Yates wanted to meet Melvie because, as he put it, "us losers should stick together."

Stolen Auto Is Recovered In Warren Thurs.

The incident is under investigation by the police department, fire department and state fire marshal Pat Barry.

Entry was gained by breaking car windows in a case of theft of a Craig stereo tape player from Mark Balstad, Thief River Falls, reported January 27. The player was valued at $120 and $100 damage was inflicted upon the car by the thief. Police are investigating.

At 9 a.m. January 28 a car driven by David Grovum, Goodridge, had stopped, facing west, for the stop sign on Eighth street at Main avenue when a car driven by Dwight Corbeil, city, slid on the ice while attempting to turn right onto Eighth after going north on Main, hitting the Grovum vehicle in the left side. Damage to the first car was estimated by the investigating officer at $390, while the damage to the Corbeil auto was only $60.

A car driven by Coni Peterson, city, was going west on Third street at 4:50 p.m. January 28, when it struck a car driven by Edward J. Lawrence, city, who was driving south on Atlantic avenue. Lawrence reportedly had stopped for the intersection, then driven out in front of the Peterson vehicle. The result was an estimated $125 damage to the Peterson car and $225 to the other.

An unknown vehicle pulled out of an alley into the path of a car driven east on Third street by Dale Brelland, rt. 3, city, at 11:20 a.m. January 29, forcing Brelland to apply his brakes and cause his car to slide and strike a parked car owned by Stephanie Lyons, Dubuque, Iowa. The accident caused $350 damage to the Brelland machine and $200 damage to the parked car.

The theft of some stereo tapes from a car was reported to police by Herby Lund, city, on January 30. The tapes were valued at $12.

Also January 30, Riverview Trailer court reported that a coin changer in a laundromat had been broken into. The extent of the loss was not determined.

The Bear A Big Game Animal

The Minnesota department of natural resources reports that there is a move on foot to make the bear a big game animal ... a change from its present status of a varmint to be destroyed at will.

The Minnesota Archery association is making this all-out effort to convince the state legislators to make this change. Opposition usually comes from the northern areas in Minnesota where it is claimed that the bear does damage to the sheep. The bear and the wolf get a lot of blame they do not deserve.

Several years ago we checked several cases of sheep being killed where the wolf got the blame. In every case it was packs of dogs doing the killing; and in one case the farmer caught his own dog in the attacking pack! If a bear was doing damage to livestock it could be destroyed even if it was listed as a big game animal.

At the present time the bear can be taken at any time anywhere except in a prescribed area of Northeastern Minnesota, Itasca county and in several townships in Cass County. In [illegible] taken during deer season.

Several years ago, outdoor writer Ed Franey on the Minnesota Outdoors television program proposed that the bear be made a big game animal. It's about time our legislators take this step before the bear population is depleted. At the present time the bear can be hunted during the spring when the mother is needed to look after the cubs.

Crusader Nader Seeks Support At University

Ralph Nader said he expects the support of more than half of the students in Minnesota colleges to form a Nader-inspired student action and research group.

Bringing his crusading zeal to the grassroots level, Nader made a whirlwind tour Monday of six Minnesota colleges and universities seeking support for his Minnesota public interest research group (MPIRG).

"We have every expectation that we'll get well over 50 per cent of the students in Minnesota to sign the petition. That's an astounding proportion of the student body to support any issue," Nader said at a news conference on the University of Minnesota Minneapolis campus.

An estimated 18,000 names have been collected by MPIRG leaders at the university's Twin Cities campus.

The petition urges the university to collect $3 per student per year to support MPIRG. "That's only one per cent of the quantitative support you give to Pepsi-Cola, Frito-Lay and the major cigarette companies," Nader told some 1,600 students at the university.

Nader said MPIRG would serve as an "intellectual-alert system" for dangers which cannot be perceived by the senses.

"When we see a fire, we know enough through our senses to get out of the way. But there are unseen man-made risks which wreak their violence in ways which are not perceived by the senses.

"How do you get somebody excited about the dangerous levels of mercury in the fish they're eating? We are becoming biologically obsolete in detecting our own man-made hazards."

Nader said that Minnesota students could raise [illegible] for the MPIRG project, enough for a "full-time staff of 18 to 20 professionals." These would include researchers to study pollution, food quality, slum conditions and public health as well as attorneys to prosecute large corporations which are breaking laws in these areas.

"Their work would run the entire spectrum of research to action," Nader said. "They would include professionals in [illegible] ecology...as well as in organizing citizens and workers in a professional way."

He said the issues to be tackled by MPIRG would be determined by the students who will control it. "If students are good at anything these days, it's finding what the problems are in our society."

Nader said there will always be people in public office who will be willing to use their research for constructive legislation.

"We need to bring back the old-fashioned virtues in a new context," he told the students. "We need the Puritan view of hard work and instead of applying it to selling Geritol or Chevrolets we need to apply it to the fulltime job of being a citizen."

Nader called for a new concept of citizenship which requires action. "Somebody's got to represent the voiceless, the uninitiated. This concept of citizenship is this generation's historical challenge. If it fails, then students today are not much different from their elders."

Nader's tour took him to Hamline university, Carleton college, Mankato state, Gustavus Adolphus and Macalester college as well as to two talks at the university.

The consumer advocate said a similar student movement began in Oregon where more than 50 per cent of the students in that state have supported the group. "Others have begun in Illinois and Georgia and I expect Texas and Ohio will begin soon," he added.

Fergus Falls Hospital Given Christmas Help

Christmas season at the Fergus Falls state hospital was brightened this past year through the generosity of many organizations and individuals from throughout the 26 county area that the hospital serves in northwestern and west central Minnesota.

Through the enthusiastic response that was received to the appeal for Christmas gifts by the hospital's volunteer council 521 [illegible] for patients of the hospital community.

During the rush of Christmas gift wrapping at the hospital, the volunteer council is not always able to personally thank all of the donors who have participated in this project because the mailing addresses of some donors are lost or are found to be incomplete.

Interest in the welfare of the patients at the state hospital and support of its treatment programs which serve the mentally ill, the mentally retarded, the multiply handicapped psychiatric patient, the emotionally disturbed adolescent, and the inebriate patient are greatly appreciated.

Prowler Hoopsters Club Ada 66-49 For 6th Win

Despite playing without 6-5 center Rande Smith, the Lincoln high school Prowler basketball team evened its season record at 6-6 for the year with a 66-49 drubbing of the visiting Ada Vikings Monday night.

Smith injured his leg in the loss to Climax Saturday night and did not suit up for the Ada contest. Prowler head coach Whitey Olson described the injury as a smashed taylor muscle, about 4 inches above the knee. The Prowler quint is hopeful that Smith will be ready to play by Friday when they take on Crookston.

Dale Hanson scored 16 of his 24 points in the first quarter Monday to lead the Prowlers to a 23-17 first quarter lead as they held on for a 35-28 halftime advantage before coasting to a 53-40 bulge after three quarters.

Coach Olson moved Pat Hamilton into the center spot and inserted Mark Thyren into the line-up and the 6-2 senior responded with 11 points. Senior Mike Hamerlinck also reached double figures for the Prowlers from his guard position with 13 points.

The Prowlers connected on 25 of 60 shots from the field against Ada for 42 per cent while the Vikings managed just 17 of 55 for 31 per cent. From the free throw line the Prowlers made 16 of 24 for 67 per cent with the Vikings cashing in on 15 of 26 for 58 per cent. The Prowlers held a wide advantage in rebouding over the Vikings as they hauled down 52 caroms to Ada's 27.

The Prowlers jumped out to a 3-0 lead early in the game on Hanson's lay-up and free throw but the Vikings came back to tie the contest 5-5 on Tim Sipe's lay-up with 5:36 remaining. Ada took the lead 8-7 on Sipe's free throw with 4:21 remaining but Hanson connected to put the Prowlers in front for good, 9-8 with 4:04 remaining in the first period.

The Prowlers built their biggest lead of the first quarter on Kent Smith's fast break lay-up with 3:22 remaining to go in front 14-8. Ada came back to climb to within 19-17 with three straight buckets but Hanson put the Prowlers in front 23-17 at the quarter break with two free throws and a 15-foot jump shot that went in with three seconds remaining in the quarter.

The Prowlers built their lead to 31-20 with 5:17 remaining in the second quarter on Thyren's ten-foot jump shot, but lay-ups by Rod Ogard and Bill Ambuehl in the last minute of the first half brought the Vikings to within 35-28 at intermission.

Sipe scored on a short jumper at the beginning of the second half to cut the Prowler lead to 35-30 before the Prowlers scored three straight field goals to open up a 41-30 lead with 5:51 remaining in the third quarter.

Hamerlinck led the Prowler attack in the final quarter of action as he collected seven points as the Prowlers rolled up their 17-point win.

The Prowler B squad lost their fifth game of the season against seven wins Monday night as Ada came from behind for a 68-62 win. The Prowler Bee's led at the quarter breaks 16-8, 33-31 and 45-45 before being out-scored 23-16 in the final quarter.

Mark Liden led the B squad in scoring with 22 points while Randy Carlson also reached double figures with 14 tallies. Liden and Craig Knutson were injured in the preliminary game Monday night. Liden suffered a knee injury while Knutson lost his front teeth in a collision.

The Prowlers will be back in action Friday night at Crookston in a Big Five Conference game before hosting Fosston Saturday night in the Lincoln high school gym.

DALE HANSON doesn't look like he's quite 6-4 in this picture as he went to his knees for a loose ball during Monday's 66-49 win over Ada. Hanson was the game's leading scorer as he collected 24 points, including 10 of 11 free throw attempts. Next home game for the Prowlers will be Saturday night when they will host Fosston in the Lincoln high school gym beginning at 6:15 with the B game.

Curt Christensen Cage Player Of The Week at LHS

Curt Christensen was named as basketball Player of the Week by the Lincoln high school coaching staff for his play against Newfolden in the B squad game last Saturday.

The 6-3 sophomore center connected on seven of twelve field goal attempts and sank three of five free throws for 17 points in his team's 66-47 win.

B squad coach Veen Treat termed his defensive and overall play as being good.

Newfolden Dumps Rockets 66-28

Marshall County Central Nordics continued their winning ways by defeating Badger 66-28 in a conference game played at Newfolden January 22.

The Nordics led by only three points after one quarter but took command from then on. Newfolden's big gain came in the second quarter when they out-scored the Rockets by 19 points.

Only player in double figures for the game was the NCC's Marlin Bjornrud who netted 16.

TIM SIPE jumps above the Prowlers' Pat Hamilton (41) and Mike Hamerlinck (53) to get off this shot during Monday night's Ada-Thief River Falls basketball game in the Lincoln high school gym. The Prowlers evened their season record at 6-6 with a 66-49 win over the Vikings in the make-up contest that was scheduled for last Friday. Next action for the Prowlers will be Friday, February 5, when they will travel to meet Crookston in a Big Five Conference game.

Bemidji Stops Prowlers 5-1 In Region 8 Hockey

Jim Smelley's Bemidji Lumberjack hockey team let it be known that they felt they should be the fourth region eight hockey team to climb into the state ratings as they surprised Thief River Falls 5-1 in the Bemidji state college arena last night.

East Grand Forks moved into the number 15 spot in the weekly poll to join Thief River Falls and Roseau who were rated number ten and three while Bemidji was left out in the cold with their 11-4 record.

Bemidji controlled the contest from the out-set last night as they took the opening face-off and kept the pressure on the Prowlers as Thief River Falls failed to clear the puck from their own end.

Bemidji scored its first goal with 5:04 remaining in the first period as sophomore center Lee Olson put in a rebound past Brian Peterson. Gary and Earl Sargent were credited with assists on the play.

Bemidji led 2-0 when the Jacks broke free with a two on one break and freshman center Randy Brek hit the high right corner from ten feet. Gary Sargent was credited with an assist on the score with 3:36 remaining in the first period.

Earl Sargent put the Jacks in front 3-0 as he tipped in a rebound with 13:36 remaining in the second period. Greg Hensrud assisted on the score for the Lumberjacks.

Bemidji increased its lead to 4-0 when junior center Ed Demery slipped the puck under Peterson after a pile-up in front of the Prowler net. Dave Howe assisted on the Lumberjack goal with 10:03 remaining in the second period.

Junior wing Ray Fowler scored the Lumberjack's final goal of the night as the puck was centered in front from the right corner and went off Fowler's stick as the junior wing was falling. Earl Sargent and Dick Howe were credited with assists on the play with 8:40 remaining in the second period.

With Bemidji skating a man short with 0:17 remaining in the second period, Tom Goddord just missed the left side of the Lumberjack net with Ward pulled to the right.

The Prowlers scored in the third period when Jeff Bottem faked around his defender and slid the puck under Ward from the left side on an assist from John Wangberg with 3:07 remaining in the game.

The Prowler B squad kept its record perfect with a 5-2 win in the preliminary contest to increase their record to 13-0 for the year.

Next action for the Prowlers will be Saturday night when they will travel for a return match with the Roseau Rams. Next home game will be Tuesday, February 9, when they will host East Grand Forks in the city arena. The Prowlers will make up their cancelled games from last weekend on February 12, when they will travel to Crookston and on February 15 they will host Baudette.

Lincoln high school head football coach Jim Sims has withdrawn his name as a candidate for the head coaching position at Valley City state college in Valley City, North Dakota.

Coach Sims was contacted about the position but declined the possible offer.

Sims said he looked the situation over and decided to stay at the Prowler coaching helm.

Valley City is the smallest school in the North Dakota Athletic Conference along with Minot state, Jamestown, Devils Lake and Dickinson.

Bob Tuff's Lincoln high school Prowler hockey team has just one win in their last five games after running up an eight game winning streak and things won't get any easier this week as they travel to Roseau on Saturday night.

In their last five outings the Prowlers have tied Warroad and Grand Forks Central while losing to Roseau and Bemidji. Their lone win was a 3-0 blanking of Red Lake Falls.

The Prowlers icemen have five games left on the schedule before going into what looks like an exciting region eight tournament. With Bemidji's win over the Prowlers last night they have to be counted, along with East Grand Forks, Roseau and Thief River Falls as real threats come tournament time.

International Falls remains the number one rated hockey team in Minnesota with a 15-1 record but Roseau slipped to number three with their loss to Grand Forks Central. St. Paul Hill climbed into the number two spot with a glittering 20-0-1 record for the year.

The top 15 teams and their records are, 1—International Falls 15-1; St. Paul Hill 20-0-1; Roseau 12-2; Ramsey 13-2-1; Edina—12-2-1;—Richfield—11-2-1; Anoka 10-5; Minneapolis Southwest 11-3, South St. Paul 10-4-1; Thief River Falls 9-4-2; North St. Paul 11-4-1; Duluth East 9-3; Rochester John Marshall 15-1-1; Eveleth 12-5; and East Grand Forks 11-4.

Whitey Olson's Lincoln high school Prowler basketball team will have to settle down and play consistent basketball if they plan to make any kind of noise when tournament time rolls around.

The Prowlers looked as if they might have found a winning combination with Mike Hamerlinck at a guard and either Mark Thyren or Pat Hamilton at a forward as they played a fine game against "East Side" and defeated Cass Lake 67-55.

That same combination looked very vulnerable to a press against Climax, but came back to play a good game against Ada Monday night.

The Prowler quint has six games remaining on their schedule before entering districts. A bad game now and then during the regular season isn't quite so bad, but a team doesn't get a second chance during tournament time.

Montreal recorded 23 ties during the 1962-63 NHL season.

Markets Projected For More US Crops

Market orientation is the key to answering the emerging farm problems of the 1970's, according to Alvin Payne, chairman of the Minnesota Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

Payne said farmers are interested in the market projections outlined recently by Carroll G. Brunthaver, associate administrator of ASCS, the farm program agency of the U. S. department of agriculture. Brunthaver foresees demand for major U. S. crops will take the production from an additional 20 million acres next year.

"Minnesota farmers are studying provisions of the new farm programs prior to signup, which begins March 1 and ends April 9. They are becoming more aware of how much more freedom they have under the new farm law," Payne said. "They are also realizing how closely they must study the national and world agricultural situation and market demand in order to make the wisest decisions in planning their crops.

Urban people as well as farmers, according to Payne, have an interest in farm policies. "Many have failed to realize that the tremendous production capacity of American agriculture is a major national asset—one that keeps us the best-fed nation in the world at the lowest real cost, and also an asset that can help produce a favorable balance of trade for this country.

"A market-oriented farm policy, with more freedom for farmers and less government management of production and marketing, should attract the interest of all taxpayers," the state ASC committee chairman said.

Mr. Brunthaver said: "Total disappearance of U.S. wheat from July through September of this year was the highest for any three-month period in history. That is a most significant development. Food use consumed 135 million bushels of wheat last quarter; feed took 137 million bushels; exports totaled 187 million bushels; and 22 million went into seed. The grand total was 481 million bushels of wheat in three months.

"We have projected the market demand for our major field crops for this year. Then we translated this demand back into the acreage needed to produce that amount of commodity.

"For corn, partly because of corn blight, we expect to need the production from about 5.1 million extra acres. We'll use the production of 1.8 million more sorghum acres, and another million acres each of barley and of oats. Soybean demand is strong this year. We expect to use the production of 5.8 million acres of beans more than we have produced.

"What about wheat? With strong feed and export demand, we expect the market will use the production from 5.7 million wheat acres more than was produced.

"That totals a demand for more than 20 million crop acres than was actually harvested in 1970. That's market opportunity. And that's what a market-oriented farm policy is all about.

"Our soybean sales this year are expected to set a record, partly because we had lowered the price support and helped to discourage some of our competition. Domestic crushings and exports each rose more than 100 million bushels this year, the largest increases on record. The soybeans we used and exported in 1968 were worth $2.3 billion to farmers. The value of the soybeans used or exported in 1969 was $2.9 billion. We estimate the value for 1970 will be $3.8 billion.

"That, too, is what market orientation is all about."

Brunthaver concluded, "We believe market-oriented thinking will help keep prices and sales up in the future. We believe that is the approach that offers the most income and most opportunity for commercial farmers. I would like to see American farmers take full advantage of the opportunity that lies before them. I would like to see them take full advantage of the decision-making freedom and cost-cutting opportunities embodied in the agricultural act of 1970. I think the law can help many farmers cut their costs of production, improve their net incomes, and compete for a stronger market position."

Computer Finds Production Loss; Lady Loses Job

Here's a sad story about a country lass who lost her job:

The object of our attention is Gay, who has been fired from the firm where she worked for the past two years. The reason for her dismissal: Poor production performance.

Gay worked with Gail, Bonita, Gem and Gedes, turning out a product of high quality. She seemed to be performing satisfactorily, according to her boss. At least that was until her supervisor started analyzing information produced by his newly installed computer. From the computer records the supervisor knew how much she was producing and compared her work quality to her wages.

The computer also told about her health, eating habits, love life and romantic activity of her suitors.

The clever supervisor also knew the lady's age and the number of days she has been off the job. Her performance had been slipping badly during the past two months, he detected from the computer forms.

But what actually placed Gay's job in doubt was when the computer predicted her future performance and found it would be half that of her working associates—Gail, Bonita, Godes and Gem. With this information, the supervisor could see that Gay must be shown the gate since she was losing money for the firm. "She sure had me fooled—I thought she was better than average," the supervisor observed.

Our Gay is no former slave to the factory whistle. She is a Holstein dairy cow in a southern Minnesota herd. Had she been an industrial worker, union rules may have made her firing more difficult.

Dairy Herd Improvement (DHI) records were the computerized information that led to Gay's demise. Her production was computed in pounds of milk and butterfat percentages, while her salary was the cost of feed she ate. These records showed that Gay's production was the lowest in the herd. She was costing rather than making money for the producer after feed cost, taxes, interest, insurance, depreciation and other items were paid.

Modern business firms use computerized records to keep account of all operations in an attempt to find strong and weak points in their operations. Likewise, dairy farmers need production records on their cows to locate weak and strong producers and eliminate the money losers.

DHI members realize up to $20 return for every dollar invested in this program. If you are not benefiting from this information, see your county agricultural extension agent to join the Dairy Herd Improvement association (DHIA) now to start your records in January.

Hospital Signs Authorized For Trunk Highways

In a joint effort by the Minnesota department of health and the Minnesota highway department, authorization has been established to erect signs on the state's trunk highway system directing travelers to 156 hospitals where emergency treatment is available, Minnesota Public Safety Commissioner W. R. Hoaglund announced today.

Some of the signs have already been placed and others will be put up as time and finances permit, Hoaglund said.

The department of health has conducted a study of the state's hospitals and listed those which meet the following criteria for emergency medical care:

The hospital must be located within a reasonable distance of the highway, a medical doctor must be readily available 24 hours a day; and the hospital must be capable of treating initial shock and providing immediate stabilization of the patient's condition.

Following are the locations in this area which will be signed:

Clearwater county—Clearwater county Memorial hospital in Bagley;

Kittson county—Karlstad Community hospital in Karlstad and Kittson War Veterans Memorial hospital in Hallock;

Lake of the Woods county—Trinity hospital in Baudette,

Marshall county—Warren hospital in Warren;

Pennington county—Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls;

Polk County—Bethesda hospital in Crookston and Fosston Municipal hospital in Fosston;

Red Lake County—St. John's hospital at Red Lake Falls;

Roseau county—Warroad Municipal hospital at Warroad, Roseau area hospital at Roseau and Greenbush Community Hospital at Greenbush;

The American Cancer Society estimates that many of the 13,000 American women who will die of uterine cancer this year might have been saved through early diagnosis—by means of the Pap test—and prompt, proper treatment.

Minnesota ADA Seeks Name For Home Economist

A weekend for two to the New World of the Radisson South in the Twin Cities awaits the lucky person with the winning name for the American Dairy association of Minnesota's contest to select a trade name for their newly-created home economist position.

Available to the lucky person will be the sauna, whirlpool, swimming pool and dancing at Mr C's A D A is looking for a name that would become a symbol for their latest program to reach consumers with new dairy food ideas.

The dairy home economist's position offers much variety. Her main objectives are: To promote milk and other dairy foods to the consuming public by demonstrating the preparation and the creative ways of serving dairy foods with new appetite appeal; and to help homemakers in the areas of recipe ideas, menu planning, food budgeting and buying, and other nutritional information related to the use of dairy foods.

Persons must be over 21 to enter the contest, and all entries should be sent in on a postcard with your contest name and your name and address to P.O. Box 80080, St. Paul, Minnesota. Entries will be judged on originality and aptness of thought. Decision of the judges in all cases is final. The contest closes midnight, March 15, 1971.

The Pap test for uterine cancer is a simple procedure that your doctor can perform in his office. It's quick and painless. And, it can save lives, the American Cancer Society explains, because it can identify uterine cancer before its symptoms appear when it's highly curable.

Agriculture To Use More Trucks

Minnesota highway department was recently notified by a trucking industry spokesman that the agricultural industry's heavy dependence on trucks will continue to increase.

The information revealed that the products of the fresh fruit and vegetable industry are valued at $6 billion annually, and annual shipments of fresh fruits and vegetables are well over the million carlot figure.

With two-thirds of these shipments moving by truck, the truck proportion continues to increase.

In 1968 the receipt for frozen foods was estimated to have been $7 billion of which some 60 per cent was moved by motor truck.

Citing the importance of highways to our economy, it was noted that three of every four tons of all freight moving in commerce are hauled all or part of the way by truck. Trucks carry 89 per cent of all agricultural products from farms to initial markets; 97 per cent of frozen food is in shipments of 500 miles or less and over 95 per cent of livestock to market.

Veterans who served between Feb. 1, 1955 and March 3, 1966, (as well as Vietnam era veterans) are eligible for GI bill educational benefits. Contact the Veterans administration.

Child Abuse Is Problem Which Can Be Helped

by Bill Hafling
University of Minnesota Science Writer

You hear the screams, "No, Mommy, no. I won't be bad again. Please, Mommy," and you hear the sounds of a beating. Sounds you've heard before.

If, perhaps, you see the child again, you may notice a black eye, a broken arm, or a limp. Quite often, the absence of the child becomes conspicuous.

If you know his mother she explains to you that "she just doesn't know what to do with him," or that "he's accident prone, just keeps running into things or falling down."

You suspect that a child is being abused and it disturbs you. What can you do about it?

What To Do About It

"Many people know about child abuse cases in their neighborhood but don't know what to do about it," Professor David Ward of the University of Minnesota said in an interview. "People have many excuses for not wanting to get involved. They have to ask themselves seriously if the risk of being a meddler outweighs the chance that the child will be seriously injured for life or killed."

Ward, who is chairman of the newly formed department of criminal justice studies at the university, says conservative estimates put the number of children killed by their own parents each year at "well over 10,000." Several reliable news sources have stated that more children under five years old are killed by their own parents each year than die of disease.

"Child abuse is one area of violent crime in which intervention is possible," Ward said. "It usually involves repeated assaults over a period time."

Metropolitan area police departments, when called, usually refer the case to a juvenile division officer for investigation. Smaller police departments may refer the case to a village or city attorney. Police usually do not require the caller to sign a complaint or otherwise reveal identity, preferring to keep the information they receive confidential.

Excessive Anger

Ward recommends that welfare agencies or knowledgeable physicians or clergy be contacted. At times, the police themselves will refer the case to another agency or to a specially organized child abuse team composed of various professionals.

"There is another class of cases in addition to these of systematic abuse," Ward said. "There are the mothers who simply get excessively angry—ready to tear their hair out—take it out on the child and then are terrified of their own actions.

"They're afraid to contact a physician because he might report them to the police. They should still get the child to a doctor and call an attorney or welfare agency at the first opportunity," he said.

"The courts require a hell of a good case before they'll recommend taking a child from a mother. All the alternatives are usually seen as far worse."

Ward said that one cause for the accidental harm cases as opposed to those of deliberate abuse is the old-fashioned belief in physical punishment. "It doesn't take much physical punishment to seriously hurt a baby or a small child. The challenge for parents who care about their children is to come up with forms of non-violent, non-physical punishment such as reducing privileges or giving verbal reprimands.

(An earlier University News Service release on punishment mentioned a psychologist's alternatives to spankings and other physical methods. One alternative is to find ways to keep the child busy by consistently rewarding good behavior. Jane Goodall, the anthropologist, has taken a cue from chimpanzees' habits, and tickles her own children as a way of distracting them from doing things she doesn't want them to do.)

"In dealing with child abuse cases," Ward emphasizes, "we should bear in mind that the ultimate goal is the well being of the child, not the punishment of the parent. The behavior of the mother who batters her children is so unusual, so bizarre, that she needs help."

If ever a man's job became obsolete, it was this fellow's. And what a job it was. He learned everything first, then imparted the news to others. If he had a good memory, he was usually the best informed man in town. Who else read every release and then shouted it all over town? He also was the principal advertising medium for the tradespeople and shopkeepers. He announced their products, services and special sales.

And in most communities the town crier reminded men of the approach of the Sabbath, urging them to be present for worship at the appointed hour in the churches of the community.

The newspaper made the town crier a has-been. It has taken over all his functions and performed them more efficiently. That includes reminding men of the day of worship, and, through advertisements such as this, urging us to worship.

You see one thing hasn't changed. Man's need for God!

Dish Made To Please Men Features Thrifty Chicken

There are women who dress for men, and women who cook for men—hearty, savory, robust dishes to cheer a man after a hard day. Chicken Stew with Onions is just that kind of cooking. It is old-fashioned in flavor with a rich, creamy sauce and lots of onions. For all its fine flavor this chicken stew is a thoroughly thrifty dish. Everybody knows chicken is an economical buy, but did you know that chicken has a protein content that no other meat exceeds and few can equal? It is protein of the highest quality, too, says the National Broiler Council. Put all this good nutrition before your man in a dish he is sure to like.

Chicken Stew With Onions

- 2 broiler-fryer chickens, cut in serving pieces
- 3 cups water
- 2½ teaspoons salt
- 1 cup coarsely cut celery tops
- 3 sprigs parsley
- ½ teaspoon dried leaf tarragon
- 6 medium onions, sliced
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 cup evaporated milk, divided
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 egg yolks
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice

Put chicken in kettle, add water, salt, celery, parsley and tarragon. Bring to a boil; cover tightly. Reduce heat and simmer 1 hour. Remove chicken to casserole; keep warm. Strain broth and boil rapidly until reduced to 2½ cups. Cook onions in butter until slightly brown, add to chicken in casserole. Blend ½ cup of the evaporated milk with flour until smooth. Add to stock and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Beat together remaining ½ cup evaporated milk and egg yolks. Add to hot stock and stir until slightly thickened. Stir in lemon juice and pour over chicken. Serve sprinkled with chopped parsley.

YIELD: 6 servings.

FOOD FALLACIES by Thomson
THERE ARE MANY MISCONCEPTIONS ABOUT FOOD. ONE IS THAT IT IS DANGEROUS TO EAT FISH AND MILK AT THE SAME MEAL. DON'T SWALLOW IT.
MMM... BOY!!
SOME PEOPLE EVEN BELIEVE THAT LETTUCE IS INDIGESTIBLE AND THAT ONION SOUP INDUCES LONG LIFE. THERE IS NO EVIDENCE TO SUSTAIN THESE BELIEFS.
NOTHIN' LIKE IT, SONNY!
YET ANOTHER MISUNDERSTANDING IS THAT VITAMINS IN CANNED FOODS DETERIORATE. ACTUALLY THERE IS INSIGNIFICANT LOSS OF VITAMINS, AND CANNED FOODS ARE NUTRITIONALLY COMPARABLE TO THOSE OF THE SAME PRODUCTS IN THE RAW STATE."

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q — A reservist served six months on active duty for training during a wartime period. Several months after completion of this training he was killed in an automobile accident. Is he entitled to a U.S. burial flag?

A — No. Reservists are not eligible for a flag unless they incur service-connected disabilities.

Q — My husband was killed in service and I want to take advantage of Veterans administration educational benefits. Can I get help in working out a program?

A — Yes. Apply to the VA for educational counseling, and professional counselors may be able to help you decide on a productive program.

Q — I was discharged from military service on Sept. 20, 1970, after being on active duty for two years. At discharge, I was told my servicemen's group life insurance has been increased. Is that true?

A — Yes. Since June 25, 1970, unless you requested some lower amount, your insurance has been $15,000. It continues for 120 days after discharge, and can be converted to an individual, commercial policy if you apply to an eligible company during the 120-day period. If you were totally disabled at separation, your insurance may continue up to one year. For additional information, contact your nearest VA office.

Q — Where do I send my change of address to make sure that I receive my Veterans administration pension check?

A — Send your change of address to the VA regional office which has custody of your records, as well as to the post office.

Q—Can a veteran go to any school or pursue any educational program he desires?

A—Yes, if the school's course or program leads to a recognized educational, vocational or professional objective, and is approved by a state-approving agency.

Q—My father was killed in service. Am I eligible for a guaranteed or insured GI loan?

A—No. The law does not extend this benefit to the child of a veteran.

Policyholder Questions Answered by the Health Insurance Institute, 277 Park Ave., N. Y., N. Y., 10017

Q. When I applied for a health insurance policy recently the agent seemed very concerned about my health. He wanted to know all about my medical history and what kind of physical condition I was in. Is this type of examination normal?

It depends on the individual and the company. A large part of a health insurance policy concerns the medical history and physical condition of the applicant. Since the majority of applicants for health insurance usually do not need a medical examination, the application is usually the only means of gaining a history of an applicant's physical condition. If there is a question about the applicant's health, the company has the right to request a medical examination.

Insurance companies want to protect each of their policyholders from having to pay a higher premium than necessary. If an individual has a physical condition that increases his chances of being sick, he may be put in a special category and pay a larger premium than other policyholders for the same kind of protection. However, this means the bulk of policyholders who enjoy average health would pay an average premium. For persons who do not have average health, use of waivers for certain impairments may also be included in the policy. This is true of those who have recurring disorders, who need hospitalization or medical treatment, or who have a disability from a present physical condition.

For a company to underwrite risks soundly, there are conditions, such as rheumatic fever and certain allergies, and any major illnesses in the last five years, which need to be recorded. Though they may not seem serious, they could disqualify an applicant.

Other conditions such as epilepsy, impaired hearing or eyesight, may affect coordination and reflex actions. Diabetes could turn a minor injury into a serious disability.

Depending on the seriousness of an applicant's medical history and physical condition, a company may require either a waiting period of six months to a year for a pre-existing condition, or may issue a special class of insurance at a higher premium.

TAX NEWS

NEVER FILE A TAX RETURN AGAIN?

Would you like to ignore the April 15th deadline for Federal income tax returns?

Who wouldn't? And, according to H & R Block, America's Largest Tax Service, many Americans — who in previous years had to worry their way through the last few days of the tax filing season, may no longer be required to file an income tax return.

The reason? The Tax Reform Act which brought about the most far reaching changes in our Federal tax laws in recent years, has changed many of the basic requirements for filing a tax return. In prior years, anyone who had $600 or more gross taxable income ($1200 if 65 or over) was required to file a tax return, even if it was known that there would be no tax liability.

Under the new law, if you are a single person, you do not have to file a tax return if your gross income is less than $1700. If you are single and over 65, the amount is $2300, a married couple filing jointly $2300, a married couple with one spouse over 65, $2900, and a married couple with both over 65, $3500.

Some of the rules still prevail, however. If you have self-employment income of $400 or more, you must file a return in order to pay your self-employment (Social Security) tax. If you are a married person filing separately, you must file a return if your gross taxable income exceeded $600.

H & R Block goes on to point out that even though you may not be required to file a return because of the new filing requirements, you will still want to file in order to get a refund of tax withheld from your pay. If you have any doubts about whether or not to file, you'd be wise to seek professional help.

Lovelies of London and Parisian pulchritude shape up as attractions of nightlife tour for swingers. Scenes are from London's Strand Corner House, (left), and the Folies Bergeres in Paris (right)

What does a swinger look for in a trip to Europe? The same pleasures he finds back home!

But, this can be a problem for the American funseeker. In London, for example, some of the best discotheques are private clubs. In Amsterdam, some of the best nightclubs aren't even listed in the guidebooks. And in Paris, the "in" places shift so often that it's hard to keep up.

What's a swinger to do?

For one, he or she can take the new "Europe for Swingers" tour offered by Lufthansa German Airlines, a unique low-cost, high premium happening that includes getting "groovers" into the unusual restaurants, private casinos, wild discotheques, extraordinary pubs ... and lots of other places that many Americans never get to see.

In Amsterdam, first (and last) stop on the 16-day tour, fun-seekers will ride down a canal, visit the diamond district to watch the cutters at work, and leisurely browse through boutiques and the duty free airport shops.

Montelbaans Tower in Amsterdam

Then, on the 6th day, a flight to Paris. And all the beautiful places that are Paris. Like Montmartre, Montparnasse, the Left Bank, the Louvre Museum, Pigalle, the Champs Elysees ... as well as complimentary membership card admission to a fine club.

There won't be any lack of great things to do in London during tour days 9-15. Here, in the home of the swinging after dark discotheque, the young and young at heart will ride double-decker buses, see a performance at the Globe, Drury Lane or Mermaid theatre, shop the boutiques featuring tomorrow's fashions, listen for the echoes of Shakespeare at Stratford-on-Avon, dine in one of the finest gourmet restaurants in the world ... and take tea at the famous Claridge's.

Add to this — first class accommodations, free Avis rental cars and an inclusive price that starts as low as $291 from New York ... and Europe for Swingers is not only possible, but almost necessary.

Best bet to start the action is to get in touch with your local travel agent.

HOME BUYER CLINIC

By Alvin W. Long, President
American Land Title Association

1971 — Year to Buy

Economic forecasts generally point to substantial increases in new housing starts and the availability of mortgage money in 1971. This encouraging outlook means that 1971 may well be the year for that purchase of a home you've been postponing because of unfavorable conditions in the national economy.

A.W. Long

Most experts still consider a home an excellent long range investment in a majority of situations — even with today's rising real estate costs. The national housing shortage and increasingly expensive land, labor, and materials make it advisable to plan the purchase of a home as soon as possible. Waiting for interest rates to come down further could cost you more as other costs continue to climb.

When buying a home, it's an excellent idea to become well informed — in advance — on important aspects of purchasing real estate. Carefully consider home design, location, and structural condition. Look into financing that is available and calculate the impact of ownership on your budget. Ask local government officials about the planning and zoning prospects for the neighborhood.

Before you buy, look into the closing costs you will need to pay. And — whether you're purchasing a single home, town house, condominium, cooperative unit, or other type of residence — do not overlook the importance of a land title search and owner's title insurance. This kind of protection will result in a maximum financial safeguard against possible loss from defects in the title to your home.

Doing your homework in advance will better prepare you for the complexities of purchasing real estate, and will increase your chances of enjoying home ownership with complete peace of mind.

For free information on things you need to know in buying a home, write American Land Title Association, 1828 L Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

How's Your Health

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Association.)

Let's talk about exercise and the coronary patient. It is one of the questions which puzzle many who have suffered heart attacks and might be one on your mind, especially if you have always been rather active.

Most likely you will be glad to learn that exercise is beneficial provided it does not cause pain, shortness of breath or other symptoms. The majority of those who recover from heart attacks find they are able to take walks, play golf, fish, swim and engage in other activities without trouble.

Activities which cause patients to set their diaphragm, hold their breath or perform a motion that increases the pressure inside the chest are out, however. For example, in winter they should not shovel snow; in summer they should not do heavy lawn work. Deer hunting is probably okay, except there is no heavier work than dragging heavy objects and a heart attack patient should allow someone else to bring in his deer.

In many cases, physicians advise even more regular exercise than a patient may have been taking before his attack. But your physician will help you determine how much and what kind of exercise will fit your individual condition, says the Minnesota State Medical association.

If you or someone in your family has had a heart attack and you have many questions troubling you, see your physician. He will best answer your questions in view of your health.

Everyone should receive basic first aid instruction if possible. First aid can be a lifesaving skill. If you cannot, however, the following multiple choice quiz, prepared by the Minnesota State Medical association, may help you in common emergencies while you wait for medical help. The correct answers follow each question.

EYES, FOREIGN BODIES: A. Remove foreign bodies with corner of a clean cloth, or B. Rub eye to make it water to wash out foreign bodies.

If object can be seen, touch it lightly with moistened corner of handkerchief. If it does not come out or cannot be seen, wash eye with warm water. If these methods fail, take patient to physician.

EYES, CHEMICAL BURNS: A. Apply eyedrops, or B. Wash repeatedly with cool water.

Wash out eyes immediately with large amounts of cool water. Call physician and continue washing until physician comes.

ASPHYXIATION FROM POISONOUS GASES: A. Attempt to awaken victim by giving him liquids, or B. Get patient to fresh air.

Move victim to fresh air, send for physician, and start mouth-to-mouth breathing at once.

"A lawful society is based on the will of the people. Laws and rules of conduct are made to enable people to live together. Under this system, those who choose not to conform and who endanger the rights of others are subject to punishment according to the law. As our society becomes larger and more complex, law and order become more crucial. Thus, breaking the law and defying authority become paramount problems." —J. Edgar Hoover

New USDA Guidelines

The following editorial appeared in the "Twin Cities Courier", a weekly newspaper published in the Twin Cities and specializing in coverage of news of particular interest to Negroes in that area:

IF THE UNITED States Department of agriculture (USDA) follows thru on its intention to implement the new food stamp legislation, much of the citizen complaint about the program should be laid to rest.

While the legislation approved by the President this month covers many facets of the USDA food project, including provisions for free stamps for the very poor, the tax-paying public is literally "up in arms" over the multiple abuses being practiced across the country. No one, to date, has voiced any objections to the low-income and needy making full use of subsidized food purchases. In fact, most persons insisted the stamps should be free, or provided at very minimal cost, to those whose income is nil or near the vanishing point.

The "gripe" that threatened to wipe out the USDA program entirely, centered principally on students and communes occupied by unrelated persons. Until now, each state had been virtually autonomous in determining who shall and shall not be eligible for the stamps. If the new legislation is implemented as USDA premises, guidelines will include uniform national eligibility standards.

This program reform is long overdue. But better late than never. The "new look" calls for revised definitions of a "household" as a group of "related" individuals. If or when this proviso goes into effect, every long-suffering taxpayer in the U.S.A. will rise up and call USDA "blessed." Nothing in the whole food stamp program has been quite as disgusting and intolerable as federal subsidy of "well heeled" college students deliberately setting up off-campus group living to reap government largess. Communal living among non-students, also reaping undeserved benefits, come in for the same citizen censure.

Now that a "household" must be "related," this type of abuse will disappear, providing USDA and all separate affiliates actually "crack down" on these offenders, and makes the "crackdown" effective across the board. Only time will tell which government agent has enough intestinal fortitude to call an immediate halt to the abusive practice.

A further provision requires able-bodied persons between the ages of 18 and 65 to register for or accept employment at federal or state wage rates. This, too, is all to the good and should bring an end to the free loaders in a hurry. For the past four decades, America has spawned generation after generation of "the world owes me a living" crowd. And a poorly-structured welfare system perpetuates this fallacy that errodes the very substance of humanism.

USDA about-face could set an example for other departments with the new guidelines. And that's a consummation devoutly to be wished.

Laugh A Little

On the infrequent occasions when we find ourselves in the Twin Cities, the maze of thoroughfares always manages to confound and confuse us. On vacation last year, we made an attempt to find an historical attraction, missed the turn-off three times in succession and decided to do something else instead.

Part of the problem people may have is outlined in the following editorial comment by Al Austin of WCCO-TV in the Twin Cities.

Visitors to the Twin Cities have sometimes complained without justification that St. Paul and Minneapolis and their suburbs are confusing to get around in...or to know where one has gotten around to when one gets there.

In order to put a stop to such slander here is an easy to follow newcomers and tourists guide to the Twin Cities.

As any geography student knows, Minneapolis and St. Paul are separated by the Mississippi River. On one side of the river is Minneapolis. On the other side is...Northeast Minneapolis, which is straight north. North Minneapolis is in the west part of the city. South Minneapolis is southeast. The village of South St. Paul is southeast of St. Paul and West St. Paul is south.

Downtown Minneapolis is quite easy to negotiate due to the fact that avenues and streets are both numbered north and south, while running mostly east and west or northwest and southeast, except for Hennepin Avenue, which runs north and south and will take you east to St. Paul.

St. Paul is also laid out quite logically. You will find the 200 block of most streets between third, fourth and fifth streets ...and the 300 block between fourth, fifth and sixth...and so on.

Remembering the names of streets in St. Paul is child's play. Most streets are named Como. The two Como boulevards, one of which is Lexington, do not join. However, Como Avenue intersects both Como Boulevard, which goes in a circle, and Como Plaza, which comes to a dead end.

One may wish to drive from Lake Como to two other local attractions—the state capitol and the St. Paul Cathedral...in which case one may find oneself on Summit Avenue, which is also Ramsey, which intersects Summit Court, which is actually Arundel...and that should afford a pleasant afternoon's drive.

We received one groundless complaint that, near the University, on the St. Paul side of the river, which, as you know, is Minneapolis, some confusion is caused by Seventeenth Avenue Southeast—which, of course, is northeast. Allegedly, in order to proceed straight along Seventeenth for two blocks one is obliged to circle the block three times. This proved to be nonsense. One need only drive over several eight-inch curbs.

Any other fraudulent complaints should be directed to the St. Paul or Minneapolis Chambers of Commerce—the latter handily located at Fifteen South Fifth Street—one of our east-west thoroughfares.

Borrowed Nonsense

Protest of the Week: Reportedly posted on a third floor bulletin board at an area high school was this note: "The Midi—How can we appreciate the flower of womanhood if we can't see the stems?"

"When that naughty boy threw stones at you," the mother scolded her son, "why didn't you come and tell me instead of throwing stones back at him?"

"What good would that do?"—the errant son queried. "You can't hit the broad side of a barn!"

Slow down and live

Legis Lative Letter

from ANDREW SKAAR
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

A cross-examination of Governor Wendell Anderson's budget message reveals some very sobering facts. The Governor called for a record high budget of three billion dollars for the next two years. This is an increase of 966 million (nearly 50 per cent over current levels of spending.)

Included in this budget the Governor recommends funding for 1,755 new positions. Our projected economic growth for the next two years is approximately nine per cent per year compared to the 50 per cent increase in proposed spending for the same period.

It is interesting to me that a couple of neighboring states saw fit to hold the line on spending for the coming biennium. Now that would indicate to me that one of us is wrong.

I am firmly convinced that these increases would not have been proposed had the Governor adopted a policy of zero budgeting; that is, building the budget of every department from the ground up instead of adding on new expenditures on top of current expenditures.

I am sure that you have all heard how the Governor plans to raise the additional revenue to fund his programs. If we could all come to the realization that only people pay taxes and there is no way we can change that fact we would all be better off.

There is no way that we can shift the tax burden on business and corporations without the tax ultimately being collected from you and I either in the form of higher prices or higher taxes. That is why it is so necessary that we have a balanced tax structure which will treat equitably the working man, the professional man, business and industry.

On Tuesday, February 9, in Room 23 of the State Capitol, a hearing will be held on a bill providing for a moose season. If anyone wishes to express his or her views on this bill, write to Representative Bob [illegible], Chairman of the House Natural Resources Committee.

Most Minnesotans Are Concerned About Pollution

While most Minnesotans are concerned about pollution, they are hesitant to support specific pollution control measures if such measures would adversely affect their community or their own economic self-interests.

This conclusion was made recently in a report on "Environment and Public Opinion in Minnesota" by four University of Minnesota social scientists. The report was based on recent research on Minnesotans' attitudes to pollution by Phillip Tichenor, university journalism professor; James Bowers, research assistant, and George Donohue and Clarice Olien, university sociologists.

Twenty-two per cent of those interviewed in a 1970 survey by these researchers in four northeastern Minnesota communities—Ely, Grand Rapids, Silver Bay and Duluth—chose environment as the most important of five major issues. Only eight per cent thought it was the least important. The five issues were the Vietnam war, inflation, student demonstrations, civil rights and pollution.

In the same survey, 73 per cent agreed with the statement that "the environmental pollution crisis presents us with some of the hardest choices we have ever had to make."

However, environmental awareness and concern does not mean that individuals are ready to act decisively to control pollution. "The results of this and other surveys generally show that most individuals distinguish between basic values and self-interest motives," Tichenor said.

"That is, while environmental quality and preservation receives support as a basic value, individuals are hesitant to support pollution control measures when such action may adversely affect their self-interests, such as employment or the community's economy."

For example, 69 per cent of the adults responding to a 1969 survey by these social scientists in a 50-mile-long area from Osseo to St. Cloud said that DDT was a dangerous pollutant. However only 39 per cent thought it should be banned.

As one respondent stated: "DDT? I'm against it and all other pesticides. We'd all be better off without putting any chemicals on the soil. Of course, though, we use lots of chemicals on the farm, DDT too. You can't stay in business farming without it."

The distinction between concern for pollution as a general problem and specific action was supported by the 1970 survey in northeastern Minnesota. In Duluth, for example, 64 per cent of those interviewed were concerned about air and water pollution from steel and taconite plants. However only 35 per cent believed that better measures to prevent air pollution from the steel plant should be enforced even though such measures might result in some unemployment and other hardships.

Similar results were found in Ely and Silver Bay. In Silver Bay, 67 per cent of those interviewed expressed concern about pollution from steel and taconite plants. But 75 per cent disagreed with the statement that "although some economic hardships may result, it is better to prevent the taconite plant from discharging tailings into Lake Superior." The taconite plant is the major employer to this area.

The conclusion in all communities surveyed is that economic consequences of pollution control take precedence over environmental control measures if these measures would affect the area's economy, the report noted.

GI Insurance Holders To Get Record Dividend

Veterans administration announced today that 95,000 Minnesota veterans holding World War I and World War II insurance policies will receive over $6.1 million in dividends this year.

John R. Murphy, director of the VA center in the new federal building at Fort Snelling, said these dividends are part of a record $275 million in annual dividends approved for distribution in 1971 by Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson.

The higher dividends, Murphy noted, were made possible because of increased interest earnings of the World War I U.S. government life insurance (USGLI) and the World War II national service life insurance (NSLI) trust funds.

He said that nationally, dividends totalling $255 million and averaging about $64 apiece will go to about 4,000,000 veterans with NSLI policies.

The 103,400 veterans with USGLI policies will receive $20 million in dividends, averaging about $122 apiece. All dividends will be paid in 1971 on the anniversary dates of the policies, he said.

The VA official stressed that since payment of dividends will be automatic, veterans do not need to write to the VA to receive payment. Veterans who have instructed the VA to retain their dividends will receive appropriate statements, he said.

Murphy explained that the amount of dividend a veteran receives depends on such factors as the plan of insurance, age of the insured, age of the policy and its face value.

In 1970, more than 4,191,000 veterans with NSLI and USGLI policies received $264 million in dividends. Those with USGLI policies averaged more than $115 apiece, while those with NSLI policies averaged nearly $61.

Electronic Era Not Appreciated By Some People

Effects of the electronic era are being felt in northern Minnesota, according to the department of natural resources.

Its division of lands and forestry reports that the Birchdale forestry district will no longer be served by the Border Telephone cooperative. This company closed its switchboard on December 31.

The Birchdale headquarters, about midway between Baudette and International Falls, was serviced by one of the last "crank operated" telephone companies in Minnesota. The company had faithfully served the Birchdale residents and forestry station since 1914.

With the new dial operating phones, patrons no longer have to shout into the mouthpiece or become "unplugged" during a discussion.

There are some drawbacks to these new conveniencies, however. It was reported that some of the "old timers" have yet to master the "new fangled" phone.

One long time resident of the area, after trying unsuccessfully all day to reach the forestry office and receiving a variety of tones and squeals, got into his car and drove to the forestry station to conduct his business.

The words he used to describe the new phone are unprintable.

Approve New Awards For 1971 Dairy Day

Reelection of directors and officers and approval of several new awards for 1971 took place at the annual meeting of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association—sponsor of Northwest Dairy Day—Thursday at the Rex cafe in Thief River Falls.

Reelected to the board of directors were Harry Nelson, Kallock; William LaFavo and Merle Smith, Thief River Falls; Clifford Skime, Roseau; Arlie Larson, Bagley, and Sheldon Erickson, Badger.

Others serving as board members are Jerome Wendorff, Stuart McLeod, Donovan Bruggeman, Geno Belto, K. E. Gigstad and Terry Courneya, all of Thief River Falls; Arlen Rice, Fertile; Robert Paine, Bemidji; Amos Thompson, Grygla; Walter Schon and Martin Ellingson, Fosston; and Conrad Swanson, Ada.

Reelected as officers of the association were Stuart McLeod, president, K E Gigstad, vice president; Merle Smith, secretary; and Jerome Wendorff, treasurer.

Dean Syverson was elected as a new associate director of the dairy group, representing dairy service. Other associate directors are Cliff Markuson, manager of the American Dairy association of Minnesota; Bill Dorsey, area coordinator of the extension service, stationed in Thief River Falls; Tom Johnson, ADA regional representative from Bemidji; and Marlan Augustine of rural Thief River Falls, president of the Red River Valley Dairyman's association.

Two new awards approved for 1971 Northwest Dairy day on June 8 were the junior showmanship award and the dairy herd award. Considered but deferred to the next meeting of the board was a suggestion for a county dairy herd award comprised of animals from several exhibitors from each county.

The junior showmanship award will go to an exhibitor 13 years of age or younger on the day of the show, giving an opportunity for younger members to compete on more equal terms for one of the top awards in the show. The dairy herd award will go the the individual who has the best three animals entered in the show.

Other awards will continue as they have in previous years, including best uddered cow (first offered last year) and the outstanding young dairyman award instituted several years ago.

A special event to honor Princess Kay of the Milky Way, Gayle Krogstad of Ada, was also approved by the directors. Final arrangements for the event will be completed at the next meeting of the board. Miss Krogstad, who was crowned Northwest Dairy Princess at Thief River Falls in June last year, went on to win state honors at the Minnesota state fair. She joined Diane Schraeder of Fertile and Kathleen Hjelle of Argyle as Region One princesses who have won the Princess Kay title.

Question of eliminating the Dairy Day parade was also discussed and tabled to the next meeting.

TRF Snowmobile Races This Week

All conditions are "go" for the fourth annual States-Dominion snowmobile races to be held Saturday and Sunday in Thief River Falls, according to chairmen of the event. The usual procedure of cross-country races Saturday and oval lap races on Sunday will be followed again this year in the USSA sanctioned event.

Cross-country racing will take place on a LeMans type closed course which will contribute to spectator viewing. The course has a number of twists and turns to challenge the drivers but plenty of open area to offer sheer speed to the viewers. The course is located just west of Thief River Falls on highways 59 and 1.

Oval track at the Pennington county fairgrounds was built early this winter and should be in excellent condition for Sunday's races. In addition to the racing program, the "Arctic Antics" snowmobile safety show will be presented, featuring Inspector Henderson.

Jaycees note that ample parking and warming area will be available both days and that concessions will be operating both Saturday and Sunday. Prizes and trophies totaling $8,500 in value will be awarded to the top drivers each day, and the total points champion will receive the six-foot traveling trophy.

Darrow Lundeen Named County King Agassiz

Pennington county dairy farmer Darrow Lundeen has been selected as the county's King Agassiz.

The rural Thief River Falls man is thereby also placed in contention for the Red River Valley Winter shows King Agassiz title. The shows, held at Crookston, are scheduled for February 20-28 this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Lundeen will be guests of the winter shows February 25 at the King Agassiz dinner, which follows the crowning of the new king. The Pennington county king has been active in the county Dairy Herd Improvement association, and the National Farmers organization. He has also made extensive change on his farm, turning a portion of it into a wild rice paddy, from which he took his first harvest of rice last year.

Vocational Education Week Observed At TRF School

REMINDER to students that February 7-13 is Vocational Education week in Minnesota is this poster on the bulletin board at the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school. Looking on while finishing touches are being applied by Margie Brewster of Warroad, business student, are John Hanson of Warren, carpentry student, and Dennis Kujava of Badger, welding student. Several students at the school created the large poster, following the design on the cover of the state education department magazine.

Vocational Education week, February 7-13, will be observed at the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school with several tours being arranged this week, according to Arnt Aune, director of the school. Currently the school has 420 students enrolled in 13 courses listed on the enrollment survey form.

All tours will be at the new vocational building on highway one east of Thief River Falls. Businessmen's tours, with special invitations issued through local Rotary and Lions clubs, will be held Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 9:30 a.m. Rolls and coffee will be served, a brief outline of the vocational program given, and tours conducted on the school facilities.

On Friday at 2 p.m. a senior citizens tour will be conducted, with transportation to be provided from the senior citizens center at 415 Arnold av. S. Other group tours may be arranged by calling 681-5424. Individuals interested may also join the Tuesday or Thursday morning tours or the senior citizens visit.

Also planned by the school to draw attention to the vocational education week observance are appearances on the local radio station, announcement on the sign board of the Union State bank, bulletin board display at the vocational school and announcements at weekly meetings of local service clubs.

"We feel that good educational programs are available to students at our area vocational-technical school," Aune said, "and we would like some people to come out and see what is being given for the vocational education dollar. There are 31 area vocational-technical schools in the state with 27 in operation, and enrollment has grown from 2,072 in 1961 to 16,120 in 1970."

Current enrollment in the 13 classes listed on the local public schools enrollment survey totals 420, but that tells only part of the story of the local vocational program. There are also 126 farm units participating in the adult agriculture farm management program, while the fall and winter sessions of adult evening classes had a total of 402 enrolled in the various course offerings.

Enrollment by courses includes aviation airframe and powerplant mechanics, 83; architectural drawing, 19, auto mechanics I and II, 44; auto body, 30; audio communications, 12; business, 86; carpentry I and II, 19; cosmetology, 56; electronics, 22; practical nursing, 20; and welding, 29. Of the total enrollment, 70 are military veterans attending under the GI bill.

As of June 1970 the school had 1,862 graduates and attendance here is still in good demand. From July of 1969 to July of 1970, more than 800 applications were received, according to Robert Reeve, counselor. From July of 1970 to the present time 559 applications have already been received and indications are that last year's total will easily be surpassed. Virtually all courses are operating at capacity or beyond.

Reasons for the increase are varied, Reeve said, but one of the key factors is the cost of vocational education to the student and his family. Tuition in any Minnesota area vocational-technical school is free to Minnesota residents who are under 21 and high school graduates, or who are over 18 years of age and not graduates.

A recent addition to this policy is especially attractive to returning former servicemen. It allows a resident veteran who was under 21 when he entered service to attend any Minnesota vocational school free if he enters within two years of his discharge from the armed forces, Reeve added.

A general attraction to young people is the directness with which a student can reach an occupational objective. Everything he studies in the vocational program will be directly related to the career of his choice and much of his time will be spent learning by doing.

One of the chief functions of the counseling office—a new position at the local vocational school—is to work with the instructors to assist the student who may have made an inappropriate vocational choice or who has difficulty in adjusting to the demands of his specific training program.

Patricia Barry Weds Bruce Saustad At St. Bernard's

Miss Patricia Barry and Bruce Saustad exchanged marriage vows recently at St. Bernard's Catholic church in this city. Officiating at the double-ring ceremony was Rev. Keough Patnode.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Barry and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Saustad, all of Thief River Falls.

Serving as acolytes were Tom and Mike Barry. Brenda Berger was the organist and Howard Johnson sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a floor-length gown of white satin styled in empire fashion with pearl embroidered lace outlining the high neckline and down the front of the bodice. Similar trim graced the long tapered sleeves and court train. Securing her bouffant veil was a headpiece fashioned of three lace petaled flowers edged with pearls and centered with crystal stigmas. She carried a Dutch colonial bouquet of white roses, baby mums, and babies' breath accented with gladioli florets tipped with purple.

Miss Sherry Nettland was maid of honor. Bridesmatron was Mrs. Randall Dempsey; and the bridesmaids were Misses Susan Kleinvachter and Lynda Knutson. All were attired in identical, floor-length, empire-fashioned gowns of deep purple velvet complemented by matching headbows and veils. Each carried a colonial bouquet of lavender lace carnations, white baby mums and white gladioli florets, tied with purple velvet ribbon.

Kathleen Barry, a sister of the bride, served as flower girl. She also wore a deep purple velvet floor-length gown with velvet sash at the empire waistline and a velvet bow in her hair. She carried a basket of lavender lace carnations and white baby mums with purple velvet streamers.

Attending the groom as best man was Bill Weigelt. Larry Peterson, Kurt Gigstad and Neil Josephson served as groomsmen. The ushers were John Barry and Jeff Gustafson Scot Christenson, a nephew of the groom, carried the rings. All were in formal attire.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Barry chose a lavender crepe dress. Silver trim outlined the neckline and edged the long sleeves and sash. The mother of the groom wore a two-piece knit ensemble featuring a navy blue skirt complemented by a navy blue and white top. Both wore identical corsages of white, double, cymbidium orchids.

A reception followed at the dining room at the United Methodist church. The five-tiered wedding cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Tom Fuller, carried out the bride's chosen colors of purple, lavender, and white. Mrs. Robert Kosel and Mrs. Richard Kotschevar cut and served the cake as Miss Patty Waldera poured. Mrs. Robert Kinsman was in charge of the serving table.

Presiding at the gift table was Miss Joan Fellmen and Mrs. Eleanor Fellmen. Mrs. Ruthie Shie and Miss Linda Olson served the punch and Miss Shirley Gillespie was at the guest book. Serving the bride as her personal attendant was Miss Nancy [illegible].

For her going away attire, the bride wore an aqua pantdress.

Kathy Champagne Marries Norman Halsa at Brooks

Baskets of white gladioli and lime green carnations graced the chancel at St. Joseph's Catholic church at Brooks for the afternoon wedding of Miss Kathy Champagne and Norman Halsa, Jr.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Champage of Brooks. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Norman Halsa, Sr., of Warren.

Rev. Henry Carriere officiated at the double ring ceremony. Miss Dianne Delage, a friend of the bride, presided at the organ and accompanied the church choir as it sang "Jesus, Jesus Come To Me" during the communion and "Ave Maria" as the couple knelt at the altar of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her parents. She was attired in an A-line, floor-length gown of white satin with the empire bodice enhanced by a stand up lace collar. Flowing down the front of the gown were two rows of lace accented with covered miniature buttons. Matching lace appliques graced the wide cuffs of the full-length sleeves. Creating back interest was a chapel-length train, edged with lace and secured by a satin bow. A fabric rose on an organza headpiece, etched with seed pearls, held her veil of bridal illusion. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses and lime green and white carnations tied with green and white ribbon streamers.

Miss Sandra Mercil of South Milwaukee, Wis., served the bride as her personal attendant.

Serving as maid of honor was Miss Nancy Wimpfheimer of Thief River Falls. Bridesmaids were Misses Linda and Renee Champage of Oklee. All are cousins of the bride. They wore identical, floor-length gowns of avocado bonded crepe with trim in gold and variated colors at the empire waistline, around the short puffy sleeves and the stand-up collar. To complement their attire, they wore gloves and shoes, dyed to match their gowns, and each carried an arm bouquet of three long-stemmed, lime green carnations, corresponding with the carnations worn on a band in their hair. Their wedding bell pendants with pearl cloppers were gifts from the bride.

Wearing a red dress with white trim was Miss Janel Champagne of Brooks, a sister of the bride, who served as the flower girl. She carried a solitary long stemmed lime green carnation together with a long-stemmed rose which the bride presented at the altar of the Blessed Virgin.

John Halsa of Minneapolis attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Ken Champagne of Brooks, brother of the bride, and Maynard Wimpfheimer of Angus, cousin of the groom. Seating the guests were Ken Wimpfheimer of Thief River Falls, cousin of the groom, and Richard Champagne of Brooks, brother of the bride. All wore black double-breasted tuxedos with lime green carnation boutonnieres.

The mother of the groom wore an avocado green belted dress and the mother of the groom was attired in a red dress with white trim. Both wore identical corsages composed of red sweetheart roses and white carnations.

Special guests at the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Amedie Champagne of Oklee, grandparents of the bride.

Approximately 150 relatives and friends attended the reception that followed the ceremony. Centering the serving table was a square, three-tiered wedding cake, decorated with lime green flowers and topped with a floral archway featuring a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Frederick Berberich, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Bardolf Pederson, aunt of the groom, cut and served the cake. Pouring were Mrs. George Lessard and Mrs. Leslie Seward, aunts of the bride and groom, respectively.

Reception host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tougas. They were assisted by Mrs. Roland Wold, who registered the guests, and Misses Dianne Carriere and Debbie Champagne, who served the punch. All are cousins of the bride.

At the gift table were Mrs. Yvonne Gustafson, aunt of the bride, and Betty Pederson, cousin of the groom. Waitresses were Elaine, Charlene, and Alice Berberich, Mary Lessard, cousins of the bride, Sandy Solvik, cousin of the groom, and Colleen Morinville, a friend of the bride.

The bride, a graduate of the Oklee high school, is employed by Arctic Enterprises, Inc., Thief River Falls. She is currently making her home at Brooks, while the groom, a graduate of the Warren high school, is stationed with the United States Army at Fort Lewis, Washington. KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Mrs. J. B. Murphy
rural St. Hilaire

First may I express my appreciation to the senior homemakers who have been willing to share their personal experiences of yester-year. Just sharing a recollection of a certain instance helps add to the history of this community. Even though, this year, Kitchen Karnival is featuring senior homemakers in observance of the city's diamond jubilee, recipes from today's homemakers are also welcome.

Today's recipe comes from Mrs. J. B. Murphy of rural St. Hilaire. A retired registered nurse, Mrs. Murphy grew up in this community, received part of her nurse's training here and after retiring, returned here with her husband to make their home on a farm. Her recipe for date bars may be used as dessert by topping with ice cream or whipped cream.

Date Bars

1½ cups flour
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup brown sugar
1½ cups quick rolled oatmeal
1 cup softened butter or margarine

Method: Mix ingredients as for pie crust. Pat half of the mixture into a 9 x 12 inch pan.

Filling

1 pound dates, cut up
1 cup water
½ cup sugar

Method. Combine ingredients and simmer until dates are soft, stirring to prevent scorching. Cool. Pour over crust, sprinkle with nuts, if desired, and top with remaining crumbs. Bake for 25 minutes in a 325 degree oven. Cut into bars or squares, depending upon how they are to be served. Freezes well.

Mrs. Murphy, the former Leone Wilde, attended school in this community and received two years of nurses' training in Thief River Falls at the Physicians and Surgeons hospital, the former Mercy hospital and now the Masonic temple. At the time she was taking training, there were 14 or 15 in the class. Since only a two-year course was offered here, to qualify for becoming a registered nurse, her third year of training was spent in Minneapolis at the General hospital school of nursing. Only 38 wrote the state boards when she did. After her marriage, she lived in Minneapolis, Chicago, Ill., seven years in New York and eight years on the West Coast, nursing either full or part time. While on the West Coast, she took a refresher course in nursing and returned to full time duty during World War II. After returning to Minnesota, she worked at Lutheran Deaconess hospital in Minneapolis until she and her husband retired. Since then she has worked part time at Oakland Park nursing home and the rest of the time, she said, she is just "a plain housewife, making quilts, gardening, raising chickens and enjoying retirement."

Living on a farm was a great change for her husband who had lived in the larger cities. Prior to retiring, he was a sales representative for an automotive firm which required traveling and many transfers.

Their only son is living in Indiana and is in the process of moving back to the Twin Cities. Another son was killed in the Korean War.

Planting, cleaning up river beds, reforesting . . . these are just part of our Boy Scouts' activities, on behalf of conservation, their "Good Turn" for 1971.

Pollution . . . Scouts Do Something About It

With vigorous programs to fight pollution, Boy Scouts set a good example. They're doing something now to improve our environment . . . and what they do can inspire action by all.

They Act to Save Our American Resources . . .

Project SOAR, "Save Our American Resources," involves Boy Scouts everywhere. We congratulate our local Scouts, who on February 8th, Anniversary Day, inaugurate their own programs in aid of Project SOAR.

To our local Boy Scouts and their leaders, we proudly offer sincere congratulations on the 61st Anniversary of Scouting.

For your dedicated efforts to fight pollution, to protect and preserve our vital resources, we are truly grateful, Scouts!

Rainy River JC To Host Student Gov't. Meeting

Rainy River state junior college has received the bid to host the annual spring convention of the Minnesota Association of Junior College Student Governments (MAJCSG) to be held on April 29 through May 2. James Mitchell, president of Rainy River senate, expects 175 young people from the state to attend the annual conclave.

The Holiday Inn, located on Highways 71 and 11 West, directly across the highway from the new campus, will be accepting reservations from the senators. The majority of events and meetings will be held on the new campus.

Because the Falls' college is the most remote in the system, it will be the first time an annual event of this stature will be held on the campus of that community college.

Step lively. At the top (or bottom) of the escalator, move on so that others can too.

PROGRAM DEVELOPMENT of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school is the responsibility of director Arnt Aune, right, and assistant director John Tofte. The school has 420 students in its day-time classes, with 126 farm units enrolled in the adult agriculture program and 402 in the fall and winter adult evening programs.

CARPENTRY STUDENTS Lyle Braff (center) and Terance Pietruszewski of Strandquist receive assistance on a project from instructor Dwight Wilson at the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school. There are 19 students enrolled in the first and second year carpentry classes at the school.

Education Week At Vocational School Observed

education program started January 25, bringing the total enrollment this year to 402 participants. Courses are offered in the three general areas of occupational upgrading, community service and hobby courses.

Currently being offered are six classes in occupational upgrading. They include electrical code and maintenance for licensing in the electrical industry, introduction to data processing, industrial math for the machinist, secretarial procedures, building custodian training and industrial photography. Any local industry in need of an employee education program should contact John Tofte, assistant director of the school, and specialized training can be arranged to provide the needed training.

In the community service area, courses are being offered in preparation for high school equivalency diploma, English for the foreign born, and two courses in cooperation with the day care center for retarded adults. These programs permit mentally retarded adults to learn by application of some of the principles of woodworking, metalworking, cooking and sewing.

In the hobby area classes are offered in upholstery, snowmobile maintenance, knitting, introductory guitar and ham radio operation.

"Use of our school facilities for adult education classes gives maximum utilization of our buildings and equipment, thereby providing a greater return to the taxpayer on his investment," Tofte said.

Arnt Aune, director of the school, notes that the "emphasis in education is for accountability", which he says is "nothing new for vocational education."

"The programs are evaluated in the placement of graduates, by advisory committees, by the state department of education's evaluation section, and through follow-up surveys of the graduates and their employers," he said. "The school maintains a one, three and five-year follow-up study of the graduates through their employers."

E. J. Shukle, director of the vocational education center for Polk and Red Lake counties, states that "It is important that the orientation for young people to the world of work begin in the kindergarten. This is the current philosophy of leading vocational educators.

"It should no longer be the feeling of any parent that because a son or daughter selects a vocational career that this is not an exciting, meaningful and socially acceptable or honorable career development.

"The list of technicians, for example, people who work directly with scientists, engineers, medical personnel, trade and industrial leaders and department and division heads, is growing with giant strides.

"Only 20.8 per cent of our high school seniors earn a baccalaureate degree from a college or university. A large segment of our high school graduates does not pursue any type of further educational activity. Objective of a high school vocational program is to develop saleable skills that will lead to entry level jobs or post-secondary training in vocational-technical schools or programs," Shukle said.

The local vocational technical school is conducting programs for high school students in various career fields. It is just one of many programs carried out through the local vocational-technical school to provide area young people with the best opportunity possible to develop a skill which will enable them to successfully compete in the world of work.

"Things that I longed for in vain and things that I got—let them pass. Let me truly possess the things that I ever spurned and overlooked." — Rabindranath Tagore

Suppose They Suggest Holding The Line?

The following editorial by Scott Schoen appeared in the Redwood Gazette:

A governor's commission on salaries paid administrative officials can be depended upon to say that the state isn't competitive either with private employment or other governmental units, and therefore the legislature ought to raise everything in sight.

But what a temptation it must be for the more imaginative taxpayers in the group to hire a ghost writer to take off in quite a different direction.

He might start, for instance, by agreeing that it is ridiculous that the governor's salary is something like half that of the University of Minnesota president or the chancellor of state colleges. Then he might use words like presumptuous and preposterous in rebuking those boards which hire individuals at figures which are an affront to the chief executive and fail to smile when referring to them as public servants.

If it is accurate that 22 or more local superintendents of schools and even a few assistant superintendents are paid more than the $23,500 provided the state commissioner of education, the report might ask whether it is appropriate that districts so over-generous with public funds remain eligible for state aids and federal grants.

Our ghost writer might go on to make quite a case for holding the line on government salaries. He could point to the figure Penn Central's president was drawing when it went bankrupt as pretty fair proof that the "pay more and get better" axiom is largely a myth. One can't always count, either, on the fellow who takes a huge cut in pay in exchange for the power and prestige of a government position—recalling that top-flight automobile manufacturer who fouled up the LBJ administration.

Quite a few people would nod agreement if he advanced the theory that there are mighty few, if any, jobs paying $40,000 and $50,000 a year that the right $20,000-a-year man couldn't handle as well or better. The trick is to find him!

The report might do the cause some small good by pointing out that fat salaries, because of federal and state income levies, are illusory, anyway. It just becomes more revenue-sharing, state with federal government rather than the much sought reverse, when state officials are pushed into higher income brackets. The salary differences so enticingly quoted must be halved, at least, when taxes are considered, a well-known fact which tends to make salary somewhat secondary. The experienced candidate is more likely to move or stay where he is because of the attractiveness of the work rather than what little is left in take-home pay.

It was noted recently that if the top five men in each of the state's more important bureaus received an average boost of $10,000 a year, it would increase the state budget by less than one-tenth of one per cent. But this also would encourage every lesser employee of the state to demand—and not unreasonably expect—to get more than the raise he already is counting on. And no lawyer-legislator with a dream of someday enjoying a quieter life of a judge (or having immediate prospects of trying a case before one) is going to say "no" to substantial wage increases for the judiciary.

"Where's it going to end?" the ghost writer might ask, noting that few public officials at any level are too dull to notice that the state is paying more and, therefore, the county, city, and school district are fair game.

The $4,800-per year paid state legislators will come to look punier and punier to them as they approve millions for others. (Somehow the long-suffering taxpayer seldom more than groans about state salary boosts until the senators and representatives get around to voting one for themselves.)

No such report as we write about, somewhat facetiously, is expected. But it would make some sense in view of inflation and state revenue problems.

More Truth Than Fiction

Comments on the conviction of Charles Manson in a widely-publicized California trial were made in the following editorial from the Walsh County Record at Grafton, N.D.

Charles Manson and three of his "hippie" followers have been found guilty of first degree murder in the bloody slaughter of seven hapless victims, one of whom was actress Sharon Tate.

Thus, "justice has been done"—but the dead cannot be brought back, nor can they be spared the horror of their demise. Hopefully, the conviction will deter other would-be criminals.

There is still the nagging question: "Why?" The parents of Sharon Tate—who lost not only a daughter but an unborn grandchild as well—said, at the end of the long trial, that they were still haunted by the question, "How could anybody do such a terrible thing?"

Theories, of course, abound. It was widely reported that Manson "went bad" because he was "cruelly deprived" as a child. But an enterprising reporter, Dave Smith of the Los Angeles Times, found and interviewed the mother of Manson, who, under another name, lives virtually in hiding. And according to her, Manson was a pampered child who got his own way in nearly everything. "If Charles wanted anything, I'd give it to him," she told Smith.

True, Manson had been born out of wedlock. True, he had not seen his father after he was four years old. But he was surrounded by an overindulgent family, including his mother, her sister (his aunt), his uncle and his grandmother.

"If Charles wanted money to go to the pictures, he'd come and get it from me, and then he'd get it from his grandmother and my sister, too," Mrs. Manson told Smith. "He never had to do a thing to earn what he wanted. He didn't even have to do things around the house, like rake leaves or mow lawns—until Charles came out to California when he was 21, he never worked a whole day in his life."

It's an old saying that the Devil finds work for idle hands to do. Hannah More, the great 18th century English writer and philanthropist, wrote that "idleness among children, as among men, is the root of all evil."

There is ample evidence that these wise words of yesterday, scorned by many today, contained far more truth than fiction.

Acting In Panic

Environment and ecology are household words today as concern for the continued existence of life in the face of a growing population comes to the fore. One opinion on the question is expressed in the following editorial which appeared in the Stephen-Argyle Messenger:

Everyone has read of the disasters that occur when a mob panics. Cries of alarm on a sinking ship or a crowded dance floor are invitations to tragedy. Something of a similar nature takes place in these days of instant communication when the country is flooded with news stories that start millions of people rushing for the nearest "exit". Something of this nature may be happening in the case of the chemical aid to agriculture known as pesticides.

Thanks to emotional reporting, the pressure is on to "ban pesticides" with little thought given to the possibly disastrous consequences. Some of those consequences have been touched upon in a short feature on pesticides in the house organ of a major drug company. The article draws attention the the fact that residents in areas of New York and Connecticut have experienced their second "leafless summer".

It says "The region is returning to the 'balance of nature' that many anti-pesticide advocates have wanted, or so they think." Until 1968, the pests had been kept in control by spraying with DDT. An ineffective substitute has led to the leafless summers for this region.

As the article goes on to point out, "The leafless trees in New York and Connecticut may be an indication of what the future would be like if pesticides were banned: insect-riddled crops; crop-choking weeds growing in abundance; rampant diseases, such as malaria and encephalitis; sky rocketing food prices, unsanitary living conditions and food storage, and city dwellers farming small plots in an attempt to raise their own food because farmers could not do the entire job."

The point of the article in the drug firm's house organ is that pesticides should be used properly, not abandoned. And every effort is being made by the pesticide industry, the government and other interested parties to further public education on the safe application of the vital chemicals that play such a large part in keeping this nation healthy and well fed.

There are two sides to each story and we hope that by the above editorial comment we have expressed the thought that chemicals if "strictly" controlled are not always more detrimental than beneficial.

Strict enforcement of chemicals must be used unless we are only to save ourselves for certain death from pesticide residue. Kind of like being "dead right" in a car accident—no one really wins!

Borrowed Nonsense

A saintly-looking old fellow was running to catch his bus. Just as he appeared to be winning the race, the bus driver, with a fiendish smirk, pulled away from the curb and the wheels splashed muddy water over the old man.

"May his soul find peace," the old man murmured gently, "and the sooner the better."

Dear Editor:

It has just recently been called to our attention that most of our elected Pennington county officials and their assistants are asking a raise in salary of about 15 per cent. It seems to us that if they were not satisfied with their present salary, they could have spoken up before filing time, so that other prospective candidates, taxpayers and voters could of acted accordingly.

Most of these officials are already getting about $10,000 a year and their assistants $375.00 to $400.00 a month, which to most of us seem to be a good salary. This seems like an unreasonable demand when about one half of the rural taxpayers are driving 10-30 miles to work, often in sub-zero weather, trying to make ends meet. And the city taxpayers are not having a picnic either.

The county commissioners have already met several times on this subject and will meet again on Tues., Feb. 9, and probably will have to make a decision on that date. We think every taxpayer should contact their county commissioner before that date, and not just hope someone else does.

Also while on the subject of taxes we would like to mention mobile homes. Only a few days ago, a commercial on KTRF stated that if property taxes were getting you down, you should buy a mobile home and what you would save in taxes would about pay for it.

Are not the people living in these mobile homes using the same schools and other public facilities about to the same extent as the rest of us? They also can vote on bond issues, etc. Is it not about time the law is changed so that they pay their share of local taxes?

House trailers at first were meant for travel, but in recent years have grown in size considerably and have become quite permanent homes.

Sincerely, Bennie Svanjord,
Goodridge, Minn.

To The Editor:

Last week there was a column in the Times concerning the Snowmobile Ordinance, presented by Ron Hetteen before the city council. I would like to change the subject of snowmobiles to minibikes. The council passed the ordinance which stated that travel to and from a snowmobile area is legal by the shortest route if you are at least 14 or over.

If this is legal on all snowmobiles, then why, if you are fourteen, can't you drive a minibike to and from an area? Snowmobiles are very powerful and can be destructive if you don't know how to handle them properly. Minibikes can be destructive also if you don't know how to handle them, but if you can allow a fourteen year old boy or girl to drive a 27-horse-power vehicle, then why can't a fourteen year old be allowed on a four-horse minibike?

It is the same thing but on a smaller scale. There are areas only a few blocks away from our house where we could drive the minibike on private property. So, if we are allowed to drive a snowmobile to and from an area, then why not a minibike?

Dan and Dave Cork

Employees May Take Advantage Of Withholding

Agricultural, household and certain other employees, not subject to mandatory income tax withholding, can now, on a voluntary basis take advantage of the withholding system, according to George Lethert, IRS district director.

An employee who wishes income tax withheld may request his employer in writing to do so. No particular form is prescribed, but the request must contain his name, address and social security number, and a withholding exemption certificate (Form W-4) must be filed.

These employees may avoid having to pay an estimated tax if they request withholding, Lethert indicated. The rules and rates applicable to withholding tax will apply to voluntary withholding.

The employee who requests voluntary income tax withholding can terminate his agreement by written notice to his employer, on a date to be agreed upon by the employer and employee.

New quarterly tax forms will be available for agricultural and household employers for reporting withholding. Withheld income tax and FICA taxes must be deposited by agricultural employers under the new rules effective Feb. 1, 1971. These rules prescribe deposit of taxes when the amount exceeds $200. Household employers will pay income taxes voluntarily withheld and FICA taxes each quarter with their tax form.

If a photo is to be taken from a car, it is always best to shoot from a stopped vehicle. If impossible to stop, it is best to shoot through the front window. Swedish Sculptor Created World's Largest Indian

When Carl Milles, internationally known Swedish sculptor, died in Italy several years ago, "Time" magazine called him a "monument to the fact that monuments can be lovely." Certainly one of his most impressive achievements is the Indian God of Peace which graces the concourse of the St. Paul courthouse.

Unveiled in 1936, the giant Indian was initially received with little more than disgust by taxpayers who questioned the wisdom of investing $70,000 in a three-story-high statue. But respect for it has grown through the years while it has become one of St. Paul's major tourist attractions.

Carved from white Mexican onyx, the Indian stands beneath a ceiling of gold-etched mirror against a setting of blue marble walls. Figures at the statue's base depict a group of Indians smoking the pipe of peace around a council fire. The smoke from the fire rises to form the Indian God of Peace. He holds a peacepipe in his left hand while his right is extended in a gesture of friendliness.

The whole affair is mounted on a pedestal which rotates the statue 66 degrees left and 66 degrees right of center—a complete revolution requiring two and one-half hours.

Onyx for the "World's Largest Indian" came from a quarry in lower California. More than 100 blocks were cut, each weighing five tons, and transported to St. Paul where Carl Milles had set up shop in a neighborhood garage. There the mammoth blocks were fashioned, polished and assembled.

But it was not until many years later that this beautiful monument received its rightful public acclaim. Every Minnesotan should see it.

1967-1969 GMC Buses, Trucks Being Recalled

Recalls of 1967, 1968 and 1969 GMC school bus and truck chassis are being made to correct clutch control linkage components, Minnesota department of public safety commissioner W. R. Hasglund announced today.

The department of transportation reported the GMC will recall 52,000 vehicles of these models to make corrections at the company's expense.

The report stated that understrength parts in the clutch control linkage system resulted in failures of the ball studs, cordon shafts, ball stud brackets and bell crank levers. These failures result in conditions that can cause loss of control of the vehicle, such as the clutch suddenly engaging causing the bus to surge forward, when vehicles are attempting to up-shift or down-shift; and when traveling icy roads involving steep inclines with many turns.

"Any of these situations could spell danger and injury to school children now being transported by these vehicles," Hoaglund warned.

"All school districts or contract operators who are driving these models are urged to take them to GMC dealers for immediate correction."

Diagram of a drug abuser

These are a few of the signs that may indicate that a young person could be abusing drugs or using narcotics. While these symptoms are not proof of drug abuse (most could occur for several other reasons), they should serve to alert parents and friends that a problem may exist.

If you're not sure, talk with your family physician. If you suspect, ask your child point blank, "Are you taking drugs?"

It's a sad thing to have to ask someone you love, but saying "Goodbye" is even sadder still.

Set-Aside Acreage Will Help Balance Supply And Demand

Acreage set-aside provisions of the new farm legislation will serve national needs as well as benefit participants in the farm programs, according to Alvin Payne, state official for farm programs.

By putting cropland into conservation uses, farmers will help prevent production of farm products beyond domestic use and export market needs while at the same time saving good cropland for future use when needed. So reports Payne, chairman of the Minnesota Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee.

He also pointed out that the U.S. department of agriculture has eliminated for 1971 the requirement that set-aside acres must have produced a crop for harvest within one of the three preceding years.

This requirement was changed, he said, because many producers have already made their farming plans for 1971 and in some cases have proceeded with land preparation, including fertilization, based on their familiarity with previous operation of farm programs.

Nearly all producers have made credit arrangements, purchases of machinery, and other financial obligations based on prior [illegible] regarding land set aside from production. Under these circumstances, enforcement of the new regulations for 1971 would have created an undue hardship on many U.S. producers.

Payne said that while the set-aside land need not have been in crop production during the last three years, it is required that the acreage have a production potential equal to the average productivity of the farm. ASC county committees, he said, have the responsibility for seeing that this requirement is met by farmers participating in the wheat and feed grain programs for 1971.

Many practices and uses approved for the set-aside acreage and the conserving base remain basically the same as in recent years. Eligible uses will continue to include grasses and legumes, green manure crops, small grain cover crops, summer fallow, wildlife practices and other conservation practices.

One major change in the uses approved for set-aside acreage permits the planting and grazing of sweet sorghums, except for the five-month prohibited grazing period established by the ASC county committee. In past years producers were not allowed to use sweet sorghum planted on diverted acreage for grazing at any time of the year in line with growing recognition of the need for environmental improvement and pollution abatement, water storage facilities developed in the current year or fall of the preceding year, and filter strips seeded along a stream or ditch to prevent siltation may qualify under the new rules.

Set-aside requirements on summer fallow rotation farms have been eased so that farms with 55 per cent or more of their cropland devoted to summer fallow will be considered to have met their set-aside acreage requirements.

"Producers will still be required to properly maintain their set-aside and conserving base acreages throughout the program year," Payne said. He added that this means adequately controlling erosion, insects, weeds and rodents on land taken out of production to meet farm program requirements.

Payne reminded farmers that signup for the 1971 programs for wheat and feed grain begins March 1 and continues through April 9 at county ASCS offices. Farmers who plan to participate must sign up during that period in order to receive program benefits.

Save those Betty Crocker and General Mills coupons.

This is the plea of the Franklin Junior High school Future Homemakers of America. The future homemakers are conducting a "coupon drive" to collect 600,000 coupons before May 31, 1971. Red Lake Falls Gets $214,000 Grant-In-Aid

Red Lake Falls has received a $214,000 portion of a grant-in-aid from the Department of Commerce.

The money is to assist the city in improving and enlarging the water distribution and storage system in the city. The grant was made by the Economic Development administration of the commerce department.

A large part of the work covered by the grant was completed during 1970. The extra storage and distribution facilities will enable the city to furnish a greater supply of water, thus increasing opportunities for industrial development, population increase and more thorough fire protection.

Money obtained through the grant have also assisted the city in construction of a sewage treatment plant and the development of a sanitary landfill.

National Merit Scholarship Test Feb. 13 At LHS

Lincoln High school will administer the 1971-72 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying test (NMSQT) [illegible] Saturday, February 13.

The test, which will cost $1.50, will be administered only once this school year. It is the first step toward qualifying for next year's National Merit scholarships, which may be earned by high school students who expect to enter college in 1972. These students should register now for the test.

Taking the NMSQT is also the first step for students who wish to participate in other scholarship programs administered by the National Merit Scholarship corporation (NMSC). These programs include the National Achievement Scholarship program for Outstanding Negro Students and Special Scholarship programs administered by NMSC for business and industrial firms.

When his NMSQT scores are reported, each participating student will receive a handbook to help him understand his scores and compare his test performance with that of other high school students across the country. The handbook, which contains information about making college choices and financing a college education, is furnished as a part of reporting the student's test results. Other interpretive materials are sent to the school.

The highest-scoring students in each state will be named Merit Program semifinalists and, if they advance to finalist standing, they will be eligible for merit scholarship consideration. In addition to the National Merit scholarships financed by NMSC, more than 450 business corporations, foundations, colleges, professional associations, unions, trusts, other organizations, and individuals offer scholarships through the merit program.

About 24,800 students have won merit scholarships in the fifteen programs to date. Approximately 2975 new winners of merit scholarships entered college this fall.

Parents Advised On Drug Use By Youth

The mere word "drugs" sends shivers down many a parent's spine. They read about it, they worry about it. But how many parents really know what to look for to determine if there is a drug problem in their own home?

Well-informed parents, and other adults who know the facts about drugs and can present them objectively, may help youngsters develop the self-confidence they need to withstand strong pressures to try them.

The primary requirement for helping a drug abuser is to recognize the problem—a frequently difficult task. Such signs as talkativeness, intense activity, or drowsiness—often associated with drugs—need not necessarily be related to drug abuse.

But marked and persistent negative changes in behavior and appearance could be signs of drug abuse. These may include either loss of energy and increasing passivity, or the reverse—overactivity and jitteriness; difficulty in concentrating; unrealistic attitudes of either overconfidence or inferiority; shortness of temper and difficulty in getting along with others; carelessness about personal appearance; feelings of being "picked on"; and association with known drug users.

Physical signs of drug dependence vary with the drugs involved. A young person suddenly starting to wear dark glasses all the time, even at night, may be attempting to hide the redness of the eyes caused by marijuana use. It may also mean that his pupils are dilated from using LSD. By contrast, narcotics users (heroin users, for example) may have constricted or "pin-point" pupils. Those who take drugs by injections will have needlemarks on their arms, legs or other parts of their body. They may also always wear long sleeves—to hide the "tracks."

If you suspect your son or daughter is a drug user, ask him. Frank discussions between children and their parents that encourage both groups to examine their beliefs can contribute to a better understanding all around. When young people feel free to discuss their feelings, ideas and goals with parents and other adults who really listen, and when there is an atmosphere of mutual respect and trust between adults and young people, the chance of preventing drug-related problems is improved.

Even though a young person may take up drugs, the situation is not necessarily hopeless. The critical test of the parent may be how they act when first learning of the problem. Parents who react with recriminations and panic only tend to make the situation worse. Now is the time for demonstrations of love and confidence and help. However, this does not mean accepting activities that you as a parent consider harmful. It means assisting and supporting young drug users during a difficult period, so that they may be helped to give up drugs.

Medical attention for the drug user is an essential first step in seeking a suitable rehabilitation program. It is advisable to start as close to home as possible, preferably with your own physician. Additionally, the local county medical society, community hospital, health department, mental health center or social service agency may be able to offer assistance or referral to a treatment facility.

Equally important for rehabilitation is treatment of the personal and emotional problems at the root of drug dependence, as well as any mental disturbance which may result from drug abuse. Psychiatric or other qualified counseling is needed to help the drug user learn to face his problems and deal with them by "turning on" to the real world.

A new booklet, "To Parents-About Drugs," was recently written to help parents learn the facts about drug abuse so they can best help their children. The booklet contains information on the psychological and physical effects of specific drugs, how they are taken, symptoms and even their slang terms. For a copy of "To Parents-About Drugs," simply write to Health & Welfare Division, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, One Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10010.

NSJC Loses Again; To Brainerd & UND

It was another one of those long weekends for Northland state junior college basketball coach Chet Engelman as his team lost their 16th and 17th games of the year against only one win.

The Northmen lost to league-leading Brainerd 84-77 Friday night in the Lincoln gym and the local quint was bombarded 106-53 by the University of North Dakota junior varsity on Saturday.

UND jumped out to a 12-0 lead in Saturday's contest before the Northmen came back to trim the margin to just four, 18-14, but then as Engelman described it, "all heck broke loose."

Tony Burke, Scott Rousseau and Ron Visness all collected ten points for the Northmen who trailed 54-26 at the half. Burke also led Northland in rebounding with 14 caroms, his season average.

Greg Hornaday led the Sioux attack with 27 points as six UND players reached double figures for the game.

Brainerd broke open what had been a tight game with a 3-point play with 13:15 remaining in the second half for a 54-52 lead that they never gave up in Friday night's contest.

Trailing 52-51, Brainerd's Mike Burzette connected on a long jump shot and Terry Grewe was on target with a free throw for a 54-52 Red Raider lead with 13:15 remaining in the game.

Northland took a 4-3 lead on Tony Burke's rebound shot with 18:02 remaining in the first half and built up leads of eight points before leading 38-37 at the half.

Scott Rousseau put the Northmen in front 22-14 with 10:54 remaining in the half, but baskets by Jeff Gray and Bill Klein, plus three free throws gave Brainerd the lead, 23-22 with 7:49 remaining.

Steve Haaven put Northland on top 30-29 with 5:20 remaining and Jay Forney's fast break lay-up along with two free throws by Ron Visness, gave the Northmen a 38-35 lead with 1:35 remaining. Burzette hit on another long range shot with 1:12 remaining to trim Northland's lead to 38-37 at intermission.

The Northmen held onto slim leads through the second half until Brainerd reeled off seven straight points with 11:50 remaining in the game for a 58-52 lead.

Brainerd built a 15-point, 80-65 lead with 3:06 remaining in the game until a press by Northland cut the difference to 80-73 with 1:16 remaining. Baskets by Forney and Burke were matched by Brainerd for the final 84-77 count.

Next action for the Northmen will be Wednesday night, February 10, when they will host Fergus Falls in the Lincoln gym. Game time is 7:30 p.m. Coach Engelman stated that he thought the remaining three or four games are possibilities but he thinks Fergus Falls will be the toughest opponent.

Former NSJC grads Tom Super and Nick Neibauer are seeing very little action for the high flying Moorhead state college basketball team this season.

Super has seen action in 12 games thus far but has scored just 14 points at the forward position for a 1.1 average. Neibauer, a guard, has been in 12 games and has scored nine points for a 0.8 average.

Moorhead has suffered just one loss on the season, a 70-68 setback at the hands of Winona state. MSC leads the NIC and is 13-1 for the season. 14 of [illegible] been played away from home.

Just before the opening face-off a young Prowler fan leaned over and asked this writer if he had [illegible] TRF hockey game Saturday night. I replied, "Roseau by 5," to which he said, "sounds like you." So what happens? The Rams win 5-1 as they completely controlled the game from the out-set.

I thought I might have to eat my words as the Prowlers scored at the buzzer ending the first period, but for some reason the score didn't provide the spark that many fans thought it would.

The Prowlers have been faltering in their last few games after enjoying an eight-game winning streak. Against Roseau they failed to follow the puck in on goal after shooting. The Rams scored their goals on rebounds by following the puck into the Prowler zone. Against Bemidji in Tuesday night's 5-1 loss the Prowlers could not clear the puck from their own end.

Roseau played a fine game against the Prowlers, and if they are only the third best team in the state, those other two squads above them must really be potent!

DEFENSEMAN Charlie Brown will be one of the stars appearing at the city arena Sunday, February 21, when the U.S. Nationals will take on the Warroad Lakers. Charlie is a standout defenseman at Bemidji state college where he has been a member of the Beaver's three straight NAIA championship sextet. Mail order tickets for the game can be purchased by writing, Box K, Thief River Falls. Prices are $2 for adults and children under 14 $1. All seats are reserved.

Stephen Tigers Top MCC 55-41

Ron Ueland's Marshall County Central Nordics suffered their third defeat of the season at the hands of the visiting Stephen Tigers, 55-41 on Tuesday, February 2.

The Nordics were victimized by their own cold shooting after they pulled to within five points in the third quarter. The Tigers then hit three quick baskets and pulled away to win by a handy margin.

The Nordics were paced by Marlin Bjornrud with 14, while Ron Voth added 10 points. Phil Chwialkowski netted 18 to lead Stephen in scoring.

Newfolden is now 10-3 for the season and continues to lead the North Border Conference with an 8-0 mark.

The Nordics will be at home to play Greenbush on Tuesday, February 9.

Fishing Seasons Ending Feb. 15

Some popular Minnesota fishing seasons will soon be drawing to a close until next summer, the Department of Natural Resources noted today.

Fishing for walleyes, northerns, muskies and bass will end February 15, not to be reopened again until May 15.

Sunfish, crappies and some other species will still be available to the ice fishermen, however, as these have a continuous season.

The Department also reminded ice fishermen that after February 28 shelters may not be left on the ice over night. They must be removed by 7:00 p.m. but can be put back out again at 7:00 a.m.

Purpose of the regulation is to prevent thousands of fishing shelters from becoming trapped in the spring thaw and causing a severe littering problem when the ice goes out.

Cesare Maniago collected 3 successive shutouts as the North Stars' goalie during the 1967 NHL season.

NHL North Stars Sponsor Clinics

Boys ages 9 to 18 can get major league tips from the Minnesota North Stars on how to play better hockey at free boys' hockey clinics scheduled for Friday, February 12, at Crookston and for Saturday, February 13, at Detroit Lakes and Fergus Falls.

The Crookston clinic will begin at 8 p.m. in the Crookston sports arena, while the Detroit Lakes clinic will start at 9 a.m. at the D. L. fieldhouse. The Fergus Falls clinic will begin at 1 p.m. at the municipal rink.

The hockey clinics are sponsored as a public service by the Minnesota North Stars and The Minneapolis Tribune in cooperation with the Crookston, Detroit Lakes and Fergus Falls recreation departments and Amateur Hockey Associations.

Directing the clinics will be Bob Currie, captain of the 1967 U.S. National hockey team and a former player for the St. Paul Steers of the United States Hockey League and the Minneapolis Millers of the International Hockey League. Assisting him will be Guy LaFrance, former member of the Millers and former coach and player for the Klagenfurt, Austria, Hockey Club, and Art Miller, former player for the St. Paul Steers of the USHL and the St. Paul Saints of the IHL.

Fundamentals to be covered at the clinics will include skating, stick-handling, shooting, passing, offense and defense, proper equipment, positional play, goaltending, sportsmanship and training rules.

The Crookston, Detroit Lakes and Fergus Falls clinics, three of 29 clinics being held during the 1970-71 hockey season by the North Stars and The Tribune, have been approved by the Minnesota State High School League Board of Control.

Minn. Pheasant Pop. Shows Small Trace Of Mercury

An analysis of pheasants collected from throughout the bird's main range in Minnesota showed only small amounts of mercury, the Department of Natural Resources reported today.

The 42 birds were gathered up by the Department's game and fish division and tested by the State Department of Agriculture.

No mercury was detected in 17 of the pheasants and the highest reading on any of the birds was 0.15. This is well below the 0.5 limit set by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration for human consumption.

400-Mile Race Being Planned For Snowmobiles

Plans are being made for a "Triangle Dura-Skill" snowmobile race designed to test the durability of machine and skill and stamina of the driver, according to Mrs. Gerturde Carpenter of rural Thief River Falls, promoter of the event.

Being planned is a two-day race, about 400 miles in length, which will be in the form of a double triangle with starting and finish lines both being at Thief River Falls. Drivers will have to make their own repairs on their own running time, using only the limited parts that they carry on their machines from the starting point. Gasoline and oil would be available at spaced fuel stops.

Road rules and engine and machine specifications would be similar to those of the International 500 race, with engines stock or modified 400cc or less and at least 200 of the machines manufactured. Drivers must be at least 10 years of age and have a legal driver's license and liability insurance in possession.

No contestant who has placed first, second or third in any international, national, state or provincial race would be eligible, Mrs. Carpenter said.

Plans are to conduct the race either February 27-28 or March 6-7 with trophies and prize money offered, including $2,500 for first place. Number of entrants and costs of arranging the race would determine the amount and number of other placing prizes. A special award would be made to the first woman to complete the race.

Entry fee of $75 in certified check, money order or bank draft may be sent before February 15 to Triangle Dura-Skill Race, c-o Mrs. Gerturde Carpenter, Route 1, Box 111, Thief River Falls, Mn. 56701. Also include $1 to help defray expense of mailing, and full name and address so that entry fee can be returned without obligation if, for some reason, the race cannot be held.

Snowmobiles May Not Use Bridges

Snowmobilers may not use bridges which are part of state or county highways, the Department of Natural Resources pointed out today.

Calling attention to a Supreme Court decision handed down on Friday, January 22, arising from an arrest made on the charge, the Department noted that the conviction was upheld on the grounds that the bridge was part of the highways system and the snowmobile operator was confronted with no 'emergency' when he used the bridge.

Sidewalks or shoulders adjacent to the road on the bridge may not be utilized either, said a Department spokesman, because the law permits snowmobile operation only in the bottom and outside slope of ditches.

Trails Offered For Snowmobiles In State Forests

Of the 55 designated state forests in Minnesota, 50 have snowmobile trails, the Department of Natural Resources reported this week.

William Aultfather, director of lands and forestry, said most of the long trails have shelters which can be used for rest or lunch stops.

Trails range from six miles to 40 miles in length.

With more than 1,000 miles of posted trails in the forests, snowmobilers have ample opportunity to pursue their favorite winter past time without infringing on out-of-bounds areas or trespassing on posted private lands, Aultfather pointed out.

Although the division has opened virtually all of the lands under its jurisdiction, there are some parts that have been posted against use because they have been planted with young trees or are under lease or timber permit.

Aultfather suggested that snowmobilers would find travel safer and more enjoyable by staying on the established trails instead of straying off into unfamiliar terrain.

Hearing Set On Bill To Permit Moose Hunting

A hearing on bills to allow moose hunting in Minnesota has been called by Rep. Robert Becklin, chairman of the House committee on natural resources. The hearing will be held at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, February 9, in room 123 of the State Capitol in St. Paul.

Early notice of the meeting is being given so those interested have ample opportunity to present written testimony or arrange to testify in person. Arrangements to testify should be made by telephoning the committee offices at 612-221-6584. Written testimony should be sent in care of Mr. Becklin, Chairman, House Committee on Natural Resources, The State Capitol, St. Paul, Minn.

"The public has expressed great interest in plans to establish a season for moose. The committee is eager for all to have the chance to make their views known to the legislature," Rep. Becklin said.

Snowmobile Fox Chaser Arrested

Anyone who thought the Department of Natural Resources wasn't serious about enforcing the law against chasing and harassing fox and other animals with a snowmobile should think again.

The Department today reported another arrest for this offense, this time in Sibley County.

The local conservation officer arrested Richard Pautsch of Route 2, Gaylord, January 18 for chasing a fox with a snowmobile in Sibley township.

Five persons had observed the violation and reported it to authorities. Pautsch pled guilty and was given a choice of 10 days in jail or a $25 fine by magistrate Kenneth Bull of Gaylord.

SCHOOL BOARD PROCEEDINGS

February 8, 1971
REGULAR MEETING
January 27, 1971

A regular meeting of the School District Board No. 564 was held at 8:00 o'clock p.m. on Wednesday, January 27, 1971 in the library of the Knox Elementary School.

The following members were present: Kenneth Murphy, E. C. Olson, Mervin Prestebak, Wallace Sparby, Maynard Wedul and Superintendent Johnson. Absent were George Martin and Charles Samuelson.

A motion was made by W. Sparby, seconded by K. Murphy and carried to approve the minutes of the meeting held January 14, 1971.

A motion was made by M. Wedul, seconded by E. Olson and carried to approve the leave of absence for John Kopari.

A motion was made by W. Sparby, seconded by K. Murphy and carried to approve a high school equivalency certificate for Francis S. Gibbs.

A motion was made by M. Wedul, seconded by E. Olson and carried to hold the next school board meeting in the Library at Mark Twain-Franklin.

A motion was made by W. Sparby, seconded by M. Wedul and carried to adopt the Title III Resolution.

A motion was made by K. Murphy, seconded by E. Olson and carried to adopt the Title II Resolution.

A motion was made by E. Olson, seconded by W. Sparby and carried to adopt the Title I Resolution.

A motion was made by M. Wedul, seconded by W. Sparby and carried that the payroll be paid from one bank (Union State Bank) and the disbursements be paid from the other bank (Northern State Bank) and that this system be alternated each year at the beginning of the fiscal year.

There were 11 visitors at the school board meeting.

Without going to any additional space in the junior high school in 1971-72 school year, the 7th and 8th grades will have to go to traditional type classes. There will be a class size of 25 to 35 students. Unless there is some type of additional space made available there will be a problem of over-crowding with the 100 additional students in the junior high school.

There is the possibility of leasing temporary classroom space for the junior high complex, this will be investigated by the Superintendent's Office.

A motion was made by W. Sparby, seconded by E. Olson and carried to adjourn to a building tour at 9:20 p.m.

SIGNED: Kenneth D. Murphy, Clerk
APPROVED: Mervin Prestebak, Chairman

Superintendent's Report
January 27, 1971

1. NO CHANGES IN BUS DESIGN are required in new standards to be announced by the National Highway Safety Bureau, in spite of recent findings that many school buses are unsafe. The Bureau insists that any push for additional safety restrictions should originate at the local level. Such restrictions, according to the Bureau would increase costs of school buses at a time when most school boards are facing undue operating costs. A spokesman for a parents' organization indicated such a plan is unrealistic in that most local districts and taxpayers will not submit to change and any changes will have to be a matter of legislation.

2. Shutter installation for the 1971 Chev bus recently ordered will come as factory installed equipment. The superintendent contacted the Chevrolet truck division and found that radiator shutters were available by factory installation. Thus the shutter was ordered for this vehicle through the local dealer. Apparently the regional office had not received sufficient information to inform our local dealer before our bid date.

3. Commissioner Casmey and his assistant appeared before the Senate Education Committee on Monday indicating the unrealistic formula for educational aid, $404 per pupil unit, does not in reality equalize educational opportunity in Minnesota. Both men discussed a new formula based upon state aid of 52 per cent per school district as being more realistic. This would require about $865 million. Two years ago the legislature made its appropriation at $611 million. The legislature still must face the question of where additional funds are coming from to finance education in Minnesota. According to the governor's office there is a $500 million gap between budgetary requests and anticipated revenues. Another unanswered question still exists: How will Governor Anderson's proposal for 100 per cent state funding of educational costs be financed on a state wide basis?

4. Local business men were contacted by Administrative Assistant Bailis who learned that they were most pleased with the student conduct in downtown stores, etc. Most indicated that there was little shoplifting and the like carried on by students and that during the school day their absence from the business establishments was most evident.

5. TEACHER EVALUATIONS

Final recommendations from building principals concerning all teachers are due in the Superintendent's office on or before February 15. Teacher contract recommendations to the school board will be made by the Superintendent on the basis of these evaluations at the February 22 meeting of the Board. Preliminary assessments were made by the principals on all new probationary teachers earlier this fall and are on file in the Superintendent's desk.

6. Teacher negotiations: Mr. Isaacson, chairman of the Teachers' Council, met with the superintendent yesterday afternoon and requested permission to have the council appear at the February 8th meeting to begin the negotiations for the school year 1971-72. Permission was granted.

6a. Items to be settled before negotiation proceedings:

a. Adoption of an official school calendar for the coming year. (Recently the Superintendent presented a proposed calendar but the board took no official action.)

b. Longer working day for teaching personnel - 8 hours? and MPT conventions.

c. Exclusion of MEA as paid working days - build calendar around these days. It is a well known fact that all teachers do not attend their conventions. Therefore these should not be paid working days.

7. According to U.S. News and World Report, December 28, 1970, wage increases already guaranteed for 1971 have reached an all time high of 20.5 cents per hour. A survey showed that the median pay raise due in 1971 under long term contracts written earlier is 3.4 cents per hour higher than those built into the 1970 programs. The U.S. Labor Department stated that these raises will amount to an increase of 7.8 per cent, the highest on record.

Median Raises Set for the Calendar Year 1971

Industry	Per Hour (40 hr. wk)	12 months
Construction	75.5 cents	$1570.40
Trucking	25.5 cents	530.40
Food, beverages	20.0 cents	416.00
Services	18.9 cents	351.52
Transp. Equip.	15.2 cents	316.16
Apparel	12.1 cents	251.68

U.S. News also estimated by 1980 some 20 million American families, more than 30 per cent, are expected to be earning more than $15,000 a year at today's price levels compared with 15 per cent of 7¼ million families this year. Individual's income will still rise 40 per cent per person during the 1970s after inflation is cancelled out.

8. School Bus Study - A study was made of the expenditures of the two 1963 Ford School buses that are to be traded in on the three new units this next summer. The study showed that new motors were installed in each vehicle at about 60,000 miles. Vehicle (89) had a total of 109,432 miles as of January 22, 1971. From April 18, 1964 through May 30, 1970 a total of $3,876.08 was expended for repairs, upkeep and tires. Unit (88) had a total of 137,275 miles as of January 22, 1971. From March 26, 1965 the total expenditures through May 30, 1970 amounted to a total of $2,877.02. Mr. Hamerlinck has the records available for a more detailed break down of expenditures.

9. Preliminary Report - Alternative School Plant Development Plans - It would seem that as a board consideration should be given to the direction the school district should proceed in solving its building problems. Recently the Superintendent contacted the buildings and ground division of the State Department of Education and discussed the matter with its director, Mr. Tollarud. He approved any plan of "pay-as-you go" construction provided the district had a master plan developed by an architect. Thus it would be possible to attempt a two or four room addition per year until such date that the total Mark Twain enrollment would be housed in the addition. At this writing a major question exists as to the heating capacity of existing boilers. The Superintendent is in communication with the architect that designed the building and facilities, and should within the next few days, receive information concerning this factor.

Mr. Mervin Prestebak
President, School Board
District No. 564
Thief River Falls, Minnesota

Dear Mr. Prestebak:

The Annual Meeting of Thief River Falls Jaycees, Inc. will be a dinner meeting, and will be held Tuesday, February 23, 1971 - Elks Club rooms - 6:30 p.m.

Since Taxation seems to be a subject of much controversy and misunderstanding, it has been decided that this meeting should be an open forum for a frank and thorough discussion of this subject.

To that end, we are inviting the officials of the City of Thief River Falls, the officials of Pennington County, and the officials of School District No. 564, to be our guests, and explain their side of the tax situation.

This meeting will be open to the public, and we believe that our citizens will want a candid and frank explanation of the reasons for the increase in the various budgets, the necessity for reevaluation of real property at this time, and many other things that if explained thoroughly will do much to eliminate the deep concern now permeating our whole community.

It appears that at least a part of our problem is misunderstanding and a lack of knowledge about tax problems that should be thoroughly explained.

Will you be kind enough to inform us who will be on your "team" part of this program, so we can properly arrange the program agenda.

Sincerely,
Don M. Olson
President

Card of Thanks

We are very grateful to all of the people who helped us in any way, after the fire which destroyed our home and most of our belongings on January 16. We have tried to write or call to personally say thank you to everyone, but in the confusion we are sure we have unintentionally forgotten someone. So thanks to you all. We'll always remember the kindness shown us and our children. Sincerely, Ron and Betty Wtaniewski and family. 1t11p

Card of Thanks

I wish to express my sincere thanks to Dr. Thorsgaard, the nurses and the nurses aids for the good care that was given me while I was hospitalized. Also to Pastor Peterson, the Trinity church, the Golden Years Group, also the Golden Age Choir and to the Ruth circle and others who sent cards and flowers. Your kindness and thoughtfulness has been much appreciated. May God richly bless you all. Mrs. Alf Lokken 1t11p

NOTICE

Effective at once, the Village of Newfolden will no longer provide ambulance service. Some of the reasons being because of stricter regulations by the Minnesota Dept. of Health, regarding Vehicle being used and etc., and also the lack of enough personnel, a minimum of 6 or 10 people, to man an ambulance 24 hours a day, every day of the year. Anyone needing ambulance service are asked to call the Thief River Falls, Karlstad, or Warren hospitals. The Village Council 2t12c

Card of Thanks

I wish to express my sincere thanks to Dr. Herber and the hospital staff for their care and Pastor Walla and Pastor Kalmoe for their visits and prayers. Thanks for the lovely flowers, gifts, and cards and visits, both at the hospital and after I came home. A special thanks to Mrs. Julia Hoppe, Mr. and Mrs. John Erickson and Mr. and Mrs. Ragnvold Olson for all you did for me. May each of you be rewarded for your kindness. Minnie Lausness 1t11p

Prowler Quint Wins Two; Over Pirates and Fosston

Junior center Tom Kays saw just 48 seconds of playing time and scored only three points Friday night, but the 6-2 reserve was the hero of the Prowlers' 53-51 overtime win over Crookston.

Kays entered the game when Rande Smith fouled out with 49 seconds remaining in the overtime period with the Prowlers leading 48-46. Big Bob Menzhuber tied the contest at 48-48 with his two free throws as Kays entered.

Kays stepped to the free throw line with 41 seconds remaining and gave the Prowlers a 49-48 lead as he sank one of two attempts.

6-7 Menzhuber tied the game once again as he made one of two free throws with 31 seconds remaining, but Prowler forward Dale Hanson grabbed the rebound from the center's second shot with the game tied 49-49.

Hanson's shot from short range missed the target but Kays was in position for a rebound and put in the carom for a 51-49 Prowler lead with eight seconds remaining.

Crookston turned the ball over on the in bounds play and senior Pat Hamilton connected on two free throw attempts for the Prowlers for a 53-49 lead with five seconds remaining. Crookston put in a rebound shot right at the buzzer for the final 53-51 difference.

The win over Crookston, plus a 68-55 triumph over Fosston Saturday night in the Lincoln gym, upped the Prowler season record to 8-6 for the year.

Crookston opened up a 13-7 first quarter lead Friday night, but the Prowlers cut the margin to just two points at the half as they trailed 25-23.

Thief River Falls took the lead in the third quarter as they went into the final stanza leading 35-32.

Scott Youngquist tied the contest 46-all with 1:05 remaining in regulation time and a Prowler turnover gave the Pirates the ball as they called timeout with 11 seconds left in the fourth quarter.

The Pirates worked the ball into Menzhuber and the big center drew a foul from Dale Hanson. With time expired on the scoreboard clock, Menzhuber missed both free throw tosses to end the regulation game in a 46-46 tie.

Dale Hanson was the game's leading scorer and the only Prowler to reach double figures as he tallied 23 points. Menzhuber led the Pirates with 14 points while teammate Tom Smerud reached double digits with 11 points.

The game was close in all departments as the Prowlers held a slight 32-29 advantage in rebounding while Crookston led in the shooting statistics. The Pirates shot 42 per cent from the floor on 18 of 42 attempts. The Prowlers connected on 18 of 45 field goals for 40 per cent. From the free throw line the Pirates shot 62 per cent with 15 of 24 going in, while the Prowlers hit at a 57 per cent clip on 17 of 30 gift shots.

Thief River Falls received a double scoring punch Saturday night with Dale Hanson and Rande Smith each scoring 21 points as the Prowlers dropped the Fosston Greyhounds 68-55.

The Prowler quint led 20-15 at the first quarter break and increased that margin to 38-29 at the half. The Prowlers maintained their nine point margin in the third quarter as they went into the last frame holding a 49-40 lead.

Fosston hit just 33 per cent of their shots from the field on 22 of 67 attempts while Thief River Falls made 27 of 59 for 46 per cent. From the free throw line the Greyhounds hit on 11 of 18 for 58 per cent with the Prowlers connecting on 14 of 30, a 47 per cent mark. The Prowlers controlled the boards with a 41-51 advantage in rebounding.

Whitey Olson's quint has just four games remaining on their schedule before entering district 31 competition. Next action for the Prowlers will be Saturday night when they travel to Dilworth. Next home game will be Friday, February 19, when they will host powerful East Grand Forks.

LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL head football coach Jim Sims was named as the Coach of the Year for region eight Friday by the State Coaches association. Sims piloted his Prowlers to an 8-1 season last fall, including a share of the Northwest conference title for the third straight season. All eight regional coaches will meet in Minneapolis on May 7, for a banquet and a state coach of the year will be named.

112-POUND—Mark Hellerud of Ada has the Prowlers' Terry Tollefson wrapped up in this pinning hold during their match Thursday night in the Lincoln gym. Tollefson led Hellerud 1-0 until the Ada grappler pinned the Prowler with 1:42 remaining in the final period. The Prowlers won the A squad match 31-19 and dumped Ada in the B squad matches 53-15.

LHS Wrestlers 4-5 With 31-19 Win

Leading by just three points with two matches remaining, the Thief River Falls Prowlers received pins from 175 pounder Steve Thorstad and heavyweight Jerry Myers for a 31-19 wrestling victory over Ada in the Lincoln high school gym Thursday night.

Ed Krystosek's grapplers are now 4-5 in dual meets for the season with just three matches remaining before tournament time. The Prowler wrestlers will travel to Mahnomen Thursday night, February 11, before hosting Fertile in the Lincoln gym Saturday evening, February 13. The Prowlers will close out their regular season at Crookston on Tuesday, February 16.

Mike Ambuehl gave Ada an early lead Thursday night when he worked over Lonnie Olson for a 15-0 decision in the 95 pound match to give the Vikings a 3-0 lead. Ambuehl gained a first period takedown and nearfall and added to his total with a pair of second period reversals and two third period nearfalls.

Ron Kalinoski put the Prowlers in front 5-3 with his first period pin of Roger Nelson. Kalinoski led 2-0 on a takedown before getting the pin right at the first period buzzer.

Ada regained the lead, 8-5 on Mark Hellerud's third period pin of the Prowlers' Terry Tolleison in the 112 pound match. Tolleison led 1-0 on a second period penalty point before Hellerud came back for the pin with 1:42 remaining in the third period.

Dean Dahl tied the contest 8-8 with his 4-0 win over Ada's Paul Lines at 120 pounds. Dahl scored on a second period reversal and predicament for his win.

Rick Nordhagen executed a beautiful arm drag takedown in the first period and added a third period reversal to lead Mark Dyrdahl 4-0 before the Prowler pinned Dyrdahl with 21 seconds remaining in the final period.

Ada climbed back to within 13-11 in the 133 pound match as Jerry Julin bombed Dave Furuseth 11-4. Furuseth led 2-0 in the first period on a takedown but Julin came back to score on a first period reversal and led 5-2 at the end of the second period on a nearfall. Julin scored in the third period on two predicaments and a reversal while Furuseth tallied on a third period reversal.

Prowler captain Jerry Muzzy added five points to his team's total the easy way at 138 pounds as Ada forfeited the match to put the Prowlers in front 18-11.

Mark Kaushagen put Thief River Falls in front 21-11 with a 7-2 win over George Hess at 145 pounds. Kaushagen scored in the first period on a takedown but Hess came back to tie the match on a penalty point and an escape before Kaushagen added a second period reversal and a third period nearfall to his total.

Ada's Jeff Sorenson brought the Vikings back into contention with his third period pin of the Prowlers' Bob Sorvig in the 154 pound match. Sorenson led 5-0 at the end of the first period on a takedown and a nearfall and scored nine points in the second period to lead 14-0 before the fall with 1:23 remaining in the final period.

Paul Dahlin narrowed the Prowler lead to just 21-19 at 165 pounds as he gained a first period takedown and nearfall for a 5-0 win over the Prowlers' Jerry Osmundson.

Thorstad put the finishing touches on the Vikings at 175 pounds as he turned Bruce Docken over for a third period pin. The Prowler led 10-0 before the pin on a first period takedown and nearfall and a second period reversal and nearfall before getting the pin with eight seconds remaining in the match.

Heavyweight Jerry Myers gained a first period takedown before pinning Gene Annenson with 36 seconds remaining in the first period for the 31-19 triumph.

THIS ADA cheerleader couldn't bear to look as 175 pound Steve Thorstad of Thief River Falls was pinning the Vikings' Bruce Docken to insure the Prowler's 31-19 wrestling victory Thursday night in the Lincoln gym. The Prowlers led by only three points with two matches remaining but pins by Thorstad and heavyweight Jerry Myers gave the Prowlers their win.

Roseau Handles Prowlers For 5-1 Hockey Victory

Roseau opened up what had been a tight game with three goals in the third period Saturday night for a 5-1 region eight hockey victory over Thief River Falls in the Roseau arena.

Bob Tuff's pucksters tied the contest 1-1 with a goal at the end of the first period before Roseau took complete control of things and skated to an easy win.

The Prowlers have four games remaining on their schedule before entering the region eight tournament on February 23. Next action for the local skaters will be tomorrow night (Tuesday) when they will host East Grand Forks in the city arena. The Prowlers will also see action Thursday night when they travel to Crookston for a make-up contest.

Junior wing Mike Hallie put Roseau in front 1-0 Saturday as he beat Prowler goalie Brian Peterson from ten feet with just 51 seconds gone in the game. Line-mates Jeff Tangen and Rick Burggraf were credited with assists on the play for the Rams.

Roseau carried the play for most of the first period as they out-shot the Prowlers 14-5. Thief River Falls tied the contest with one second remaining in the first period on a goal by John Wangberg. The Prowlers drew a face-off to the left of the Ram's goal and center Jeff Bottem fired the puck to Wangberg who shot the disk past startled Ram netminder Tim Delmore as the buzzer sounded.

Roseau overcame the late goal by the Prowlers as they took the lead in the second period on Hallie's second goal on a rebound from the right side with 6:23 remaining. Rick Burggraf was given an assist on the score.

The Rams received third period insurance goals from Mike Broten, Mitch Brandt and Tim Fevold as the Rams out-shot the Prowlers 32-24 for the game.

Broten's score came with only 47 seconds gone in the final period on a deflection with Kent Langlie and Robert Harris getting assists on the play.

Brandt put his team on top 4-1 as he fired a hard slap shot from just inside the blueline with 12:48 remaining in the game. Again it was Langlie and Harris getting assists on the power play goal.

Roseau's final score came off the stick of sophomore center Tim Fevold on a power play with 6:20 remaining.

Presentation of the initial salary request by the Thief River Falls teachers' negotiating council and decision by the board to use five rooms of Mark Twain elementary school for junior high school purposes took place at the regular meeting of the Thief River Falls board of education Monday evening. The session was held in the cafeteria at Lincoln senior high school.

Vern Isaacson, chairman of the negotiating council, said the initial request would total approximately $280,000 more than last year. This total, he said, would include salary increases and requests for changes in pay for extra-curricular activities, as well as requested fringe benefits. In response to a question from a board member, he said this would represent an increase of approximately 10 per cent of the school's instructional expense for this year.

Other members of the negotiating council presented various phases of the teachers' official request. They are Miss Janet Shaw, Miss Ellen Clark, Mrs. Edith Etter and Art Welter.

Isaacson said that the salary proposal for 1971-1972 (see accompanying table) is designed to encourage teachers to receive further education and additional credits, since the increments are greater in that portion of the schedule showing additional credits.

Asked how the negotiating council had determined the $7,500 request for a starting salary, the council chairman said it was determined "somewhat arbitrarily" but that the package was below the 15 per cent increase recommended by the Minnesota Education association.

Isaacson requested another meeting date from the board, and when the next regular school board meeting date of February 22 was suggested, indicated that an earlier meeting would be preferred. He asked if the board had a date by which it wished to have negotiations completed, and was reminded that deadline dates for various actions in negotiations are included in the meet and confer law. The board agreed to study the initial proposal and to contact the negotiating council regarding a date for the next meeting.

Additional Requests

Included in the teachers' request in addition to basic salary increases were full family hospitalization insurance for all married professional personnel whether heads of household or not; income protection insurance; extra-curricular pay based on a percentage of the salary base of $7,500; salaries for summer school, curriculum development and other similar professional duties outside of the regular school term at two-thirds of the individual's daily salary; additional elementary principals; additional preparation time for elementary teachers; maternity leave so that a teacher may return to the teaching position two months after the birth of her child; increased pay for substitute teachers from $21 to $30 per day and from $12 to $21 per half day for certified BA degree teachers, and from $15 to $34 per day and $9 to $15 per half day for non-degree certified teachers; choice of being paid monthly or twice a month; unrestricted accumulation of sick leave with 12 days allowed per year; adoption of a grievance procedure and a suggested teacher evaluation policy.

It is expected that each of the points will be discussed in greater detail as the negotiation process continues. The board has not indicated at this time whether it will negotiate as a board, appoint members to meet with the faculty group or secure the services of a third party to handle its negotiations. Last year the board chose to retain a negotiator for its bargaining sessions.

Space Problems

After discussion of difficulty in scheduling at Franklin junior high school, the board voted to authorize use of five classrooms in the Mark Twain elementary building for junior high school purposes. Further consideration will be given at a later meeting to providing space for the elementary classes to be displaced by the junior high school. Several possibilities for rental quarters are being considered, it was noted at the meeting.

Regarding the transfer of rooms at Mark Twain elementary school to the junior high school, Supt. L. M. Johnson listed several alternatives available for the elementary classes. He suggested placing the fifth grade classes in the National Guard armory (available for $2,800 for the school year plus $3 per day for janitor service and the school district to furnish paper towels, toilet tissue, soap, waxes and sweeping compound) and grades three and four in either the Redeemer Lutheran church facilities or the former Carnegie public library.

"Other plans to handle a bulging school population include extended school year (various propositions) and double shifting (i.e. 7-12 and 12:15-5:15," the superintendent said.

He reviewed several plans for operating on an extended school year, including the 45-15 plan which provides for 45 days of classes and 15 days of vacation

JUST ANY OLD THING can be worn to the Mrs Jaycees Charity ball on Saturday, February 20, at the Elks club rooms. Demonstrating some of the old garments which could have been worn to charity balls in years gone by are chairmen of the various committees for the 1971 event. Appropriately enough, the theme of the charity ball this year is "Diamond Jubilee" in observance of the 75th anniversary of the incorporation of Thief River Falls. "Women can go to any lengths to attend this event," quipped Mrs. Jon Larson, publicity chairman. "Mini, midi or maxi are all acceptable, and more and more women are wearing the pants in the family, too." In the foreground are Mrs. Tom Dimich, decorations, and Mrs. Phil Ballingrud, special events. Behind them are Mrs. James Sims, tickets, and Mrs. Glen Haugen, program. Standing, left to right, are Mrs. Larry Hjelmhaug, general chairman, Mrs. Mike Lehree, food, Mrs. Jon Larson, publicity, and Mrs. Rosa Taylor, decorations. Proceeds from the charity ball go to the Falls Day Activity center for the retarded.

Rural Reassessments Inevitable, Board Told

Inevitability of a reassessment of property in Pennington county was affirmed to the Pennington county board of commissioners Tuesday by William E. Slavin, director of the property appraisal division of the Minnesota department of taxation. It means that Pennington county will be subjected to the same type of reappraisal as the city of Thief River Falls, probably this year.

In a letter presented to the county board, Slavin noted that the property appraisal division was petitioned (by the Thief River Falls city council) to review the assessment level in Pennington county other than the city of Thief River Falls. A survey was made of all recent sales in the county, the property was viewed, sales verified and pictures taken.

"Only one conclusion can be drawn from this study and that is a reassessment is inevitable," Slavin wrote. "The level of assessment is below the recommended state level and the dispersion is so great that only a reassessment could correct this condition.

"A reassessment would have been ordered at this time, but the revolving fund used to finance our reassessment projects is depleted and the order will have to be delayed until additional funds are made available," the letter states.

In a special interview Tuesday, Slavin informed the Times that every effort will be made to accomplish the reassessment before the next taxable year. He said the county board could elect to make the reassessment with county funds, or the state could order the action taken when its revolving fund is replenished. In either case, the county would bear the cost of the reassessment, since state funds must be repaid.

Slavin said that 90 sales of property were surveyed by six property appraisers late in January. At least one sale in each township of the county was included with the greatest number among individual townships being in North and Rocksbury, immediately adjacent to Thief River Falls.

The department used figures for adjusted market value (one-third of actual estimated market value) and amount of sale to determine a ratio of adjusted market value to sale price. A ratio of 30 to 36 per cent is considered acceptable by the department.

Of the 90 sales surveyed, the ratio varied from 130 per cent to 4.6 per cent, Slavin said, with only 16 per cent of the sales within the 30 to 36 per cent ratio. Median sale was 27 per cent and more than 50 per cent of the sales were below the acceptable level, he noted.

Considered ideal was a piece of property in Reiner township which was sold in January of 1969. It had an adjusted market value of $3,348 and sold for $10,000 for a ratio of 33.4. In other words, the value of the property as estimated by the assessor was nearly perfect in relation to the price the property brought when sold.

At one end of the variance was a parcel of property in St. Hilaire which was sold for $375 but had an adjusted market value of $312 for a ratio of 138.5 per cent. The property was valued for taxation at nearly four times its sale

Kinsman Named Fieldman For Bergland Office

U. S. Representative Bob Bergland has announced that a full time 7th District Congressional office will be opened in Moorhead. Official opening date of the office, to be located in the Halliday office building, will be announced soon.

To staff the office and provide field services throughout the district, Bergland has hired Mrs. Marie (Irene) Maring, Georgetown, Robert Kinsman, Thief River Falls; and Jack Dressen, Browerville. Mrs. Maring, a former Clay county DFL chairwoman, will manage the district office and coordinate services in the Moorhead area. Kinsman, owner of Border Drug in Thief River Falls, will be the field representative in the northern section of the district. Dressen, a Long Prairie teacher and athletic director, will service the southern part of the district.

"The locations of our two fieldmen—Jack Dressen in the south and Bob Kinsman in the north—will insure the availability of a representative to those who cannot readily visit Moorhead," he said. "I hope," Bergland concluded, "that no one will hesitate to contact a district representative, or my Washington office, whenever they need my help."

Until the district office officially opens, Bergland's representatives can be reached by calling (218) 236-5050 in Moorhead.

Deer Pork Club Studies Culture Of Glodioli

Gladiolus culture was the topic at the Deer Park garden club meeting held February 2 at the C. R. Appelman home.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Mrs. Catherine Hagman of Thief River Falls. Mrs. Hagman has grown and exhibited gladioli for a number of years. She stated that she has between 75 and 100 varieties and the past season cultivated approximately 1,000 bulbs. She explained her method of raising gladioli.

On display were floral arrangements, featuring the Valentine motif, brought by the members. These arrangements were discussed and judged. Winning the door prize, which consisted of several named varieties of giant-size gladioli bulbs, was president Helen Chervestad.

Those present were Mrs. Selma Sanders, Mrs. Aller Skreland, Mrs. Clara Radniecki, Mrs. Helen Chervestad, Mrs. Dorothy Svanjord, Mrs. Lola Swanson and Mrs. Inga Caan, together with the guests, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hagman, Kenneth Hagman and C. R. Appelman.

Lunch was served by the hostess.

Barbara Thompson And John Holthusen Are Wed

Miss Barbara Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walda Thompson of Thief River Falls, and Johnny D. Holthusen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny H. Holthusen of Grygla, exchanged marriage vows at 10 a.m., December 26, at St. Bernard's Catholic church in this city.

Rev. Frank Reid officiated at the double ring ceremony witnessed by approximately 150 relatives and friends. Organist was Margaret Oven. She played "Wedding Prayer" as the processional and also accompanied Mrs. Sherman Idso, a friend of the couple, as she sang "The Lord's Prayer".

The traditional Christmas setting formed the background for the bridal party. On the altar were potted red poinsettias and white mums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of white lace, styled with a fitted bodice with stand-up collar and long, full sleeves with wide cuffs accented with white satin bows. Softly gathered tiers of lace formed her bouffant skirt. Matching lace edged her chapel-length, peacock veil of bridal illusion, topped by an elbow-length veil and held in place by a crown of pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses accented with green foliage.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Carol Thompson of Thief River Falls. Other attendants were Mrs. Robert Manderud of Goodridge, sister of the groom, and Miss Geno Wells of Thief River Falls, a friend of the bride. They wore identical floor-length gowns of red velvet with gold braid at the neckline, waistline and around the cuffs of the full-length sleeves. To complete their attire, they wore red shoes, white gloves and each carried a colonial bouquet of red carnations.

Miss Jodi Thompson of Thief River Falls, a sister of the bride, was flower girl. Her floor-length gown of white lace was styled similar the the bride's.

Serving the groom as best man was a close friend, Bruce Lillevold of Thief River Falls. Groomsmen were Robert Manderud of Goodridge, brother-in-law of the groom, and Jerry Holthusen of Grygla, a cousin of the groom. The ushers were Glen Geving of Anoka, brother-in-law of the groom, and Sheldon Peterson of Grygla, cousin of the groom. For their attire, the men of the wedding party chose black tuxedos with black bow ties.

The mother of the bride was attired in a gold colored, knit, A-line dress accented with black accessories. The mother of the groom wore an off-white dress, also complemented by black trim and black accessories. Both wore identical corsages of red roses surrounded by white carnations.

Special guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Loeffler, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Thompson, grandparents of the bride, and Mrs. Inga Salveson, grandmother of the groom.

The parents of the bride hosted a reception at Redeemer Lutheran church parlors following the ceremony. Serving as reception host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Loeffler, uncle and aunt of the bride. Miss Paula Thompson, sister of the bride, presided at the guest book. Mary Jo Loeffler served the punch and Kathy and Glen Thompson and Charles Simenson distributed the groom's cake. All are cousins of the bride.

Centering the reception table was a three-tiered wedding cake baked and decorated by Mrs. George Simenson, aunt of the bride. The cake, separated by swan dividers, was topped by a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Henry Thompson, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Wallace Holthusen, aunt of the groom, cut and served the cake as Mrs. Francis Loeffler and Mrs. Ardell Holthusen, aunts of the bride and groom, respectively, poured.

Waitresses were Susan Thompson, Debbie Simenson, Patricia and Sharol Loeffler, cousins of the bride, and Sharol Curlman, a friend of the bride. At the gift table were Monica Loeffler, Sandy Stodola, cousins of the bride, and Margaret Fkniulik a friend of the bride.

For traveling on the wedding trip, the bride wore a bonded woolen pantsuit of purple herringbone with black accessories.

The bride is a senior at Lincoln high school and is presently making her home at 204 North Tindolph. The groom, a graduate of Goodridge high school, is with the United States Army, stationed at Fort Lewis, Washington. Photo, Rude Photography, Thief River Falls

One Driver Has Three Hit & Run Mishaps One Day

Three hit and run accidents, causing damage to six cars and all involving the same driver on the same day, rank high in the list of Thief River Falls police activities for the past week.

Things started to go wrong for Berent Thompson, city, at 11:55 a.m., Tuesday, February 2, when officer Richard Melvie reported seeing a car operated by Thompson strike two cars while leaving a parking space on Main avenue in front of the police station. Damage to the car parked to the rear of Thompson's vehicle was $75 while the car parked in front was estimated to receive $20 in damage. The Thompson vehicle sustained $10 damage. Thompson was charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

At 4:30 p.m. on February 2, cars owned by Francis Haack, Grygla, and Alfred Nabben, city, parked on Red Lake boulevard, were struck by a vehicle driven by Thompson. Damage to the two parked autos was estimated at $200 each while Thompson's car sustained another $100 damage.

Finally, at 5:05 p.m. February 2, a car driven by Nancy Younggren, rt. 1, Hallock, traveling east on Third street, had signaled for a left turn onto Markley when struck in the rear by a car driven by Thompson.

A third party recorded the license number of the Thompson vehicle as the car pulled around the corner and left the scene. Damages were estimated at $200 to the Younggren car, $400 to the other. The accident is still under investigation by the city police department.

On February 1, Mark Mattson, city, reported the theft of his jacket, gloves, cap and book from the Club, between 3:30 to 4:45 p.m. The jacket is valued at $50, the gloves $5 and the cap $2. The case is under investigation by the police department.

A car driven by James Goldesberry, city, traveling east on Third street was struck in the rear as it slowed down from the railroad crossing at 4:14 p.m. on February 2. Arlin Larson, city, was the driver of the second vehicle. Damage to Goldesberry's car was set at $200, to Larson's car $400. Charges have been filed in the case.

At 4:41 p.m. February 2, a car driven by Daniel Rasmussen, Newfolden, was going east on Second street when he hooked his front fender with a car driven by Ron Braaten, city, who was making a left turn from Main avenue onto Second street. Damage to the Rasmussen vehicle was $25 with the Braaten car suffering $175 in damages.

A city cab driven by Louis Miksatko, city, was involved in a collision with a car driven by Larry Raymond, rt. 1, city, at 4:45 p.m. February 3. The cab had stopped for a stop sign going onto First street and pulled into the street before realizing he couldn't clear traffic, and as he attempted to back up he collided with the Raymond car. The Raymond vehicle suffered an estimated $40 damage and charges are pending in the case.

Jan Joppru, rt. 1, city, reported to the police the theft of her father's car at 8:15 p.m. February 2. The car is a 1967 green Dodge Polara, 4 door with a 1968 license plate of 7GC-983. The case is under investigation.

Also on February 2, the police received a report of an attempted theft of money at the King Koin Launderette at 10:50 p.m. The tops of three washing machines had been pried off in order to reach the machines' money compartments. About $30 damage was suffered by the washing machines and the top of the popcorn machine was also broken in an attempt to reach the coins. This case is also still under investigation by the police department.

At 11:18 p.m. February 2, a car operated by Chenney Hruby, rt. 3, Goodridge, was traveling west on Third street and attempting a right turn onto Red Lake boulevard and was struck in the rear by a hit and run vehicle. The driver of the second car, a black and gold Ford Torino, said he was going to pull around the corner, out of the traffic, but failed to stop. Damage of $75 was suffered by the Hruby car while the Torino has an unknown amount of damage to the front end.

Joe Splide, Kerlstad, was driving a car going east on Greenwood boulevard and attempting a left turn into an alley when he was struck by a snowmobile at 10:03 a.m. February 6. The driver of the snowmobile, Randy Hanson, city, suffered a bruised right knee as the machine glanced off the car and came to rest against a light pole. Hanson was checked at Northwestern hospital and released. There was no damage to the car but the snowmobile suffered $250 damage.

At 5:15 p.m. February 6, a semi-tractor driven by Andrew Kuznia, Stephen, struck a ¾-ton pickup in the rear. Driven by Gordon Hunt, rt. 1, city, the pickup was attempting to slow down for the Great Northern tracks on Third street when stuck. There are charges pending in the case.

The police department received a call from Tom Ekeren that a snowmobile owned by S. E. Sinding was stolen between 10 p.m., February 6, and 9 a.m. February 7, from behind the Ekeren drug store. The snowmobile is a 1970 model Arctic Cat Panther, with 440 JLO engine, license number J 3892 and serial number 0 39693. The value of the snowmobile is undetermined. The police are investigating the case at the present time.

At 12:22 p.m. February 7, a car driven by Harold Green, rt. 5, city, was traveling north on Maple when struck in the front side by a car driven by Thomas Hanson, city, who was going west on Gulf street.

Green complained of a sore right arm while Hanson suffered a broken nose. A passenger in the Hanson car, Nita Hanson, suffered a broken jaw.

Also on February 7, a car driven by James Bredeson, city, who was turning left onto Second street from Main avenue, jumped the curb and hit a stop sign at 8:30 p.m. Charges are pending by the city police.

for each student per quarter, plus Christmas and Independence day vacations for the entire school system.

A double shift plan is considered the least advisable by authorities.

Approve Fire Escape

Addition of a fire escape to the south side of Knox elementary school this summer by the school staff was approved by the board. The board had studied the situation at the last meeting and the state fire marshal had inspected the building but not ordered the fire escape installed.

Board member Maynard Wedul reported on meetings of the carpentry advisory committee at the vocation-technical school. Officers of the committee include John Peterson of Peterson Lumber company as president, Wedul as vice president and Jon Metusalem as secretary. Wedul recommended the building of a storage shop for use by the carpentry and welding departments of the school. Preliminary estimates of cost ranged from $1,800 to $2,000 for such a building and more specific figures were requested.

Board members Wedul, E. C. Olson and Kenneth Murphy were named to serve on a study group for educational television for the area by Mervin Prestebak, board chairman.

A meeting with the St. Hilaire school board revealed that only one teacher presently on staff at St. Hilaire has a four-year degree and that two part-time teachers will not return to teaching next year due to age or lack of certification. By state statute, Thief River Falls school district must issue teaching contracts to St. Hilaire teachers for the 1971-72 school year.

Supt. Johnson indicated that the Spruce avenue parking problem had apparently been solved with nearly all junior high school cars using the school parking lot.

In 1913, when the American Cancer Society began, uterine cancer was a major cause of cancer death among American women. That same year, Dr. George Papanicolaou—creator of the Pap test for diagnosis of uterine cancer—emigrated to the United States. Since the test was developed, death from this form of cancer has been cut by more than 60 per cent!

Women's Seminar Features Fashion At Winter Shows

"Fashion - A Look Behind the Seams" will be the theme for the Red River Valley winter shows women's seminar. Topics will include the clothing market, a preview of spring fashion trends, a style show and demonstrations. The seminar, free to the public, will be held Monday, February 22, at Trinity Lutheran church in Crookston. Registration and coffee begin at 9 a.m.

Miss Thelma Baierl, University of Minnesota, will present the morning program beginning at 9:45. "The Clothing Market—Behind the Seams" will be her topic. "Consumers spent eight per cent of their incomes on clothing—clothing which is produced by a highly competitive industry. The consumer who understands the market is better prepared for selective shopping," Miss Baierl says.

As an extension clothing specialist, Miss Baierl is author of many extension bulletins. She received her BE from Wisconsin state and her masters from the University of Wisconsin. She was previously a clothing specialist in Pennsylvania and North Dakota.

At 1:30 p.m. Mrs. Margaret Carlson's topic will be "Fashion Goes to All Lengths". She says, "In spring 1971 there will be no one right look. Mini, midi, maxi or pants can be worn with confidence. Individuality is the key note." Trends will be previewed and tips given on wise shopping to update the wardrobe.

Mrs. Carlson is a former University of Minnesota area extension agent. She received her bachelors and masters degrees from Kansas state university. She has worked as a fabric consultant and extension home economist in Kansas.

Workshops featuring clothing demonstrations will be included in the day of fashion. The demonstrations will be given at 10:45 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. at Trinity church. Presentations will be on "Knits Know-How," "Just Sew Lingerie," "Shaping the 70's" and "Accent on Accessories".

A style show luncheon will be held at 11:30 a.m. at the Eagles hall. It will feature spring fashions and tickets for the luncheon are $2.50. The luncheon is by reservation only. Tickets may be purchased by sending $2.50 with a return, addressed, stamped envelope to Mrs. Harvey Windels, 214 Golf Terrace Dr., Crookston 56716 by February 15. Checks should be made payable to UMC faculty women.

The event is coordinated by the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service and the University of Minnesota, Crookston, Faculty Women.

Bergland Joins In Sponsorship Of House Bill

U.S. Representative Bob Bergland is co-sponsoring legislation to provide coverage for outpatient drugs under Medicare, it was announced today by the 7th District Congressman. The bill would benefit nearly everyone over 65 and eliminate the need for monthly premiums, file claims or record keeping by elderly patients.

According to Bergland, this legislation would "correct one of the greatest short-comings of the present Medicare program—that of totally ignoring the high cost of medicines needed in the home." Currently only prescription drugs used while a patient is in the hospital are covered by Medicare.

The bill co-sponsored by Bergland would provide prescription and certain non-prescription drugs at a cost to the patient of only $1 per prescription. The program would reimburse the pharmacist directly for the rest of the cost. Drugs covered by the program would be determined by a national board of medical men.

"One of the greatest strengths of this program, as opposed to other drug bills," Bergland said, "is that it would provide coverage under part A of Medicare rather than charging higher monthly premiums under part B of Medicare. The elderly—who carry the burden of 25 per cent of the national drug costs although they make up only 10 per cent of the population—can ill afford higher premiums," Bergland added.

Assessing the possibility of the bill's passage, Bergland said: "The broad support it is receiving from Congressmen from both parties and from all sections of the country indicates that the legislation will receive high priority. The outlook for passage is excellent," he said.

Fourth Annual Snowmobile Race This Week

with siren and red light. The program concludes with the inspector passing out cards containing the do's and don'ts of snowmobiling.

The show is only part of Arctic Enterprises' safety promotion program and is designed to emphasize snowmobile safety in an interesting and entertaining manner. A fast-paced show, Arctic Antics proves delightful to all age groups.

Since the safety patrol was organized, Inspector Henderson has appeared at snowmobile races in International Falls, Crookston, Grand Rapids, Minot, N.D., Ironwood, Mich.; Eagle River, Wis.; Peterborough, Ont.; Rochester, N.Y.; St. Paul; and will be going to West Yellowstone, Mont., and Alberta, Canada.

This Saturday the safety patrol will be shown on the Wide World of Sports television program as it covers the Kawartha Cup races, won by Roger Janssen of the Arctic Cat racing team. Inspector Henderson has appeared dozens of times on television programs and radio talk shows as well as parades and festivals.

SHOOTING TRESPASSERS and people who cut fences may be against the law, but not in the comedy snowmobile safety show "Arctic Antics". This fence-cutting, shoot 'em up skit is one of a number of scenes featured in Inspector Henderson's International Snowmobile Safety patrol show which will be presented Sunday at the States-Dominion snowmobile races in Thief River Falls.

Social Security Man Here Tues.

Ted Hoversten, field representative of the social security district office in Grand Forks, N. D., will be in Thief River Falls at the city auditorium on Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Cars Collide At Goodridge

Officers from Pennington county sheriff's office reported investigating an accident February 5.

At 11:45 p.m. in Goodridge a car driven by Curtis Johnson, Goodridge, collided with another driven by Chris Nelson, also of Goodridge. The drivers apparently misjudged the width of their cars on the village main street, county road 29, which was narrowed by snowbanks and parked cars. The left front fenders of the cars connected, causing $200 damage to each machine. Charges are pending.

Reassessment Of Rural Area Is Inevitable value.

At the other end of the variance was a piece of property in Rocksbury township which was sold for $30,000 but had an adjusted market value of only $1,380. The property was sold for about seven times the value assessed to it.

(The examples are given only to show the variance in the state department's report on its survey. It is recognized that individual properties will have different values to different owners and buyers.)

Slavin emphasized that the city council was entirely within its rights in petitioning for a state survey. Any individual or organization can make that request if involved with sharing in the costs of a taxing district. Since Thief River Falls is involved in Pennington county and School District 564 support, it is entirely qualified to ask for the study.

In other business Tuesday, the county board set salaries of all county employees with the exception of elected officials and department heads. Another meeting on that question will be held tonight.

In general, county highway department employees will receive an increase of $33 per month. Clerk hire authorized included the following amounts for the offices listed: Clerk of court, $8,500; sheriff, $2,400; treasurer, $4,400; register of deeds, $7,200; attorney, $2,760; judge of probate, $4,800; assessor, $3,000; and auditor, $8,000.

Resolutions were adopted favoring retention of motor vehicle registration on a county basis and participation in an area law enforcement task force to train, equip and operate a pool of law officers available for local emergencies. Costs of the program are to be covered by a federal and state grant.

Approval was also given to payment of $2,490 as the county's share of the soil conservation service program in Pennington county. Robert Kloubec, district conservationist, noted that the Little Black River watershed had been studied and dropped due to inability to justify the cost.

The board also favored an adjustment in court costs to be assessed in municipal division cases to cover costs of the county law library. The law library has previously been supported by county appropriation and at times by individual purchases.

No action was taken on a request by the Pennington County Historical society for a $4,500 grant.

Council Airs Proposals On Several Subjects

Passing resolutions supporting proposals of the Minnesota League of Municipalities provided the bulk of business transacted last night (Tuesday) by the Thief River Falls city council, according to city clerk Bill Fahey.

The council approved a resolution supporting the league's endorsement of the proposed federal revenue sharing plan, and also agreed to support a league-proposed amendment to the Minnesota statute relating to independent city policemen's and firemen's relief associations.

Basically, the amendment proposal sets guidelines for the operation of retirement funds for firemen and policemen in the 33 Minnesota cities which have independent funds, instead of including the men in these departments in the Public Employees Retirement association (PERA). One of the provisions included in the proposed amendment is that the normal level cost of benefits in the independent associations should be shared by the employer and employee on a 40-60 basis, as is the case with PERA.

Another proposal stipulates that the board of directors of the independent associations consist of five members—two representatives of the employees, two representatives of the city government, and a chairman selected by the other four members.

A third proposal in the amendment asks that any changes in the by-laws concerning the benefits provided by the independent associations be subject to approval by the city government, and the fourth proposal provides guidelines for expansion of benefits offered by the association. The final provision of the proposed amendment gives employers the option of placing policemen and firemen hired in the future under the PERA retirement fund.

The proposed amendment will have no effect on Thief River Falls firemen, who are already included in the PERA program. The local police department, however, is one of those in the state which has its own retirement fund, and the legislature's action on the proposed amendment would affect the operation of this fund.

Other matters considered by the council included the approval of the appointment, made by Mayor A. E. Jacobson, of Duane Walton to the public library board. Walton replaces Gene Belto, who has resigned from the board.

The council also heard the third reading of the ordinance annexing the 59-acre parcel of land located west of the city. The land includes that being developed as a mobile home park by Daniel Helle, and also Noper's Second addition.

The members also heard an application for the transfer for the beer license at the Covered Wagon tavern from the present owner to Business Management Services, Inc., represented by Merle Kruschke, corporation president, and Allen Nichols, secretary-treasurer of the corporation. The transfer was referred to the license committee for recommendations.

State Spending Near $5 Billion In Budget Asked

Total state spending during the coming biennium will be nearing the $5 billion mark if the governor's proposed budget is enacted into law by the legislature.

This is revealed in a statistical analysis of the proposed budget and over-all state financing completed this week by the Minnesota Taxpayers association.

"The MTA analysis is wholly statistical in content," states Harold T. Miller, research director of the association. "It draws no conclusions as to taxing and spending methods or levels."

The MTA review of the proposed budget discloses the following pertinent facts:

Proposed total spending in all funds for the two-year period starting July 1, 1971 is $4,921,307,778—up $1,185,979,906 or 31.75 per cent over total spending for the current biennium. Of the nearly $5 billion total, $910,887,957 is estimated to come from federal funds.

The proposed budget would increase state aids to elementary and secondary schools by $390 million, would provide aid for private schools in the sum of $27 million, and would provide an additional $6 million to extend school transportation for elementary and secondary school students. It proposes increases in property tax relief to home owners, senior citizens and renters, which would cost an estimated $52 million.

New programs and supplementation of existing programs would add another $9 million. This makes a total of $484 million in recommended increases for new programs and changes in existing programs.

The proposed budget calls for a reduction in personal property tax reimbursements totalling $66.8 million, and a decrease in home owners' property tax reimbursements—by reason of increased school aids—totalling $20 million.

The governor's proposed financing calls for elimination of the federal income tax deduction on state individual and corporate income tax returns, to produce an estimated $499 million, an increase in the individual income tax rates in certain brackets, to produce $73 million, a one per cent increase in the corporate income tax rate, to yield an additional $[illegible] million, increases in cigarette and liquor taxes, to produce an added $68.5 million; and increased taxation of capital gains, to produce an additional $42 million.

Gov. Anderson's proposed budget also would extend the sales tax to [illegible] now exempt, and would increase the gross earnings, inheritance and gift, and bank excise taxes, to add an additional $32.6 million. This makes a total of $762 million of proposed additional taxes in the two-year fiscal period.

Interest Rates Reduced On VA Loans For Homes

Latest reduction in interest rates on home loans guaranteed by the Veterans administration will save a veteran or serviceman more than $3,000 on the average new home loan over a 30-year financing period.

John R. Murphy, director of the St. Paul VA center, commenting on the reduction from eight to seven and one-half per cent approved recently by housing and urban development and the VA, said the estimated saving is based on the $24,400 average loan on a new home.

Computed at 34 cents per $1,000, monthly savings on mortgage notes would be $8.43, or $3,035 over a 30-year period, he said. Murphy noted that the average loan on an existing home is $18,400, which works out to a monthly saving of $6.71 at the 7.5 per cent interest rate. The veteran or serviceman would save $2,410 over a 30-year financing period. He said that the VA guarantees 60 per cent up to a maximum of $12,500, whichever is less, of home loans made to veterans and servicemen.

The VA's loan program covers veterans of World War II and the Korean conflict who have served at least 90 days of active duty, as well as those who served at least 181 days after Jan. 31, 1955, provided they have not previously used their loan entitlement.

He said that veterans discharged for a service-connected disability, and widows of eligible veterans are also entitled to GI loans. Further information can be obtained from the VA center located in the Federal Building at Fort Snelling, or from Veterans county service officers throughout the state.

Vo-Tech Loses Two In State Tournament

MARSHALL UNDESSER, 6-3 center for the Thief River Falls vocational-technical school Aquarian basketball team, was named to the all-tournament team for his play in the Vo-Tech state tourney last weekend. The Bird Island native scored 16 points in each of two games for the Aquarians as they lost to Alexandria 81-52 and to Staples 77-61.

Defending tournament champion Alexandria won its second straight Minnesota vocational-technical school basketball crown Saturday, February 5, by defeating Thief River Falls in the first round and dumping Canby in the finals in the Alexandria high school gym.

Lyle Longtin's Thief River Falls Aquarians were clobbered by the Norsemen of Alexandria 81-52 in the first round game Friday night and lost in the consolation contest the next afternoon to Staples, 77-61.

The Aquarians placed one man on the all-tournament team as 6-3 center Marshall Undesser scored 16 points in each game.

Alexandria returned four all-tournament players from last year's squad, led by 6-4 center Rick Podratz with a 22.3 season average. Also on last year's tournament team were 6-1 guard Mike Carr, 6-3 forward Greg Schultz and 6-5 forward John Schenk.

The Norsemen spurted to a 25-6 first quarter lead as Podratz scored ten of his 32 points in the opening canto. Alexandria maintained their 19-point advantage at the half as they led 38-19 at intermission. The Aquarians out-scored Alex in the third quarter 17-12 to go into the final quarter trailing 50-30 before the Norsemen [illegible] for an 81-52 triumph.

Podratz led the game's scorers with his 32 points while team mates John Schenk and Denny Holtz reached double figures with 16 and 10 points respectively. Undesser led the Aquarians with 16 points while Dennis Jorgenson reached double figures with 10 points.

The Aquarians were able to make just 12 of 24 free throw opportunities while Alexandria connected on 19 of 22 from the gift line.

Staples finished the 1970-71 season with an impressive 9-1 record and were the champions of the northern division of the Vo-Tech conference. The Staples record included two wins over the Aquarians during the regular season.

Staples led by one, 13-12, at the first quarter break before outscoring the Aquarians 24-9 in the second quarter for a 37-21 halftime lead. The Aquarians came back to trim the Staples lead to 53-46 going into the final quarter. Staples held on to their lead in the final quarter however and increased the margin for the 77-61 win.

Bruce Van Norman was the leading scorer for the game with 19 points followed by teammates Dave Perschan with 18, Jeff Hollister 10 and Bob Endrizzi with 12 for Staples. Undesser and Jorgenson each had 16 points for the Aquarians and Milo Reck added ten.

The 1971 all-tournament team included Jeff Hollister and Bob Endrizzi, Staples; Bob Knutson, Ted Stoffel, Barry Christensen and Keith Schultz, Canby; Rick Podratz, John Schenk and Denny Holtz, Alexandria; and Marshall Undesser, Thief River Falls.

Weather Service Explains Winter Weather Terms

National Weather service has again mounted a concerted effort to detect disturbances that may become severe winter storms and to warn the public as these storms approach.

The service uses the terms "watch" and "warning" for winter storms as it does for hurricanes, tornadoes, floods, and other natural hazards. The "watch" alerts the public that a storm has formed and is approaching the area. People in the alerted area should keep listening for the latest advisories over radio and television, and begin to take precautionary measures. The "warning" means that a storm is imminent and immediate action should be taken to protect life and property.

Other winter weather forecast terms describe what people can expect from a winter storm. The word "snow" in a forecast, without a qualifying word such as "occasional" or "intermittent" means that the fall of snow is of a steady nature and will probably continue for several hours without letup.

"Heavy snow" means a fall of four inches or more is expected in a 12-hour period, or a fall of six inches or more is expected in a 24-hour period. Some variation on these rules may be used in different parts of the country. Where four-inch snowfalls are common, for example, the emphasis on heavy snow is generally associated with six or more inches. In other parts of the country where heavy snow is infrequent or in metropolitan areas with heavy traffic, a snowfall of two or three inches will justify a heavy-snow warning.

"Snow flurries" means snow falling for short durations at intermittent periods; however, snowfall during the flurries may reduce visibilities to an eighth of a mile or less. Accumulations from snow flurries are generally small.

"Snow squalls" mean brief, intense falls of snow comparable to summer rain showers. They are accompanied by gusty surface winds.

"Blowing and drifting snow" generally occur together and result from strong winds and falling snow or loose snow on the ground. "Blowing snow" is defined as snow lifted from the surface by the wind and blown about to a degree that horizontal visibility is greatly restricted. "Drifting snow" indicates that strong winds will blow falling snow or loose snow on the ground into significant drifts. In the norther plains, the combination of blowing and drifting snow, after a substantial snowfall has ended, is often referred to as a "ground blizzard."

"Blizzard" means winds with speeds of at least 35 miles per hour accompanied by considerable falling or blowing snow and temperatures of 20 degrees Fahrenheit or lower prevailing for an extended period of time. "Severe blizzard" indicates wind speeds of at least 45 miles per hour plus a great density of falling or blowing snow and a temperature of 10 degrees or lower.

The terms "ice storm," "freezing rain" and "freezing drizzle" warn the public that a coating of ice is expected on the ground and other exposed surfaces. The qualifying term "heavy" is used to indicate ice coating which, because of the extra weight of the ice, will damage trees, overhead wires, and the like. Damage will be greater if the freezing rain or drizzle is accompanied by high winds.

"Ice storms" are sometimes incorrectly referred to as "sleet storms". Sleet can be easily identified as frozen rain drops, ice pellets, which bounce when hitting the ground or other objects. Sleet does not stick to trees and wires, but sleet in sufficient depth does cause hazardous driving conditions.

"Cold wave" indicates a rapid drop in temperature within a 24-hour period. The conditions required to justify cold wave warnings vary, depending on who is using the warning, and where. "Cold wave" means different things to a Wyoming rancher and a Florida or Texas citrus grower.

30 Per Cent Of Employment Is From Agriculture

Nearly 30 per cent of the total employment in Minnesota came from the agribusiness economy in 1969, according to the recent publication from the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

The report, entitled "Serving Minnesota's People and Major Resource Industries", points out the importance of agriculture in both rural and urban areas of the state say University of Minnesota agricultural economists. One of every four persons employed in the major metropolitan areas of Minnesota are engaged in farm input and output industry activities. But even more are employed in rural areas.

The institute of agriculture's programs focus on the state's food and fiber complex—forest resources—youth and families—environmental quality—and quality of living.

Agriculture and horticulture activities in the state generate $4.1 billion and this figure could increase to $6.6 billion by 1980, according to Sherwood O. Berg, dean of the institute.

"Through its many programs, the university's institute of agriculture will serve an expanding role as a catalyst in the development of the state's agribusiness economy. This can mean a substantial contribution to the entire economy," Berg adds.

The report is available from county extension offices.

Takeover Of Meat Inspection By USDA Reviewed

Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald said he is disappointed but not surprised by the announced federal takeover of Minnesota's meat inspection program.

"The Minnesota department of agriculture has prepared a budget which would correct some of the deficiencies outlined by the U.S. department of agriculture. Governor Wendell R. Anderson has approved that budget request and it is currently before the state legislature for its consideration," Commissioner Wefald stated.

Twenty additional personnel including three veterinarians, 15 meat inspectors and two clerical employees are provided in the approved budget request. The department's meat industry division staff presently consists of a director, two veterinary officers, two supervisors, 23 inspectors and three clerical workers.

Commissioner Wefald said he recognizes "that our resources for equaling federal standards were too limited. I also believe that our small but effective staff and the cooperating industry have achieved far more than reasonably could have been expected.

"All Minnesota meat plants," Commissioner Wefald continued, "were found in a satisfactory sanitary condition. The major problem pinpointed by the USDA was insufficient staffing. In short, the USDA requires a much larger staff than the Minnesota department of agriculture has for meat inspection. We are now inspecting all plants that require inspection, but not with the frequency that the USDA demands."

Commissioner Wefald pledged, "the Minnesota department of agriculture will continue to explore meaningful avenues of cooperation with the USDA meat inspection program. The Minnesota department of agriculture will continue as well its efforts to provide wholesome food products for the world's consumers."

Prowlers & Green Wave Skate To Overtime Tie

Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks exchanged goals in both the second and third periods last night as the two region eight teams skated to a 2-2 overtime tie in the city arena.

Bob Tuff's so called "sleeping giant of region eight hockey," wasn't quite awake last night as Prowler netminder Brian Peterson kept his team in the contest with a 40-save effort, compared to "East Side" goalie Gordy Hangsleben's 24 saves.

The Prowlers now carry a 9-5-3 record for the year with three games remaining before entering sub region eight action on Tuesday, February 23, at Roseau. The Prowlers will travel to Crookston Friday night for a make-up contest with the Pirates before hosting Baudette and Warroad on Monday and Tuesday of next week. Game times at Crookston have been set for 5 and 6:30 p.m. due to a scheduled Minnesota North Stars hockey clinic that evening.

Despite being out shot 15-4 in the opening period last night, the Prowlers went into the second period of action on even terms with the Green Wave as each team failed to score. "East Side" had several excellent opportunities turned back by Peterson in the Prowlers' goal.

Junior defenseman Bill Mero almost got the game's first score in the first period as he let go with a hard slap shot that almost slipped under Peterson with 9:14 remaining while the Prowlers were a man short.

Prowler captain Roger Lee just missed scoring with 5:59 remaining in the first period as Hangsleben was able to sit back and fall on the puck just before Lee's slap shot crossed the goal crease.

The Prowlers took a 1-0 lead in the second period as junior right wing Rory Anderson took a centering pass from behind the Green Wave net and hesitated just a moment before letting the shot go that flew into the high right corner of the "East Side" net with 7:45 remaining. Junior center Mike Hamilton was credited with an assist on the Prowler score.

East Grand Forks came back to tie the score at 1-1 when Mark Hughes fired from about 15 feet with 4:43 remaining in the period and with 49 seconds remaining in a Prowler penalty. Dale Pesch and Tim Schroeder were given assists on the play.

The Lincoln skaters grabbed a 2-1 lead with 8:59 remaining in the third period as sophomore Jeff Bottem scored from 20 feet on a hard slap shot from the left side. Defenseman Mike Protz was credited with an assist on the Prowler power play.

"East Side" tied the contest just 50 seconds later on Tim Schroeder's shot from the right side. Prowler goalie Brian Peterson came up with a save on a shot from the blueline and as he tried to clear the puck he was caught in traffic away from the net as Schroeder had a wide open net to shoot at. Tim Hussey was given an assist on the Green Wave score.

Both teams missed scoring opportunities in the third period as Prowler defenseman Rob Swenson brought the puck from behind the Green Wave net only to hit the pipe with 10:27 remaining in the game. "East Side's" Chuck Hughes had a breakaway shot with just 55 seconds remaining in the game as his defender fell down but the Green Wave skater was foiled by Peterson.

The teams exchanged the puck in the overtime period as the Prowlers got off just three shots on goal while the Green Wave managed only one shot at the Prowler goalie during the five-minute overtime.

The Prowler B squad kept its record intact as they won their 15th game of the season without a loss with a 5-2 victory in the preliminary contest.

The two region eight teams skated to a 2-2 overtime tie. Prowler sophomore wing Tom Goddard (6) is all set to knock in a rebound if the "East Side" netminder fails to hang onto the puck during the action in the third period. Next action for the Prowlers will be Friday night when they travel to Crookston to take on the Pirates. Next home game will be Monday, February 15, when they will host Baudette in the city arena. The Warroad Warriors will be in town Tuesday night for the last regular season game for the Prowlers.

Muzzy Lone Prowler Champ At Northwest

Prowler wrestling captain Jerry Muzzy proved that losing weight is not beneficial to just the ladies as he captured the only championship for the Prowlers in the Northwest Invitational wrestling tournament Saturday, February 5.

The senior grappler has been wrestling at 145 pounds for the season until last week when he dropped to 138 pounds where he defeated Craig Balstad of Fertile 8-7 to claim top honors in his weight class Saturday night in the Greenbush gym.

Muzzy defeated Mike LaRochell 11-2 in his first round match and blanked Lance Mandt of Oklee 10-0 in the second round before winning the final match on riding time.

Fertile was the meet's winner, ahead of Waubun, Greenbush, Crookston, Thief River Falls, Oklee, East Grand Forks and Roseau.

The Prowler had the one first place finish and a runner up plus two third place winners and two fifth place finishers for the night.

Prowler 95 pounder Kurt Muzzy wrestled in his first match of the season after suffering a broken arm early in the year and the Prowler drew top-seeded Paul Erickson of Greenbush in the first round. Erickson pinned Muzzy in the opening match but the 95 pounder came back to win two matches in the wrestle-backs for a fifth place finish.

The Prowlers' Ron Kalinoski advanced to the finals of the 103 pound match before top-rated Jeff Sannes of Fertile defeated the Prowler 5-2 for championship honors. Kalinoski pinned his first round opponent and decisioned Alan Bergeson of Oklee 3-2 in the second round before being stopped by Sannes.

112 pound Terry Tollefson defeated Joe Zak in his first round match, but Wayne Belch of Crookston defeated Tollefson 4-0 in the second round of action. The Prowler came back to take a third place finish as he blanked Glenn Jasken of Waubun 4-0.

The Prowlers' Dean Dahl lost his first match in the 120 pound division by a 15-0 count to Bruce Hanson of Crookston and lost in the wrestle-backs, 5-4 to Dave Dahlgsen of Roseau.

Rick Nordhagen finished with a 4-2 win over Rich Jasken of Waubun for a fifth place win after the 127 pounder had lost to eventual champion Murray Tredeman of Crookston 4-0 in the opening round match.

The Prowlers' Tim Wold was another Thief River Falls grappler who met an eventual champ as he lost a 3-0 decision to Lynn Syierud of Fertile in the opening round match of the 133 pound division. Wold came back to pin Rich Paul of Waubun in the wrestle-backs but was pinned himself in the fifth place match by Allen Nadeau of Oklee.

Sophomore Mark Kaushagen lost his first 145 pound match, 7-0 to Paul Whitney of Crookston but came back to drop Lynn Hasson of Greenbush 7-2 before losing to top-seeded Kelly Lundeen of Oklee in the fifth place match.

The Prowlers' Bob Sorvig was pinned with 1:53 remaining in his first 154 pound match and lost in his bid for wrestle-back honors when "East Side's" Ron Partlow pinned him with 2:46 remaining.

Jerry Osmundson met champion Rick Remark of Fertile in the opening round of the 165 pound division and the Prowler was pinned with 5:23 remaining. Osmundson came back to drop Duane Kuzava of Roseau in the consolation rounds before losing to Dean Stinar of "East Side" in the fifth place match.

175 pound Steve Thorstad won his first match, 6-0 over Jeff Rigstad of Greenbush before losing to Reid Whalin of Fertile 7-6 in the second round. The Prowler grappler came back to blank John Marquant of Crookston 4-0 for third place.

Prowler heavyweight Jerry Myers defeated Bob Novaeck of Greenbush in his first match before being pinned by eventual champ Steve Haddinand of Wabun in the second round. Myers pinned John Cournia of Crookston with 5:28 remaining for a third place finish.

The next action for the Prowler wrestlers will be tomorrow night (Thursday) when they will travel to Mahnomen. Next home match for the Lincoln grappling team will be Saturday, February 13, when they will host Northwest champ Fertile in the Lincoln gym with B squad matches starting at 6:15 p.m.

Newfolden Tops Skippers 58-43

Marshall County Central won their ninth straight conference game without a loss, Friday, February 5, as they defeated the Middle River Skippers 58-43.

The Nordics took control of the game early and led throughout the contest. Leading 18-12 at the first quarter break, the Nordics outscored the Skippers 13-5 in the second quarter to take a 31-17 halftime lead. Newfolden held onto their big lead as they went into the final quarter of action with a 47-31 bulge.

Marlin Bjornrud was the only Nordic to reach double figures as the 6-2 senior forward gathered 16 points. Lyle Aune led the Skippers in scoring with 15 points while Donovan Ruud and Bill Gusa reached double figures with 13 and 10 points respectively for the Skippers.

Newfolden was also a winner in the preliminary contest by a 44-33 count.

Next action for Newfolden will be Friday, February 12, when they will travel to Roseau, while the Skippers will be back in action on their home court Saturday, February 13, when they will host Strandquist. B games on both nights will start the action at 6:30 p.m.

A TIME FOR LEARNING

These are the wonderful years, when there is so much to learn — and hours enough in which to learn it.

Youth has an unquenchable thirst for knowledge; also the desire, the capacity and the energy to absorb — if given even a little encouragement. But today, perhaps more than ever before in history, youth does need guidance.

Be sure the young people in your life have the opportunity to examine the whole picture. But in their search for the stars, don't let them forget the miracle of this planet upon which they live and its Creator.

Let them know their church.

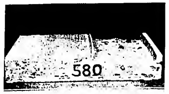
Studded Tires Damage Highways, Tests Show



STUDDED TIRES created the groove at right in this section of test track from the American Oil company laboratories at Whiting, Ind. With unstudded tires the wear averaged about 1-100 inch for the full four million wheel passes; with studded tires the concrete and bituminous pavements wore an average of one and one-half inches after the same useage.

Accompanying the photo and cut line are included the following observations pertaining to the over all safety value of studded tires:

1. Pavement wear caused by studded tires is more than 100 times greater than that resulting from the use of unstudded snow tires. In tests conducted for the Minnesota highway department by the American Oil company at its Whiting, Ind. laboratories, typical Minnesota pavement specimens were subjected to four million wheel passes, first with studded tires and then with non-studded tires, with salt and sand applied to the pavement surfaces during each test.

A dramatic difference in pavement wear occurred. With unstudded tires the wear averaged about 1-100 inch for the full four million wheel passes, with studded tires concrete and bituminous pavements wore an average of 1½ inches after the same usage.

2. There has been a dramatic drop in the highway fatality rate during 1970, both nationally and in Minnesota. Statistics reveal that this drop occurs in regions where studded tires are not used as well as where they are permitted. Careful study reveals that this drop in highway fatalities is primarily due to the efforts of the highway safety act of 1966, which includes crackdowns on drinking drivers and highway improvements such as turn lanes, channelization, signals, grade separations, truck climbing lanes, guard rail improvements, surfacing of shoulders on heavily-traveled routes, elimination of many miles of lip curb on old roadways and the incorporation of the latest design standards to those segments of the trunk highway system not now embracing these features.

The Interstate freeway system, with its inherent high safety design, has produced a fatality rate of two fatalities per one hundred million miles driven versus a rate of five fatalities per one hundred million miles driven for other highways.

3. The Minnesota highway patrol does not use studded tires because its experience with them reveals that the only conditions under which they are effective prevail only about one per cent of the time. Under all but glare ice conditions they have been found to be less effective than ordinary snow tires and on bare pavement surfaces are extremely hazardous because they produce loss of traction on curves during high speed chases.

4. Studded tires, from an overall safety viewpoint, create hazardous conditions by:

A. Wearing ruts in wheel tracks on pavement.

B. Wearing off the lane markers for traffic control. This incidentally is one of the most important safety factors involved in traffic control.

C. Wearing out the skid resistant surface built into the pavement.

5. Studded tires require greater stopping distances on all pavement conditions such as slush, packed snow and wet or dry concrete or asphalt, which represent about 99 per cent of the winter road conditions, with shorter stopping distances occurring only on glare ice, which occurs only about 1.1 per cent of the time, according to the Ontario provincial police report.

6. Studies by the Province of Ontario show that ice conditions prevail throughout the Province only 1.1 per cent of the total day miles between November 1 and March 30. Weather and road conditions in Ontario approximate those found in Minnesota.

7. Troughs worn by studs are now generally ¾ inch deep in the Twin City area and are expected to become one inch deep in a relatively short time. Such troughs will cause side-thrust and sway of the vehicle and an uneven traffic pattern induced by straddling the troughs.

8. Loose studs do occur and are dangerous because when ejected emerge at a tremendous velocity and can cause windshield breakage. One windshield replacement cost about $140 as the result of damage from a flying stud. No one knows how soon he may have another damaged windshield from studs after replacing his first one. Insurance rates will certainly go up to compensate for this damage.

9. So far the highway department has not been able to develop a satisfactory method to repair ruts and trough damage. A continuous summertime program of tying up lanes of highway for bituminous overlays will not be acceptable to the driving public.

10. Wheel track damage creates a drainage problem for the highway surface, and water standing in wheel track troughs causes hydroplaning of the vehicle. Water standing in tire troughs in freezing weather develops ice paths in the highway surface. Water standing in tire troughs causes splashing of water continuously on windshields.

11. The highway department, according to curves projecting future wear, predicts that with the continued increasing rate of studded tire use, the wear on I-35W near 36th street will reach a depth of 1 inch before many years. However, this depth develops an unacceptably high level of hazardous lateral vehicle tipping movement.

12. Studded tires raise the noise level, contrasting directly with the highway department's efforts to eliminate highway noise in cooperation with environmentalists.

Studded Tires Damage Highways, Tests Show

STUDDED TIRES created the groove at right in this section of test track from the American Oil company laboratories at Whiting, Ind. With unstudded tires the wear averaged about 1-100 inch for the full four million wheel passes; with studded tires the concrete and bituminous pavements wore an average of one and one half inches after the same usage.

Minnesota highway department today released a photograph of a section of test track from the laboratories at Whiting, Ind., where the American Oil company is conducting research on the effects of studded tires upon pavement surfaces.

Accompanying the photo and cut line are included the following observations pertaining to the over-all safety value of studded tires.

1. Pavement wear caused by studded tires is more than 100 times greater than that resulting from the use of unstudded snow tires. In tests conducted for the Minnesota highway department by the American Oil company at its Whiting, Ind. laboratories, typical Minnesota pavement specimens were subjected to four million wheel passes, first with studded tires and then with non-studded tires, with salt and sand applied to the pavement surfaces during each test.

A dramatic difference in pavement wear occurred. With unstudded tires the wear averaged about 1-100 inch for the full four million wheel passes, with studded tires concrete and bituminous pavements wore an average of 1½ inches after the same usage.

2. There has been a dramatic drop in the highway fatality rate during 1970 both nationally and in Minnesota. Statistics reveal that this drop occurs in regions where studded tires are not used as well as where they are permitted. Careful study reveals that this drop in highway fatalities is primarily due to the efforts of the highway safety act of 1966, which includes crackdowns on drinking drivers and highway improvements such as turn lanes channelization, signals, grade separations, truck climbing lanes, guard rail improvements, surfacing of shoulders on heavily-traveled routes, elimination of many miles of lip curb on old roadways and the incorporation of the latest design standards to those segments of the trunk highway system not now embracing these features.

4. The Interstate freeway system, with its inherent high safety design, has produced a fatality rate of two fatalities per one hundred million miles driven versus a rate of five fatalities per one hundred million miles driven for other highways.

3. The Minnesota highway patrol does not use studded tires because its experience with them reveals that the only conditions under which they are effective prevail only about one per cent of the time. Under all but glare ice conditions they have been found to be less effective than ordinary snow tires and on bare pavement surfaces are extremely hazardous because they produce loss of traction on curves during high speed chases.

4. Studded tires, from an over-all safety viewpoint, create hazardous conditions by:

A. Wearing ruts in wheel tracks on pavement.

B. Wearing off the lane markers for traffic control. This incidentally is one of the most important safety factors involved in traffic control.

C. Wearing out the skid resistant surface built into the pavement.

5. Studded tires require greater stopping distances on all pavement conditions such as slush, packed snow and wet or dry concrete or asphalt, which represent about 99 per cent of the winter road conditions, with shorter stopping distances occurring only on glare ice, which occurs only about 1.1 per cent of the time, according to the Ontario provincial police report.

6. Studies by the Province of Ontario show that ice conditions prevail throughout the Province only 1.1 per cent of the total day miles between November 1 and March 30. Weather and road conditions in Ontario approximate those found in Minnesota.

7. Troughs worn by studs are now generally ¾ inch deep in the Twin City area and are expected to become one inch deep in a relatively short time. Such troughs will cause side thrust and sway of the vehicle and an uneven traffic pattern induced by straddling the troughs.

8. Loose studs do occur and are dangerous because when ejected emerge at a tremendous velocity and can cause windshield breakage. One windshield replacement cost about $140 as the result of damage from a flying stud. No one knows how soon he may have another damaged windshield from studs after replacing his first one. Insurance rates will certainly go up to compensate for this damage.

9. So far the highway department has not been able to develop a satisfactory method to repair ruts and trough damage. A continuous summertime program of tying up lanes of highway for bituminous overlays will not be acceptable to the driving public.

10. Wheel track damage creates a drainage problem for the highway surface, and water standing in wheel track troughs causes hydroplaning of the vehicle. Water standing in tire troughs in freezing weather develops ice paths in the highway surface. Water standing in tire troughs causes splashing of water continuously on windshields.

11. The highway department, according to curves projecting future wear, predicts that with the continued increasing rate of studded tire use, the wear on I-35W near 36th street will reach a depth of 1 inch before many years. However, this depth develops an unacceptably high level of hazardous lateral vehicle tipping movement.

12. Studded tires raise the noise level, contrasting directly with the highway department's efforts to eliminate highway noise in cooperation with environmentalists.

Race Time Again

For the fourth consecutive year, Thief River Falls Jaycees are hosting the annual States-Dominion snowmobile races. Cross-country racing will take place on Saturday with lap racing on the oval track to be held on Sunday.

We know that it takes a tremendous amount of time and effort to prepare for and conduct one of these large community events, and that the Jaycees have put their chapter on the line for thousands of dollars in prizes. They are hoping for a break in the weather and a large number of entries in the race program—pus a good crowd of spectators, of course—to make the event a truly successful one.

It is amazing to view the durability of Minnesotans as they watch the snowmobile racing events. They stand on the snow-covered bleacher seats or the piles of snow surrounding the race area, peering into a northwest wind as the drivers maneuver aound the half-mile oval. They cheer and shout and kid one another, many of them harboring a secret inner desire to be a part of the race itself.

The racers themselves are an especially hardy breed, fighting not only the elements but sometimes balky machines, rough race courses and fast competition for a moment of glory, a shiny trophy and a few dollars to fix the machine and pay the entry fee of the next race.

If you have seen the races here before, you will want to see them again. If you have never watched a snowmobile race, and there is at least one drop of competitive blood in your veins, you owe it to yourself to take in the races this weekend.

Guoronteed Income

President Nixon's proposal for a guaranteed annual income has met with a general "anti" reaction across the country. Following are a number of comments collected by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States:

Supporters of the Administration's Family Assistance Plan with its guaranteed income would have the public believe that it would solve the problem of skyrocketing welfare costs.

We haven't been shown yet how doubling the welfare rolls and guaranteeing a minimum family income, with loose work requirements, could possibly reduce welfare costs.

The National Chamber supports true welfare reform where the problem exists, in the program for Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC). It urges Congress to adopt a six-point program of rehabilitation and assistance to these families so that they can better provide for their needs.

The National Chamber is not alone in opposing the concept of a guaranteed family income. Other evidence or views in support of our position follows:

Public Opinion ...

Viewers of the National Educational Television program, "The Advocates," voted nearly 80 per cent—8,107 to 2,687—against the guaranteed income concept following a program debate on the issue.

Columnist Stewart Alsop ...

"... In principle the most radical domestic proposal since the New Deal."

Sen. Russell B. Long ...

"... Instead of paying people not to work, we ought to pay people to work and cut down on payments to those who prefer not to work ..."

Columnist Richard Wilson ...

"... What is most ominous for the future is the indication that the Nixon Administration has based its proposal on extremely weak or faulty measurements of its effect.

"Residents of quite a few states will find, after the adoption of the Family Assistance Program, that relief rolls have escalated from 100 per cent to more than 400 per cent. They will find that the floor under income will steadily rise toward the $5,000, and more, mark. As it does, $10 billion a year will become $20 billion, and so on, and so on."

Columnist James J. Kilpatrick ...

"... More than a third of all families in Mississippi would have been eligible for FAP payments."

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann of Neb. ...

"... If passed in its present language, (FAP) will create an unbearable financial burden on the states ..."

Sen. John J. Williams ...

"... In addition to FAP, a welfare recipient "would draw a state supplement ... food stamps ... get Medic-aid under certain circumstances, medical attention for their families, public housing. It actually pays a man to slow down his working capacities and earning capacities in order that he would increase his welfare ..."

Columnist Kevin Phillips ...

"... As welfare recipients became 'clients;' as payments became 'rights' rather than benefits; as welfare became fashionable and humdrum occupations something to scoff at, the motivational dynamics of working-class America began to break down ..."

Income And Toxes

Incomes of average American families are going up 60 per cent in the next 10 years. But hold off the celebration. The increase will be devoured by taxes—they'll jump 100 per cent in the same period.

This outlook comes from the National Chamber's taxation and finance manager, Robert R. Statham. The much discussed proposal to give the states more money through a sharing of federal revenue won't relieve taxpayers' woes, he noted.

Mr. Statham gave his forecast in a speech before a West Virginia State Chamber tax seminar in Charleston.

"Our research indicates that a family of four with an income of $10,000 in 1970 will have an income of $16,000 in 1980," Mr. Statham said.

"However, although this family will have an increase of 60 per cent in income, there will be an increase in federal, state and local tax payments of 100 per cent.

"The doubling of taxes over the next 10 years is due in part to the phenomenal rise in state and local governmental expenditures requiring new sources of tax resources."

State tax collections totaled $48 billion in fiscal 1970—a hike of 14 per cent over the $42 billion collected in fiscal 1969.

State-imposed individual income taxes rose 22 per cent from 1969 to 1970, and sales tax rates reached a high of 6 per cent in one state, with the outlook for a 9 per cent high by the end of the 70s, he said.

Discussing the pros and cons of revenue sharing, the taxation expert said advocates insist it will be a major step in decentralizing the federal government, while opponents assert it will make state and local governments more dependent on Washington.

"Opponents of revenue sharing say that the states get their taxes from the same source, but governors and state legislators fear the wrath of voters in raising state taxes," he said.

While revenue sharing advocates say it will replace the present categorical grants-in-aid, opponents contend that Congress will not find it politically expedient to repeal federal programs and will be compelled to enact new taxes to finance revenue sharing, Mr. Statham added.

He said that taxpayer resistance to higher state and local taxes is growing at a time when states face pressing financial problems.

Vocotional Week

This is vocational education week in Minnesota and its observance is being noted by the local area vocational-technical school. We are happy to see this school making big strides in development of its programs, and to witness an ever-growing acceptance of the vocational education concept.

There was a time when the vocational school was looked upon as a place for someone to go when he or she couldn't cut it in a degree college or university. Mistaken as the idea was, it cast a stigma on vocational education and the trade-oriented student. At long last, that wrongful picture of vocational training is being re-painted to a more proper perspective.

While there is still a demand for tradesmen and technicians, properly trained and willing to work, competition is becoming extremely keen among graduates with a four-year degree and no specific skill. Business leaders have been known to complain of late about college graduates who "know everything but can't do anything". That criticism is unduly harsh, but it points up the value of being proficient in a specific field.

We salute the area vocational-technical school and its staff and students during vocational education week. May their success create a reputation to uphold and a tradition to follow throughout the future.

Race Time Again

For the fourth consecutive year, Thief River Falls Jaycees are hosting the annual States-Dominion snowmobile races. Cross-country racing will take place on Saturday with lap racing on the oval track to be held on Sunday.

We know that it takes a tremendous amount of time and effort to prepare for and conduct one of these large community events, and that the Jaycees have put their chapter on the line for thousands of dollars in prizes. They are hoping for a break in the weather and a large number of entries in the race program—plus a good crowd of spectators, of course—to make the event a truly successful one.

It is amazing to view the durability of Minnesotans as they watch the snowmobile racing events. They stand on the snow-covered bleacher seats or the piles of snow surrounding the race area, peering into a northwest wind as the drivers maneuver around the half-mile oval. They cheer and shout and kid one another, many of them harboring a secret inner desire to be a part of the race itself.

The racers themselves are an especially hardy breed, fighting not only the elements but sometimes balky machines, rough race-courses and fast competition for a moment of glory, a shiny trophy and a few dollars to fix the machine and pay the entry fee of the next race.

If you have seen the races here before, you will want to see them again. If you have never watched a snowmobile race, and there is at least one drop of competitive blood in your veins, you owe it to yourself to take in the races this weekend.

Guaranteed Income

President Nixon's proposal for a guaranteed annual income has met with a general "anti" reaction across the country. Following are a number of comments collected by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States:

Supporters of the Administration's Family Assistance Plan with its guaranteed income would have the public believe that it would solve the problem of skyrocketing welfare costs.

We haven't been shown yet how doubling the welfare rolls and guaranteeing a minimum family income, with loose work requirements, could possibly reduce welfare costs.

The National Chamber supports true welfare reform where the problem exists, in the program for Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC). It urges Congress to adopt a six-point program of rehabilitation and assistance to these families so that they can better provide for their needs.

The National Chamber is not alone in opposing the concept of a guaranteed family income. Other evidence or views in support of our position follows:

Public Opinion ...

... Viewers of the National Educational Television program, "The Advocates," voted nearly 80 per cent—8,107 to 2,687—against the guaranteed income concept following a program debate on the issue.

Columnist Stewart Alsop ...

"... In principle the most radical domestic proposal since the New Deal."

Sen. Russell B. Long ...

"... Instead of paying people not to work, we ought to pay people to work and cut down on payments to those who prefer not to work ..."

Columnist Richard Wilson ...

"... What is most ominous for the future is the indication that the Nixon Administration has based its proposal on extremely weak or faulty measurements of its effect.

"Residents of quite a few states will find, after the adoption of the Family Assistance Program, that relief rolls have escalated from 100 per cent to more than 400 per cent. They will find that the floor under income will steadily rise toward the $5,000, and more, mark. As it does, $10 billion a year will become $20 billion, and so on, and so on."

Columnist James J. Kilpatrick ...

"... More than a third of all families in Mississippi would have been eligible for FAP payments."

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann of Neb ...

"... If passed in its present language, (FAP) will create an unbearable financial burden on the states ..."

Sen. John J. Williams ...

"... In addition to FAP, a welfare recipient "would draw a state supplement ... food stamps ... get Medic-aid under certain circumstances, medical attention for their families, public housing. It actually pays a man to slow down his working capacities and earning capacities in order that he would increase his welfare' ..."

Columnist Kevin Phillips ...

"... As welfare recipients became 'clients;' as payments became 'rights' rather than benefits; as welfare became fashionable and humdrum occupations something to scoff at, the motivational dynamics of working-class America began to break down ..."

Income And Taxes

Incomes of average American families are going up 60 per cent in the next 10 years. But hold off the celebration. The increase will be devoured by taxes—they'll jump 100 per cent in the same period.

This outlook comes from the National Chamber's taxation and finance manager, Robert R. Stathom. The much-discussed proposal to give the states more money through a sharing of federal revenue won't relieve taxpayers' woes, he noted.

Mr. Statham gave his forecast in a speech before a West Virginia State Chamber tax seminar in Charleston.

"Our research indicates that a family of four with an income of $10,000 in 1970 will have an income of $16,000 in 1980," Mr. Statham said.

"However, although this family will have an increase of 60 per cent in income, there will be an increase in federal, state and local tax payments of 100 per cent.

"The doubling of taxes over the next 10 years is due in part to the phenomenal rise in state and local governmental expenditures requiring new sources of tax resources."

State tax collections totaled $48 billion in fiscal 1970—a hike of 14 per cent over the $42 billion collected in fiscal 1969.

State-imposed individual income taxes rose 22 per cent from 1969 to 1970, and sales tax rates reached a high of 6 per cent in one state, with the outlook for a 9 per cent high by the end of the 70s, he said.

Discussing the pros and cons of revenue sharing, the taxation expert said advocates insist it will be a major step in decentralizing the federal government, while opponents assert it will make state and local governments more dependent on Washington.

"Opponents of revenue sharing say that the states get their taxes from the same source, but governors and state legislators fear the wrath of voters in raising state taxes," he said.

While revenue sharing advocates say it will replace the present categorical grants-in-aid, opponents contend that Congress will not find it politically expedient to repeal federal programs and will be compelled to enact new taxes to finance revenue sharing, Mr. Statham added.

He said that taxpayer resistance to higher state and local taxes is growing at a time when states face pressing financial problems.

Audubon Camps Announce Ecological Seminar Dates—Various States

Ecology workshops provide programs in natural settings where land and people are brought together to factual experiences of their changing landscape conditions. Discovery field trips acquaint the beginners and the well informed encountering the diversity of living things in the ecological scene. Woodlands and streams, meadow lands and seashore alike, all will be carefully examined and explored including every sanctuary of wildflower and wildlife existence.

Demonstrations of interpretive skills and teaching methods will be used during the outdoor classes. University credits are available to anyone desiring to join the workshop sessions. The course is titled: Education 264 41, Methods in Teaching Natural Science, Fairfield University, Fairfield, Conn., or for other states participating, write to: National Audubon Society Audubon Camps, 1130 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10028.

Metro Clean Air Committee Proposes Legislation Vehicle Inspection

Kindly write or call at 1829 Portland Avenue, Minneapolis, Mn., Phone Number: 333-5463, to learn more of the Metro Clean Air Committee plans on legislative work to establish a system for compulsary annual motor vehicle inspection in the state of Minnesota. The following is a brief summary of the proposed legislation. (This column hasn't sufficient space to allow the full coverage of the pollution and noise problems.) We feel, however, concerned citizens will wish to write to learn more about the need and how they might be of help.

The Proposed Inspection Program

The Metro Clean Air Committee believes that the proposed legislation would if enacted provide the most comprehensive vehicle inspection program in the United States. The justification for each item in our recommendations are summarized below.

A. Inspections should be mandatory state-wide for all licensed motor vehicles. The aspects of motor vehicle operations that are being inspected, emission of pollutants, safety, noise; are ones that affect the public at large and not only the vehicle owner. Everyone is exposed to the unsafe vehicle, to air pollution and noise. Similarly these factors are not restricted to the urban areas and certainly not to the locality where the vehicle owner resides. Unsafe vehicles are unsafe everywhere. Noise and air pollution know no boundaries. Only state-wide enforcement will suffice.

B. Inspections should be mandatory annually for each vehicle and upon transfer of title, including purchase of a new or used vehicle, or after the vehicle is involved in any major collision. By requiring inspection upon each transfer of title this regulation serves to protect the consumer because no sale could be completed until the vehicle has passed inspection. Recent reports from Federal Department of Transportation have shown that even new cars often fail to meet the Federal Safety Standards that their manufacturers have certified them to meet.

Under the proposed law no sale of substandard cars could be completed in Minnesota. In the case of used cars this feature would effectively eliminate the unrepairable "junker" from Minnesota highways, and serve to alert every owner to any dangerous condition in his vehicle. The expense of maintaining a vehicle to meet these standards must be considered part of the normal cost of the privilege of operating a motor vehicle. One has no more right to operate an unsafe or polluting vehicle than to build a house that violates the building code or the zoning laws. In most cases these costs will be more than compensated by more efficient and economical operation of the vehicle.

C. The standards of motor vehicle performance that are established should be based, in part, upon emission measurements made under dynamic conditions. A large number of studies have shown that only dynamic testing procedures can effectively test pollutant emissions and such safety features as brakes, wheel suspensions and steering operation.

D. A state or local police officer should be empowered (1) to require inspection of any vehicle that he judges to be in probable violation of the standards, or (2) to carry out random inspections at unannounced times and locations. Surveillance by police officers, both in patrol operations and in systematic "spot checks" has already proved to be a valuable enforcement procedure and certainly should be continued. The mandatory inspections would complement rather than replace this method of maintaining standards.

E. Inspection stations should be built and operated by the state. The administration of safety, pollution, and noise standards for motor vehicles is a protection of the public welfare exactly analogous to the Food and Meat Inspection program or the Fire Marshall. As such, it should be administered by state civil service personnel. The program must be divorced from any private enterprise which could conceivably profit from its operation.

In those states where vehicle inspection programs are operated by licensed or unlicensed private garages and service stations, there is widespread public synicism regarding the utility, objectivity and effectiveness of the programs. The two most effective and rigorous programs, in New Jersey and Washington, D.C., are both government-operated.

NFO 'Hog Lift' Is Geared To Affect Market

NFO's commodity "lift" operations were launched by delegates attending the recent national convention of the National Farmers organization at Louisville, Ky.

A statement issued from the organization's home office at Corning, Ia., reports that "The hog, cattle, and grain 'Lift' structure was hammered out at a 3-day national board meeting and those plans were carried back home to the district level by the directors. The 'Lift' operation was then fine-tuned by a session of administrative leaders representing all of NFO's marketing areas across the U.S. and scores of veteran action men that will make up the "hog-lift" staff personnel have been briefed and assigned areas of responsibility."

Gene Potter, director of NFO's meat department, states, "We are now well into "operation hog-lift" which is proving to be one of the most effective tools ever used by farmers to improve their general price levels. The NFO is going to give aggressive leadership to the low hog price problem because unless hog prices are raised, it will mean bankruptcy for farmers and in turn, the same for rural businessmen."

Potter indicated NFO has done its homework when he declared, "Operation hog-lift" is designed to disrupt normal market and supply patterns; this disruption forces buyers to be more aggressive in an attempt to maintain their supply, this increasing the general price level. As the pressure on the buyers builds, we expect they will try every means to break up the NFO block of production.

"From experience we know the buyers will try to buy off NFO members for a few cents per hundredweight in an attempt to break up our volume moving through our collective bargaining structure. We have warned producers not be surprised if buyers resort to short weighting of livestock to recover the amount they'll have to pay in an attempt to beat NFO's price day by day."

The NFO leader stated, "NFO's intentions declared at the national convention plus the current activity has already caused considerable strengthening in the hog market."

Potter concluded, "And as the main thrust of the Hog-Lift gets underway, NFO members recognize that they are waging a battle for the survival of the commercial family farm and that the NFO production block is their security for the future, and they will not betray themselves by being suckered into selling out their way of life for two-bits!"

If you can't answer these questions and other related questions with confidence, you're invited to attend an educational meeting, "Business Matters Of The Family", on February 16 in the courthouse meeting room. Students Receive Information On ID Bracelets

Students in Thief River Falls elementary schools received Wednesday information on identification bracelets and being asked to bring the material home to their parents. The material is provided by the Thief River Falls Mrs. Jaycees chapter as a community service.

"A lost child? An injured adult? Diabetic or allergic? These are just a few of the many reasons for visible identification," states the information being sent home with children today. The stainless steel bracelets sell for 75 cents each plus postage and have needed information permanently stamped on them.

Parents are asked to return the completed forms and the price of the bracelets ordered to school with their children by Friday, February 19, according to Mrs. Glen Porter, chairman of the project. All information needed by the parents is provided on the forms which the children received Wednesday.

Taxpayer Group Urges Attendance At Board Meet

Newly-organized Northwest Taxpayers association in Thief River Falls is asking "all persons who are interested in holding down their real estate and personal property taxes" to appear at the school board meeting at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, according to Norris Melander, president of the steering committee.

The meeting, scheduled for the Lincoln senior high school cafeteria, is to be the second negotiating session between the board of education and the teachers' council. The teachers presented their initial request last week.

According to Melander, there will be a spokesman for the taxpayers group at the meeting "to present the views, recommendations and demands of the tax-paying public relative to school finance".

"Statements have been made by school administration and some school board members that the tax-paying public is not interested in holding down spending in our public schools, so there is no reason to listen to the few who might attend a school board meeting to protest excessive school budgeting," a news release from the association states.

"This is a challenge to any person concerned with high real estate taxes and we heartily agree that if our community taxpayers fail to attend this meeting in numbers, we need no longer be concerned."

Robert Bredeson is chairman of the schools committee of the taxpayers association for this community.

Tornado Film Will Be Shown Here Tuesday

"It may be blizzard weather now, but tornado time is coming and it might be wise to become familiar with conditions that are present when tornadoes strike," advises Ellsworth Jorgenson, Pennington county civil defense director.

Area residents will have an opportunity to study tornado conditions, talk to a weather expert and see an impressive film on tornadoes at the special meeting to be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the court room of the Pennington county courthouse. Earl Ballanger of the U.S. weather bureau at International Falls will be present at the meeting and will show slides as well as the featured movie.

Although May, June and July are the main months for tornadoes, they have been recorded in Minnesota from March [illegible]. The film "Tornado" shows the actual approach and damage of a tornado and provides valuable information regarding what to look for and what to do when a tornado is threatening or sighted.

Ballanger is hoping to secure tornado watch observers in all areas of the county as a result of the meeting Tuesday. Anyone interested, in spite of the "off" season for tornadoes, is encouraged to attend.

TOTAL POINTS CHAMPION for the States Dominion snowmobile races in Thief River Falls was LeRoy Lindblad of Roseau, a member of the Polaris racing team. Lindblad won first place in Class II and Class III modified Saturday in the LeMans cross-country and first in Class II and second in Class III modified on Sunday in the oval lap races. Twice winner of the International 500 race, he is shown in the top photo leading the pack in Class II modified Sunday. In the bottom photo is his Sunday collection of trophies, including the seven-foot traveling trophy for total point championship.

As temperatures hovered around the thawing mark Sunday afternoon, snowmobile racing enthusiasts were treated to heated competition at the second day of the States-Dominion snowmobile races in Thief River Falls. Oval lap racing drew a large and enthusiastic crowd as tight action in the turns and several close finishes provided an abundance of thrills.

Polaris dominated the modified classes Sunday, following up the sweep of LeMans cross-country first places in modified classes Saturday. LeRoy Lindblad of Roseau, a member of the Polaris racing team and champion of the International 500 race this year and in 1970, was total points champion for the two days of racing.

Lindblad piloted his blue and white machines to first places in Class II and Class III modified Saturday and gained a first in Class II and second in Class III on Sunday.

Weather was anything but cooperative on Saturday as a strong south wind and snow flurries discouraged both drivers and spectators. Entries for the cross-country were the lowest for several years and visibility was poor for the drivers who did enter.

Sunday was another day, however, and although the sun was obscured by a layer of clouds, the day was warm and wind was absent. The banked oval track was extremely hard and a road patrol was called upon several times to fill in holes dug out by the churning machines where soft spots became evident.

Winners of the various events were as follows, with first through third places listed respectively:

LeMans Cross-Country

A Stock, 0-250cc—Tom Parenteau, Brooks, Ski-Doo; Steve Parenteau, Brooks, Ski-Doo; and Don Gustafson, Thief River Falls, Ski-Doo;

B Stock, 251-295cc—Leonard Janousek, Greenbush, Ski-Doo; Tom Parenteau, Brooks, Ski-Doo; and John Haverland, Perham, Arctic Cat;

C Stock, 296-345cc—Paul Dick, Grand Rapids, Arctic Cat; Bruce Trager, Thief River Falls, Arctic Cat; and Marvin Torgerson, Clearbrook, Arctic Cat;

D Stock, 346-400cc—Rod Cymbaluk, Crookston, Arctic Cat, Steve Johnson, Thief River Falls, Rupp; and Wayne Konickson, Thief River Falls, Arctic Cat;

Modified I, 0-295cc—Roger Helgeson, Roseau, Polaris; Ed Mansueto, Roseau, Polaris; and Dean Heltman, Ada, Arctic Cat;

Modified II, 296-340cc—LeRoy Lindblad, Roseau, Polaris; Ed Mansueto, Roseau, Polaris, and Greg Hedlund, Roseau, Polaris; Modified III, 341-440cc—LeRoy Lindblad, Roseau, Polaris, Greg Grahn, Roseau, Polaris, and LaVern Hagen, Badger, Polaris.

Modified IV, 441-650cc—(No race held);

Modified V, 651-800cc—Greg Grahn, Roseau, Polaris; Duane Opdahl, Beltrami, Polaris, and

Nat'l Citation Presented To Legion Auxiliary

Thief River Falls American Legion Auxiliary received a national citation at the ninth district mid-winter conference held recently at Oslo. The citation was given in recognition for the auxiliary's all-time high in membership. Secretary Mrs. Harold M. Johnson reported at the conference that at present there are 495 members in the local unit. This includes the 71 members who were initiated the Monday evening preceding the conference. In addition to the citation, the local unit received a gift from the district president for its achievement. Several other units and posts in the district received recognition for their gain in membership.

Also of special interest was the nomination of past district commander James Cuppett of Thief River Falls as one of the candidates for department vice commander for 1972. Cuppett, who has held office on both local and district level, is endorsed by the Ecklund-Holmstrom post 117. He was nominated by post adjutant Robert Reeve.

Ninth district commander Francis Chisholm of Gary and district president Mrs. Thomas Glawe of Branesville, presided at the sessions. Oslo commander C. A. Mondry and president Mrs. John Wong welcomed the special guests and the delegations from units and posts throughout the district.

Separate meetings, held in the forenoon, included reports from the various chairmen. At both the Legion and auxiliary sessions, the topic of the district child welfare chairmen featured the problems of drug abuse. Phil Kjaeglin of Fergus Falls emphasized the problem by showing a film on drug abuse to the Legionnaires. Mrs. James Cuppett of this city spoke to the auxiliary members on the problems caused by the abuse of drugs and what the community could do to help alleviate them.

In reporting on national affairs, Gene Lindquist of Clarissa, national committeeman, stated that the Veterans Administration insurance operations will not be moved to Philadelphia, Pa., as planned. He stated that business operations will continue at Fort Snelling.

At the joint session held in the afternoon, the guest speakers were Department commander Milo Blanich of Crosby and Department president Mrs. James Starr of Cambridge. Mrs. Starr appealed to the generation known as "the establishment" to listen to the youth and to make changes in long-established practices wherever needed. In a state of revolution, as the world is in today, Mrs. Starr stated that considered thought must be given to the long range result of these changes. She said, "that as changes were made in churches, schools and government, we must also convince our kids that not everything that is old is wrong."

Department commander Blanich stressed the dedicated service for community needs. He stated that the work done by the Legion on the post level is the real work of the organization. He said, "that although the Legion is firmly opposed to communism in all its aspects, it is not a vigilante organization. Its chief goal is to make its program more effective in the communities throughout the Nation."

Other dignitaries from the department present at the conference were national alternate committeeman H. T. Colbjoenson of Parkers Prairie; department adjutant Frank Momsen of St. Paul, department vice commander Mel Dalby of Solway, department Membership director Laveene Schaeffer of Minneapolis, director of the upper midwest kidney foundation Richard Truax, Legionville Howard Lohman of Moorhead and past department president Mrs. Pierce Clark of White Bear Lake.

Highlighting the afternoon session was the program honoring the Four Chaplains on the U.S. Troop transport Dorchester who gave their lives on Feb. 3, 1943. In charge of the program was district chaplain Rev. James R. Ditzler, priest of the Catholic parish at Argyle. He represented the late Chaplain Rabbie Alexander D. Goode. Other clergymen assisting him and the chaplains they represented were Rev. Dale Peterson, pastor of the Bethlehem Lutheran church at Alvarado, Rev. George L. Fox; Rev. David Wedeking, pastor of the Baptist church at Alvarado, Rev. John P. Washington; and Rev. Loren Fevid, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church, Oslo, Rev. Clark V. Poling.

A delegation from the Ecklund-Holmstrom post and unit attended the conference. Representing the post were Commander Erwin Ferber, First vice commander Cal Bradley, Adjutant of the local post Robert Reeve, who is also district American education chairman; Service officer M. R. Levorson, Past district Commander James Cuppett, Sergeant at arms John Kotaska, Past commander Allen Paulson and Mayer Holen.

Auxiliary members present were second vice president Mrs. Erwin Ferber, secretary and Past Department President Mrs. Harold M. Johnson, district vice president Mrs. James Cuppett, past president Mrs. Robert Reeve, Americanism chairman Mrs. M. R. Levorson, sergeant at arms Mrs. Allen Paulson and Mrs. Mayer Holen.

The conference began with "The Star Spangled Banner" played by the ninth district band, and the invocation by Rev. Dale Peterson, and concluded with the benediction by Rev. James Ditzler. The noon dinner was served at the Zion Lutheran church. The Oslo Post hosted a smorgasbord following the sessions.

Mrs. Anna Magnuson
410½ North Knight

Are you searching for something different to serve at the next committee meeting or the next time it is your turn to host the group of women in your club? If so, why not host an old-fashioned coffee-time party in keeping with the Diamond Jubilee celebration? Include in the menu an old-fashioned marble cake, so popular in the 1890's and 1900's, or serve one of the other cakes mentioned by Mrs. Anna Magnuson in her [illegible] the 1890's.

Unlike the modern-day marble cakes, the dark portion of the old-fashioned marble cake was made without chocolate. In those days, chocolate was almost unknown and only the "better-off" families could afford to use it. We are grateful to Mrs. Magnuson for supplying us with this old-time favorite.

Old Fashioned Marble cake

Dark part
½ cup lard or ½ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
½ cup molasses
2 egg yolks
pinch of salt
½ cup buttermilk or sour milk
1¼ cups flour sifted with
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cloves

Method: Cream together, lard and sugar, add molasses, egg yolks and salt and beat well. Add alternately the buttermilk and the flour-spice mixture. Beat well. Set aside.

White part
¼ cup butter
½ cup sugar
½ cup milk
1¼ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
pinch of salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten.

Method: Cream butter and sugar, alternate milk and flour, and add vanilla. Beat well. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Grease and flour a 9x13 inch pan. By tablespoon, alternate the dark [illegible]. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. (Note: Since regular flour is used, the cake will not have the same texture as today's cakes.)

Mock Whipped Cream frosting

Combine 2 tablespoons flour and ½ cup milk and mix until smooth. Boil until thick. Remove from heat and add ½ cup sugar, ¼ cup butter, ¼ cup shortening, 1 teaspoon vanilla and ¼ teaspoon almond extract. Beat until fluffy. Spread on cake.

Mrs. Magnuson stated that the almond flavoring may be omitted. A seven minute icing may also be used on this cake.

Mrs. Magnuson went on to say that, "When people went visiting in the 1890's, they were certain to be served coffee in the afternoon. With coffee, would be at least one kind of cake, cookies, doughnuts or jumbles." She said, "Sandwiches were never served as we had never heard of sandwiches then. If bread was served, it was sliced and put on the table together with butter, jelly, summer sausage and cheese." Lunch, generally served family style, almost always included a dish of sauce, such as prunes or wild fruit.

Mrs. Magnuson emphasized the fact that there was always cookies and cake for coffee-time. Chocolate cake was a great favorite. This consisted of a white, three layer cake with chocolate filling and topping. However the most elegant of all, was the white, three-layer cocoanut cake.

She said, whipped cream was used a great deal as a substitute for icing, both between layers and on loaf cake. This was especially true with fig, banana and orange cake. Cream was plentiful as in those days many of the residents in the East side had their cow which they kept "staked-out" on a vacant lot nearby, or had her taken to go with "The Herd". Owners who had their cows go with the herd, brought their cow or cows to the First Street bridge where a man riding horseback would drive the herd to pasture a short distance from town. In the evening, he returned the cows to their owners waiting at the bridge. Milk was sold at five cents a quart.

Mrs. Magnuson has resided here since 1893, living on a farm across from the Catholic cemetery until she retired and moved into this city.

Lundeen Cows Top County DHIA During December

Herd belonging to Darrow Lundeen topped the Pennington Dairy Herd Improvement association average for production of butterfat during the month of December 1970.

Lundeen's cows gave an average of 1,372 pounds of milk testing at 3.5 per cent fat. Average fat production was 47.7 pounds.

Other herds placing high in the association were those of Martin Hanson, 1,187 pounds of milk, which tested at 3.9 per cent, for an average of 45.7 pounds of butterfat; Marlan Augustine, 1,132 pounds milk, 3.8 per cent, 42.5 pounds butterfat; Gene Nelson, 1,062, 3.9, and 41.5; Mylo Carlson, 1,020, 4.1, 41.5; Ronald Noe, 1,055, 3.8, 40.4; Harry and John Hess, 859, 4.7, 40.0; Carl and Duane Krohn, 1,031, 39.7, 3.9; Myron Erickson, 1,043, 3.7, 38.9; and Chester Gast, 1,082, 3.8 and 38.8.

The number of dry cows in a herd will affect the herd averages, so that a herd which contains too many dry cows will show a lower average for the month. The average is calculated to cover all the cows in the herd, thus giving the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month.

Forty herds were tested during December, a total of 1,383 cows.

Twenty cows finished their 305-day or shorter lactation period with 500 or more pounds of butterfat during December. They are from the following herds:

Myron Erickson, 13,790 pounds milk, 510 pounds fat, 3.7 per cent test; Mehrkens Farm Inc., 13,080, 515, 3.9; Clarence Swanson, 15,970, 596, 3.7; and 15,370, 605, 3.9; Gene Nelson, 16,060, 661, 4.1; Carl and Duane Krohn, 13,750, 533, 3.9; 14,070, 528, 3.8, and 13,400, 505, 3.8; James Muzzy, 17,310, 649, 3.7, and 18,400, 705, 4.2.

Also, Marlan Augustine, 16,880, 551, 3.3, 15,570, 615, 3.8, and 16,000, 604, 3.8; Earl Erickson, 11,750, 5471, 4.7; and 9,660, 503, 5.2; Donald Erickson, 12,710, 522, 4.1; Swanson Bros. Farm, 13,590, 548, 4.0, Bruggeman Farms, 14,560, 531, 3.6, and Mylo Carlson, 15,460, 664, 4.3, and 13,740, 575, 4.2.

Marshall ASCS Chairman Tells Of Farm Program

Farmers participating in nation farm programs should have a full understanding of conserving base requirements, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

The conserving base as well as set-aside acres must be maintained for producers to qualify for wheat certificate and feed grain payments. Downward adjustments in conserving base acres are possible in some cases.

Reasons for downward adjustments that might affect farmers in this area are: Allotments and bases plus set aside acres exceed cropland; substantial reduction in livestock numbers; changes from pasturing livestock to dry lot feeding; and changes from summer fallow to continuous cropping.

The last change would offer the greatest possibility of downward adjustments. Producers using this provision must identify the type of rotation they would follow and the reason why the change is necessary.

Dahl emphasized the fact that written requests must be filed with the county committee within 15 days from the date of the wheat, feed grain and conserving base notices.

Any producers having questions regarding requests for adjustments, should visit the county office for further details.

Daughter of TRF Woman Recovers From Paralysis

Complete recovery from a rare disease of the nervous system is the triumph of Miss Ardella Helgeland of Cudahy, Wis., daughter of Clifford Helgeland of Cudahy and Mrs. Orville Maidment of Thief River Falls.

Miss Helgeland, 20, was stricken with Guillain-Barre and was almost completely paralyzed when she entered the hospital. After four months in the hospital and treated through physical therapy, she was able to walk out of the hospital unaided in time to be with her family for Thanksgiving day.

The director of the physical medicine and rehabilitation department said her recovery was "one of the most complete, and one of the most gratifying that we have experienced in some time" and noted that the recovery was more rapid than anticipated.

Three pictures of Miss Helgeland appeared in the hospital's publication.

In Good Faith

Another round of bargaining for the next year's salary figures is now underway between the negotiating council representing Thief River Falls teachers and the Thief River Falls board of education. Provision for such a bargaining procedure is outlined in Minnesota law, and while it remains a part of the statutes, negotiations will take place each year.

The state law requires school boards and teachers to bargain "in good faith" if they are to comply with the law. As we understand it, this means that representatives of the teachers and the school board are to make an honest and conscientious effort to arrive at a mutually-acceptable compromise.

And thereby hangs a sticky problem. Anticipating good faith negotiations and ultimate arrival at compromise, the faculty negotiating council annually makes its initial request in excess of what it expects to receive. Certainly, the council attempts to justify the full increases asked, but such efforts, for all practical purposes, are made with tongue in cheek. To bargain in good faith, the council must reduce its initial requests to arrive at a compromise, and this most certainly is taken into consideration when the initial request is made.

As a starting point, the board of education has generally countered with the existing salary schedule for the current year. In doing so, the board is fully aware that it must increase its subsequent offers to bargain in good faith toward an area of compromise. The inevitable result is a salary increase.

To be on equal starting terms, shouldn't the board's first offer to the faculty be as much below the existing salary schedule as the teachers' request is above it? For instance, if starting pay is now $7,000 and the faculty has asked for $7,500, shouldn't the board counter with an offer of $6,500? If the current salary for an MA degree plus 30 hours is $12,900 and the request is for $15,780, shouldn't the board be justified in offering $10,020?

This is not to say that the end result of compromise must be the existing salary schedule. This proposal does provide, however, an equal amount of bargaining room for both sides. In our estimation of fair play, such a situation should not be unreasonable or even objectionable.

Negotiating salaries is nothing more than a complicated bit of horse trading. A man selling a horse asks more than he expects to get because he expects the buyer to offer less than he expects to pay. The final price lies somewhere between, depending upon which of the two men is the sharper trader (and perhaps somewhat on the condition of the horse).

We suspect that the courts might not consider the proposal we have suggested to be bargaining in good faith, for law, although necessary, is not always so elementary in its application.

And we won't know until the next negotiating session Wednesday night what the board of education will use as a counter proposal to the teachers' initial request.

But it doesn't seem like the opportunity for one side to ask twice what it expects to get, settle for half of that amount and call it compromise is carrying out the intent of good faith bargaining either. The advantage seems to be weighted heavily on one side.

Government Efficiency

Comment on government efficiency in watching what it collects in relation to what it spends is made in the following editorial from the Walsh County Record at Grafton, N.D.:

The electronic eyes of government computers rarely fail to collect the last dime possible from the taxpayer. However, on the spending side, the story is somewhat different.

According to a press dispatch, New York City's anti-poverty agencies have failed to account for nearly 25 per cent of the $35 million advanced to them in the three years that ended Sept. 30, 1968.

Some $8 million in poverty funds have simply disappeared, and city officials concede that they may never know how at least $4 million of the $8 million was actually spent. Independent auditors have been employed in an effort to account for the mission millions. Many of the agencies that expended the funds no longer exist.

One can imagine what would happen to a private firm that was unable to account for the expenditure of 25 per cent of its revenues. The management would either go to jail for tax evasion or embezzlement.

Some other interesting statistics are noted in this editorial comment from the Kittson County Enterprise at Hallock:

One business that is recession proof is government. It keeps booming. Nonmilitary employment in government—federal, state and local—rose 26 per cent in the past five years, compared with eight per cent for private employment. Civilian payrolls of government have jumped to $94 billion, from $57 billion five years ago—an increase of 64 per cent. Private payrolls are up 47 per cent. Nonmilitary jobs in government now total almost 13 million. At the current rate of increase, one out of every four Americans could be working for government by 1980.

In the light of these statistics, the question may fairly be asked—what will become of the two-party system, elections and the independence of voters? As people become dependent on government for their livelihood, the expression of honest conviction in the polling booths might well be abandoned in favor of tomorrow's government paycheck. This is the way freedom is destroyed from within a nation—a fear that was held by the founding fathers of the United States.

18-Year-Old Vote

U. S. supreme court has ruled that congress was within its bonds by establishing 18 years as the minimum age for voting in national elections. It also ruled that the states may set their own age limits for voting in state and local elections.

The result is a hodge podge of age restrictions throughout the nation. Minnesota, for instance, gave approval to an amendment permitting 19-year-olds to vote in state and local elections. North Dakota rejected a similar proposal.

The voting procedure in many states will have to be changed, so that persons 18 years of age but not yet 19 or 20 or 21, as the case may be, can obtain national ballots. They will be able to vote only on national candidates, while others will vote the entire slate of candidates.

It is a foregone conclusion that federal approval of the vote for 18-year-olds will set off a chain reaction to push for the same voting age in the states. The cry of "old enough to fight, old enough to vote" will be changed to "old enough to vote for President, old enough to vote for governor".

Coupled with the right to vote issue will be agitation to lower the "legal age" for other things—such as purchase of alcoholic beverages. It doesn't take much prophetic insight to foresee the demands that are to come.

Meanwhile, the federal politicians must now begin to court the 16-year-olds in the country—because many of them will be voting 18-year-olds in the national election two years from now. And don't think the wizards of Washington don't know it or won't do it.

Adult Responsibilities

Following editorial is from the Oklee Herald.

The Herald supported Amendment No 2 which squeaked through in the November election and gave the vote to 19-year-old citizens in Minnesota.

At that time we pointed out that there are about 150,000 men in the age of 19 and 20. They are regarded as adults for all other purposes in that they may legally operate motor vehicles, pay income taxes and property taxes, serve in the armed forces, marry, raise families and hold responsible positions.

It isn't that we now feel any different about it. But for the people in that age group who asked for the voting franchise, a decision by a New Jersey superior court judge has a direct application worth pointing out.

The judge refused an appeal for leniency from an attorney for an 18-year-old who pleaded guilty to being a disorderly person and sentenced him in an indeterminate term in the New Jersey Reformatory for Males.

"The congressional action which made 18-year-olds eligible to vote in federal elections will prove to have been the opening of a Pandora's Box," said the judge. "If he is qualified to vote he is going to have to be responsible for criminal behavior as an adult."

And it would seem that the young people who fit into the new voting age bracket would have to agree that this is fair enough!

Editor, The Times,

There seems to be a lot of lip service being paid to reducing inflation in Thief River Falls, but most regretably, very little action. In fact, you would say certain merchants in Thief River Falls, are doing their level best to foster the idea of inflation to achieve a higher level of profit.

Most service stations, for example, tell us they make no money selling gasoline, but rely on service and related items for their profit. If this is true, a person has to wonder how Standard Oil is able to sell gasoline to the city for 13.69 cents a gallon (see Jan. 11, 1971, page 1 Times) while charging 38.9 to the general public. Granted, there is an 11-cent a gallon tax on gasoline the city does not have to pay, but remember the oil companies will make a profit on the gasoline the city buys. In other words, a service station might be able to sell gasoline for 24.7 a gallon (13.39 plus 11-cent tax. To illustrate, for every dollar we spend for gas, approximately 37 cents is profit for someone.

A bit outrageous you say? Well, think about this. In a farming community, which we are, milk sells for 58 cents a half gallon at the major grocery stores. In Minneapolis, by no stretch of the imagination a farming community, milk is selling for 40 cents a half gallon.

It makes me wonder if we are being subjected to inflation in Thief River Falls or simply greedy merchants.

To the Editor,
Thief River Falls Times
Thief River Falls, Minn.
Dear Mr. Lundin:

It is my understanding from talking with school board members that possible use of portable classrooms has not met with enthusiasm. WHY?

We recently moved here from an out-of-state school district where portable classrooms were being used. I have been in such a classroom and found both teachers and students thoroughly delighted with it.

A portable classroom is plain on the outside, but is far from being an architectural monster. Inside it is as bright and cheerful as any conventional classroom. It has self-contained heating and cooling systems and usually comes complete with flooring, lighting, blackboards and even bookcases. It goes up in a matter of days, attaches to existing structures and uses the special facilities of the existing permanent building.

You can put a portable classroom (pre-fab classroom) where it is needed. How much better than bussing students to where make-do facilities exist!

Where use of portable classrooms is expected for some number of years, the cost of the portable facility is often less than the accumulated rent of make-do facilities for the same period.

I urge all who are not first-hand acquainted with the portable classroom to learn more about it and then give our hard working school board and administration the critical public support necessary to make a decision on what is best for the community.

Very truly yours,
Linda Worth

Legislative Letter

from ANDREW SKAAR
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

The Governor's budget message has received nationwide attention. Apparently his budget proposal will increase spending by a greater rate than most states in the nation.

The House Appropriations Committee is hearing the budget requests of the many departments in state government and comparing their requests with recommendations of the Governor. This will require many weeks of hearings.

The Welfare Department was one of several departments heard this week. Minnesota is one of the highest states in the nation in AFDC payments. During the last biennium Minnesota appropriated $33,610,563 for AFDC and Governor Anderson is asking for $61,409,385 for this biennium. This is an increase of 82.7 per cent for this program over the last biennium. This is state funds and does not reflect federal funds. If the Governor's request is approved we will be leading every state in the nation in AFDC payments per person. This is 20 per cent higher than Wisconsin and about 40 per cent higher than North Dakota. This would reflect an increase in welfare costs to the counties for this program by about 20 per cent.

By increasing our AFDC payments so dramatically over our neighboring states we are extending an open invitation to AFDC recipients to come to Minnesota. The Supreme Court has ruled that there is no residency requirements to qualify for welfare. This means AFDC recipients could come to our state and apply and they would be eligible for payment immediately. Can we afford to run this risk?

The University of Minnesota appeared before the Appropriations Committee on Friday, March 5th. They are planning to direct the major portion of their expansion to the St. Paul campus and to establish a University branch at Rochester, Minnesota.

At the present time some 240 teaching and administrative positions at the U of M are receiving [illegible] than the Governor. (His salary at the present time is $27,500 per year.) In his budget message the Governor would increase these salaries across the board by 15 per cent.

While Minnesota is considering a budget that would increase spending by nearly 50 per cent several states in the nation are attempting to hold the line on spending. Included among these states is our neighboring state of North Dakota, one of the smallest, and California, the largest state in the nation.

While the legislature is considering this three billion dollar budget proposed by Governor Anderson, tax groups are organizing all over the state in opposition to ever-increasing real estate taxes. Unless we can hold the line in spending there can be no meaningful tax relief.
